The Female of The Species Most Expensive, Say Males at Sr. Dance

By CATHERINE CAVANAUGH

No wonder the seniors have been strutting their stuff ever since their dance Saturday night. Approximately one hundred dollars (and I mean whole ones too) were spent in their behalf for corsages to enhance their loveliness, it has been estimated by a statistic compiling reporter. There is no end of things that that much money could have been used for, but then the corsages certainly fulfilled their purpose to the nth degree, so it was well worth the cost.

Some of the corsages that inspired the compilation of statistics were:

Miss Neese wore an exquisite orchid, which was sent by her mysterious friend, Mr. Peter Paul Poplin. Teny Bethel, Katie Rogers, and Anza Hillhouse also joined the ranks of the plutocrats were decked out in orchids. . . . Mattilee Stapleton wore a beautiful neck corsage of sweetheart roses and lilies-of-the-valley, while Grace Hogg preferred one made up entirely of valley lilies. Georgia

Hayes Stowe, Doris Hardin, and Margaret Northcutt wore Talisman roses; Jane Suddeth, Ione Snyder, and Marjorie Wood indulged in gardenias. Frances Smith,

Town Girls Hold First Regular Meeting of Year

The first regular meeting of the town girls was held last Saturday in the town girls room with Nellie Butler presiding.

Going on with their campaign to take an active part in campus activities, the town girls appointed Elizabeth King, Doris Murray, Bobby Conn, and Mathis Beal Butts as a committee to contact other colleges throughout the state and find out about the relations between local students and dormitory girls.

The meeting was also concerned with a general discussion about the new room that is available for the town girls in the new gymnasium.

Sophomores Break Tradition as They Win Golden Slipper From Freshmen

Vesper Carols Usher In Christmas

A candlelight Vesper service of Christmas carols will be presented to-morrow night at seven o'clock by the Aeolian Glee Club and the A Cappella Choir, under the sponsorship of the Y. W. C. A. Preceding the service the G. S. C. W. band, under the direction of Mr. Charles Meek, will play for fifteen minutes in front of the auditorium.

The program of the service will be:

- Carols and Chorals of All Nations—G. S. C. W. Band.
- Prelude—Christmas in Sicily, Pietro Yon.
- Processional—Adeste Fidelis.
- It Came Upon The Midnight Clear—Richard Willis.
- Angels Over the Fields—Old French.
- The Christmas Pipes of County Claire—H. B. Gaul.
- While . . . Shepherds Watched—Handel.
- Joseph Dearest, Joseph Mild—L. V. Saar.
- O Little Town of Bethlehem—J. H. Redner.
- Sleep Holy Child—F. A. Gavaert.
- Lullaby Carol—Old Polish.
- The Flowering Manger—F. O. Buck.
- O, Bone Jesu—Pietro Yon.
- Silent Night—F. Gruber.
- Joy To the World—Handel.

"It Happened Next Door" Wins Over "My Dearest"

Tradition was broken Wednesday night when for the first time since its origin, the Golden Slipper contest was won by the sophomores, Sara McDowell made the presentation and Jane McConnell accepted the slipper.

First Corinthian Comes off Press This Week

The Corinthian, the College literary magazine, will appear next week, exam week. The staff is this year endeavoring to put out four issues instead of three. The first issue was to have been published earlier, but due to contract complications was unable to do so. This means that the next issue will come out in January, some three school weeks after the present issue and that all work on that issue must be done in a very short time. Therefore the staff wishes to request that all students who write short stories, poetry, one act plays, sketches, or any other form of individual expression do this over the holidays and hand it in as soon as possible after their return in January. All contributions are to be put in the Corinthian mail box on first floor Parks, just below the faculty mail boxes.

We feel sure that there is a wealth of talent on the campus if it can only be discovered. There

The prize winning play, "It Happened Next Door" was based on an old story of Milledgeville, which, in its essence was true, although the names and scenes were fictitious. The plot centered upon Richard Wyatt. After Richard had murdered Lake Barnes, his sister, Miss Nora Wyatt kept him hidden until his death. Freed by his death, from the silence forced upon her for twenty years, Miss Wyatt gave vent to her emotions in the scene that brought the play to a close.

Mary Elizabeth Elarbee, as Miss Nora Wyatt, and Julia Morle Stewart as Mrs. Edenfield, gave competent and entertaining performances.

"My Dearest", a comedy in two acts was written by Beth Blarid and Cecile Heard, members of the freshman class. The characters, led by Ferol Wing as Peggy, Mary Jean Everett as Joyce, and Virginia Stripling as David, gave a most creditable performance. The words and music for the two songs were composed by Jane Blanchard.

The highlight of the evening was the mock radio program under the capable leadership of

Classes Work On Christmas Projects

Following a tradition established several years ago, the four classes are planning various ways of helping and of bringing some semblance of Christmas happiness to more unfortunate families.

