77 Women On Roster Of Jesters

Dramatic Organization Announces Plan Revision for '34-35 School Term

The Jesters dramatic club organized formally with an enrollment of 77 on Friday, October 5, in Ennis recreation hall.

The following officers were elected: president, Catherine Mallory; vice-president, Georgellen Walker; secretary, Marion Hartshorn; treasurer, Edna Lattimore.

In order to study the various phases of dramatics, committees were formed. Martha Gray Carithers was named chairman of the program committee; Winnie Shepard, the stage; Marjorie Lanier, lights; Marie Johnson, makeup; Barlice Saltsman, costume. Each member of the club is expected to serve on one committee.

Dr. Little was chosen as adviser of the lights committee; Miss Sutton, the stage; and Mrs. Owens, the costume.

Since the club will use a jester as its symbol, a member of the club was elected to represent the symbol. Frances Roan was selected from six competitors. The requirement for eligibility to the position of jester was ability to turn a cart wheel.

One of the chief projects of the program committee this year will be a study of Pulitzer Prize plays. A study of play writing and production will be encouraged.

The Jesters is composed of members of the old dramatic club and the Y. W. C. A. dramatic committee. The organization gives one-act plays several times during the year and two three-act plays.

Y. W. C. A. Installs New Girls With Candle-light Services

The installation of the Y. W. C. A. members took place on Sunday evening at a candle-light service in the auditorium and on the front campus before Parks hall.

The program was opened with an organ prelude by Miss Maggie Jenkins was followed by a song by the choir. Miss Jane Cassells was in charge of the devotional and was joined in prayer by the entire audience.

Injured Teacher Sends, From Bedside, Greetings to Girls

One Act Play To Be Given By The Jesters

The first performance of "The Jesters," a one-act play, "Evening Dress Indispensable," will be presented before the picture show Saturday night, October 13th.

This marks the beginning of a series of one-act plays to be presented by this club. The first big project of "The Jesters" is to be a three-act play, presented sometime before Christmas.

The cast for "Evening Dress Indispensable" is:

Alice Waybury—Catherine Mallory, Savannah.

Sheila Waybury—Marion Hartshorn, Griffin.

George Connaught — Martha Harrison, Atlanta.

Goffry Chandler—Martha Grey Carithers, Fort Valley.

Nellie—Mary Martha Williams, Sylvania.

Announcer—Betty Shell, Griffin.

Dr. Beeson, President Emeritus, Will Teach Classes On Campus

Dr. J. L. Beeson, beloved past president of G. S. C. W., is at the present time serving on the chemistry faculty. Dr. Beeson taught chemistry here on our campus before he became president of the college. The girls and faculty are very glad to have him remain on our campus and to know that although his work has been lightened he is still with us.

We who have known Dr. Beeson as our president feel that as he has in the past, he will in the future continue to be an inspiration to us. And to those new girls, we are sure that they will learn to love him as we do.

Miss Anna Miller, Recently Hurt in Car Wreck, Writes Letter to Students

Greetings to our "old girls" and greetings to all our new girls, five hundred and forty plus. How very much I appreciate your lovely flowers and cards and messages. And how very much I should like to be on the campus playing the old games with you, and helping you to realize a little more fully the social-structure significance of these old games. Just as architectural structures are built for the purpose of housing man's social-structure ideals and principles, likewise do our old plays and games give shelter to social structures and social ideals. Thus architecture and plays and games glorify man's "how-to-live." Let us remember that man is an organism with biological needs, but he is emotionally bound and through the outreach of his emotions man has worked out his politics, his governments, his philosophy, his music, dance, art, poetry, and pageantry, and all things pertaining to the "how-to-live." Thus when we play tennis it is the social significance, the glory of companionship and skipping around the court

Terrell B and C: president, Elizabeth Jamison; vice-president, Irene Kinny; secretary, Mary Harrison; treasurer, Mary Neil Brisco.

Pollard Will Head Governing Council; Class Heads Named

Howington, Mallory, Ridley Chosen to Lead Three Upper Classes

Upperclassmen, at individual meetings held Tuesday night at 7 o'clock, elected their class officers for 1934-35. Senior officers are Billie Howington, Tampa, Fla. president; Buena Kinney, Villa Rica, vice-president; Mary Louise Dunn, Marietta, secretary; Marjorie Sykes, Columbus, treasurer; and Margaret Edwards, Savannah, representative to student council. The junior class leaders are Caroline Ridley, Decatur, president; Dorothy Allen, Atlanta, vice-president; Louise Donehoo, Atlanta; secretary; Mary Dan Ingram, Fayetteville, treasurer; and Rosalie Sutton, Brunswick, council representative. Heading the sophomores are: Catherine Mallory, Savannah, president; Juliette Burrus, Columbus, vice-president; Grace Greene, Waynesboro, secretary; Myra Jenkins, Thomaston, treasurer; and Doris Grossman, Brunswick, representative to council.

