ACCREDITING GROUP DROPS GSCW

Three Choirs Present Handel's Messiah Sunday In Auditorium

Dorothy Noah, Helen Long, Max Noah, Stanley Perry Are Soloists In Oratorio

The music department will present "The Messiah" by Handel in Russell auditorium, Sunday, December 7, at 7:30 p.m. The combined voices of singers and Cecilian Singers will constitute a chorus of 200 voices under the direction of Max Noah.

"The Messiah" is the best known of oratorios and is sung more during Christmas because of the portrayal of the birth of Christ. The oratorio was composed by Handel in 24 days and ranks as one of the world's masterpieces.

The soloists will be Helen Granade Long, soprano; Dorothy Noah, contralto; T. Stanley Perry, tenor; Max Noah, bass. Mrs. W. H. Allen, pianist; and Maggie Jenkins, organist, are the accompanists.

The program is as follows:

Overture:

Recit. (Tenor) Comfort Ye My People

Air (Tenor) Every Valley Shall be Exalted

Chorus—And The Glory of The Lord

Recit. (Bass)—But Who May Abide the Day of His Coming.

Recit. (Alto)—Behold, A Virgin Shall Conceive

Air (Alto) and Chorus—O Thou That Tellest Good Tidings to Zion

Recit. (Bass)—For, Behold, Darkness Shall Cover the Earth

Air (Bass)—The People That

Orchestra Appears In Concert Wed.

The College Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Lloyd Outland, will present a concert Wednesday night, December 10, at 8 p.m. Miss Nan Gardner will be guest soloist.

The program will consist of: Triumphal March — Edward Grieg from "Sigurd Jorsalfar"

Song of India — Rimsky-Korsakoff from "Sadke"

On the Trail — Ferde Grofa

Impromptu — Franz Schubert.

Woodwind Trio and Piano

Voi la sapete (Well do you know)—P. Mascagni from "Vav-

Youth's Standard Is Higher, Said Overton At Institute

By DILSEY ARTHUR

"The standard which youth has set up for itself is much higher today than ever before," stated Mrs. Grace Sloan Overton. Mrs. Overton, well-known authority on men-women relations, during the past week led discussions for the Institute of Personal Relations, sponsored by the YWCA. She expressed the thought that though many people chose to condemn the present generation, she finds in her association with young people all over the United States that they are facing their problems with forthrightness and reason.

Mrs. Overton stressed the importance of approaching the problem of the soldier-civilian relationship with much thought. She pointed out that soldiers enjoy the company of nice girls, but they find that they are often shunned. She said that this situation is unfortunate because America's finest men are serving their country in the army.

By discussing every problem with frankness and clarity Mrs. Overton impressed her audiences with the seriousness of the situation which they must at some time face. She told the students that only those girls who had formed a basic philosophy on which to base their actions would be able to have enjoyable relationships with men and wom-

Directory Sales Will Be Launched

The GSCW directories, gotten out annually by the Granddaughters club, will be sold on the campus this week. They may be bought for 15 cents from Granddaughters in the individual dormitories.

This year's directories will contain the name, home address, dress, dormitory address, and box number of all students and administration. All girls whose mothers attended GSCW will have an asterisk by her name. The directories will be brown with black printing.

Ga. College Debate Teams Meet at GSC

Convening in Milledgeville today are representatives from various Georgia colleges who will participate in the Georgia Debate forum which is held at GSCW each year.

Among those schools which are represented are: Georgia Tech, Piedmont College at Decatur, Emory at Oxford, Atlanta Junior College, Mercer University, Agnes Scott and North Georgia College. Each of these schools will provide one or two teams which will debate on the subject "Resolved: that freedom of speech and press should be curtailed during the present emergency."

Representing GSCW in the forum are Dot Miller and Betty Park, who are debating affirmative, and Annie Louise Johnson and Elizabeth Reddick, who are debating the negative side of the question.

Schedule of the day includes: registration at 10:30 at the Music building, a round of debates before lunch, lunch in Beeson Recreation hall, debates throughout the afternoon in the Music building, a banquet at 6:30 in Ennis Coffee shop, and an informal dance in Sanford Recreation hall this evening.

