GEORGIA STATE COLLEGE FOR WOMEN, MILLEDGEVILLE, GA., APRIL 10, 1934

NUMBER 23.

G. S. C. W. To Be Well Represented On G. E. A. Program Held In Atlanta

THE FACULTY MEMBERS HAVE PARTS ON DEPARTMENTAL PROGRAMS; FIVE ARE OFFICIALS.

The Georgia State College for Women will be well represented at the meeting of the G. E. A. which will be held in Atlanta April 9-14; the G. H. A. will also hold its annual convention at this time.

Among those planning to attend are Dr. Edwin H. Scott, treasurer of the G. E. A.; Dr. Sidney McGee, Gr. George Harris Webber, Dr. Thomas Meadows, Dr. William T. Wynn, Miss Mamie Padgett, Mrs. Alice Williams, secretary and treasurer of the art division; Miss Mabel Rogers, Miss Hallie Smith, Miss Lena Martin, Miss Jessie Trawick, Miss Pattie Turner, Miss Clara Hasslock, Miss Gussie Tabb, a member of the executive committee of the G. H. E. A.; Miss Rosabel Burch, chairman of the field committee of the G. H. E. A.; Miss Mabry Harper, Mrs. Aline Cobb Owens, Mrs. H. Stewart Wooten, president of the Georgia Physical Education Association; Miss Frances Thaxton, treasurer of the Georgia Physical Education Association, Miss Louise Smith, Dr. Euri Belle Bolton, who will take part in the Panel discussion of the G. H. E. A.; Dr. Amanda Johnson, Miss Annie Jo Moye, Miss Anna Miller, Miss Blanche Green, Miss Dot Smith, and Mrs. Sara Jordan Terry.

In the Department of Secondary and Higher Education, Dr. George Harris Webber will talk on "A Cooperative Testing and Guidance" (Continued on last page)

Dr. Meadows Gives Students Credit For Thesis Aid

Dr. Thomas B. Meadows' thesis on Personality Traits for his Doctor's Degree in Educational Psychology is now at press and will be ready for distribution in June.

The writer wishes to acknowledge his indebtedness to his class in educational statistics at G. S. C. W. who rendered valuable service in tabulating data and in checking correlative coefficients involved in the study.

The following students were members of the class: Mary Louise Dunn, Virginia Clark, Patty Jackson, Bennie Johnson, Claudia Keith, Marion Keith, Evelyn Lane, Marguerite Murphy, Nell Pilkerton, and Naomi Powell.

Dr. George H. Webber rendered valuable service in assisting in rating students on personality and in cooperating in the development of the study.

Summer Session Opens June 11

The regular summer session of the Georgia State College for Women opens June 11, 1934. This session is open to teachers or to freshmen who wish to start work on a diploma or degree, as well as to the regular college students.

A variety of courses is planned for this summer. Besides the opportunity for practice teaching in the grades, an unusual feature is the conducting of a nursery school under college supervision.

Mr. O. A. Thaxton, who is in charge of student activities, has planned a number of entertainments for the summer.

Glee Club Presents A Varied Program

SENIORS ENTERTAIN THE GEORGIA SINGERS AT SUPPER

The University of Georgia Glee Club was presented in a delightful program by Hugh Hodgson, director, in the G. S. C. W. auditorium on Tuesday night, April 3. The club, on its twenty-third annual tour, was accompanied by its twelve piece band led by John Dekle.

The program throughout was entertaining and was well received by the audience. Bobby Brooks, of Lexington, was the star performer of the evening with his "high-toned" songs. Miss Claire Harper, guest artist, played several violin solos which delighted the listeners. Phil Farney's banjo solos and Dave Powell's songs were greatly enjoyed.

The latter part of the program was given by the orchestra in a "scene at Costa's in Athens." Ed Cunningham's tap-dancing received much applause as did the "Hot Trio." Last, but not least, by any means, was the ballet composed of the "beauties" of the club who danced a most intricate number. This dance was the high spot of the evening.

