The judges of the short story were Mrs. Frank Quillian, Col. Erwin Sibley, and Mrs. W. H. Salley; those of the poetry were Mrs. Lovis Hall, Miss Susie Dell Reamy, and Major Sam Whitley; and those of the essay were Mr. Jere Moore, Mrs. T. H. Rentz, and Dr. Euri Bell Bolton.

The short stories winning first place were "Sympathy Speaks" by Margaret Harvin and "A Scrap of Cloth" by Rose Herndon. Second places were awarded Sara Jane Deck's "Postal Clerk" and Louise Williams' "The Key to Happiness."

In the upperclassmen essay group Betty Todd won first place with "Color of Moods" and Elizabeth Smith, second, with "My World Fair." "Poet of the Beautiful" by Martha Cheney and "Movies and the World" by Sara Vane placed second.

Second place in the freshman group was awarded the poem, "Insignificant" by Katherine Malory.

The prizes have been ordered and will be presented at a tea in honor of the winners.

Journalism Class Visits Times Office

The journalism class visited the office of the "Milledgeville Times" Wednesday Morning, November 29, during the regular class period.

The various pieces of machinery were pointed out and explained to the students.

At seven-thirty in the evening a banquet will be given at the Frances Virginia Tea Room, for the seniors making the trip.

Miss Terrell Wins Beauty Contest

The election of Miss Elizabeth Jamison, Miss Terrell B and C, beauty queen of G. S. C., climaxed the World Fair Saturday, November 26. A gayly decorated float brought the delegates representing each dormitory to the fair.

Miss Carolyn Wilder, Miss Mansion, won second place; and Miss Polly Suttonfield, Miss Ennis, was named as the third most beautiful student at G. S. C.

Judges were Miss Anna Miller, Mrs. Stewart Wooten, Miss Margaret Sutton, Dr. W. O. Salley, and Dr. Thomas B. Meadows.

The other beauties were Miss Frances Bruce, Bell Hall; Miss Iree Smith, Bell Annex; Miss Mary Sumerour, Terrell Proper; Miss Virginia Howard, Terrell A; and Miss Catherine Storey, Atkinson.

As the judges retired Dr. Scott brought in the box to draw a name for the $5 prize, a $2.50 charge account at Bell's and at Binford's.

Everyone waited tense and expectant as Dr. Scott, Dr. Webber, and Polly tried desperately to read the lucky name. Finally Dr. Scott deciphered Mary. In the wild clamor that followed Mary Dan Ingram was announced as the luckiest girl at G. S. C.

Dr. H. B. Webb Makes Address In Chapel

"Give me history that is the truth or give me nothing." Thus Dr. H. B. Webb, head of the chemistry department at Peabody College concluded his humorous but educational address before the faculty and student body Tuesday morning in the Richard B. Russell auditorium.

Dr. Webb spoke on agriculture as he discussed the four greatest farmers in American agricultural history. "George Washington was first in war, first in peace, and first in the heart of the American mule," stated Dr. Webb. Benjamin Franklin was the first farmer to use manufactured fertilizer brought over from Paris. Daniel Webster imported the first red hog that ever "breathed American soil," stated Dr. Webb. Henry Clay was known the world over for his enormous farm. He introduced bigger and better cows from England.

In summing up his speech, Dr. Webb said, "Whenever I see a mule, I think of George Washington; whenever I see a red pig, I think of Benjamin Franklin; whenever I smell or see fertilizer, I think of Daniel Webster; whenever I see a white faced cow, day or night, I think of Henry Clay."

Y. W. C. A. Representatives Attend Conference

Dr. Guy Is Speaker At Chemistry Banquet

Club Hears Talk on Leadership by Emory Professor.

The Honor Circle of the Chemistry Club entertained at a banquet at the Baldwin Hotel, Wednesday evening at seven o'clock.