In charge of the lunch are Dot Miller and Dot Hall, Chairman of the banquet committee is Anne Bridges, assisted by Anne Tinsley and Noah Lee Boatwright.

A special Christmas edition of THE COLONNADE will be published Saturday, December 13. This will be the last issue for the fall quarter.

St Louis Scene College Press Convention

Among the 500 students representing 34 states who attended the Associated Press convention in St. Louis, Missouri were Lucia Rooney, editor of the Colonnade, and Jessie Marie Brewton, editor of the Spectrum. The meeting was held November 20-22.

Thursday afternoon some of the delegates attended the Washington University — Missouri School of Mines football game, while others explored the expansive plants of the Globe Democrat, Port Dispatch, and Star Times.

The first official gathering of the delegates took place in the Statler roof ballroom. Fred Kilow, director of the Associated Press was chairman. "Newspapers—Past and Present," was the subject of the opening address by Munro Roberts, executive secretary of the St. Louis Newspaper Publisher's association.

Friday morning the representatives attended short courses in their various fields. W. E. Morris, junior director of publications, University at Tulsa, was chairman of the newspaper program. R. R. Mayslesden, National Scholastic Press association year book judge, directed the year book program. The magazine course was headed by Mitchell V. Chamley, School of Journalism, University of Minnesota. Sigmam Delta Chi, national journalism fraternity, was host at a luncheon Friday. An outstanding feature at the Friday night banquet was a talk by the Pulitzer prize-winning cartoonist, Fitzpatrick. Following this, Hal Havird's orchestra played at a dance.

Round table discussions and individual criticism clinics by faculty members Saturday morning ended the CPA convention.

Day Students Elect Willingham, Hargrove

Christine Willingham was elected president and Marie Hargrove, secretary, of the Town Girls, November 19. This election was held to fill the offices left vacant by the resignation of Elizabeth King, president, and Florence Finney, secretary. A constitution for the Day Students is being written.

State Colleges Loose Rating Fall 1942

Thursday afternoon GSCW was dropped from the roll of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Nine other units of the University System were taken from the accredited list on the recommendation of the Commission on Higher Education of the association.

The annual meeting of the accrediting group was held in Louisville, Kentucky this week before which representatives of the State Board of Regents and two students from the University of Georgia appeared to urge that the association be lenient in its action. The appeal was to no avail.

The schools were penalized for alleged "political interference" on the part of Governor Eugene Talmadge and certain members of the Board of Regents.

The association announced that the action will take effect in the fall of 1942. The colleges listed were: University of Georgia, Georgia Tech, Georgia State College for Women, Georgia State Woman's college, Georgia Teachers' college, Georgia Southwestern college, Middle Georgia college, South Georgia college, North Georgia college, West Georgia college.

Cotillion Gives Formal Ball in Gym Tonight

The Georgia Bulldogs will play for the formal card dance given by the Cotillion Club tonight from 8 to 12 o'clock in the gymnasium.

The Christmas theme will be carried out in the decorations. Blue and silver trees will be on either side of the orchestra. In contrast to these colors in the gym; the tearoom, where the members of the club and their dates will have coffee and sandwiches, will be decorated in red and green.

The Christmas seal sale of the National Tuberculosis association is now in progress. Buy these seals immediately to use on letters and packages.

Still This Year

The final explanation of the action of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools will be published in THE COLONNADE next week. At this time we can only say that 10 schools have been dropped by the association including GSCW.

During the past few months our student body cooperated with the other colleges of the state in an attempt to right the unjust wrong which we, the students, will suffer. We realized that steps worthy of criticism had been taken by the ruling body of the University System, but we had hoped to receive leniency from the accrediting group.

The action of the association will go into effect in the fall of 1942 which means that due credit will be received for this year's work.

Our school may lose many of its students next fall. It is hoped that they will not transfer before June. We still have this year to make a success. The future looks dark for our Alma Mater. Let's make 1941-42 the best of our 51 years. It is a turning point for the college, but may we have this year to remember as the best ever.

Reserve Books

The reserve room of the library is filled with books that must be used by a large group of students. The books are put on reserve due to the fact that few students would have access to them if they were checked out of the library.

These books serve the purpose of textbooks for many courses. They must be used during the whole year and the number bought in the fall is considered sufficient for all three quarters. In the past several of the books have been found missing. The library had not felt that a large enough number were lost to mention. This quarter, an unusually large number of the books are missing.