Preceding the entertainment the seniors were hostesses at a supper in the tea room, which was tastefully decorated in red and black, Georgia's colors. Bulldogs, placed at intervals on the tables, added to the spirit of the occasion. Entertaining the guests in the tea room were Misses Alice Haygood, Savannah, who sang, "Three Little Pigs"; Marjorie Sykes, Columbus, who gave an original dance; and Evelyn Groover, who played a number of piano solos.

Dr. Chas. Ellwood Gives Lecture Here

NOTED SOCIOLOGIST IS HERE AS GUEST OF PI GAMMA MU

Dr. Charles A. Ellwood, a noted teacher, author, and lecturer, is spending several days at the Georgia State College for Women. While on the campus a full schedule is planned for him. Monday afternoon he was featured in an interview on the broadcast program. In the evening, as the guest of Beta Chapter, Pi Gamma Mu, the National Social Science Honor Society, Dr. Ellwood, the national president, spoke to the membership and participated in the initiation of the new members. Tuesday morning he addressed the student body and faculty at the chapel exercises. Tuesday night the public is invited to hear him lecture on the subject: "The Cost of Social Ignorance."

Dr. Ellwood received his Ph. B. Degree from Cornell University in 1896, his Ph. D. degree from the University of Chicago in 1899, and his honorary LL. D. degree from Bethany College in 1922. He has attended the University of London, University of Berlin and Oxford University, England, and has taught at Duke University and the University of Missouri. He is the author of approximately a dozen books, many of which have been translated in foreign languages, and he is a member of several honor societies. He has also taught during the summer terms at a number of the best colleges and universities in the country.

Mrs. Ellenwood accompanied him to Milledgeville, and while here they were entertained by Dr. and Mrs. Beeson.

Grace Pfeiffer Named Officer of Math Club

The Mathematics Club elected officers for the ensuing year at its regular meeting in Miss Napier's classroom Friday afternoon at 5:30. They are Grace Pfeiffer, president; Margery Crittendon, vice-president; Martha Harrison, secretary; and Mary McCarthy, treasurer.

Mary Jane Laine, the president, read a card of appreciation from Rosalie Sutton for the Easter lily which the club sent to her.

An interesting program planned by Grace Pfeiffer on great mathematicians of today was presented. It was as follows: Vera Sanford by Grace Pfeiffer, David Eugene Smith by Ruth Cox, Dr. Nels Johann Lennes by Mary Pearl Wiggers, Dr. Herbert L. Slaugh by Mary McCarthy, Vergil Synder by Louise Hatcher, and Doctors Carver, White, Herwitz, and Kaiser by Miss Napier and Miss Nelson.

Plans were made for a breakfast some Saturday in the near future. During the last few minutes the club members guessed some mathematical riddles.

Successful Vocational Guidance School Features Mrs. Chase Going Woodhouse In Lectures

MRS. C. G. WOODHOUSE

A. A. U. W. Holds Conference Here

ALL PARTS OF STATE REPRESENTED AT ANNUAL CONVENTION

Between twenty-five and thirty-five guests from all parts of Georgia were present at the eighth annual conference of the A. A. U. W. which met here Saturday, April 7.

Miss Mary Lee Anderson, president of the Milledgeville branch, made a welcome address at the business meeting held in Bell parlor on Saturday morning. This was responded to by Mrs. J. K. Quattibaum, president of the state division, who also presided at the meeting.

At 1:30 Dr. Beeson welcomed the visitors at a luncheon in Atkinson hall. Those present included the branch members, delegates and their guests, and the members of the senior class, a number of whom, under the direction of Miss Alice Tucker, rendered several musical selections. As speaker for this occasion, Dr. Euri Belle Bolton presented Mrs. Chase Going Woodhouse, director of the Institute of Professional Women's Relations, and chairman of the National Committee of Women's Vocations.