Among those present were: Dr. Samuel L. Guy, head of the chemistry department at Emory University; President and Mrs. J. L. Beeson, Mr. Burgin Dunn, a student at Emory; Dr. L. C. Lindsay, Miss Lillas Myrick, Miss Lena Martin, Miss Jessie Trawick, two old members of the Circle, Miss Katherine Owen, and Miss Sarah Burch, and the new members, Miss India Brown, Miss Dorothy Kennington, Miss Harriet Trappell, and Miss Anna Everett. Miss Mary Jones is also a member of the circle.

Immediately following the banquet, Dr. Guy gave an interesting talk on "A Young Leader in a World of Science" to the Chemistry Club members of the faculty in the biology lecture room.

"The task of leadership in the world of science is not going to be an easy one," stated Dr. Guy. He continued by saying "To be a leader one must know how, to where, and from where to proceed."

Students Entertained At Dance Friday

On Friday night, December 1, at 8:30, Ennis, Mansion, Terrell, and Atkinson halls were joint hostesses at a Thanksgiving dance held in Terrell Recreation hall and the gymnasiums.

The rooms were beautifully decorated with fall leaves, orange crepe-paper and vari-colored balloons. A booth in each at which punch and cakes were served was likewise decorated with leaves.

Serving girls were dressed as Puritan maids.

A twelve-piece orchestra from Macon furnished peppy dance music, and Jimmy Lawson, president of Mercer Glee Club, sang. Vocal selections were also rendered by Misses Martha Harrison and Laura Lambert. Juliet Burrus entertained with a tap dance.

The competitive dance between dormitories was won by Terrell Hall represented by Rosalie Sutton and Blanche Holbrooke.

An amusing feature of the evening was the apple-eating contest, for which first prize went to Ennis, represented by Palatia Stewart and Ruth Hunt and second to Mansion, represented by Marianna Wise and Caroline Wilder.

Those who attended were students, members of the faculty and alumnae, and their visitors.

Alumnae Present Chapel Program

Miss Virginia McMichael, President Atlanta Alumnae Club, Is Speaker.

The Alumnae Association of the Georgia State College for Women, formally welcomed the former graduates and students of the institution Friday, December 1, 1933. The program was presented in the Richard B. Russell Auditorium at eleven o'clock.

Evelyn Wheat, a student, played an organ prelude and Miss Lottie Moring Curl, second vice-president at large, led the devotional. A quartet composed of Miss Hattie Smith, Miss Louise Albert, Mrs. Wilson Mason, and Miss Louise Jeanes rendered "An Alumnae Hymn," written by Mrs. Hines.

President Beeson, as host of the college, welcomed all the visitors. Virginia Tanner, senior class president, extended to the alumnae the college key in behalf of the present G. S. C. W. students.

The speaker, Miss Virginia McMichael, president of the Atlanta G. S. C. W. Alumnae Club, was introduced by Miss Katherine Scott of the college English faculty. "G. S. C. W. Memories" was Miss McMichael's topic.

Tributes of sincere appreciation to the college presidents were made. Mrs. Dixon Williams, to Dr. J. Harris Chappell; Miss Blanche Tait, to Dr. M. M. Parks; and Miss Annie Joe Moye, to Dr. Jasper Luther Beeson.

Miss Louise Smith, Vice-President of the Alumnae Association, introduced the visiting alumnae to the audience.

After announcements were made by Miss Mary Lee Anderson, president of the Alumnae Association, the program was concluded by the singing of the Alma Mater, in which all participated.

Students and Faculty Pay Tribute To Former Presidents

On November 29, the eve of Thanksgiving, at 5:30 in the afternoon, G. S. C. W. paid tribute to its former beloved presidents, Dr. Marvin M. Parks and Dr. J. Harris Chappell.

About six-hundred of the students walked in silence to the cemetery, led by Mr. L. S. Fowler and Mr. O. A. Thaxton, members of the faculty who placed a wreath upon each of the graves, and by other members of the faculty and alumnae.

