WELCOME NEW STUDENTS!

-- RETREAT -- The Colonnade

Seventy-four students and eight faculty members were present at the annual Retreat at Lake Burton Sept. 15-18. The group departed from Milledgeville in buses Sunday morning.

Opening the program of Retreat, Frances Lott, CGA president, gave the purpose of Retreat and CGA, and was followed by Etta Carson and Josephine Bone, each of whom gave the purpose of the organization which she heads.

Monday morning, Josephine Bone gave a general evaluation of campus needs. In the open discussion that followed, it was decided to make an effort through the four classes for more school spirit and competition.

The responsibilities of student officers was the topic discussed Tuesday by Etta Carson. Afterward, reports were given of the three major organizations, CGA, Rec., and YWCA.

Between the meetings the group was entertained with swimming, fishing, boating, mountain climbing, and a barn dance.

Organizations represented were Sophomore Commission, Y Cabinet, Upper Court, Student Council, Freshmen Sponsors, and general Rec Board. Radio Series Begins Today

Herb Harris, airport reporter of Station WSB, Atlanta, was interviewed today on the Georgia State College for Women's weekly radio program by Mrs. Nelle Womack Hines, director of the regular WSB feature. (Scheduled time of the broadcast was changed from 11 a. m. to 10:45 a. m.) Mrs. Hines also reviewed outstanding features of the reopening of GSCW.

"The Colonnade is getting out its first edition to welcome the Freshmen and new students. As president of the college, I wish to extend through this medium a word of welcome. May you enjoy and profit intellectually and socially each day you are at G. S. C. W. All of us want to assist you in every way possible. Orientation Week Keeps Frosh Busy

To start the 1940-41 school year, 550 freshmen, complete with baggage and parents, arrived Thursday. Ready to meet the incoming crowd was a group of student officials, representing Student Council, Upper Court, Sophomore Commission, Y Cabinet, Rec Board, and Freshmen Sponsors.

Orientation Week, for freshmen and transfer students, was officially begun Thursday night, when all new students met with their faculty advisors and student counselors. This meeting was followed by a student get-together in Russell Auditorium. The entertainment of stunts and songs was planned by those girls attending Retreat.

Climaxing the evening, the gym was the scene of a game party given by the YWCA.

Friday morning the new students met in the Russell Auditorium, at which time welcoming addresses were made by President Guy H. Wells, Dean Hoy Taylor, Dean Ethel Adams, Miss Cynthia Mallory, and Miss Maggie Jenkins. Guest speaker for the occasion was Mrs. C. B. McCullar.

At 11:30 a. m. the constitution study groups met to begin the series of lectures which precedes the CGA Constitution test.

Placement tests were started Friday afternoon when all new students were given a psychology test. Following the test, a tour of the campus was made by the freshmen.

The Recreation Association sponsored informal dancing on the gymnasium roof garden Friday night. At the same time, the transfer students were entertained by the Senior Class at an open house in Ennis Hall.

Today three placement tests were given, these being English and literary and appreciation, French, and secretarial. In Parks Memorial Hospital, the physical examinations for transfers took place.

Social events of the day were a bridge party for transfer students in Ennis Hall this afternoon and a program of sports on the back campus for all new students.

Tonight, the college will be host at a complimentary movie in Russell Auditorium.

Scheduled for tomorrow are morning and evening services in the auditorium, at which times, Rev. John Hines, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church in Augusta, will

Frosh Seek Special Work - - That's Why They're Here

By Pauline Kraft

As the new students came pouring in Thursday morning and afternoon, I wandered around the main campus, stopping every other girl, and always asked the same question. I was frankly curious. Why would a girl pick GSCW as her school? And, boy! did I find out.

"Because I wanted to take a course that I could get at no other school," was the answer I heard most frequently. Going further, I learned that the special courses referred to were in the fields of music, home economics, and education.

According to what I was told, family and friends come near making the decision as to college for a girl. The fact that parents and relatives graduated here, the fact that friends had come here, and because parents wanted their daughter near home were three outstanding reasons.