After luncheon the visitors were taken on a sight-seeing tour of the city which ended at the Mansion. Here Mrs. Beeson and members of the Milledgeville branch were hostesses at a tea and reception. In the receiving line were Mrs. Beeson, Mrs. Woodhouse and the branch and state officers of the A. A. U. W. Music for this occasion was furnished by the G. S. C. W. orchestra, led by Miss Beatrice Horsbrugh.

Much credit is due Dr. Amanda Johnson and her committee for the plans and arrangements of this meeting.

AUTHORITY ON WOMEN'S VOCATIONS IS SPONSORED BY SOPHOMORE COMMISSION.

The favorable reports that have come in from all sides of the campus have strongly indicated the success of the Vocational Guidance School sponsored on the campus April 5, 6, and 7.

The three day program began Thursday night when Mrs. Chase Going Woodhouse, director of the school, spoke in the auditorium of the subject of the present outlook in relation to women's vocations. In her lecture Mrs. Woodhouse brought out the fact that although the present condition of economic depression was discouraging to those graduating in June, still, the outlook for the future was brighter for women's occupations than it had ever been. "Unlike the conditions in years past, women are today expected in any vocation. We have a woman forester in North Carolina, and I even know of one woman who has chosen plumbing as her occupation!"

After discussing the various vocational fields which are particularly open to women, Mrs. Woodhouse gave several reasons why women fail in their careers, ending with some suggestions for a future characterized by woman's vocational success.

During three hours on Friday morning and two that afternoon, Mrs. Woodhouse interviewed about twenty girls concerning vocational guidance problems. On Friday (Continued on last page)

Some GSCW Student Has Opportunity To Win Award

Now is the time for some student of the college to win a substantial reward and at the same time render valuable service to her alma mater. Dr. Wynn, Miss Crowell, and Miss Steele have been appointed as a committee to assist students in preparing papers to be submitted to the Rushmore Memorial committee for an inscription that will be placed on the granite face of Mount Rushmore, South Dakota.

Prizes including cash, scholarships, medals, and certificates will be awarded by William Randolph Hearst.

All students interested should see at once some member of the committee for particulars.

Thank You, Commissioner

Initiative, it is said, is doing the right thing without being told and doing it well. The sophomore commission indeed has that quality, for the bringing of Mrs. Chase Going Woodhouse to the Georgia State College for Women was a very "right" thing. Every girl in her heart of hearts is saying a note of thanks to commission. This vocational guidance school is a mile stone in the college life of all of us.

After all, faith is a very fundamental virtue and faith in one's self is finest. Mrs. Woodhouse has a marvelous power of making one more acutely conscious of faith in herself. While she speaks such noble words one feels that there is much she is leaving unsaid. Herein lies her limitless power; it is in restraint, a beautiful quality wherever we find it. Mrs. Woodhouse is extremely sensitive to the loveliness and worthwhileness in living, and here being here has made us so.

To sophomore commission we pay most sincere tribute. The thing it has done is priceless. Commission must have cared, for without caring, ideas of value are not apt to come.

A Dramatic Department

No matter how insignificant a person's position in life may be, there is going to be, during his lifetime, a necessity to make a speech or some form of public appearance. Although this ritual may be very short, and seemingly unimportant, a great deal may depend upon it. Training in this field, under the right kind of instructor, would prove invaluable to the individual. In other words, this school needs more interest in dramatics.

It is true that some phase of this work is offered during the summer months, but we feel there is a much greater need on the campus for such courses during the regular quarters, when more students would be given the chance to avail themselves of this opportunity.

The students, having felt this need, have tried, through the dramatic organizations, to develop their talents along this line; but it is impossible to make the necessary progress without trained leaders.

Dr. Beeson asked for suggestions about work to be done toward the development of new vocations for women; besides being a vocation itself, public speaking is beneficial to any life work.