If one book is taken from the room, another girl may be kept from reading assignments that day. Everyone is given equal opportunity to study in the room. The social science and health courses require reference reading nearly every day. If the references are too much to read at one time, the student should return to the library later.

The library has, of course, no means of finding the missing books this fall. They are needed by the other students before examinations, and will be needed next quarter. If any student has a book belonging to the reserve room, it is certainly her responsibility to return it immediately.

Could Sign Help?

DO NOT DISTURB, were the words written on signs hung on dormitory doors last year. These signs were intended to be used by students when they wished to study in their own rooms without interruption. The signs were a good idea, but they were ignored.

During the discussions on scholarship held about the campus recently, the fact was brought forward that there were few places on the campus to study. It was said that the dormitory rooms were gathering places for several students, but could not be used for study.

The freshmen have study halls at night and the upper classmen decide on their own behavior as to study halls or not. Most of the dormitories are supposed to observe quiet periods between 8 and 10:30 p.m. This does not insure a student though that she will not be interrupted several times during the evening. The library is open for study during the day, but that is the only place where one can concentrate.

It is believed by many students that if the DO NOT DISTURB signs were used again this year, the scholarship of the campus would improve. That does not mean that the signs could be hung outside the door all the time; it means they would be used only when actual solitude is wanted. If the signs are used again, it should be a dormitory offense to disregard them. They should be observed in the strictest manner.

We're In the Army Now

Company 4
62nd Infantry,
Camp Forrest, Tenn.

Dear Sis:

I am very enthusiastic about army camp life. We live around in bed every morning until five o'clock. This, of course, gives us plenty of time to get washed, shaved, dressed, make our bunks, etc., by 5:10. By 5:15 we stand outside and shiver awhile until someone blows the bugle. After we are reasonably chilled, we grope our way through the darkness to the mess hall. Here we have plenty of breakfast consisting of an unidentified liquid and a choice of white rye crusts.

After gorging ourselves with this delicious repast, we waddle our way back to the barracks. We have nothing to do until 7:30, so we just sit around and mop floors, wash windows, and pick up all the cigarette butts and match sticks within a radius of 150 feet of our barracks.

Soon the sergeant comes in and says, "Come out in the sunshine, kids," so we go out and bask in the wonderful sunlight. Of course we stand six inches in mud. To lumber up, we do a few simple calisthenics, like touching your toes with both feet off the toes with both feet off the toes.

Gadabout

By BLANCHE LAYTON

Well, here we are back at the old grind again! One more Thanksgiving is over (wish there were about two more before Christmas), and what do we have to look forward to now? Personally, I think it's those little quizzes that everyone loves, but somebody said it was Christmas plus the event of Santa's coming.

Another hit of the season! "Hedda Gabler" directed by Mr. Leucker starring Blanche Muldrow was up to the standards of all College Theatre production. Or maybe I should say it was past the standard, for every time they seem to get better.

Why did Lucy Davis get so embarrassed over the holidays when little Carnes walked in right after she had so violently declared she never dated?

The DAR Citizenship club met yesterday afternoon in Ennis Rec hall. They brought articles for a Christmas box.

The seniors are busy on their White Christmas program. Nellie Bond is in charge of the whole program this year.

The girls to know these days are the dietetics majors. They're making fruit cakes this week. And I'm sure no one girl can eat a twelve-pound fruit cake all by herself.

The education 343 class went right ahead with their own class in the absence of Dr. Little this week. Are teachers really necessary?

The Alpha Psi Omega members gave a supper to the "Hedda Gabler" cast on Thursday evening.

The World This Week

This column is written each week by a member of the Internal Relations club on the campus.

RUSSIA—The vicious struggle for Moscow, capital and symbol of the Russian cause, is being continued by Hitler and the Nazi forces. The Russians and the Allies admit that Moscow is in grave danger, as the Germans, clothed and equipped for a winter campaign, have broken into the city's outer defenses. However the Russians are still putting up a good fight. There is no lack of Russian man power. It is a question of equipment, and we are endeavoring to meet this need as quickly and effectively as possible.