This ceremony, occurring each year on Dr. Parks' birthday is one of the most important responsibilities of the alumnae. This year, Miss Mary Lee Anderson, as president of the organization, had charge of the program.

Hugh Walpole as guest editor of the December Golden Book selects as his 5 favorite short stories the following.

"The Killers" by Ernest Hemingway,
"Christ in Flanders" by Balzac, "Gentleman from San Francisco" by Ivan Bunin, "The Horse" by Guy de Maupassant, and "The Warrior's Soul" by Joseph Conrad.

An anthology of the famous escapes of history from prison, from shipwreck, from savages, from ice floes and desert sands, from savages, is "Escape" arranged and edited by F. Yeats-Brown.

Appropriately named is "Star Dust and Holly", which is a complete anthology of Christmas poetry by Dorothy M. Shipman.

Walter B. Pitkin shows you how to begin life at forty in "More Power To You." Harry Emerson Fosdick brings the freshness and vigor of his liberal thought to the difficult problems of the day in "The Hope of the World." Adolph Hitler has written his autobiography, which he calls "My Battle."

Between 11 and 11:30 o'clock every morning in Guildford, England the members of each family spend an exciting half-hour slipping hot chocolate, munching cookies, and sometimes rashly ordering a strawberry sundae in a coffee shop. It is a ritual awesomeness and religiously to be observed.

A Christmas story by Llyod C. Douglas is "Precious Jeopardy." A lowdown on people and places is "The Night Club Era" by Stanley Walker.

Elizabeth Barrett Browning's "Sonnets
From the Portuguese" have been re-edited.
A comprehensive selection of the writings of Charles Lamb has been prepared by E. H.
Shepard, and called "Everybody's Lamb."

Will Rogers says what the country needs

Discovery

Nothing succeeds like success. Warm Springs, which from time immemorial has been flowing with water that does more than any other agency yet discovered for the dread scourge of the human race, infantile paralysis, did not come into its own, so to speak, until Franklin D. Roosevelt purchased the property and began to improve it. The Warm Springs Foundation was created and has been endowed by wealthy people, and now grateful people in Georgia have subscribed $100,- 000 to replace Meriweather Inn, the wooden firetrap that houses large numbers of patients, with Georgia Hall, which will be fireproof, says the Augusta Chronicle in speaking of Warm Springs and Georgia Hall.

"Franklin D. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy under Woodrow Wilson, was stricken more than a decade ago with infantile paralysis. In searching about for a cure he found Warm Springs, which was then in the control of the late Mr. Thomas W.
Loyless, former editor of the Augusta Chronicle. Mr. Roosevelt found the curative qualities of the water so splendid that he spent months each year taking the baths and was at Warm Springs when Governor Alfred E.
Smith called him on the telephone from Saratoga and insisted that he become a candidate for Governor of New York. He became governor, was re-elected, and then became the president of the United States.

"But for the fact that Mr. Roosevelt became interested in Warm Springs thousands of sufferers from infantile paralysis would not have known of the place, and these would have probably been no discoveries, that both ultra-violet rays and infrared rays penetrate Warm Springs to an extraordinary depth. It is regarded as a very important scientific discovery, and this unusual action in water is one which may be responsible for some of the success obtained in treating patients for the after effects of poliomyelitis.

"The Columbus Inquirer has this very interesting statement to make in regard to the discovery and how it will effect Warm Springs as a health resort:

"The discovery was made by Dr. Oskar Baudisch, department of chemistry, Yale University, who used instruments furnished through the courtesy of the I. G. Farbenindustrie at Ludwigshafen, Germany, in determining the rays-penetration nature of the water.

"The test revealed that the thermal water of Warm Springs, to a depth of nearly two meters (equivalent to about six and a half feet) and as deep as it was possible to carry the test, does not filter out the ultra-violet short-wave radiation, while the very clear-appearing water of the fish ponds fed by Cold Springs, only a mile away, in a layer of only 10 centimeters reduces the short wave ultraviolet light considerably, through the long-wave ultra-violet penetrates easily to a depth of two meters.