The senior class gave a party for underprivileged children of Milledgeville and vicinity on December 10. Each suite of rooms in Ennis Hall filled one child's stocking and these were hung on the big Christmas tree decorated for the party by the Ennis girls. The party was held this afternoon in Ennis Recreation Hall.

The sophomore class has planned to give baskets to needy families as its project. The girls of the class are contributing some little gift, either toys, clothing, or food, and they will wrap them and place them in baskets to be given to the poor families, a list of which

Dedication Of Buildings Ends Fall Term this Week

WITH ARRANGEMENTS SET FOR December 14th, Governor E. D. Rivers, the General Assembly of Georgia, the Board of Regents, Chancellor S. V. Sanford, and P. W. A., officials will be feted here next Wednesday at the dedication exercises of the four new buildings on the G. S. C. W. campus.

LETTERS have been sent to George Carpenter, and W. E. Ireland.

members of the legislature by Governor Rivers, Dr. Guy Wells, and Representatives Marion Ennis and Capt. J. H. Ennis, urging them to attend the ceremony. A program, containing the complete outline for the day, has also been sent to the legislators.

PLANS for the day were drawn up at a meeting held last week in Dr. Well's office with the following present: Marion Ennis, J. H. Ennis, Guy Wells, L. S. Fowler, J. H. Dewberry, Harry Jennings, E. H. Scott, Dr. John Oden, Mayor

WEDNESDAY'S program will begin at 10:30 a. m. with registration at the Old Capitol Building on the G. M. C. campus. At 11, a dress parade and military salute in honor of the Governor will be staged by the Cadet Battalion. The visitors will assemble in the G. M. C. chapel at 11:30 where the Governor will make a short address.

HON. MARION ENNIS will act as Master of Ceremonies at this time, with the following program

Our Batting Average

The office is having its pre-Christmas cleaning. That doesn't mean, of course, that any of the trash is being cleared away, or anything so drastic as that; it means that accounts are being cleared up, the files cleaned, and other irksome little chores of the same nature done. Just to get that well-ordered feeling that is incident to putting something down in type and mulling it over, it should be interesting to see a summation of what's been accomplished and what's not been accomplished, editorially speaking, this fall.

Giving a brief review of some of the editorials that have appeared this year we have our batting average:

STUDENT PARTICIPATION IN CGA: Early in the year the Colonnade urged students to participate in College Government activities, saying that, after all, it was their organization, so they should do something about it. After everything was tried but intimidation, at least a hundred people came out for student body meetings and elections, so—well, if you don't want a vote in your own business, you don't have to vote.

TOWN GIRLS: Agitation from the town girl to have a more livable place to spend their time on the campus, reinforced by editorials and letters to the editor, resulted in the rehabilitation of the Town Girls' room. It is also significant that the students' attitude toward the town girls and vice versa has changed, for Town Girls are now taking an active part in C. G. A. and many other phases of campus activity.

SPOTLIGHTS: Editorial mention was made of the fact that this campus was lighted in much the same fashion as the prison farm and it was suggested, if possible, that one or two of the spot lights be doused. Of course, after being informed that it was for our own protection that the main campus blazed with lights at all hours nothing more was said. It was interesting to know that dozens of thieves and burglars roam at will and without leashes around the campus just itching to climb in windows.

THANKSGIVING HOLIDAYS: The lost cause.

SANFORD HALL PRIVILEGES: On November 12, appeared the first in a series of articles deploring the fact that Sanford Seniors did not enjoy equal privileges with other seniors, and advocating that they be given a code. In subsequent weeks letters to the editor and editorials have reinforced the suggestion. So far silence reigns, but perhaps some of the Powers That Be are waiting to play Santa, and drop a code into a Sanford stocking. Yes?

LONGER LIBRARY HOURS: The library is now open an hour longer every night due to a suggestion made through the editorial columns of the Colonnade.

MOVIE DATES: The Colonnade urged that the dormitories work some plan so that week night movie dates could call for and escort girls back to the dormitory. The privilege was granted at the beginning of the year, and was subsequently taken away because of abuse. Through student co-operation and acceptance of responsibility, we said, the privilege could be regained. A committee of student council members has been appointed by Sara McDowell to work on this problem.

RAISE THE STANDARD OF THE GOLDEN SLIPPER: Although the Golden Slipper productions did not have any sparks of genius shooting through them, they were, on the whole, pitched on a more adult level this year than formerly.

FIVE DOLLAR PENALTY PLUS DOUBLE CLASS PENALTY: It ain't justice, quoth we. It serves its purpose, quoth they. Thus, in spite of the fact that it seems illogical to penalize a student who has officially withdrawn from the college for classes missed, such is the state of things.

SELECTIVE ADMISSION AND TWO GIRL ROOMS: The matter is, we hope, being taken under consideration. After all, one can't hope for a millennium to happen in a month.

Some of these accounts being long overdue, we would appreciate immediate payment.