One student questioned, explained that she wanted to attend a college out of her home state and so she came to Georgia. Another was more frank than the majority and stated that her two reasons

YOU CAN LIKE THIS SCHOOL IF YOU WANT TO

We don't like to be redundant, but we have a point that we would like to make clear to the new students, and so, we repeat here what everybody else has said. That is--we welcome all the new students, whether they be freshmen or transfers.

We sincerely are glad that you chose to attend GSCW this year. We believe that you will like it well enough to come back for more when the year ends.

There is a lot to liking a school. Most important factor is your own attitude. If you came here determined that you wouldn't like your housemother, your dormitory, your room-mates, your academic work and all other things connected with the school--well, you won't. You will be as homesick as you thought you would be and even more miserable.

So, in this welcome, we give a bit of advice. Look around you. There are a lot of cute girls to run around with. Some of our professors are worth knowing, and your housemother is not as mean as you might think she is.

If you aren't satisfied with things now, do your best to change the situation. If that doesn't help matters, then make up your mind to accept the life that has been handed you. After all, you are an adult now, which means that you should be able to give forth at least a weak grin even though the world seems against you.

THE EDITOR COMMENTS ON THE FRESHMAN CLASS

Well, the freshmen are here, in case nobody knows it. They look like a nice class, too. We are glad that they are here, if for no other reason than that we like to see new people on the campus. If the same group of students stayed here year after year, we think things might be slightly dull. That is one blessing of our educational system and we like it.

ON SCHOLASTIC STANDARDS

We have high hopes for the scholastic standards this year. We believe that we will see a rise in the number of Dean's List students. After all, with all the boys going to military training camps, there should be more girls with more time in which to study.

ON BRITAIN'S WAR

All the Cassandras in the field of politics and war climbed out on a limb during the summer and it wasn't a very substantial roost. Britain is still here, and according to news reports, still kicking lustily. For that we are thankful. Not only did we wish the English to be safe, but we still prefer for them to do our fighting.

Of course, we can't state positively that Great Britain has won this war, but we do believe that her resistance so far indicates success eventually. And we think that the United States should give all the aid possible and practical toward that eventuality. For that reason, we think that Franklin Roosevelt is the logical person to be elected President of our country.

We aren't old enough to vote now and we would like to cast a ballot in favor of Mr. Roosevelt. Our consolation is that maybe he will still be running for office when we do reach the age of twenty-one.

ON THIS EDITION OF THE COLONNADE

This is our way of welcoming all the new students to GSCW. We decided during the summer that if the other organizations on the campus were doing special work during Orientation Week, the Colonnade should certainly have a part in it.

This is our effort. If it is disappointing, please don't censure us. We (and that 'we' is not editorial, it includes the business manager) have done our best. And we promise that, from now on, when the staff arrives and we all start work on the paper, it will be a better job.

Anyway, you are welcome as far as we are concerned.

Letter To The Frosh

Well Frosh! It's good to see your bright, shining and (at times) bewildered faces. Members of the Colonnade staff have been asking you all about your reactions to GSCW so suppose I tell you about the upper classmen's reactions to you.

I think it's a dirty shame that you fresh young things come to the campus in one big burst of youth and make all the other girls feel so old. No girl should ever get that middle age feeling before she is even out of her teens. That's the way the juniors and seniors feel. Don't let me forget to include the sophomores in that category marked "upperclass." Well my fresh little friends, you may take an ex-sophomore word for it. They feel every bit of what a grandmother feels when she looks at her grand-daughter and sighs "Oh, so young with so much to learn."

You little cuties also throw a large percentage of the girls in a panic which may soon shade off into gloom. I'm speaking of those girls who will come back expecting to romance the Jimmies (GMC cadets to new people) and find them absorbed in dating up the new bevy of Jessies (GSCW girls).

As far as the faculty is concerned, a fresh supply of comic test papers will be compensation enough for teaching all of you what's what and who's who on the campus and elsewhere. Don't be insulted by all the implications. I just thought I'd tell you that the nasty old professors sit behind closed doors (in their offices) and just howl at some of the things you say and some of the goofy answers you put on those Social Science test papers. You'd be cheating them out of a lot of fun if you studied that stuff.

