GEORGIA STATE COLLEGE FOR WOMEN, MILLEDGEVILLE, GA., MONDAY, MAY 18, 1936

NUMBER 26

Dr. W. D. Hooper To Deliver Graduation Address

BIDS GIVEN FOR NEW DORM ON TUESDAY

Bids will be received Tuesday for the new dormitory to be erected here in the near future. Construction to be begun immediately after approval by the PWA, who made the construction program possible by a direct grant to the University System of Georgia.

The bids call for the erection of a new dormitory on the campus at a cost of more than thirty thousand dollars. This is the first of a number of buildings that will be provided under the PWA grant. The college also expects to build a physical education building and also an additional classroom building for musical construction.

The PWA grant was obtained in February following a visit to Washington by Chancellor S. V. Sanford and several members of the Board of Regents. Several times since then reports have been made that construction would be started immediately.

The college has been taxed to its capacity for dormitory room this year and indications are that the enrollment will be greater next year. It is hoped that the new building will be ready to accommodate additional students next fall.

The first unit of the physical education building has been completed. The swimming pool and the foundation of the physical education building were finished last fall. It is not expected that contracts will be let for this building until next year.

W. H. MacIntire Honor Guest At Tea, Dinner

Dr. Walter H. MacIntire, who was awarded the Herty medal Saturday for distinguished work in chemistry, was the guest of honor at a number of affairs during his visit to Milledgeville.

Dr. MacIntire, who received the medal Saturday night, arrived in the city earlier in the day accompanied by his wife.

On Saturday afternoon Dr. and Mrs. L. C. Lindsley entertained at a tea in the boxwood gardens at their home at Westover. Assisting in entertaining were Miss Lena Martin, Miss Jessie Trawick, Sara Owen, LaGrange; Vilda Shuman, Cooledge; Edith Tanner, Atlanta; Ashley Horne, Hawkinsville, officers of the chemistry club; Dr. Sam Guy, Emory University, and a number of members of the G. S. C. W. faculty.

Dr. W. H. MacIntire Receives Herty Medal Before Prominent Chemists

Dr. Walter H. MacIntire, of the University of Tennessee, was awarded the Herty medal for distinguished service in the field of chemistry at a meeting of the American Chemical Society held here Saturday night.

The presentation of the medal was made at the annual meeting of the Georgia section of the Chemical Society, of which Dr. Alfred Scott, University of Georgia, is president. The affair was sponsored by the Chemistry Club.

Herty Day was begun several years ago by the club. The actual selection of the recipient of the medal and the presentation is carried out through the Georgia section of the American Chemical Society, in co-operation with other local sections of the society in several southern states.

The selection of Dr. MacIntire for the award was made for his outstanding work in agricultural chemistry. He was graduated from the North Carolina State College, Pennsylvania State College, and Cornell University.

Others who have received the medal are Dr. Fred Allison, of Auburn; Dr. Charles Herty, and Dr. Francis P. Dunnington, University of Virginia.

A program was given in the auditorium at which time the medal was presented. Those taking part were Vallie Enloe, Atlanta; Sara Owen, LaGrange, president of the chemistry club; Dr. Alfred Scott, University of Georgia; Mr. and Mrs. Max Nash; Dr. J. Sam Guy, Emory University, chairman of the central committee of the Chemical Society in charge of selecting the recipient of the medal; Dr. MacIntire, and Dr. Charles Herty, donor of the medal.

Preceding the program held in the auditorium, a tea was given the boxwood gardens at Westover home of Dr. and Mrs. L. C. Lindsley, in honor of Dr. MacIntire. A dinner was given in the Mansion by Dr. and Mrs. Guy Wells, honoring Dr. MacIntire and the out-of-town guests present for the occasion and the chemistry majors. Among the out-of-town guests (Continued on page 3)

Mrs. Dull Will Conduct 2-Day Cooking School

Mrs. S. R. Dull, recognized as the foremost cooking authority in the south, will come to Milledgeville Tuesday and conduct a Cooking School under the auspices of the Department of Home Economics of G. S. C. W.

The classes will be held in the college auditorium each afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock and all those interested in the city are invited. An admission of 25 cents will be charged, and students will be admitted for 10c. Cooks may also attend and sit in the balcony for 10c. The funds derived from the school will be used for a scholarship fund for the home economics department. This money will aid others in securing this type of education and Mrs. Dull is giving her services for this purpose.

SUMMER TERM PROMISES BIG ENROLLMENT

Applications for enrollment in the first six weeks session of the G. S. C. W. summer school which opens June 10 are increasing daily and are already far ahead of last years number.

Dr. Guy Wells and Dr. Hoy Taylor, stated this week that it was expected that the dormitory capacity of the college would be taxed to meet the enrollment this year.

The college is offering a full schedule and many new faculty members have been added for the summer term. There will also be a number of lecturers and speakers to come to the college during the summer term.