Bowling Alley

If it is at all possible to arrange it, permission to go bowling at the newly opened bowling alley would come in handy.

Nothing has been said for or agin' the students going there, but everybody has accepted the slogan, "Be not the first by whom the new is tried."

At first glance at the situation, there doesn't seem to be any reason against it. The bowling alley is on main street, women do go there and alcoholic beverages aren't sold. Over and above that, bowling is good exercise, and some people who don't find time for the campus sports might become hale and rosy-cheeked if students were allowed to go bowling. There is, of course, a bowling alley in Senior Hall, but, when you have to set up your own pins, bowling is just too much trouble to bother with. For some reason or other it would be a lot more fun to go bowling down town.

If the thing could be worked out satisfactorily, it certainly would be fun to spend a few of the winter afternoons bowling.

The Editor Comments

To say that Mr. Melton was informal at the concert Monday night would be as stupid a remark as to say, "Aren't you glad Christmas is coming?" And the audience responded in the way he so obviously expected them to. He and the audience were so informal that I growled all the next day because the papers didn't have the Sunday funnies. I was thinking all day that I had been to a Saturday movie the night before.

The editor's comment changes to a lament about the pushing and shoving that goes on in the effort of everybody to be the first inside the door at the concerts. Almost always everybody gets seats anyhow, so why ruin your own and everybody else's clothes and dignity by using strong arm methods? It has become traditional to make a plea for students to behave more like human beings and less like prize-fighters as they enter the auditorium. Here's another!

The concert is definitely on my mind: Whether you could call it significant I don't know, but at least it was interesting to note the quiet polite applause that James Melton got when he sang the arias from Manon and Tosca, and the roars that were set up at "Bury Me Not on the Lone Prairie".

Town Girls Have Difficulty

Things ran along fairly smoothly there for awhile, until a sort of campus Ku Klux Klan sprang up. The town girls were looking at the campus through rose tinted glasses and enjoying their rehabilitated living quarters, when, all of a sudden, up pops some spiteful souls who rush down and wreck the town girls room for no very clear reason, and leave the note: "We are out for the Town Girls. D." pinned to the wreckage.

Now, no matter how you look at it, that wasn't a nice thing to do and it wouldn't even have been funny on Halloween. If the town girls had been molesting somebody's prize possessions or making faces at other people that would be different, but they appear to be a pretty peace loving lot, and it seems a waste of energy and wrath to bother with wrecking their bright shiny new room.

Seriously, it was a childish thing to do, and utterly unworthy of people who have reached a college level of thought. The sort of attitude that sponsored a thing like that ought to be squelched, and the students themselves are the only ones who can do it.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

If patience and long-endurance are virtues, the girls of Beeson Hall are surely developing sterling characters. For two years they have been wading through mud, or slipping; as the case may be, and practically nothing has been said or done about it. There is no way to leave Beeson after a hard day's rain and arrive anywhere without having shoes, galoshes, and hose spattered and thoroughly caked with mud. At one place on the way to the dining hall the path turns suddenly upward and in rainy weather it is quite difficult and dangerous to get up or down it. Then for days afterwards mud is tracked all over the dormitory, making it almost impossible to keep the rooms really clean.

Sometime last year a lovely four-plank board walk was added to the front of the hall, which, while it didn't enhance the beauty of the place, it did help the mud. Sand has been shoveled onto the path behind the dormitory, but this washes off with every hard rain. Surely some provision could be made that would help the situation. It seems a shame that a building that is so modern, beautiful, and well-equipped on the inside should have such inconvenient and unattractive surroundings.

Sincerely,
A Beeson Hall Girl

Quotable Quotes

"Until we can realize the ideal, let us idealize the real." Pres. Charles N. Pace of Hamilton University quotes another, unidentified, college prexy in his homecoming address.

"Education is a preparation that helps a man to understand his environment and to live there happily and usefully." William Allen White, the sage of Emporia, Kansas, states his philosophy of learning at K. U.'s 75th anniversary.

"In spite of our high ideals... the American people have never really given a fair trial to adequate education for the entire population as a preventive of social ills and as a method of social progress." Reuben T. Shaw, president of the National Education Association, urges further extensions of educational opportunity.

It Looks From Here

M. SWERINGEN

In plain truth, it looks from almost anywhere as if the United States had joined the world armaments race. All good Americans ought to make it their patriotic duty to find out why President Roosevelt and his administration have determined to expand so greatly our military and naval services. Present plans call for the expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars for warlike purposes. What is up? Does our government contemplate attacking some great power? Does our government expect an invasion?

Only the government can give us final answers to these questions, but all of us can think about them and make some analysis on the basis of what we do know. Possibly we should rule out at once all thought of United States aggression against a foreign power. It has been many years now since our country has expanded its borders at the expense of neighbors, and there is little left in our vicinity that is suitable for seizure anyhow. We could hardly dream of snitching Canada, especially after our failure to get away with it under much more favorable circumstances in 1812.