All classes held elections as provided for in the constitution of the student government association. Only registered voters were admitted to the polls. A faculty adviser and an officer of student government presided over each meeting. Miss Hallie Smith and Elizabeth Pollard were in charge of the senior elections held in the biology lecture room; at the junior meeting in Ennis rec hall Miss Rosabel Burch and Viola James presided; Miss Helen Green, Grace Webb, and Billie Jennings supervised sophomore elections held in the auditorium.

The upperclassmen have shown careful consideration and excellent

G. S. C. W. Students Elect James, Webb, Jennings as Other Officers

Elizabeth Pollard of Jacksonville, Fla., was elected president of student government Monday night at a meeting of the student body. Viola James, Atlanta, is the vice-president of the new association. Other officers are Grace Webb, Quitman, secretary-treasurer, and Billie Jennings, Augusta, clerk of court.

Miss Pollard has served as temporary president of the association since the election last April, when she took up the work that Virginia Tanner had begun. She has been acquainted with the new movement from its beginning. Her work during the summer has been completing the plans for the coming year.

Student government is a new thing on the campus, having had its definite beginning only this year. It must be a natural growth. Just as a baby must grow up to fit an adult size dress, so the G. S. C. W. student body must grow up to the work of self-government.

Now that the association and class officers have been elected, counsel and the executive board will probably begin to function immediately.

The four officers elected Monday night will serve on student council with the four class presidents, one representative from each class, one representative from the senior day student group, the dean of women, and two faculty members appointed by Dr. Wells. The faculty members are Dr. Hoy Taylor, and Dr. Euri Belle Bolton.

Students of Anatomy Class Form "I Don't Know" Club

The "I Don't Know" club was formed and organized at its regular meeting on Wednesday, October 10. Its membership consists of those girls in the 2:30 anatomy class who for some queer reason feel that they are unable to quote to the sponsor of the club, Miss Louise Smith, the answer to the question asked. Upon such an occasion the victim repeats the pass word, "I don't know" and receives a point.

Vi James is official score keeper until she proves herself incapable of such a privilege. At the close of each daily meeting, the four girls having the most points are automatically elected officers for that day. The officers at present however wish to remain anonymous.

The members on roll at present are: Misses Vi James, Billie Jennings, Mabelle Swann, Doris Adamson, Charlotte Sanchez, Ruth Pharr Roberts, Mable Bryant, Elizabeth Jamison, Louise Durham, Idell Wheeler, Elizabeth Minter, Dot Allen and Dot Foss.

Preparation For Life

Preparing yourself for life is the greatest problem that you must face, a problem which may build or destroy everything worthwhile for an individual. You are to build your own life! No one else can build it for you! Life for you is going to be exactly what you make it. Time isn't going to stand still and wait for you. The world goes on and you can be a happy unit or a blundering discord.

"Know thyself!" Years ago man was advised to know himself and periodic check-ups are now used for this purpose. Dare you subject yourself to an inventory? What are you, anyway? Just how well do you know yourself? What are your goals, your ideals, your ambitions? What philosophy of life have you developed? Knowledge of yourself is absolutely necessary before you can realize a rich and creative life. Then and only then will you be able to secure a perspective on life.

Choose your goal! Hitch your wagon to a star—then, get out and push it! Yes, that may be quite true but there are many stars in the universe. Which one are you going to choose? There are many goals, many ideals, and many perspectives from which to choose. To live is a great phrase. How much greater the phrase, to live constructively! Is your goal worthwhile? Are you building? Are you going on? Today will be tomorrow's past! Today is too short to be little! There are so many worthwhile things in life for us to win. There are so many dreams that we can make come true. If life is to be narrow, subjective, and little for us, it is because we, ourselves, have made it just that! Ignorance of the universe and submission to easiness can and will smother a creative and happy life.

Never be a quitter! You have taken an inventory of yourself. Perhaps you have chosen your goal, but you need something more. Courage would make an ideal symbol flag for the conquerer! Only a coward turns back; Only a coward is evasive, irresponsible, and a quitter! Anyone can be a quitter but few can be winners. Victory is yours if you are willing to fight. If you are a slacker, this life has no place for you.

Student Government

A new stage of development has sprung up at G. S. C. W., a stage that is only in the making. It is that of student government.

For the first time, students are to be allowed to govern themselves. For the first time they will assume responsibilities for their personal conduct.

As "Rome was not built in a day" so will student government necessarily not be built immediately. There are responsibilities at present entrusted to us as students. Doubtless others will be added if we prove ourselves worthy of our first trusts.

Student government can function only when students face the issue squarely. It is not a medium for reporting one another but a method of self-discipline.

It is up to each of us to abolish the "just get by theory; and, as is the reward of the virtuous, G. S. C. W. will have its reward. School authorities will realize that certain regulations are unnecessary, and the result will be greater freedom and happiness for all.