Then another noble thing you are doing is to make all the freshman sponsors feel so responsible and so educated. For this rare treat I am now personally thanking you for being just what you are--the lowly freshman. You will understand this better each year that you continue your college work.

A tip for making life more interesting this week--other weeks to come--read your Colonnade ads. A certain freshman can get a dress cleaned absolutely free this week because her name appeared in a little poem about the spick-span work done at Odorous Cleaners. If you are interested in between class stuffing (and who isn't?) find the Benson Bakery ad and read all about a marvelous value in sweets they offer. Another opportunity for some lucky freshman is a fascinating guessing game in the Snow's Laundry ad.

You have, no doubt, received all the information you can possibly need about how to successfully survive dormitory life. But I must have my share of acting sage and experienced. Be considerate of your roommates but don't be afraid to wolf at them if they won't do their share of bed-making, broom-pushing, and tub-scrubbing. If they get the idea that you are to be the little mother of the household you should tell them to start thinking on a higher plane--no, I didn't mean that at all. I mean, just tell them that they should follow you. (Continued on page five)

Parade of Opinion

Peacetime military conscription of the nation's young men for the purpose of bolstering the national defense is a fact. Whether college men 21 and over like the prospect or not, they now face compulsory registration which for some will lead to service in the nation's armed forces.

In Philadelphia, Lawson Robertson, 57-year-old Penn and Olympic track coach, declared for compulsory military training to toughen American youths for possible defense of their country. "I don't think the young fellows of today are ready for a war," asserted Robertson, celebrating his twenty-fifth anniversary at Penn. "They have the initiative, but not the endurance for fighting."

America's college millions watched closely as the conscription bill bounced over a rocky path through the houses of congress. Among the principal senate opponents was Montana's isolationist Burton K. Wheeler, whose objections, based on two personal convictions, struck a responsive chord in many student minds: 1, that conscription would destroy democracy in the United States; 2, that Hitler has no military designs on the U. S.

By Mildred Ballard

Hello, Freshmen, and welcome to our campus. This column is at your service--to keep you posted on the new books and to snoop among the magazine articles for what we think you will enjoy. So let us know what you would like to have reviewed and we will make a stab at it.

The Collegiate Review

Douglas Hyde, first president of Eire (Ireland), was once interim professor of modern languages at Rutgers University in New Jersey. Headquarters of the International Labor office have been temporarily transferred from Geneva, Switzerland, to McGill, University, Montreal. Cameron Bradley of Southboro, Mass., a recent Harvard graduate and vice-president of the Veteran Motor Car Club of America, spends his spare time collecting old automobiles. He has 16 pre-1910 models. New girls' dormitories are being opened this month by the University of Missouri at Columbia. Professor Don J. Kays of Ohio State University has won the same pair of bowling shoes for 27 years.

Rutgers (N. J.) University men defeated a New Jersey College for Women team in a cooking contest. The Walt Disney animated cartoon technique is a new twist in engineering courses at New York University to illustrate principles and mechanical theories. Grant Wood, celebrated artist, has been granted a year's leave from the art department of the University of Iowa to devote a full time to painting. Dr. F. Stuart Chapin, University of Minnesota sociologist, has been awarded the University Medal from his alma mater, Columbia University. Andrew Mellon's $750,000 mansion and seven acres of land have been given to Pennsylvania College for Women, whose nine-acre campus adjoins the Mellon estate in Pittsburgh's fashionable East end. Yale College was originally located at Saybrook, Conn.

Tests at Massachusetts Institute of Technology show that molasses heads the list of iron-containing foods with about 6.1 usable parts per 100,000, by weight. Beef liver and oatmeal are second and third. Harvard University's $143,000,000 endowment makes it America's richest educational institution. Dr. H. C. Byrd of the University of Maryland has announced plans for construction of a football stadium to seat 25,000. A helicopter whose rotor or propeller blade is driven by air is being developed at Georgia School of Technology. The Term "Americanism" is said to have been first used by John Witherspoon, president of Princeton University, in 1781. First school of engineering in the United States was Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, founded at Troy, N. Y., by Stephen van Rensselaer in 1824.

