gied by Georgia during the Confedeffete Period, token money (small change), old documents and deeds, Indian arrow heads and any other relics of historic value that is suited for a small museum. Newspapers published in the early days would be a valuable contribution.

Each article will be labeled with the donor's name, county represented and the date. Contributions from any one will be greatly appreciated since hte object of this plan is to collect such things that will be of benefit to the Georgians that are in and out of these college walls. The Club wants the girls of the future to know more about the history of this wonderful state and the people who founded it and aided it in becoming the "Empire State of The South."

At chapel on October 30, Dr. Johnson asked the students to co-operate with the History Club in the collection of relics for the museum.

A prize of three dollars has been offered to the student who makes the best contribution this year. The second prize will be two dollars and the third prize will be one dollar.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

A college paper is a grand invention For the school gets all the fame. The printer gets all the money, And the staff gets all the blame.

THE SPECTRUM

The Spectrem is a book belonging to every girl in the school. it is part of her college experience, in the form of an illustrated year book. Every girl can have a part in making th 1930 annual a big success by having her picture made promptly and at her appointed time.

On October 23 the annual Senior Parade was held. That night voting slips were passed out in the dormitories in order that every girl might vote for her choice of superlatives.

Much credit is due to Ann Hicks, Junior Feature Editor of the Spectrum, who conducted the election, and to her staff of helpers. The votes were collected by them and handled in a very systematic and thorough manner. By night on the AWARD FOR HISTORY WORK 24 all the votes had been counted. Much interest was manifested by the entire student body. FURTHER REPORTS FROM THE GENEVA CONFERENCE BY DR. GEO HARRIS WEBBER

Attitudes of American Educators Toward A Program for World' Friendship

A most interesting report was submitted to Section 6 by the Chairman Dr. H. L. Smith, Dean of the School of Education, Indianna University.

Here are the sixteen theses that have been found to embody the thought of American teachers and other leading personalities on a Program of Education for World Friendship and Understanding.

1. An important task before the world today is the creation of a new state of mind, a state of mind which will permit an understandnig and appreciation of the character, attainments, and traditions of other peoples, and which will transcend national boundaries without seeking to destory them.

2. Loyalty to both the nation and to mankind is a concept similar to that of loyalty to both city and nation and, while it may be somewhat more difficult to grasp and hold, it is equally desirable and not unattainable.

3. It is, therefore, possible to develop, in the individual, world understanding and good will without loss of any quality really essential to a desirable national citizenship.

4. Such world understanding and good will on the part of individuals is an objective worthy the best efforts of all institutions of modern society that are by their nature fitted to share in the undertaking.

5. This world-mindness is largely intellectual, and must be based on knowledge, and energized by emotion and sentiment.

6. To be effective in the promotion of peace among nations, this ducing a friendly world if they will to do so. 14. If children are to receive such instruction as will make them a part of a generation possessed of an international conscience and an international morality, they must be guided by teachers as ably trained in the command of these concepts as the best efforts of our teacher training institutions can produce. 15. If we accept the above theses, we assign to teacher training instituand methods of instruction which will enable prospective teachers to meet properly the demands made of them in the training of children in international understanding.

schools, we can ultimately create a world's opinion for peace.

The members of Sophomore Commission complimented Miss Meares, National Student Secretary, with a tea on the afternoon of October 27. Miss Meares talked on the problems that confront the student move ment of the Y. W. C. A.

Besides the members of commission, Margo Coyne the sponsor of Commission, Miss Daughtry, and Robbie MacClendon were present. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of Miss Mcare's talk.

knowledge and sentiment must be translated into new modes of conduct on the part of all individuals composing those nations, including those who are to determine international policies and relationships.

7. It follows that treaties, agreements, and organizations for the promotion of peace can best succeed ony when formulated or establish on a basis of through and sympathetic understanding among the peoples represented.

8. Internationalism, properly interpreted implies an extended conception of citizenship rather than a super-government with its consequent minimizing of national importance.

9. It follows that there should be no real conflict between sane love of country and internationalism as defined in the preceding thesis.

11. An understanding of the religions of the peoples of the earth should in some measure overcome the obstacles of sectarianism, intolerance, and bigotry.

12. Education as provided by the schools and supplemented by all such co-operating agencies as the church, press, government, home, etc., may be a slow process by which to produce socially desirable changes in civilization but it is probably the most sure and permanent one.

13. It is possible for the schools of the nations, working with such other agencies as the church, the press, the home, and governmental institutions, to go for toward pro-