Mexico is more or less ruled out by the government's current "good neighbor" policy, and we already sufficiently control the Caribbean area. There really is not anything lying around for us to grab that would be worth what we are putting into armaments. Aggression then, is not a likely reason for rearming.

An attack on the continental United States seems equally remote. Germany cannot possibly reach us with her greatly inferior maritime resources, and besides, Germany's current aggressions in eastern and southeastern Europe occupy all her time and strength. She cannot conceivably digest Austria, the Balkans and the United States at the same time. The situation in Italy is similar; the new Roman Empire in Africa is taking too much out of the Fascist leaders for them to get sidetracked on an invasion of the United States. In addition, the Italian navy is adequate only for Mediterranean activities; it would not suffice at all for transatlantic ambitions. Russia has no navy at all in any realistic sense, Russian attention is centered in China, in the approaching famine, and in the purge of internal enemies. Japan is gobbling up 4,000,000 square miles and 400,000,000 people in China; could Japan take time off from this meal to nibble off 3,000,000 square miles and 130,000,000 people in the world's richest nation, six or seven thousand miles away? It is lunacy to suppose so. Japan at the moment is about as dangerous as your great-grandmother. This completes the list of the "bad" nations, and attack from them seems absurd. Between them they could not muster enough economic or naval strength, with their current distractions, to offer a serious threat.

Play Production Class Presents "The Wedding"

The Play Production class presented a one-act play, "The Wedding" in the Little Theatre Thursday afternoon at five o'clock.

The play satirized the unexpected difficulties that arise when the bride and groom both discover that the other is not an angel or a tin god.

The leads were taken by Dorothy Veach, the groom, Hilda Fortson, the bride, and Alice Walker, the best man.

Coffee was served to the invited guests, the Jesters, and the Masqueraders.

New Social Studies Club Organized

Martha Glad, transfer town girl, is the temporary chairman and organizer of a new Social Study Club, which held its first meeting Thursday, December 1. All classes were represented, especially the Freshman and Sophomore.

In the future, meetings will be held bi-monthly on Thursday at 7:15 in Parks 28. The meetings will be in the form of open forums where problems, economic and social, of the present age will be studied. Final officers were not elected, since the club desired

ALUMNAE PRESENT MANSION MATERIAL TO PEOPLE OF 2038

The Baldwin County GSCW Club presented the Mansion Centennial program at chapel exercises in the auditorium Friday morning.

At this time books containing information on Milledgeville and the observation of the centennial celebration, were presented. The material was placed in an air-tight container to be opened one hundred years hence for the information of those observing the Mansion's bi-centennial.

The devotion was led by Mrs. Miller R. Bell; Mrs. L. P. Longino; and Miss Maggie Jenkins.

Material for the box was presented as follows: The Key to the City of Milledgeville and a Message to the Mayor of 2038, by Mayor George S. Carpenter; books relating to the Centennial, including The Treasure Album of Baldwin County by Mrs. Nelle Womack Hines—GSCW Alumnae Journals, edited by Mrs. Bernice Brown McCullar, The One Hundred Years of the Old Governor's Mansion by Mrs. Lola Selman Beeson, and the Pageant of the Mansion's One Hundred Years by Miss Katherine Scott.

Mrs. Nan Barksdale Miller, president of the Baldwin County GSCW Club presented a scrap book of newspaper clippings relating to the centennial celebration. The book is dedicated to the four college presidents and their wives: Dr. and Mrs. J. Harris Chappell, Dr. and Mrs. Marvin M. Parks, Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Beeson and Dr. and Mrs. Guy H. Wells.

Miss Maggie Jenkins, state president of the GSCW Alumnae Association presented the Bible.

Dr. Wells accepted the gifts and presented a message to the college president of 2038.

Hollywood Can't Top GSC According To J. Melton

By SARA ALMA GILES

With emphatic and startling answers to the routine questions of an interviewer, James Melton declared that he "didn't like Hollywood a dam' bit", and was equally emphatic about the degree to which he liked G. S. C. W. in exactly the opposite way to Hollywood, quoth he.

Mr. Melton opened the Concert Season Monday night before a packed auditorium of students and town people. His personality and informality together with his pure tenor voice of every range completely captivated his audience. He was called back for an unusually large number of encores, both during the concert and afterwards, about which he was extremely gracious.

Before the concert, Mr. Melton said that this was not his first visit to Milledgeville, but that he was here several years ago with the Georgia Glee Club, and with the Georgia Bulldog orchestra.

James Melton said that he worked his way through college playing a saxophone in a popular band.

He enjoys swing music and has as his favorite orchestra that of Tommy D'Orsay. His choice for the popular song that "rates tops" is "The Way You Look To-Night". For a hobby, Mr. Melton said that he collects antique automobiles and owns one 1898 model. Previous to the automobile craze he was an ardent yachtsman.