The first term will close July 17, and the second term will open three days later to be ended August 21.

Several outstanding lecturers have been secured for the second double session summer term ever held here, and will visit the campus at various times during the summer.

Exercises Will Be Held On June 8th.

Dr. William D. Hooper, prominent Georgia educator and member of the faculty of the University of Georgia, will deliver the address at the graduation exercises to be held Monday, June 8, according to an announcement made by Dr. Guy Wells.

Dr. Hooper's address will precede the delivering of diplomas and conferring of degrees to more than three hundred seniors and sophomores.

The baccalaureate sermons will be given on Sunday, June 7, by Dr. R. W. Oakley, pastor of the Presbyterian church.

Other outstanding features of the graduation week will be the senior class day which will be announced later; senior dance Friday night, and alumnae banquet and reception Saturday night.

The Peabody school graduation exercises will be held June 4. Other programs will begin May 22, with the senior play to be given in the college auditorium. Miss Lucy Hatcher and Miss Mary Thomas Maxwell are directing the play.

A number of entertainments have been planned for the seniors. The Baldwin county alumnae club entertained at a tea last Saturday, and the sophomores will be hostesses on May 16, honoring their senior sisters. The junior-senior dance will be held May 23, followed by the senior dance June 5, and the alumnae banquet June 6. Various organizations will entertain in honor of their senior members, the time of which will be announced later.

Dr. Wynn Speaks At Mercer Honor Day Exercises

"European thinkers no longer control the American ideal," stated Dr. William T. Wynn in his address delivered at the annual Mercer University Honor Day exercises Wednesday.

The Honor Day program at which Dr. Wynn spoke was the sixth annual program held in honor of outstanding students at the university.

During the program students who have attained the dean's list during the year were recognized, and students who have won special distinction in debating and members of Phi Eta Sigma, national freshman scholarship fraternity, were given awards.

Special Session of Georgia Press Association To Be Held Here

Members of the Georgia Press Association will be guests on the campus at their annual conclave to be held in Milledgeville June 10-12. This year's convention will mark the fiftieth anniversary since the association was founded.

The members of the fourth estate will be guests of both G. M. C. and G. S. C. W., during their stay in Milledgeville. In addition to the regular business sessions, a series of social affairs has been planned which will be given by the two schools and citizens of Milledgeville.

Mr. R. B. Moore, editor of The Union-Recorder, is one of the two persons who were present at the organization of the association half a century ago. His son, Mr. Jere N. Moore, associate editor of the Union-Recorder, is now vice-president of the organization, and official host to the delegates.

A number of well-known newspapermen and women will be present for the meetings.

President Kirk Suttive and his associates are planning a brilliant and interesting program during the two days the editors will meet here. Hon. Clark Howell, Dean of the Georgia Press Association and editor of the Atlanta Constitution, will take part on the an- (Continued on page 3)

Natalie Purdom Gives Recital Friday Night

Natalie Purdom, Blackshear, was presented in her senior violin recital Friday night in the auditorium at eight-thirty by Miss Beatrice Horsbrugh. She was assisted by Dorothy Ellis, pianist. The program was as follows:

Admiral's Galiard—Alfred Fofat.
Miss Purdom

Mrs. Willes Homer Allen, Accompanist.

Miss Purdom has done unusually outstanding work with her music since enrolling at G. S. C. W., four years ago. In addition to playing in the college orchestra, she has contributed to most of the musical programs given on the campus. She has played a number of programs over WMAZ in Macon and in other cities.

Miss Purdom wrote the words for the senior class song when she was a freshman, and was musical director for the musical comedy given by the seniors recently.

From the Michigan State News we learn that Williams, college biologists are already laying plans for a special trip this summer to study geologic and biologic conditions in Arizona. If some of our college sisters were going there's not much doubt as to which phase of the work would get the most emphasis.

A Capella Choir Presents Final Concert of Year

The Milledgeville College Choir of fifty voices began its final tour of the year Sunday when it sang in Sylvester in the afternoon under the auspices of all the churches of the city, and in the city auditorium of Albany under the auspices of the Parents and Teachers Association. The last concert was in Ashburn Monday night with all churches of the city cooperating in its sponsorship.

This choir has made a definite contribution to the promotion of better church music this year and has a much larger program for the coming year. The official year was closed Tuesday night in the form of a banquet at which time all members of the choir and several guests met together to sum up the year's activities.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Zack Hayes from Madison. Dr. Guy H. Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Muldrow, Mrs. W. H. Allen, Miss Beatrice Horsbrugh, Mrs. Nelle Womack Hines, Miss Alice Leonore Tucker, Miss Iva Chandler, and Dr. and Mrs. Hoy Taylor.

dashed madly down to the Beauty Special Friday to catch the train in plenty of time. The train was rolling merrily along some few miles from Milledgeville when the conductor came through to look at tickets, and so forth. Maudie handed him hers very unconcernedly and lo, and behold, it was a Bus ticket! Evidently she was so excited she thought any kind of ticket would get her home. Anyway, after buying a train ticket for the proper amount Maudie arrived in Columbus with practically nothing in her pocket book.