Another Step Forward

The G. S. C. W. book of verse, Volume I, is now assured as the copy is in the hands of the judges and three meetings of twenty-seven enthusiastic girls who expect to see their names in a real book of real (?) poetry, under the direction of Dr. Wynn.

These students are to be congratulated on their efforts to show to the world that there is poetic talent on this campus.

"Our hats are off" also to Dr. Wynn, who has given encouragement to such a worth-while movement.

This 'N' That

Such indency! "We see by the paper" that Dr. William A. Wirt has exposed the "brain" trust.

A Bostonian spent a whole month learning how to put 126 threads through one needle. But we don't see where he was benefitted by it all.

And then there was the dumb co-ed who thought she was making good in a certain course all because the professor put "X" marks all over her paper. We've heard that some people seal letters with "X's" but . . . poor co-ed.

The club reporter who was told that "when a dog bites a man, it's not news, but when a man bites a dog, that's news," got a whale of a story about "Sucker Bites Shark (Wall Street)."

The reason so many marriages fail is because the bride "was given in marriage by her father." Most things that are given away don't last.

Consider Appearances

It has previously been suggested that a little more care in dress would greatly improve the appearance of the student body at evening lyceum entertainments. This idea of dressing more carefully might profitably be extended to other occasion.

For example, it seems that "dressing up" at least once a week—on Saturday evening for supper might be a good time just for the sake of "dressing up," would have a beneficial influence.

As has already been pointed out, there are very few occasion on the campus which call for any formality in dress. Because of this, we are prone to become rather negligent and careless of our personal appearance. A definite time when everybody would dress a little more carefully than usual might turn the collective mind in the direction of more interest in appearances. Such an increased interest in an obvious need.

Most girls' colleges have built up certain traditions about definite occasion for "dressing up." Saturday evening seems to be a logical time to be chosen here, since it follows a day of more or less relaxation, and precedes the regular entertainment in the auditorium.

Really formal dress in not being suggested. Just a departure from the present custom of appearing at Saturday supper in all degrees of disarray of clothing, hair, and general appearance, might do much to raise the normal tone of the group.

Patter

The elder brother of Oliver LaFarge, Christopher Grant LaFarge, has written "an American novel in verse" called "Hoxsie Sells His Acres." Conrad Aiken has written a new series of short stories called "Among the Lost People."

A novel laid in a psychopathic hospital is "Private Worlds" by Phillis Bottome. A biography of a Charleston intellectual is "Hugh Swinton Legare" by Linda Rhea.

"Anthony Adverse" has regained the place of best seller which "Work of Art" held for a few weeks. T. S. Eliot, the most particularistic critic that English poetry and English criticism have met with, offers "The Use of Poetry."

"Out of the Mouths of Babies" in the current Reader's Digest quotes these gems of wit and wisdom from the classroom: The feminine of bachelor is lady in waiting.

A ruminant is an animal that chews its cub.

A deacon is a mass of inflammable material placed in a prominent position to warn the people.

Hors d'oeuvre: Out of work.

"Toward a More Picturesque Speech" in the same magazine gives these:

Improvement on a familiar toast: Here's a star dust in your eye.

The couple were closed than five minutes to eleven.

SCOOPS

'Tis Spring . . . or at least I thought so until it "turned cold" Friday morning, and then I had not my usual excuse that it was such mervating weather! Just think how spring "suffers." Why, everything bad . . . and good . . . is blamed on it! As:

If you don't know your lesson—it's Spring!

If you're late to breakfast—it's Spring!

If you "just forgot" — it's Spring!

If you get a sweet letter—it's Spring.

If you feel like a million,

Or if you're down in the dumps,

It is "poor" Spring again

That gets all the bumps!

BUT

If you talk about your "honey"?

Spring?

It's an all-season topic

That we all find we sing!

AND

If this column is dumb,

As you are in position to see,

Again it is SPRING . . .