When queried further about his outspoken attitude on Hollywood, Mr. Melton stated that he did not plan to make another picture until the day came when "singers will be given better plots".

He made his debut in opera for the first time last summer, singing with the Chicago Civic Opera Company and the Connecticut Opera Company. He took leading roles in La Traviata, Tosca, and Madame Butterfly.

As a parting question, he was, of course, asked about what he thought of G. S. C. W., to which he replied with an eloquent sentence, with a super-abundance of "beautifuls" in it.

GSCW Five Years Ago

This column should be named "Even as Now", for the girls who were at G. S. C. W. five years ago, suffered just as we do.

They had the C. S.—"boy and nowdy, I do mean", for a lyceum number, the Dariansky Russian Chorus appeared—The girls fell for baritone in those days; the perennial editorial on courtesy in the dining hall was upbraiding the girls for non-attention to the blessing; 6 girls, among them Billie Jennings, went to Atlanta to see Ted Shawn. The Health, Happiness, and Success hour every Monday afternoon over WMAY was sponsored by G. S. C. W., Dr. Meadows gave his own rules for passing exams. Among them were: Let knowledge flow from you (isn't that called cribbing?), never grit your teeth, and never cram.

The last item would be published to-day as news. We had, quoth the Colonnade of a half decade ago, got about $300,000 for a new Health and Physical Education building. It is interesting to speculate whether even as now, teachers salaries were going down as buildings went up.

Mr. Fan Hou Entertains IRC And Chapel

Mr. Fan Hou, Chinese exchange student from the University of Georgia visited the GSCW campus last Monday and Tuesday, speaking to the IRC on Monday night, and addressing the student body Tuesday in chapel. Both groups enjoyed his ease of manner, humor, and references of human interest. On Monday evening, he explained something of the family life and the economic situations growing out of the huge three and four generation families living together and supported by two or three members. He also explained something of student life and the language. Tuesday he was especially witty, and entertained the students with his accounts of the New Year's festival, the differences in Chinese and American calendars, a sword dance, and a demonstration of Chinese techniques of offense, using Mr. Noah as his sparring partner. He ended the half-hour's entertainment with a request that we "spend no money on those cheap stuffs 'Made in Japan'".

Mr. Fan Hou has studied at University of California which he likes for the beauty of its campus, Columbia, which he thinks the greatest school in the world, and at the University of Georgia, which he likes for its atmosphere of friendliness. He is especially interested at all these schools to find out what the attitude of the students is towards co-education. The most progressive Chinese colleges are co-educational. Mr. Fan Hou spent most of his second day here observing in

Stories by Scandal-light

There are five more days before we bid adieu to the Greater G. S. C. W. which is to say there is a total of 150 hours or 7,200 minutes, and that is not nearly long enough to say all that should be said about the conduct after the James Melton performance—so there is no point in beginning. Any way the King of Shortin' Bread" ego was inflated by much too much, to be more or less definite, all of which he asked for, I suppose, but that's still no excuse for such adolescent response. Girls, not the "cute ones"—quote Dr. McGee, clamoured madly to get a glimpse of him from close range to get his autograph, to touch him, to snatch his carnation. One or more girls actually swooned to be utterly unnoticed by the rest of the maddening crowd, and literally trampled on. The condition of this mob ecstasy was both disturbing and disgusting—it would be better to knit in chapel—forever.

Marjorie Stone is one who chronically enjoys poor health. Practically everytime the clinic opens she goes over to the hospital, decides she is sick enough to remain, and calls her roommates to bring the things she will need on her visit. This has happened time after time, and her roommates have grown weary of it all. The other day, she was re-admitted to Dr. Buckner's happy little home, so her roommates sent over a huge suitcase in which was her fur coat, hats, galoshes, and everything else she could ever want again.

At lunch the other day a few were eating carrots and Marion Arthur was concerned. Instead of using the same old gag about "carrots make you pretty" she attempted to wax scientific and said—"You should eat them; they contain hydrocarbrates."

But one of Miss Martin's children did much better than that on a quiz. She said: "You put soda in cream of tomato soup to keep it from curdling." Miss Trawick had a bright answer which went like this: "Carbon monoxide can be used as rat poison." And sure enough I bet it can, but you hold the rat.

Thursday night the Cotillion Club and "their dates" enjoyed an hour of dancing in the new gym. As a sort of special the Cotillion Club romped around in ungainly fashion, to denote their technique before joining the Club—but that's not what I meant to tell. Also a tango by the Cotillions was attempted. Just after it was announced, Catherine Combs witted this crack: "I Tango." And neither could anybody else.

What was council doing and why Thursday night is what we all want to know. They were on top of the conference table playing fruit basket turn over, London Lridge, or discussing the Wage-Hour Bill; it was hard to ascertain just what, but to say that they were solving any student problems would be a great exaggeration. Maybe they were just going in for a little lady like practice of ju jitsu.