We are coming to G. S. C. W. to get an education. An education will produce growth and development of our personalities in view to realizing that old Socratic creed, Know Thyself. But in learning to know ourselves we must remember that another old Greek adage goes hand in glove with the above: Control Thyself.

Someone asks, "But what's all that got to do with student government?" The answer is, "Student Government is self-control." It's self-control even beyond that implied by the Golden Rule. Not only doing unto others as you would have them do unto you, but doing with the others under a common purpose. It's the feeling you have when you salute the flag.

If we could keep this picture in mind we would know what it means to G. S. C. W. to have student government: Our Alma Mater with the Constitution of the Student Government Association in one hand. The other hand is on the head of a child, who is looking with rapt eyes at the laurel wreath on her head.

What Now?

Freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors, this is for you! Here we are, four different groups of girls all in one big family. We neglected to say what kind of family but, after all, that will depend on us. We are here for quite a number of years, some for two, some for three, or any number of years. Those years can be exactly what we wish to make them. They may be years of endless value! They may be mile stones in individual growth! They can be the rulers of all our futures! They can be what we choose!

An ideal family is one in which every member works for the need of the entire family, a family which is bound together by love, loyalty, sacrifice, and respect. That should and must apply to our family as well as to others. That means you! It doesn't mean that the group works together in such a way that each person accomplishes one factor. It means that you are responsible for your own individual duty and thus contribute to the whole. We must have respect and consideration for others. Out of that will grow love, loyalty, and these two factors will result in a mutual happiness for all.

Sometimes the smallest things are the ones which count most. When you meet a fellow student on the campus, don't greet her with an indifferent start or with a snub. A smile can go a long way toward happiness. You don't have to smear the facial anatomy with a tooth-paste grin! Just be natural!

We are proud of the Georgia State College for Women and let's make her proud of us! It is up to you!

Foreign Policies

College and university students will be interested in the plans of the Foreign Policy Association for extending its facilities to the academic world during the coming season.

As those who have participated in the study of international relations are aware, the F. P. A. is an organization whose purpose it is to make available to the American public accurate, impartial and timely information regarding world problems. Organized in 1918, with national headquarters in New York, it now has branches in 17 cities and its more than ten thousand members are distributed throughout 48 states and 28 foreign countries.

This past year under the leadership of Raymond Leslie Buell, the Association has greatly extended its influence and activities. Particularly noteworthy has been its publication, with the World Peace Foundation, of Secretary Wallace's provocative pamphlet "America Must Choose," sales of which have reached nearly 100,000 copies. The F. P. A. has also initiated a series of Foreign Policy Committees, comprised of distinguished men in public life, whose reports have played an important role in the shaping of United States policy on international questions. A somewhat similar service was performed this summer for the Cuban Government in the organization, at Cuba's request, of a special commission of enquiry which has made an exhaustive study of the social, political and economic problems facing the island republic. The report of this commission will be made public within a few weeks.

The oldest and best known feature of its work is the discussion meetings held by the various branches during the winter months at which authorities speakers present two or more differing points of view on current international problems. The Association through a research staff of ten members also meets a vital need of students of foreign affairs by means of four series of publications. These include weekly bulletins containing a lively interpretation of current events of international importance; a weekly Washington letter prepared by the head of the bureau maintained by the F. P. A. at the capital; fortnightly reports which give the background as well as the immediate phases of certain selected problems; together with a pamphlet series which was inaugurated last winter in cooperation with the World Peace Foundation.

According to the Association's new plan a special membership for the academic year will be open to all regularly accredited full-time students at one-fifth the regular dues. Publications are also to be available for classroom use at special rates, and study outlines have been prepared by the Association's research staff for the use of debating groups and student organizations interested in foreign problems.

We Saw—

Three bright Jessies rushing up to Dr. McGhee and Mrs. Owens thought the girls were friends of the other, but it was just a case of mistaken identity, all the way round, as it turned out to be. Speaking as official hostesses would, the girls again hoped the faculty members would have a nice time and started to leave. One of them added as a parting word that she "would leave the two love birds alone and not bother them any more." Wonder who they thought Dr. M. and Mrs. O. really were, and we also wonder who the gals were.

IMA GOSSIP

Yeah—you were afraid of this, weren't you? I'm in again but I'm no longer Sappy—at least I don't go around under that title. Ah, here it is: They called her a name that made the sap rise up against them. I chose up sides against the gang and decided to just reveal my own name, Ima Gossip, if they couldn't assign me a pen name that didn't intimate quite so much. Of course Gossip tells a lot. It always did—but I like it, don't you? And now get an earful of this: Have you a little gossip in your home, too? If so, give us the "dope" and we'll put it into its place. There will probably have to be a lot of talk before it's done—we girls can always do it!