P. S.: The name "Sidney" is to give rhythm . . . er somepin'.

Did you all enjoy the Gawgia Gleers? One thing certain, that chorus could have danced all evening, and no one would have fussed. That smile of the second "chorine" from the left was for our little friend Ginny Oliver. Another smile from the chorus . . . the singing one this time . . . that of Birch O'Neal . . . was slightly delayed as his eyes went up and down rows . . . He felt that he was in a Webb of girls, I imagine.

Mary Gammage received reimbursement for the last Glee Club. Leita Boynton was paged by her date. Minnie Yetter's date looked just like Bob, but acted like someone else, according to Bonnie Blacklock! Aw, it was all good . . . and "most enjoyable."

And then there's the one about the absent-minded professor . . .

A lady-teacher, I know not her name, only the tale, went into a down-town lunch place and, when she was through, pocketed a fork. Later she returned it and apologized. Huh! Think of the college boys (?) who consciously pocket spoons (?) and then don't even apologize to their wives later because the "family" initial doesn't appear on the handle!

I WONDER WHY

Martha Sue Hale and I can find no "glamour" in Spring?

Ethel Tos is interested in Athens . . . I don't wonder, but maybe you do.

Ruth Griffin and Helen Douglas like "Macon"?

Edna Lattimore got her jaw "locked" recently?

I don't give up?

It's Spring!

—Sappy.

She was a luncheon guest of the home practice house.

Interesting Exhibits Shown in Library

In keeping with the Vocational Guidance School sponsored by sophomore commission, the library bulletin board last week featured a display of books on careers and vocations for women.

Included in the display were three books edited by Mrs. Chase Going Woodhouse, vocational guidance authority. They were "After College What?", "Occupations for College Women," and "Demand for College Women in the United States." There were also numerous recent pamphlets published by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, as well as standard books dealing with the subject of careers.

This week books on birds are being shown.

A CORRECTION

The name of Daisy Neal was omitted from the list of students who had their work displayed at the Southeastern Art Association in Atlanta. The Colonnade is glad to correct this error.

Through the Week With The

Sunday at vespers Dr. Bolton will speak on "The Organization of a Curriculum Conductive to the Building of Good Strong Character."

Thursday night Viola James will speak on "Thoughts, Words, Deeds."

Miss "Polly" Moss and Margaret K. Smith will attend a council on international relation problems in Atlanta the week-end of April 13-15.

Activity Council is now starting practice on its new play, which reminds us of "Cinderella Under the Sea," the very entertaining play they staged last year. If this production (and we have good reasons to think it will) measures up to the success achieved by "Cinderella" last year, Activity Council will certainly deserve a good pat on the back.

Ruth Vinson, our new "Y" president, is also secretary of the state Y. W. C. A.-Y. M. C. A. That's a great honor, Ruth, and we are proud of you. If you ever need any help you can certainly count on us for it.

We wish to correct a statement concerning the finance committee made in this column last week saying that they had already collected sufficient funds to balance the budget. Although the finance committee has worked very hard not all of the pledges for this quarter have been collected yet.

Ann Arnette Named Guild President

At a call meeting of the Literary Guild on Wednesday, April 4, Ann Arnette, of Newman, was elected president to serve for the spring and fall quarters of 1934.

Other officers selected were: secretary and treasurer, Thelma Williams; chairman of the social committee, Nan Glass, and chairman of the program committee, Bobbie Wiley.

The officers for the past term were: Helen Barker, president; Hazel Ling, secretary and treasurer; Lucile Vincent, chairman of the social committee, and Margaret Wenzel, chairman of the program committee.

Miss Winifred Crowell will continue to be faculty advisor for the club.

Mrs. Hines Is Music Club Honor Guest

Mrs. Nelle Womack Hines will be one of the guests of honor at the meeting of the State Music Club Convention in Savannah, April 10. A Georgia composers' luncheon will be given at which three of Mrs. Hines' songs will be sung, the most familiar one being "My Georgia Land" which is the official state song of the Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Officers of the National Music Club will also be present.