It happened not so long ago in the dimness of the movie that

Mrs. Nelson Is Hostess at Math Club Party

The Math club gave a party at the home of Mrs. Carl Nelson on Thursday, November 8, for the members of the club and the teachers in the math department. The members drew names and gave inexpensive presents to the person whose name they drew. These were presented at a small Christmas tree during the party. Other entertainment included games and songs, and hot chocolate and sandwiches were served afterwards.

Annie Lou Winn, the social chairman of the club was in charge of the entertainment.

CLASSES WORK ON CHRISTMAS PROJECTS

will be sent to the class by Miss Saltee of Milledgeville.

Two chairmen from each dormitory have been appointed to collect the gifts. One family will receive gifts from Mansion and Mayfair; one from Beeson and Sanford; one from Atkinson; one from Bell; and one from the town girls. The baskets will be prepared before the girls leave for the holidays.

The juniors have planned to use ten dollars of the class funds and to give this to the Red Cross. Harriet Hudson, president of the class, explained that the class as a whole felt that this organization would know more about the needs of the poverty stricken homes and could use the money more beneficially than could the class.

The freshmen class is sponsoring a white christmas tree in Chapel Monday. The program will include a nativity scene, Blanche Muldrow as the speaker, and organ music by Dr. Dawson. After the nativity scene the curtain will be drawn and on one side of the stage the tree will be revealed with gifts of food and clothing from the freshmen, and on the other, the Aeolian triple-trio. The gifts are to be presented to the churches for distribution.

The members of the nativity scene will be: Mary, Mary Black; Joseph, Doris Watson; Three Wise Men, Frances Moore; Betty Mae Baughn, Beryl Harper. The shepherds are represented by Ann Ridley and Janice Oxford.

Seniors Exude Glamour At Dance—Says Dress Parader

I wish to dedicate this column to the seniors for the invaluable service they have rendered this almost exhausted Frills and Ruffles editor. It is because of their dance that I was able to find material for this column this week.

Jean Purdon wore a beautiful black net with bunches of pastel flowers scattered at random . . . the waist had a V shaped neck caught with a clip and short, slightly puffed sleeves . . . the skirt was very full with a band of black velvet ribbon at the waist . . . Alice Walker's chiffon was perfectly exquisite . . . the skirt was made up of gores which shaded from purple in the back to lavender in the front . . . the bodice was shaded and shirred and had narrow straps . . . a bunch of violets in her hair completed the costume . . . Mary Bartlett looking quite sophisticated in a black velvet skirt with a soft white chiffon waist with flowing sleeves, round collar and tiny rhine-stone buttons down the front. For a note of color Mary wore a crushed band of wine velvet round her waist.

And now as I bring this column to a close for the last time this year, may I wish you a very Merry Xmas with the fervent hope that Santa brings you just heaps of good looking clothes for bigger and better columns next year.

Frances Gillon, and Jackie Walker had carnations, and Emily McCrary, and Alice Walker wore astors. Betty Donaldson, Catherine Blackwelder, Billy Stebbins, Shorty Cason, and Nell Martin carried on the tradition of roses. There were a number of other lovely corsages that helped to make the senior dance the huge success that it was. But now the dance is over, and oh, for the hundred dollars with Xmas drawing near.

Mrs. Nelle Womack Hines. Other faculty members caricatured were Mr. Ossie Haxton, Dr. Guy Good, and Dr. Fibber McGee. The student body was represented by Sara McClellan, Patty Adams, and ouvah editor, Hetty Donaldson. Mrs. McKiller gave a lovely reading of some of her "gems" of poetry. From the Music department, Mr. Noah and his A Cappella Choir, and Mr. Meek with his band, were impersonated. Mr. Meek delivered the number "Red River Valley" twice.

Refreshments in the form of bettys were served to all casts and helpers.

Gillis Named Best All-Round At 4-H Meet

Georgia's best all around 4-H girl, Mary Zelma Gillis, of Soperton, recently returned from the Chicago 4-H Congress where she won the degree of general excellence within the state of Georgia. This honor was based on her records and achievements covering a period of seven years.

Included in the Congress were trips to Canada, Detroit, and St. Louis made by all of the fourteen hundred members attending the convention.

Mary Zelma gave the response to the welcome made by the president of the Chicago Sunday Evening Club. She was also selected from the whole delegation to speak to the Saddle and Sirlin club. The subject of her talk was "What the 4-H Club Can Mean to a Girl or Boy."

Her work in the 4-H club has had a superior seven year record. She has made one hundred and eighty four garments, canned 1,754 pints of food, raised 2,630 pounds of garden produce, prepared 2,299 meals, and made many improvements in her home. She gave sixty six individual demonstrations, winning three county titles, and entered seven dress reviews. The value of her 4-H work exceeds $475.

Reviews of Current Books

MARION ARTHUR, Literary Editor

From The Magazines

The New Republic for December carries an article entitled "Books that Changed Our Minds". It deals with the non-fiction of the past thirty or forty years that has contributed to American thinking.