"After dealing with the thermal effects on the Warm Springs water which comes from a great depth in the earth, and its buoyancy and non-erecting quality, Dr. Baudisch whose paper on the subject printed in The Polio Chronicle, published at Warm Springs, says:

"In this paper we are adding to the mentioned outstanding properties of the thermal water of Georgia Warm Springs a new one, namely, its remarkable ability to transmit the short-wave ultra-violet radiation. We simply add to the hydrotherapy the benefit of heliotherapy, the advantages of which have long been empirically recognized.

"An outstanding factor in Warm Springs, however, is the close contact between hydro and heliotherapy, since the exercises are carried out under water. It was questionable whether the patient undergoing treatment under water got at the same time a full measure of the ultra-violet radiation which, thanks to favorable climatic conditions, is present during many days of the year.

"This important discovery is determined to give great prestige to Warm Springs and establish the soundness of developing the resort, on a large scale, as a place for the treatment of muscular affections.

"The ultimate plan of the foundation is to accept other patients which muscular deficiencies rather than those suffering from the after effects of infantile paralysis.

"At the present time there are patients at the Foundation from 23 states, numbers from Georgia, New York and Alabama topping the list, which ranges from Vermont to California."—Brunswick News.

Influence of Browning

A man who can begin a book by saying,
"Influence is not easy to trace," and who then in a lucid manner traces the influence of Robert Browning, is worthy of admiration. Alfred Allen Brookington, in "Browning and the Twentieth Century," portrays the long procession of those who in recent years have stopped to study Browning, and what they found. Stop they must, for a man who said,

"Grow old along with me,
The best is yet to be,"
cannot be contemplated in haste.

A. A. Milne, Rudyard Kipling, John Mas-field, William H. Davis, A. F. Houseman, Walt Whitman, are among those in whom Brook-ington sees direct influence of Browning.

Browning's use of the dramatic monologue is unexcelled. His faith and optimism sounds a clear note above a period of confusion.
Elizabeth Barrett Browning's "Sonnets from the Portuguese" have only served to strengthen the reputation of Browning as a lover, that he has gained from his poems and letters.
His common humanity will always have universal appeal.

Brookington closes his book with a discussion of Browning as a mystic and his final lines are these; "A poor poet is always at the mercy of his readers, when he is, at last fortunate enough, as Browning was, to find any."

The book was written as a thesis for a degree, and is invaluable as a reference on Browning and modern literature. It has a charming style and is indeed a contribution to those who find something in Browning besides his mystery.

Russian Chorus

The Russian Chorus of MME. Agnereva
Slaviansky, scheduled to appear here Friday, December 15, is without doubt the greatest singing organization in the world. The dancing numbers are sensational and entertaining; the singing is sublime; the Chorus has won recognition from kings, queens, emperors, sultans, and music lovers everywhere.

A London collection recently paid $22,000 for eight of Napoleon's love-letters. It seems a large price until you recall that there are men still living who have paid more than that for their own.—Boston Herald.

I shall be free when I go out beyond the sun
I shall race the hills to the dawn,
And stand,
And hold all knowledge in one hand.
I shall stretch my finiteness
Against infinite endlessness.
I shall walk most fearlessly
As beneath one who's free.

—Mary Agnes Scott

Scoops

Perhaps you enjoyed the speech of Dr. Webb's as much as I did Tuesday. Believe me, he had the likes of the college girls at heart.
Now don't get the wrong impression. I don't mean that we are all C—razy about agriculture, but that the novel history that he imparted was the STUFF. I really believe that when I see the animals or things that he mentioned that I will think of the eminent statesmen that gave us them!

That loud speaker in chapel is Oke, but I'll be glad when we all get accustomed to it. I can't help laughing at the added volume, either!

When India B. gets going, she gets going! What I mean. Three on a match, or something like that. And ask her if correspondents live up to the lines they shoot! Don't tell her I said this, but she sho' likes cold weather better than she lets on!