VISITORS ENTERTAINED AT NESBIT PICNIC

The Griffin Club entertained guests from Griffin at a picnic at Nesbit woods, Saturday afternoon. Contrary to convention, weiners and hamburgers were abandoned, and since a prepared lunch took their place, no charred fingers or soot-stained faces were in evidence.

Miss Florence Pound and Miss Ethel English, the visitors of Miss Josephine Pritchett, were honor guests on this occasion. Members of the club present were: Virginia Drewry, Catherine Digby, Annie Scott Gunter, Mildred Watson, Marion Miles, Frances Cowan, Margaret Rucker, Josephine Pritchett, Catherine Weaver, Allene Wright and, Dorothy Maddox.

Students Entertain Mrs. Woodhouse

Mrs. Chase Going Woodhouse, Miss Rosabel Burch, Miss Mary Moss, and Miss Mary Lee Anderson were guests at a delightful dinner given Friday evening at the home practice house.

Miss Eva Nelson acted as hostess and Miss Lucile Kingdom as host. Others present were Misses Clara Hasslock, Sara Talley, Josephine Vickery, Pauline Suttentfield, and Frances Kemp.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL DAYS TO BE REVIVED MAY 11 WHEN PARENTS VISIT COLLEGE

Do you remember how, in your grammar school days, Mother used to go to school with you sometimes to visit? And you were very, very proud, and had a marvelous time showing your school to Mother, and Mother to school. And all the other little girls were jealous, and secretly wished their mothers were there, too. Wasn't it fun? Then, if you could possibly coax Daddy into visiting your at school—why, that was so glorious you almost smothered with pride!

Well, many years have passed since you were in the first grade. You have gone through all the stages of adolescent independence and now you are grown up, and would rather enjoy taking the family to school.

The opportunity is coming. May 11 is to be Parents' Day on the G. S. C. W. campus, and everybody is supposed to invite her parents here as guests of the college. They will be shown to the school and the school to them, with quite as much pleasure and pride as in grammar school days.

History Club Gives College Loan Fund

The History Club loan fund was presented to Dr. Beeson in chapel Tuesday morning by Miss Oline Chapman, president of the club, the money being the proceeds of "The Valley of the Ghosts," a play recently presented by the club.

The present sum is sufficient to send a person here for one quarter, but the members of the club plan to add to the sum each year until it will enable more girls to have the full benefit of it.

TEACHERS COLLEGE CLUB WELCOMES NEW MEMBERS

Rho Beta, newly christened club for Teacher's College transfers, welcomed its new members at a breakfast at Nesbit woods Saturday morning.

After hiking to the scene of the breakfast the club members enjoyed a hearty meal of bacon and eggs, fried and scrambled, and what-not.

Those present at this occasion were: Virginia Oliver, Winnie Sheppard, Patricia Madden, Willie Warren, Mary Carolyn Carmichael, Hazel Underwood, Martha Autry, Lucille Bloodworth, Florence Knight, Lola Dows, Ethel Cole, Katherine Evans, L. Nelle Vandiver, Marion Hartshorn, Virginia Young, Lyla Raggsdale, and Myra Whitehurst.

If You Were a Senior Now - - -

We know you read this column in the last issue of the Colonnade . . . but . . . we do not know what effect it had or what you've done about it. We know what we would like to think, but . . .

The 1127 students at G. S. C. W. represent five states and 137 counties in Georgia. That means something to the senior class; that is, it could if you would only bring a beam from that lighthouse town of yours in the form of a vacancy made known to Mr. Thaxton or some senior who is at present getting desperate for want of a super-intendent to whom to apply for a position.

Don't think teaching is the only occupation for which the seniors are prepared; there are numerous others. "Variety is the spice of life," 'tis said, and if that is true these G. S. C. W. seniors can spice the entire state of Georgia and surrounding territory as well.