'Y'know we thought the remark that Dr. Wynn made last week was enough to keep him out of this column for a while, but behold and lo! if he didn't say something else that made us giggle and grab for our pens. It's hard for us to picture the English department without Dr. Wynn there, but it's even harder for us to see him teaching home economics. We hadn't the slightest until we heard him say, "Now young ladies, I will pass the cooking cards so we can make out our rolls!" Now whadayou think? The idea might be ill-bred but it is food for thought, eh what?

Speaking of food makes me thirsty, and I'll be a-float if I don't look down and find water right at my feet. Some call it H₂O others call it "Teau," pupils of the old school named it "auga pura" or sky-juice, but to us it's just plain old rain. We may be all wet, but we do enjoy walking around in it. We gossipers have a wading list but all you have to do to get on it is to give us the word! Come out some day when you don't have many classes and we'll have a swell time. It'll probably rain all week so we can have some washout shoo nuff by Saturday.

Did y'all hear about the cute little Freshman who broke on the man of her choice at the dance last Friday night and had a doubling up of the heart beats when he gazed into her beautiful eyes and sighed, "Lucky Day!" The little maid blushed, smiled, blushed again and in her sweet voice breathed "Yeah, that's right!" Anyone could have told that the youth was over-come, and not a word was said. Silence reigned, but disillusionment fairly poured when the boy grew tired of waiting and said, "Sure it's right—that's my name! What's yours?" That's O. K.? Mary, don't worry about this Luck guy! The whole thing went right up in smoke but just continue to be nonchalant and light upon something else!

Aw, shoot, I'm gonna end it all! I can't write.

Besides,
 IMA GOSSIP

The world sure has changed. Now they say that a woman's business life doesn't really begin until she is forty. In the old days when a woman arrived at the fortieth milestone she used to settle down to become a nice, plump grandmother.

 outwitting our opponents, rather than the physical which is the glory of the game. Thus when man builds an architectural structure for comfort rather than for housing social ideals and lives in it enjoying physical comfort primarily instead of letting the house characterize a beautiful expression for an emotion experienced, he will not grow mentally and emotionally because man needs his contacts with his fellowmen and with nature (the sunshine, the birds, and the trees) for mental and emotional growth. One does not grow emotionally and mentally because in growth man must stress sharing the values of the good life through social contacts.

Let us remember the good life is possible only in society. So why not look upon plays and games as social structures today, and thus experience great living through them? In fact, it is the social qualities of these little plays and games that have made them help man and caused them to live throughout the ages. To be socially minded one must submerge oneself in the group and recognize other personalities. Thus let us ever keep close to our hearts man's oldest quest and our most dominant quest, viz., the togetherness of men.

Hoping you will get a lot out of our college this year, especially our health classes and our plays-and-games classes, I love you and wish you Godspeed,
 Most Sincerely,
 Anna Elizabeth Miller

Griffin Club Elects Two New Officers

The Griffin Club held its first meeting Wednesday for the purpose of electing two new officers. Allene Wright was named president and Marian Miles vice-president.

The twenty-four members, which is the largest membership the club has ever had, planned an informal entertainment which will take place at an early date.

Chemistry Club Has Program On Curie

The Chemistry Club was called to order at its regular meeting on October 6 by Miss Matilda Otwell, president. After a brief business session the meeting was turned over to the program committee whose program centered on the life and activities of Madame Curie, famous scientist and discoverer of radium, who died last July 3. Three members of the club took part in this discussion of Madame Curie; Miss Agnes Smith, who gave a sketch of the scientist's life and discoveries; Miss Edith Tanner, who spoke on the chemical properties and reactions of radium; and Miss Nell Cooley, who spoke on the uses of radium.

Spanish Club Holds Meeting For Election

The Spanish Club held its annual election last Thursday afternoon at 5:30. Dot Thomas of Macon was elected president of the club, succeeding Bertha Hopkins. Other officers of the club are: Annie Laurie Jones, Washington, vice-president; Marjorie Shuman, Nashville, secretary; Marjorie Lanier, Soperton, treasurer. Plans for a Columbus Day program were discussed.

Hail, Otto!

The biologically-minded students on the G. S. C. W. campus make daily visits to see Otto, who is residing in a glass house on the second floor of Parks hall. Otto boasts of being the only green specimen in captivity at G. S. C. W. (we wonder!)

Mary Peacock, brave soph who hails from Columbus, proved her ready courage by capturing this snake at Houston Lake amid the screams of her fellow campers. Only with patient care by Margaret Edwards, the fake dietitian, who provided him with a diet of juicy grass hoppers, did Otto live to make the trip that brought him from the wilds of a lake region to the sheltered life of a college laboratory.

You have heard of the "roving rambler." In the near future, he may transfer his residence, but his welcome mat is always out for you.

Mr. and Mrs. Judge Rutherford visited Misses Adeline Jackson, Marjorie Shuman, Jane Norman and Ruth Mathis last Saturday.

Miss Polly Mitchell has as her guest Friday her father.