That "gag" of the freshmen pulling the toilet feathers was funny the first two years I heard it—specially the first time, cause I got up at six-thirty to perform that mental labor! But it kinda rankles with age now, and who can fool this freshman class anyway.

And does Mamie J. Clark rest?
Boy howdy! She goes a-visitin' and then "he" starts showing up every two Sundays! These Monticello "garcons" are the stuff;
how'd I know? Henrietta G. showed me a picture of one one time that was a vow—spelled with capitals!

Ask Alice B. why she got so VERY sleepy in Columbus that week-end—and also what she did about it!

M. A. Ingram had the GRANDest time in Atlanta last weekend. And also the week-end before that, too. Can't find out his name, though. Will report as soon as I hear, so you won't miss anything—maybe!

I. Farran has the Snow complex so bad that she even has to walk—for inspiration. Can't you all see her now—washing and ironing? (I CAN'T)

Ask M. Dan I. why she can't be satisfied with the parlors?
She's a restless sort of girl—but I don't blame her in one least!

Boy howdy! The girls and their swains at the show Thanksgiving night! I bet many of them had "quiggles" of fear before they faced the "flowerlike" audience!

Ask D. D. and Mr. Sawyer how it feels to be a "sponsored"?
Werent't they lovely? Such gorgeous fleurs!

Does A. Burrus rate or does she rate—special delivery candy, dates (the kind that talks) and telegrams on one day!

Metinks that I'll have to hire
(?) a crew of Winchells to help me know the b. j.'s of G. S. C.
I'm "out" of them—

The song of the week? Dedicated to Mary Thompson! They understand.

Tune: I'll be faithful

The theme for the program Sun-

Savannah Club Has Thanksgiving Party

Members of the Savannah Club enjoyed a most delightful meeting Friday, November 24, at 5:30 o'clock. After Thanksgiving stunts, the group adjourned to Mabel Bryant's room, 507 Terrell B, where delicious hot chocolate and cookies were served.

Among those present were Catherine Mallory, Edna, Lattimore, Garnette Lynes, Winnie Sheppard, Elizabeth Jamieson, Beatrice Draughan, Flo Jamieson, Evelyn Cargill and Mabel Bryant.

Granddaughters Club Aids In Entertaining Alumnae

The Granddaughters Club took a prominent part in the entertainment of the alumnae over the week-end, when they acted as "pages" for the group. Members of the club also distributed programs at the Thursday morning chapel, had charge of the registration book, and directed the guests to the alumnae tea.

Writers Club Has Supper at Cabin

The Writers Club enjoyed a delightful picnic at the cabin last Thursday evening from 6:00 to 7:30 o'clock. The group was entertained by Mrs. E. R. Hines who read a selection of her poetry. Following this program, salad, sandwiches and coffee were served.

In addition to Miss Crowell and Miss Hallie Smith, faculty advisors of the club, there were about twenty members present.

Celia Freeman Honored

Miss Celia Freeman was given a surprise birthday party Friday, November 24, at 7:00, by Misses Bobby Chambers, Myron Boggus, Nettie Ware, Betty Hood, Dot Allen, and Montine O'Quinn.

The room was attractively decorated in pink and white. In the center was a table on which was a large cake bearing her name and nineteen lighted candles. By it, was a modernistic compact.

Ten McCarthys To Room In Terrell 601

The McCarthy family of White Oak, Ga., has practically taken 601 Terrell C. There has been a McCarthy girl living in the room for the past six years.

Louise McCarthy moved into the room during her sophomore year at G. S. C. in 1927. Later Leslie came to school here and moved in with her sister, Louise.

At present the room is being occupied by Mary and Dorothy, a junior and freshman respectively.

Unless the plans of the family are changed, there will be a McCarthy girl in the room for the next ten years. After Dorothy is graduated Marguerite and Carolyn, who are now freshmen in high school, will attend school here. When these two girls are sophomores Hazel will join them, and during her sophomore year

Elinor will start in as a freshman.