Freshmen, sophomores, juniors—you'll be seniors before many years, then you'll know what it is to have approximately 1000 students who could be so helpful and yet who will not use a three-cent stamp to inquire about the teaching situation in their home town. Don't let the stamp worry you. We guarantee return postage for every vacancy you discover by use of a stamp.

What are You going to do about it? We have an idea.

Fashion School Exhibit Displayed

The household arts department received from the Traphagen School of Fashion an exhibit advertising the work done at that school.

The exhibit was displayed in Miss Padgett's classroom in Arts Building and included in it were the historic development of costume in silhouette, from 1135 to 1933; original designs of dresses and of textiles giving the sources of the inspiration and sketches of hat designs.

Mildred Watson was in charge of the arrangements.

morning at chapel she talked on "An Individual's Relation To Municipal Vocational Difficulties." "One's vocational problem should have two aspects," said Mrs. Woodhouse; "first, how can I get a job, and second, how can I help make it possible for others to obtain a position."

On Friday afternoon at 5:30, Miss Rosabel Burch's class in Vocations For Women entertained Mrs. Woodhouse in Chapel Hall. The home economics majors and minors, sophomore commission, and Misses Polly Moss, Margaret K. Smith, and Louise Dunn were honor guests. Delicious punch was served and Mrs. Woodhouse spoke for a half hour.

After the tea, the practice house girls were hostesses to Mrs. Woodhouse, Miss Moss and Miss Burch at dinner. After dinner members of the faculty were given the opportunity to meet and interview Mrs. Woodhouse.

Beginning at 9:00 on Saturday morning and lasting through 12:00, half-hour conferences were held with Mrs. Woodhouse by all those girls interested in the following fields: Dramatics, Library, Commerce, Music and Art, Journalism and Advertising, Public Health and Physical Education, and Social Service. The large number of students attending these conferences indicated the popularity of Mrs. Woodhouse on the campus.

Mrs. Woodhouse came to the campus from Greensborough, North Carolina, where she is a director of the Institute of Women's Professional Relationships. Her coming was made possible through the efforts of sophomore commission, who sponsored the school as their year's project.

Wilde's Play Is Dramatic Subject

The four act play, "Lady Wendenemere's Fan," by Oscar Wilde, was discussed at the Dramatic Club meeting Friday afternoon in Ennis rec hall. Plans are being made to stage this play at an early date, and try-outs for the parts were held for last Saturday morning.

MATH CLUB IS ENTERTAINED

The Math Club was entertained at an Easter egg hunt Monday afternoon at Nesbit woods. The prize for the most eggs found was won by Grace Pfeiffer, and the booby prize was given to Marion Slade.

The social affair was chaperoned by Miss Napier and Miss Nelson, and was planned by Mary Lane and Eloise Kaufman.

Collegiate Prattle

Dr. Guy of Emory says, "Doctors make a habit of burying their mistakes."

And thus they make a mark in life as all good cut-ups should.

And that reminds us, have you heard of the latest collecting craze? It may be prevarication, but we hear that there is a surgeon who collects appendices as a hobby. When he has pickled three thousand, he intends to open a research lab or a museum. Sump'n.

Maybe we might express our originality by collecting warts.

Quoth the George-Anne: "There is nothing as sweet and lovely as the blush of innocent childhood."

What we'd like to say is where do you find such sweet and lovely girlhood?

Why do you flunk? According to a dean at the U. of Nebraska, there are three reasons: love, ignorance and faculty intelligence.

University of Vienna students who only come to classes for final exams pass the courses as often as those who attend regularly. Yes, but think how much more sleep the ones who attend classes can get.

A psychology professor at Nebraska suggests a swift detective story to take the mind off studies.

Now will someone please suggest a means for keeping the mind on studies?

Ellwood Interviewed On Radio Program

Continuing as instructive and entertaining as usual, the G. S. C. W. Health, Happiness, and Success radio hour presented as a feature on Monday, Dr. Charles A. Ellwood, professor of sociology at Duke University, and since 1931, national president of the Pi Gamma Mu honor society. Dr. Ellwood was interviewed by Dr. Webber.