Mr. Richard McDonald, Miss Hazel Shellnut, and Miss McDonald of Winder were the guests of Miss Ruth McDonald Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Aubry of Atlanta and Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Devine of Toledo, Ohio spent Sunday on the campus as the guests of Evelyn Aubry.

Miss Mary Sawyer spent last Saturday in Macon.

Mrs. F. W. Cox was the guest of her daughter Elizabeth last Sunday.

Ennis Hall Adds Eight New Rooms

Accommodation for twenty three students has been provided in a fourth floor in Ennis dormitory. The eight rooms have practically the same facilities as those in the other dormitories. The construction is not quite completed out several of the rooms were occupied Wednesday night.

Education Club Meets To Elect Leaders

The education club met recently and installed the following new officers: Eloise Kaufman, president; Sara Davis, vice president; Martha Giesler, secretary; Edith Allen, treasurer. Thelma Williams, Cora Belle Parks, and Frances Cowan were named on the program committee.

Plans were made for a memorial service for the late Dr. George Harris Webber.

Two Faculty Members Entertain At Dinner

Miss Lena Martin and Miss Hallie Smith entertained at a dinner party on Saturday, October sixth. They had as their guests the following faculty members: Misses Ethel Adams, Irene Redding, Alice Napier, Katherine Scott, and Dr. Amanda Johnson.

Through the Week With The Y. W. C. A.

The receiving of the light on the part of the Y members at the candle-light service last Sunday night at Vespers was symbolic of their dedication of themselves to the purpose of the Y: "We unite in a desire to realize rich and creative life through a growing knowledge of God. We determine to make this life possible for all people. In this task we seek to understand Jesus and follow him."

In years past the Y has not been as closely united as we would like. It seems that there has not been enough "tie-up" with the whole between committees. With this problem of too loose an organization before them, Y Cabinet has been considering and discussing the possibilities of a central theme running throughout the Y. This theme would be decided upon by the entire membership of the Y, and would be studied in all committees and other branches of the organization.

We, the membership body, would come together and decide which subjects we would like to unite in studying in order to broaden our philosophy of life. It may be that we feel that we need a better understanding of the rising socialistic trend in the governments of the world. Or it may be that we need to concentrate on personal problems such as men-women relations. Whatever the subject, we would unite in trying to realize a richer and more creative life through a growing knowledge of this problem. Every Y member should be thinking along this line so that she may give her opinion of the question when the membership meeting is called.

The worship committee has announced plans for vespers next week. On Sunday night, October 14, Mrs. McCullar, prominent Milledgeville lawyer now connected with the English department of the college, will speak to her audience on "Starshine."

On Thursday night, October 18, a program of meditation has been arranged. This should be an impressive hour, and if it is requested by the committee that the student body be as quiet as possible in coming into the auditorium. The former is asking the students to cooperate with them in creating a more decided atmosphere of worship during vesper programs.

Chemistry Club Will Entertain Freshmen

The Chemistry club plans to entertain the freshman class at a hike and marshmallow toast on Saturday afternoon, October 13. The destination of their hike will be Calloway woods. The purpose of the hike is entirely social and a good time is promised all those who come.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Wilson and Eugene Wilson were the guests of Miss Helen Wilson on Sunday.

Mr. F. M. Green of Perry was a guest of his daughter Miss Ruth Green on Friday.

Miss Mary Ruth Ivey has withdrawn from school for the quarter on account of the serious illness of her mother.

Wanted: One Ark

"We have a flood, what we want is an Ark."

This was the cry of students on third floor Terrell B last Monday when a water pipe broke. This disaster besides being found by the occupants of the doomed rooms, was also discovered by students on the second and first floors, who noticed water dripping through their ceilings. Becoming alarmed, as well as curious, they rushed up stairs to find the house-mother, maids and colored man all working on the broken pipe. The water continued to flow. The rooms on either side were drenched.

"Willie" was loudly paged by third floor girls, who neither knew where their bathing suits were nor when the flood would stop. "Willie" paid them no mind, probably thinking they were trying to vamp him. The calls became more urgent and "Willie" finally got there. With two plumbers to help the water was stopped, and although several were wading, no one was drowned.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Klein, Billy Klein, and Miss Frances Lyle of Atlanta visited Miss Marie Klein Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Spearman of Farrow were guests of Miss Lucy Wagner Sunday.

Miss Mary Gleen Allaben spent last weekend in Millen and was an attendant in her sister's wedding.

Mr. Ben Adams visited his daughter Geraldine on Thursday.

Mrs. Cosby Brooks of Gordon visited Miss Evelyn Groover and Miss Martha Autrey.

Mrs. Edwina Pringle of Wesleyan college was a visitor on the campus.

Miss Lena Merck of Winder was a guest of Miss Betty Reed on Sunday.

Mrs. Flanders from Macon visited her daughter Catherine Sunday.

Miss Margaret Honey of Newnan had as her guests on Sunday her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Cason of Jewell visited their daughter Miss Virginia Cason on Tuesday.