Naive young Lowell Marlowe, in love with Tony, waits for his return through the heartrending time of his wandering and their reunion on the shores of Maine is a beautiful high point. A dash of spice comes into the story via spirited old Grim, who rules Languedoc with wisdom and tact--she who knew the sorrow of three men's leave-taking, and the joy of one man's return.

Life on the early American frontier, source material for many a tale of hair-raising experiences, comes to the fore in "The Trees" by Conrad Richter. When a family of seven with its worldly possessions strapped on each member's back plunges into the denseness of unexplored forest, anything can and does happen.

The calmness with which the author leads up to and handles tense situations keeps the reader on tiptoe with suspense, eager to turn the next page and startled with the trend of events. Little do we know of the hardships those pioneers endured--the trials they expected to meet and weather with characteristic unruffled spirits.

Worth, a born woodsy, reads the threat of famine in nature's signs, and takes his family on to a more plentiful region. There they start life anew far from any human dwellings.

This is a well written novel, gripping in its intensity and thrilling in its descriptions. Not a long and complicated work, it is easy reading and well worth your time.

GMC Officers Organize Club

Meeting yesterday afternoon to form a new commissioned officers' club for the current school year, a group of Georgia Military College staff members elected Captain Floyd Frederick president of the organization.

Other officers named were Lieutenant James Holton, vice president, and Lieutenant Jacob Goldstein, secretary-treasurer. According to President Holton, the organization is to meet twice each month, at which times they will map plans for the social affairs of the college.

Committees of the club will be named at the first meeting next month.

Cecil Rhodes believed that the United States would eventually be a part of the British Empire. He dreamed of a government of the world. To W. T. Stead he confided his dream of cessation of all wars, one language throughout the world, and a federation with America. He said: "We could hold our federal parliament for five years at Washington and five years at London." In his first will he said: "Colonization by British subjects of all lands were means of livelihood, are attainable by energy, labour, and enterprise... the ultimate recovery of the United States of America is an integral part of the British Empire... the foundation of so great a power as hereafter to render wars impossible and promote the best interests of humanity."

Square Dance Gits 'em

At the request of many of the students who were present at Retreat, The Colonnade takes this method of urging that the Misses Ethel Adams, Helen Greene, Tommie Maxwell, and Cynthia Malloy give a repeat performance of their square dancing, as was done in the mountains. According to our informants, the mountain lads were overwhelmed, bowled over, and knocked for a loop, at the sight of this quartet squarely tripping around the dance hall.

We sincerely hope that this matter will be taken under consideration by the parties involved and by the party responsible for planning entertainments of the sort.

Plans Made For Concert Drive

To map plans for the coming season's membership drive, to be conducted Oct. 7-12, the Milledgeville Cooperative Concert Association, headed by Dr. Dawson Allen, met Thursday at 4:30 p. m. in the Music Building of Georgia State College for Women.

Over 100 members were added to the association's roll last year. Dr. Allen pointed out to the concert group as he asked for cooperation in an effort to surpass last season's record "in order that we may have as good or better artists than we had last year."

Reviewing the work of the organization's 1939-40 season, Dr. Allen said the association "finished the year with a feeling of satisfaction and success, both as to talent and membership."

"Because of the increased standards of appreciation," he continued, "and the cultural values received from such a program, the association has become a necessary asset to our community."

Other officers of the organization, which is affiliated with the Community Concerts Association of New York City, are: Max Noah, secretary; L. C. Hall, treasurer; Harry Jennings, chairman of the city membership committee; Miss Maggie Jenkins, chairman of the faculty membership committee.

Miss Josephine Bone, Miss Nell Cull Bryan, Miss Lucy Duke, and Miss Betty Jordan, members of the student membership committee; and Dr. Edward Dawson, Miss Edna West, Mrs. Richard Binion, Tom Twitty, Mrs. L. P. Longino, Mrs. Frank Evans, Mrs. C. E. Ray, Mrs. Edgar Long, Dr. Charles Toole, and Miss Katherine Scott, members of the advisory committee.