From what we hear, we've missed loads by not taking a course from Miss Annette Steele. (You again, too, Miss Steele.) Her lectures are usually pretty interesting, so they say, but something must have gone wrong the day after we came back from the week-end. It seems that Miss Steele said all the class would have to do that day would be to stay awake. But even at that, some of 'em couldn't do that or didn't like the lecture because four people got up within a few minutes of each other and walked out.

Cecilia Smith takes the prize for the Bright Remark of the Week this time. Cecilia was making a report recently in a class, and was explaining one of the characters in her book. She said, "He was quiet and unassuming and was an orphan—er, I mean he didn't have a mother or father." Wonder just what Cecilia's definition of an orphan is?

Better stop now, because I just have one more time to.

English Faculty Gives Picnic At Echetah

The members of the English department entertained at a picnic supper at the Echetah Country Club Thursday afternoon in honor of the English majors.

The group left the campus at five-thirty for the club and returned later in the evening.

Those acting as hosts were Dr. William T. Wynn, Miss Winifred Crowell, Miss Hallie Smith, Miss Annette Steele, and Dr. Carmen Rogers.

Over fifty guests were present, including Martha Long, Virginia Norton, Ladye Brown, Sara Ruth Allmond, Jeanne Parker, Juliette Burrus, Myra Jenkins, Elizabeth Stewart, Mary McGavock, Wilhelmina Mallette, Martha Hale, Maude Dixon, Betty Reed, Eleanor Sparkman, Olive Jordan.

COLLEGIATE PRATTLE

The Santa Clara informs us that Dr. S. H. Weisman of the University of Minnesota has been doing considerable investigating as to the relative intelligences of fellows with big chests and of those with flat chests. He has discovered that the flat chests have the greater intelligence of the two. This doesn't alter the fact that we'd still rather snuggle up to a manly chest than an animated I. Q.

Dean E. E. Nicholas of the University of Minnesota assures us that, "Students are so much happier when they are working their way through school." We didn't know there was any other way to get through.

Why I Never Joined a Sorority
I wanted to think for myself and not be led around by a bunch of sisters.

I never went in for women's organizations at home.

I didn't want a lot of fraternity men calling me at night.

I never had a date with a man in my life, and I didn't want to start.

I hated the thought of having to live in close quarters with a lot of sisters.

I didn't like the idea of rooming with one girl for a whole semester.

I don't look well in sleeveless, low-cut gowns.

I am a male.

Glancing At The Movies

Well, it looks as if the Campus Theater is about the most popular place around here, and from the advance notices, it's going to keep on being that very thing for some time to come. The program for this week is enough to make anybody want to go every time the picture changes.

The Monday offering promises to be one of the comedy hits of the year when Clark Gable has to choose between Myrna Loy and Jean Harlow in "Wife vs. Secretary." Personally, it wouldn't take us long to choose, even though the one-time platinum blonde is somewhat improved since she's not so blonde any more.

But then, we're not Clark Gable—not that we want to be. The previews of "Wife vs. Secretary" might lead one to think that the whole thing was a dignified necking party with three people involved—the heart-breaker Mr. Gable going from one of his gal friends to the other. But it's not exactly that, and the action does get swift and exciting when all the feminine tricks known are pulled out of the bag.

Whether you like Clark Gable Myrna Loy, or Jean Harlow or not, you'll like "Wife vs. Secretary."

On Wednesday, for a change—continuing the slight progress made recently in the Wednesday pictures—there will be offered "Laughing Irish Eyes." Not knowing so much about the plot of the picture, or about the leading man, it's not so easy to go into ecstasies. But from what we hear, Phil Regan, the leading man, has a voice that does things to you, particularly college gals. This is the first picture that the handsome Mr. Regan has starred in, but we've heard him in minor roles before, and his voice is plenty good. Evelyn Knapp is the gal in the picture.

Coming on Friday for your enjoyment is "Exclusive Story," with Franchot Tone and Madge Evans. That's a combination we've never seen before, but with Madge's beauty and Franchot's brains and brawn (?) it should be good. It's another newspaper story with the star reporter getting his story and the gal friend. But at that, it is something new along this line, and you'll do well to see it. That snaky-looking Joseph Calleia is in the cast, as well as Robert Barrett and Stuart Irwin.

Another picture—you-must-see-without-fail is offered Saturday. Of course, nobody but seniors can go, but they will miss something if they don't see "Big Brown Eyes" with Cary Grant and Joan Bennett. It's also a newspaper story, but this time Joan is the star reporter, and Mr. Grant is a special sort of cop who gets his man, and Joan gets her story.