Miss Margaret Burney had as her guest on Sunday her mother from Macon.

Mr. Harry Stillwell Edwards was a visitor on the campus on Tuesday.

Miss Lucy Grant of Atlanta will be the guest of Miss Jean Battle this weekend.

Miss Sue Thompson of Pinehurst was the guest of Miss Mary Thompson last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Coleman and Miss Celeste Green of Perry were the guests of Miss Ruth Green and Miss Carolyn Coleman on Sunday.

Peabody Students Present Play

Members of the Junior Red Cross of the Peabody Practice school presented a play at the Red Cross regional conference held at G. S. C. W. Wednesday, October third.

The children representing members of foreign Red Cross groups told about their service for others and expressed appreciation for the tokens of friendship received from the American Junior workers. The program was planned to illustrate in words and deeds the principles of the Junior Red Cross Society "service for others, world-wide friendships, health, and happiness."

At a council meeting reports were given on work previously done by the society and plans were formulated for this year's relief to be done in behalf of the sick and needy of our community, state, and nation. The council is composed of the following children, representatives of the different grades of the practice school; Blanche Muldrow, chairman; Billy Churchwell, Charlotte Cone, Josephine Bone, Laurette Bone, Barbara Ann Conn, Dick Allen, Lucia Bone, Martha Carpenter, Yvonne Giles, Harold Goodrich, Jean Rentz, Thomas Hollis, and Calvin Hollis.

G. E. A. Meeting To be Held Monday

The Georgia Education Association will meet in Milledgeville Monday, October 15, 1934 at the Georgia State College for Women. There will be a program in the Richard B. Russell auditorium where addresses will be given and distinguished guests introduced. All teachers and board members of the sixth district have been invited and a good representation is expected.

Lunch will be served at 12:30 o'clock on the front campus of the Georgia State College for Women. Those attending the association will be guests from G. S. C. W., G. M. C., and citizens of Milledgeville and Baldwin county.

Dr. Wynn Speaks At Tennille, Thursday

Dr. William T. Wynn spoke to the Woman's Clubs of Tennille and Sandersville in Tennille at four o'clock Thursday afternoon, October 11. His subject was "Southern Women as portrayed in Southern Literature."

Dr. and Mrs. Wynn were dinner guests that evening in the home of Dr. and Mrs. D. O. Leonard of Tennille.

New Health Teacher Added To Faculty

On account of the illness of Miss Anna Miller, who was injured recently in an accident, Miss Angela Kitzinger, of New York City, has been employed as a teacher in the physical education department.

Miss Kitzinger was born in New York, and has attended Barnard College, Columbia university, and the teacher's college at Columbia where she received her degree. She has also spent several years studying in Denmark. For the past seven years Miss Kitzinger has been a member of the faculty of the University of Illinois.

Upper Class Leaders Chosen

judgment in the selection of their officers. The newly-elected leaders are girls of outstanding ability and achievement.

Billie Howington served as president of the Athletic Pageantry Guild last year and is at present chairman of the entertainment committee of the chemistry club. Buena Kinney was president of last year's biology club. Mary Louise Dunn is on Y cabinet. Marjorie Sykes is active in the French club as president of Entre Nous. Margaret Edwards has been especially outstanding in the Y and is now its second vice-president. She served as treasurer of her class last year.

The junior officers are no less outstanding. Caroline Ridley has been reelected as president of her class and in addition is an executive of the Y. Mary Dan Ingram headed Activity Council last year. Now she is on Y cabinet and is president of the Baptist Students Union on this campus. Dot Allen is also a cabinet member. Last year she was a sophomore commissioner and secretary of the Athletic Pageantry Guild. Louise Donehoo is in charge of the publicity department of the Y as well as being on the Colonnade staff. She did excellent work as treasurer of sophomore commission last year. Rosalie Sutton, another cabinet member, is also journalistically inclined as feature editor of the Spectrum. She was a class officer in her sophomore year and a commissioner.

The sophomore leaders also are active in all phases of campus life. Catherine Mallory, president of the Jesters, is a member of sophomore commission. She had the unique honor of being both president and vice-president of the freshman class of '33. Juliette Burrus is vice-president of sophomore commission. Grace Greene is another journalist also being secretary of commission. Myra Jenkins, president of commission, has already proved her mettle as councillor and class officer in her freshman year. Doris Grossman is well equipped for council duty with her experience gained as commissioner and freshman councillor.

With such versatile, competent girls as leaders the three upper classes should make excellent progress in furthering the student government movement on the G. S. C. W. campus.

History Club Honored With Informal Tea

The history club entertained with a delightful tea Friday afternoon in the Terrell gymnasium.

Martha Harrison, accompanied by Eleven Groover, sang several popular songs. Viola James and Maybelle Swan gave a tap dance and Martha Grey Carithers recited "A Colored Lady in Society."