Books most generally agreed to be influential in changing our minds are "The Education of Henry Adams", "The Theory of the Leisure Class", "An Economic Interpretation of the Constitution", "Experience and Nature", "Main Currents of American Thought", "The Significance of Sections" and from Europe, Sorel's "Reflections on Violence", Croce's "Esthetics" Spengler's "Decline of the West", Freud's "Interpretation of Dreams", and Paneto's "Mind and Society."

The article then quoted individual letters from prominent Americans in which they list their nominations for the list and discuss the choice.

The Atlantic Monthly devotes almost ten pages of the December issues to the problem of housing in the United States. Mr. Charles Stevenson, author, entitles his article "Housing—a National Disgrace" and immediately jumps into and onto the United States Housing Authority and its policy, as he states it, "of quietly writing off much of the building's production cost which tax payers once were assured by law would be recaptured, in part at least, through selfliquidating rentals."

Mr. Stevens hastens to add that he favors federal aid for slum dwellers, but he believes that the housing programmes "are founded on a policy of evasion, of concealment, of deliberately misleading the people concerning the expenditures of their funds."

Thereupon Mr. Stevens goes into the details of some of the pressure groups and rackets which have made "a sincere attempt at low cost housing a myth."

Organized labor is one of the topics and Mr. Stevens' discussion is enlightening as to the ways that racketeers gain control of unions, run elections, and get their hands into big money.

History Club Ends Fall With Banquet

The annual Christmas banquet of the History club was given December 8. The program consisted of a reading of the Christmas story from the scriptures and the recitation of the Christmas story by Grace Cheek, Roxanna Austin, and Catherine Lloyd. Carols were sung by the group of about forty-six guests all during the dinner.

The tea room, where the banquet was held, was decorated with holly, red carnations, small Christmas trees, and candles. Christmas favors were placed by each plate.

Nell Smith was in charge of the program.

Address Directory To Be Published

The Granddaughters Club is publishing a directory of the faculty and student body, giving their home and school addresses. This little book has proved very valuable to girls who cannot remember, by any other method, her friends' addresses once she leaves school. Especially around Christmas is this a convenient thing to know, when the girls are sending Christmas cards, though it is also convenient in the summer or other vacation periods when one is keeping up an extensive correspondence. The directories will be on sale December 10, for ten cents.

Miss Tate is faculty adviser to the Granddaughter's Club. Other officers include: Carol Pryor, president; Eileen Pryor, Vice-president; Saralyn Wooten, secretary; Tilene Taylor, treasurer.

DEDICATION

arranged: Invocation, Hon. Joe Branch, chaplain of the House. Welcoming addresses by Mayor George Carpenter, Col. J. H. Jenkins, and Capt. J. H. Ennis. Capt. Ennis will also introduce the Governor. Recognition of Hon. Roy Harris and Hon. Randall Evans, candidates for Speaker of the House.

RECOGNITION of Hon. John Spivey and Hon. Paul Lindsey, candidates for President of the Senate.

RECOGNITION of J. W. Culpepper of Fayette county, oldest man in the House from point of service.

RECOGNITION of Hon. O. J. Coogler of Clayton county, youngest man in the House.

AT 12:30, the assembly will adjourn for lunch, which will be held at Atkinson Dining Hall, where it will be the guests of the college.

DEDICATION of the new buildings will be held at 3 p. m. with an address to be made by the Governor.

THE COLLEGE campus will be inspected following the ceremony, and then the Boys Training School and State Farm will be visited.

AT 2 P. M. dedication of the new buildings will be held in the Russell Auditorium, with H. T. Cole of the PWA presenting the buildings, which will be accepted by Chancellor S. V. Sanford.

AFTER the ceremony, the visitors will drive to the grounds of the Boys Training School and proceed to the State Hospital, where at 3:45 exercises will be held initiating the $4,000,000 building program at that institution.

INSPECTION of the Hospital will follow, with a dinner scheduled at the Nurses' Home at 8:30. The Rotary, Kiwanis, and Junior Chamber of Commerce will be hosts at this occasion.

AT 8 P. M. a dance will be staged at the new physical education building on the G. S. C. W. campus.

Seen' the Cinemas

Monday and Tuesday brings the second American picture from M-G-M British studios at Denham England. It is "The Citadel," co-starring Rosalind Russell and Robert Donat.

In principal supporting roles are Ralph Richardson and Ben Harrison, well known English actors who have been seen on Broadway. Others in an unusually large cast include Emlyn Williams, Penelope Dudleyward, Frances Sullivan, Mary Clare, and Cecil Parker.