Louise, Leslie, Mary, Dorothy, and Carolyn are sisters, while Marguerite, Hazel, and Elinor are their cousins. They all live in White Oak.

Four Sets of Twins At G. S. C. W. This Quarter

Twins have almost deserted the college campus this year it seems, for there are only four sets to be found. Last year there were seven sets, while in 1931 the Freshman Class boasted six of the seven sets then on the campus.

This year's twins are Misses Julia and Susie Butts of Milledgeville, Eleanor and Emily Johnson of Wadley, Josephine and Virginia Peacock of Macon, and Lucile and Lillian Prigden of Cordele.

37-35 Final Score In Volley Ball Game

With an official score of 37-35, the Browns were victorious over the Golds in a breathtaking volley ball game Thursday morning on the G. S. C. W. bleachers.

The line-up on the Brown's team was Louise Hatcher, Helen Barker, Viola James, Jane Cassels, Billy Jennings, Frances Sanchez, Elsie Elkey, and Elsie Kaufman. Those playing on the Gold's team were Billy Howington, Rachel Conine, Dorothy Smith, Kathleen Roberts, Allen Smith, Brian Kirey, Amanda Wilkes, and Elizabeth Pollard.

This game marked the first competitive victory between the two colors striving for the highest number of points to win the silver loving cup. The cup will be awarded next May by the Athletic Pageantry Guild, sponsor of the contest.

Strange Sights Seen At World's Fair

The "World's Fair," sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. Saturday afternoon at Government Square Park fairly teemed with miracles.

As one approached the gate, a strange monster whizzed through, then dashed away rattling and smoking like some mythical mammal. Analysis of the creature revealed nothing more than a model T Ford sadly in need of water and bolts. Kathleen Roberts was the brave charioteer.

Not to be overlooked was the parachute-jumper who carried an umbrella for lack of a parachute. Then, too, the bearded lady, one in a family of fifty-two, created much excitement.

The be-spectacled magician, who discovered enough handkerchiefs in the atmosphere to supply the college, also attracted a great deal of attention.

The Fair was concluded with a beauty contest in which representatives from each dormitory participated. Judgments rendered confirm the rumor that curves are in very much, which may be the reason for the unusual consumption of hot-dogs and dopes.

Music Faculty To Present Recital

The music faculty under the direction of Miss Tucker, Miss Horsburgh, and Mrs. Allen, will present a delightful program in chapel, Wednesday December 13th.

It will include a sonata for violin and piano by Mozart, an aria from Handel's "Messiah," a group of modern violin solos, (one of which has been specially brought over from London,) and a final number for voice, violin, and piano by Tosti.

All music lovers will appreciate and enjoy this program.

Do-Dads From Elsewhere

In the Tech-Georgia game Thanksgiving, twins played against each other. They were the Boulware brothers; one goes to Georgia and the other prefers Tech. Things must have been complicated for the tipsy ones in the bleachers.

There are bats in Georgia's belfry, according to a front page story. That ain't all. There may be a number of neurones, too.

Virginia Tech is having a little noise over the "rat" who came to a "crap meeting" in full dress. He was forced to don the duds by some upperclass wits who later put out lights and rescued him.

North Carolina went dry in the voting, and the university was talking of seceding from the state. Some well integrated, sane brains saved the day, or maybe we should say, the dry.

If spirit could have defeated the Georgia Bulldogs, they certainly would have gone down. They were not above the Tech lads one iota when spirit is considered.

That new gym of Tulane's will probably be used for a dance hall if plans of students go through. From the appearance, it is very

G. S. C. W. Student Plays Part Of Heroine

Miss Lillian Shumate, a junior, played the part of a heroine during her week-end visit to her home in Montezuma. She helped to cause the arrest of a negro man who tried to steal Mrs. R. S. Forehand's coat and purse from her automobile which was parked in front of the Baptist church.