Miss Mildred Brinson, pianist, furnished the musical element for program.

Hearings on School Problems Held In The House Committee

Four days—February 26 to March 1, 1934—were given to hearings before the Education Committee of the House of Representatives on the general problem of federal emergency aid for education in 1934-35. These hearings were another important forward step in the work of the National Committee for Federal Emergency Aid for Education, of which James H. Richmond is chairman.

Items two and three of the six-point program of this committee were dealt with in the hearings—proposal that $100,000,000 be appropriated to keep schools open during 1934-35; a substantial additional appropriation to insure normal operation of schools during 1934-35.

Congressman John J. Douglas, chairman of the Education Committee, announced that the hearings were not being held for the consideration of any particular bill but rather for the purpose of ascertaining the extent of the emergency in public education. Several bills were before the Committee, including the one introduced by Congressman Dean, of Georgia, providing for the distribution of $300,000,000 to the states.

George F. Zook, U. S. Commissioner of Education; Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Emergency Relief Administrator, and Stanley Reed, General Counsel for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, were among those who testified at the direct request of the Education Committee.

The National Committee for Federal Emergency Aid for Education gave the following reasons, with evidence, why emergency federal aid for schools will be needed in 1934-35:

(1) "School revenues in 1933-34 have been seriously reduced."

(2) "School opportunities in 1933-34 have been inadequate or lacking."

(3) "Federal aid granted this year has been the only means of keeping many schools open."

(4) "Enrollments next year will show significant increases."

(5) "Property taxes, the chief source of school revenue, will be inadequate in 1934-35."

(6) "State school funds for 1934-35 will not offer sufficient relief to depleted local resources."

(7) "Further state and local borrowing for school support is impractical."

(8) "Reports from most of the states indicate falling school revenues for 1934-35."

(9) "Reports from most of the states indicate urgent need for federal emergency aid next year."

The Education Committee listened attentively as the needs of the schools were portrayed and each witness was allowed ample time to present his or her statement. It is noteworthy that not a single person spoke in opposition to emergency aid for education for 1934-35.

A national conference, the first of the kind ever held, will take place in Washington, D. C., May 9-12, 1934, for the purpose of reviewing what has been accomplished in the education of negroes during the past years. Dr. George F. Zook, U. S. Commissioner of Education, and Dr. Ambrose Caliver, Office of Education specialist in the education of Negroes, will direct the meeting.

The Globe Trotters

Well, and so we have come to another week . . . they do go by.

A group of negroes are pleading for a forty-ninth state . . . for negroes only. This originated in Chicago. They want to be able to work, they say, "unhampered by barriers." It seems too foolish to most of us, but you can never tell.

China is becoming more democratic. Gradually they are doing away with peerage . . . five or six have been abandoned recently. University students, however, are taking this too fast. Some of them are becoming radical, and are under constant watch of officials.

We've been talking about antagonism and disagreements so much recently that we have decided to surprise you with a little good will. That is what now exists between the United States and Japan. Manchukuo seemed for a time to be a stumbling block. Of course you never can tell exactly how a nation feels toward another nation until something definite happens, and then maybe it's too late, but anyhow, that's what we understand about the United States and Japan.

More about the N. R. A. . . . critics, economists and bankers spoke at a recent meeting of the Academy of Political Science, and had many favorable things to say about it. This period seems to be the "crisis" for N. R. A., so to speak.

At a Methodist conference in Philadelphia it was decided to uphold the anti-war doctrine. Dr. Harry Earl Woolever, editor of the National Methodists Press, pointed out the dangers of too much nationalism. The Methodist Conference falls in line with several others of the more prominent denominations in upholding this standard.

And Roosevelt hasn't caught a fish yet. Will Rogers, several nights ago, said that he was anxious to know what a Democrat could do, but evidently the fish can't tell a Democrat from a Republican. Which seems to absurd to believe.