Tea was served while Marjorie Persons played for those who wished to dance.

If I were as shy as a violet,
And my eyes were that Heavenly blue,
Do you think I'd attract your attention
As I once saw a violet do?

President Roosevelt asks Congress to review its action of placing a three-cent excise tax on coconut oil. Taking off this tax would help a lot of farmers—they could then buy their oleomargarine cheaper.

Bulletin Boards Placed Near Arts, Parks, And Atkinson

The G. S. C. W. campus boasts a new deal and even the clocks seem to whisper the slogan of this deal 'save time, save time.' Some new features that can certainly boast of doing their parts are the campus bulletin boards.

These boards are stationed at the entrance to the dining rooms and in a central location between Atkinson, Arts and Parks halls. Announcements of importance to the student body are placed on these boards and does away with all unnecessary announcements in chapel.

Mrs. Terry is in charge of the bulletin boards and all notices placed there must have her approval.

Collegiate Prattle

We've heard of strange things, but this is one of the strangest of 'em all. The freshmen at Presbyterian College are kicking 'cause the good old days of hazing are passed. It's lots of fun—for the sophs, but really we didn't know freshmen got any fun out of it. Except maybe the thrill of being noticed by the "big boys and girls."

Michigan

Women come to college only to get a man, if the results of a debate held recently on the University of Michigan campus be regarded as conclusive.

Arguing the question, "Resolved, That Coeds Come to Michigan for Other than Scholastic Purposes," the members of the women's speech society were defeated by the men who upheld the affirmative.

Other purposes that the men ascribed to the coed's presence at the university were to gain prestige, to make themselves famous, and to have a good time.

In proving their point, the members of the affirmative team quoted one woman as having answered the question by saying, "To kill time until my boy-friend has enough money to marry me."

At one time the woman placed a famous "pure" soap on the men's desk.

Kentucky

Walter Winchell has nothing on a certain "Kentucky Kernal" reporter who has made a discovery similar to the findings of said Winchell. The reporter has predicted that a blessed event will take place on the Kentucky campus on December 3, 1934. Information leading to the prediction was found on a student's registration card. It must be correct, because the student himself wrote: Born—December 3, 1934.

Randolph Macon

Here are some statistics of a college education, according to a study made at Randolph Macon College. The average Randy-Macon student, during his four years in college, does the following: smokes 14,000 cigarettes, eats 36,000 pounds of candy, shakes hands 2,300 times, walks 360 miles to the P. O., dances 12.68 miles, goes to Richmond 235 times, sleeps 5,880 hours, studies—when there is nothing else to do.

(Maybe they can take it, but personally, we think it's a lotta hokey about the candy. According to figures given, the average student consumes about thirty pounds of candy daily during the school year.)

You Don't Say!

Helen Wilson, Pinehurst, Georgia, a freshman in Ennis hall has a copy of Webster's Collegiate Dictionary that is indeed collegiate. In the past eight years it has attended four colleges, which is a record few people can boast of to say nothing of pronouncing gazettters.

In 1928 Hillyer Wilson, Helen's brother, took the dictionary to Mercer University where it remained a fixture in the Pi Kappa Phi house until 1932. In that year it transferred to the University of Georgia as Frank Wilson's possession. South Georgia Teachers College was its next domicile in the summer session of 1932, still in Frank's company.

In 1934 the lexicon returned to the University of Georgia when Helen attended summer school there. Now in September 1934 Webster is quartered on the bottom shelf of the bookcase in room 54 Ennis.

As Helen is the youngest member of her family, after her graduation in 1938 perhaps the faithful dictionary can be retired. Like Eddie Nugent, the film star, it must have tired of its role as the perennial collegiate.

Bible Study Classes Announce Meetings

The Y. W. C. A. extends a cordial invitation to every student to join the campus Sunday School classes held each Sunday morning at ten o'clock.

Dr. Guy H. Wells holds a class in Ennis Recreation hall.

Dr. Harry Little meets with his class in Atkinson parlors.

Miss Alice Napier's class is in Bell parlor.

Miss Katherine Scott teaches a class in Terrell parlor.

Miss Polly Moss holds her class in the tea room.

Dr. Meadows' class which meets in the auditorium is studying to obtain a Teacher's Train Certificate. This training will be invaluable for a teacher in community work.

We hope to meet each student at one of these Sunday School classes next Sunday morning. A complete study of the Bible will be made throughout the year.

College Campus Now Has Garden

A formal garden on the partial site of the old main building, which was burned in 1925, is one of the most beautiful recent additions to the campus at the Georgia State College for Women. The spot, which lies directly on the path of the students as they go to and from classes, was until September only a barren car-parking place.

A formal garden was landscaped there, and now with a fountain in the center, flagstone walks, old pottery and shrubbery make it a beauty spot.

The little rectangular garden is between the Parks Hall administration building and the Richard B. Russell auditorium.