"The Citadel" relates the story of an obscure young doctor in the Welsh collieries who conscientiously adheres to the ideals of his noble profession. As a mine doctor he saves trapped workmen in a pit disaster, amputates the arm of one of them who is caught beneath a timber and wins the respect of his fellows. He falls in love with a school teacher and they marry, later moving into London, where he engages in a society practice at much higher fees. There the young physician temporarily forgets his ideals in the midst of luxury, but his wife is the influence which restores him to his original convictions. A careless operation on his best friend also serves to jolt him to his senses and the doctor joins a group of earnest colleagues in the establishment of a great humanitarian clinic.

Blondie Dagwood and Baby

Dumpling are in the movies! The popular characters of Chic Young's famous comic strip will be seen in "Blondie". Portraying Blondie is Penny Singleton. Dagwood's role is taken by Arthur Lake and Baby Dumpling is taken by Larry Simms. "Blondie" takes the Bumsteads over the well-known bumps, both financial and domestic. The complications are satisfactorily ironed out, however and peace reigns again in the happy household. This after Dagwood spends a night in jail, Blondie wrestles with the suspicion of "another woman", and Baby Dumpling adds a touch of mischief here and there to confuse the hectic goings-on.

Fredric March and Virginia Bruce romp through the merriest adventures of the year in "There Goes My Heart." Hal Roach's gay comedy romance which will be shown here Thursday and Friday. The story presents Virginia as a madcap heiress who tries to run out on her fortune and March as a reporter who tries to run out on his boss.

Virginia gives up her yacht for a job in a bargain basement and finds a new world full of walk-up apartments, kind hearted sales girls and eccentric motormen. Then into her life roams the roving reporter and the pair have a barrel of fun eating hamburgers, visiting skating rinks, riding in the subway—and falling in love.

Physical Education Building To Be Dedicated

Dedication Day on next Wednesday will prove to be interesting, especially for two reasons: It will mean that the new Physical Education Building is ready for use, and the day will be climaxed with fun in the form of a dance in the gymnasium.

The decorating committee composed of Miss Colvin, Mrs. Wooten, and several students, has been successful in creating an atmosphere of which we are proud. Bring your dates, Juniors and Seniors, and let's dedicate the Physical Education Building.

Square Dance Party

"Come, ye faculty, hale and hearty, To our old time square dance party—"

So ran the invitations to the faculty, who were entertained on Tuesday night at a square dance in the new gymnasium. The party was given by the Senior Majors of Physical Education who are taking ing Recreational Leadership this quarter.

Shack Reddick, leader of the "old time shuffle", planned such dances as "Oh Suzannah", "Hinky Dinky Parlez Vous" and then the real square dance to the tune of "Turkey in the Straw." The party ended with a grand old Virginia Reel, followed by informal singing. Honorable mention goes to Emily Cheves who entertained by playing a saw and to those hill billy faculty members. They were dressed fit to kill. If you like parties, faculty, we'll have some more! How about it?

About Co-recreation

At the last meeting of the executive board of the Recreation Association, the program committee, Ruby Donald and Virginia Shofflett, submitted plans for the winter quarter's program.

Among the most important points was the issue of co-recreation on the G. S. C. W. campus. With the new building ready for

"I am always asked two things at these colleges", he said, "First, which place do you like best and second, which girls do you think are prettiest." He also explained to the disillusionment of all that Chinese restaurants usually serve two Chinese foods, one for Americans and one for Chinese.

So far as the present Japanese-Chinese conflict is concerned, Mr. Fan Hou was of the opinion that China has no intention of giving up, and that if the war becomes a question of endurance that economically and according to population numbers China is superior.

United States policy has long been based on the assumption that South America is our backyard and others must not play in it. At present bad little European boys are trying to climb over our fence. We are piling up rocks to throw at them. We also like to think of the Pacific as our swimming hole; bad little yellow boys are diving in and muddying the water so we can't enjoy it. We are getting ready to tie their clothes in knots. In fact, our interests extend (or are supposed to) even beyond Latin America and the East. Our hebemony in this hemisphere includes Canada too. Do you know why Canada has an army and no navy? There is a quiet sort of gentlemen's agreement between the United States, Canada and Great Britain that Uncle Sam will look after Canada's naval wants. Our northern neighbor is included in all American naval strategy, and in return for certain considerations such as good will and unfortified boundary, we count Canada's needs when planning our navy and naval activities. Verily we have a big job what with Canada, South America and the far East to police. We will need all that we are buying and, I fear, much more before the curtain falls.

one of the freshmen class had to lower herself greatly to become better acquainted with the president of ouvah college. It seems deplorable that girls should have to sink to the level of their administrative superiors but such was the case. And this is how it happened: It came to pass on a dreary afternoon of a couple of weeks ago that the aforesaid freshman had achy feet, and thusly, in the middle of the movie, off came the shoe that seemed to be thrashing the corn. At the end of the movie in the futile fumbling that always results when anything is misplaced on a theatre floor, the F got something that she thought was her shoe. She forthwith yanked, but met opposition, for what she yanked was what Dr. Wells had always considered, by inalienable right, to be his foot.