Terrell 27-- Family Room

"A family room" might be the title given Terrell 27. This room has been occupied by five members of one family and will not be vacant this quarter for the third year in succession.

In 1928 Peggy Bowden of Savannah settled her freshman room problem by choosing Terrell 27, the room which was her mother's and aunt's choice in 1912. No sooner had Peggy become a sophomore than her cousin from Arlington, Virginia, Nancy Green, whose mother had lived in the same Terrell room, came to G. S. C. W. and followed the family tradition. This year Jane Bowden, Peggy's sister, is occupying the traditional room.

Add these up and you will find five G. S. C. W. students of the same family whose freshman years were spent in the same room.

News of the Recreation Association

By Ann Waterston

Greetings, Freshmen. This afternoon was Sports afternoon and didn't we have fun! Why, I feel as though we'd been friends for years and you'd been beating me at tennis, badminton, ping-pong, and shuffleboard for many seasons.

You can easily understand why we have so much fun at Recreation if you go near Slappey and the shuffleboard. And it looks as if the table tennis tournament will be a fast and furious one this year. Dovie Chandler and Elaine Baker declare that their sport was the most popular one on the campus this afternoon.

Volleyball, managed by Jane Reeve and Helen Broderick, and the softball game directed by Jean Staley did a lot toward making the afternoon a success.

Of course, these aren't the only sports at your disposal. If it's bicycling you like, then there are bicycles, and if it's skating you want, there are skates for the asking (and the renting) in the P. E. building.

Anyway we are here not only for educational purposes but for social contacts as well. It is the sincere desire and purpose of the Recreation Association to help you enjoy yourself for the next four years. We can't do it alone! We'll do ninety per cent of the work, but it is up to you to do the other ten per cent—come to the many attractions sponsored by the "Rec."

COLLEGIATE WORLD

By Associated Collegiate Press

A fairly comprehensive picture of the average sorority girl on the Washington University campus at St. Louis is contained in a survey in Student Life, campus publication.

Some of the conclusions follow: "She comes in assorted heights, dressed and shaped according to latest fashion. Her well-curled hair is becoming, and she will seldom cover it with a hat; but just let a suspicion of rain appear and she wads it up under a bandana and looks like someone who should be slaving in Russian wheat fields.

"In spite of her 12-hour study average weekly she keeps her grades well above the campus level, makes more B's than C's, and inspires all kinds of tales of apple-polishing by the less successful male.

"She thinks about men almost as much as they like to think she does, but her thoughts are not always to their credit. Rather often she has more dates than she wants, because that's the only way she can be sure to have the ones she really does want.

"Two or three nights a week she has a more or less formal asked-for-in-advance, definite-destination date. In between times she may lunch or go for rides or have boys drop in. Certainly she spends hours on end "jellying," which she may or may not consider a great waste of time. (Jellying—A campus term meaning an inexpensive date, usually several hours sitting in a restaurant over a soda or dish of ice cream.)

"She has an allowance and usually buys her own lunch at the school cafeteria or an off-campus restaurant.

"She may look frivolous, but there's a fifty-fifty chance she has held down a paying job at some time or other. She may even be the one girl in a hundred who's working her way through college with a full-time job. She's more apt to be the one sorority girl in 10 who earns her spending money by working about seven hours a week.

"In general she's a happy girl, fairly well satisfied with her share of life."

And there's the one about the girl who was so cynical she didn't believe that storks brought baby storks.

It used to be that the first man out of a dormitory was the best dressed—now he's the only one dressed.

THE UNION

SAME STORY

He knocked at the door of my room.

"May I come in? It's the room I had when I went to college in '90," he said.

"Yes, sir," he said, lost in reverie, "Same old room."

He opened the door. There stood a girl, terrified.

"This is my sister," I said.

"Yes, sir. Same old story!"

Prof.: How would you punctuate this sentence: "The wind blew a ten-dollar bill around the corner?"

Student: "I would make a dash after the bill."

Dumb: "Well, how are you, anyway?"

Dora: "A little petter, thanks."