Another rectangle, which lies back of Terrell hall and its annexes, has recently been beautified by the addition of beach umbrellas, tables and chairs in colorful beauty.

Some people seem to think that if you borrow money from the government it doesn't put you in debt—and maybe they're right at that.

G. S. C. W. Students Will Be Represented At Methodist Meet

Miss Mildred Stewart, Haddock, and Miss Floride Moore, Milledgeville, will represent G. S. C. W. at the Methodist Students Conference to be held at Emory University the week-end of Oct. 19-21.

The keynote address "Dare a Student Be Christian in the Present Social Order" will be delivered by Dr. Shelton Smith of Drake University. The phases of the social order will be discussed in group meetings on Saturday, Oct. 20.

In addition to the forum groups and business sessions an interesting entertainment program has been planned for the delegates. A banquet will be given Friday night and on Saturday the student representatives will be the guests of Emory University and Agnes Scott College on a motorcade to points of interest in Atlanta.

This conference, headed by men well equipped to bring a worthwhile message to those attending, should prove of great value to the delegates. It is hoped that additional representatives will go from the G. S. C. W. campus.

French Club Holds First Meeting, Wed.

Entre Nous, the French club, held its first meeting Wednesday, October 9, in order to extend to all students interested in French an opportunity to become members.

The following officers were elected: president, Marjorie Sykes, Columbus; vice-president, Pauline Derrick, Oglethorpe; secretary, Elizabeth Stuckey, Atlanta; treasurer, Frances Joseph, Thomasville.

Plans are being made to conduct a series of social activities, which are to be carried out in French style.

English Placement Tests Given Monday

English placement tests were given Monday afternoon from 3:40 to 5:30 to those freshmen who did not take the test at the regular time on September 26th. All students ranking as freshmen who had not had English 101 in college took the test on Monday.

It is interesting to note that the results of the placement test already given show that the students of the Georgia State College for Women rank much higher than those of other colleges in the state. This fact is indicative of the scholastic calibre of the freshman class registered here.

Musical Society To Give Program

The Schubert Club, a musical organization headed by Miss Alice Lenore Tucker, will present a program at the opening meeting of the Sixth District Teachers convention which will be held Sunday night at 7:30 at the Methodist church. "Charity" by Rossini will be sung by the chorus with obligation by Miss Louise Jeanes, Milledgeville. Miss Beatrice Horsburgh will play a violin solo "Bernice Menuett" by Handel.

Well, really this is just beyond our comprehension. Some say that "life begins at forty," others say that "life begins at eight-forty," and now Shirley Temple comes along and proves conclusively that "Life begins at five." Whadda you think?

Scientific Trends Used In Teaching

Prospective teachers who are in ing at Georgia State College for Women at Milledgeville are having put at their disposal every modern scientific invention which will facilitate their training. During the fall quarter Dr. Little head of the School of Education and Teacher Training, has organized a class in Modern Trends in Education. This course is organized around talking moving pictures made by leading educators showing these trends. Among the series given are the following:

Dr. W. H. Kilpatrick, Professor of Education in Columbia University and a former Georgian has made a picture in which he sets forth some of the principles underlying "creative" or "progressive" education. He says that the type of education needed today is of the dynamic sort. Methods by which this dynamic learning can be fostered are illustrated by actual classroom scenes.

Dr. Hughes Mearns, Professor of Education, New York University has a series of pictures on "Creative Approach to Education" in which he interprets the philosophy of creative education. True-to-life scenes are interpolated in the lecture to illustrate his points that: children have thinking minds of their own and long to express their true feelings; they possess several vocabularies appropriate to their various environments; they are naturally truthful; and that they are individuals.

Dr. Arthur I. Gates, Professor of Education, Columbia University demonstrates modern methods of teaching reading by showing actual classroom procedure over an extended period. The classroom scenes showing a score or more of children in their daily work are intensely interesting and serve admirably to illustrate Dr. Gates' points. Dr. B. H. Bode, Professor of Education, Ohio State University, claims that the problem of education is to determine the desirable point between two extremes; on the one hand, telling the pupil what to do; and on the other, asking him what to do. He has prepared a picture which illustrates various methods of arriving at this point by showing a number of actual classroom situations.

Miss Louise L. Stone, a teacher in the Bronxville N. Y. Public Schools demonstrates her philosophy of education in a classroom setting. Miss Stone gives a description of the room's equipment and furnishings which stimulate creative thinking and activity.

Other pictures show various experimental schools of America, such as the Dalton and Winetka, schools, in action. Prospective teachers are able to see through the talking pictures various methods of teaching which would require years if they had to visit each school to observe. They are able to hear the most renowned educators of the country explain teaching situations.

The good points of schools in foreign lands are shown in films with suitable explanations for each.

In addition to using these films in the work with training teachers on the campus at Milledgeville they are available for teachers' meetings and extension courses all over the state. The projection machine is portable and will be used at many meetings of teachers in all sections of Georgia.