Miss Shumate and her brother, Mr. Leon Shumate, were riding home about seven o'clock Sunday night. As they passed by the Baptist church where services were in progress, they noticed a negro man sprawled out in one of the parked automobiles. The glass in one of the doors was broken and this made them suspicious. When they saw that the doors of some of the other cars were standing open, Miss Shumate said she and her brother turned around immediately. They went back to town and returned with Mr. Churchwell Heath, a policeman.

The policeman investigated and found the negro still in the car. He discovered that he had broken in Mr. and Mrs. Forehand's automobile and had stolen Mrs. Forehand's purse and coat. Mr. Heath arrested the negro and took him to jail where he is being held for trial.

NOTICE

Miss Catherine Scott will speak to the Commerce Club in Miss Barnett's classroom at 5:30 Monday evening. The subject of her talk will be parliamentary law. There will be several additional features on the program and all the members of the club will find it worthwhile to attend.

Miss Parks To Wed Mr. Hilburn

The Georgia State College for Women announces the engagement of its daughter, Miss Dorothy Virginia Parks to Mr. Earl Hilburn, the marriage to be solemnized December 20. Miss Parks is the real daughter of the late Dr. Marvin McTyeire Parks, and Mrs. Parks, but in spirit she belongs to G. S. C. W.

On the day she was born the school declared a holiday. By secret ballot the students named

A most remarkable bird is the parrot, "Galli-Curci," which inhabits Audubon Park in New Orleans. The bird is not only a talented vocal artist, but she is also learned in Latin. She chants Aves and Credos for hours at a time when she feels so inclined.

And some of our Latin majors are out-classed. Tsk, tsk. It's coming to a pretty pass when bird brains surpass our own.

"What the Straving Night-Owl Will Eat" might be the title of an article in the Hulabaloo. A census shows that waffles and sausage, doughnuts, milk, and hamburgers are preferable. So, if you want to be a fashionably fed night-owl, memorize the list.

The Daily Maroon has added forty freshmen to its staff. That is getting to be a glib edition with an addition of such vast what-nottery.

A deceased gold-fish which "just couldn't take" is bemoaned at Emory by Nathan DeVaughn. The finny animal died from exposure during the cold spell last week.

"their child," Dorothy. In later years Dot chose the second most popular name, Virginia, as her middle name.

She was selected class mascot during 1912, 1916, 1920, and 1922. One of the classes went so far as to order her a special brown and white uniform.

It is no wonder that the daughter of so many brilliant minds surpassed all her scholastic ability. She finished grammar school in 5 years, and while in the college, her foster home, she graduated in 3 years and the same number of summer schools. Among her honors while in college were: president of the freshman class (the same colors as when she was mascot), secretary and treasurer of Ennis dormitory, a member of freshman council, business manager of the Colonnade, and president of Baldwin County club; besides several minor offices.

The years 1929 and 1930 found her attending the University of California, but she could not stay away from G. S. C. In September of 1930 she accepted a position in Dean Scott's office. Again G. S. C. W. cared for her daughter, for it was then that Dot met her husband-to-be.

Many lovely parties have been given in her honor and many more are being planned. Miss Alice Lenora Tucker and Miss Fannie Virginia McClure entertained with a dinner party Saturday, November 18. All the teachers that were on the campus when Dot was born gave reminiscences of her childhood. These were Miss Tucker, Miss McClure, Dr. Edwin H. Scott, Miss Kate Thrash, Miss Alice Napier, Miss Florence Barnett, and Dr. J. L. Beeson.

Mrs. Beeson was the first to entertain Dot with a tea in the Mansion. Anne Bone and Kitty Cline honored the bride-elect at the Echeta Country Club, November 18. Others who have honored and will honor her are Mrs. J. F. Bell, Mrs. Wright McKnight, and Mrs. Edwin H. Scott.

She left the office November 23, and is to be married December 20 in the Executive Mansion. The students' only regret is that Dot's marriage will take her to Banjor, Pennsylvania where Earl is manager of the Gas Co.