We are tremendously interested in the Russian campaign, because as long as Russia fights as she does, there will probably be no Nazi drive through the Middle East. Every Nazi plane the Russians keep busy is a plane which is not being used against the British.

Economically and industrially, the Moscow area is vastly important, as it is here that most of the aircraft frame and engine plants are located. Moscow is chiefly important because it is the nexus of the entire European railroad system, and this of course, controls to a large extent the distribution of supplies. Psychologically, Moscow is a symbol to the Russians of their faith, their doctrines, the Red Army, and their country. Moscow is a real prize. The Russians will fight bitterly and furiously to prevent its capture. We may also expect the Germans to redouble their efforts. There is an important element here. As long as the Russians can hold out against the Germans, the United States can send more supplies and help them hold this strategic military point.

AFRICA—The British are trying to lock another door in the desert, and attention is centered around the fighting in North Africa. The British and New Zealand forces have pushed the Axis infantry east and west and widened the British-held Corridor between Tobruk and Rezegh. The British forces have moved northward from areas along the Egyptian-Libyan frontier and have been reported successful in their operations against the Germans. The British have reached the Gulf of Sidra and cut off the Axis to the west in Libya. The Royal Air Forces have been active in this fight. It has been indicated by British sources that the Axis resistance is crumbling, and that the final phases of this struggle might be near. This would leave the British in control of this battle area.

PAPER FOR DEFENSE — In our everyday consumption of paper, it is hard to realize that we are faced with a paper shortage, which will cut into our magazines, reading matter and Christmas cards.

Muldrow Stars in Ibsen Play Presented By College Theatre

By LILYAN MIDDLEBROOKS

Ibsen's Victorian play attained new heights last night as Blanche Muldrow left 1500 speechless. The play directed by Leo Luecker was presented in Russell auditorium by the College Theatre.

Never had a College Theatre play captivated an audience so completely as when Blanche Muldrow portrayed Hedda, the selfish dominating creature, in such a charming manner. She did a professional job with her poised yet daring movements.

Deering Nash was seen for the first time out of his romantic role, yet he lived his new character, of the quiet ambitious professor, with the same naturalness he always displays.

Anne Bridges modestly gained your attention and sold herself completely. William Hope, Elliott Louborg, inspired by Mrs. Elvira, Anne Bridges, successfully portrays the recent scientific author.

Robert Black, a cunning judge, neatly played the part of Dorothy Jang Eley did a grand bit of acting as pleasant looking Aunt Julia. Mary Brewton, the only freshmen really supported her class. All eyes are searching for more freshmen talent of this type.

The set's harmonizing colors and certain artistic touch were created by Miss Edna West and the various crews.

Supervisors Attend Home Ec Meeting

Under the supervision of the home economics department, a conference of apprentice teachers and their supervisors was held December 4, 5 and 6.

The program was based on discussions of the many possibilities for observation of teaching methods and problems in child guidance, school lunches, family food, dress designs, rural school problems, and nutrition.

Thursday afternoon from 2:30 to 4:30, Mrs. Grace Sloan Overton led a discussion on sex education and marriage problems for the secondary level. An exhibit of teaching materials was held from 2:00 to 4:00. Friday day afternoon, afterwards the student teachers had a picnic lunch at Lake Laurel for the supervisory teachers, department faculty, and home economics students. Dr. Gertrude Manchester and Miss Grace Potts were in charge of the recreation.

CHRISTMAS SEALS

Saddle Oxford Compares Lowly Sell to Humans

By GINGER SNAPS

I am the lowly yet popular Saddle Oxford—lowly because I set at times, I stomp the floor on the ground, and pop up because seven out of eleven of my pleasant emotional conduct students wear me. I am giving you a story about myself because I am much like you human beings and because I want people to know more about "the greatest shoe on earth."

Physically, I am tough, brown and white, I have eyes and a long tongue, just as you have. In size and age, I vary.

Spiritually, I am not very religious. Why heavens, I never go to church; but I think my attendance at Y meetings, and Confidentially, I am just a shoe. But isn't it fine that you, the student, and I, the Saddle Oxford, have so much in common?

Cronin Portrays Priest in "The Keys of the Kingdom"

By DOROTHY MILLER

THE KEYS OF THE KINGDOM, the first book in four years by the eminent English author, A. J. Cronin, lives on to the high standards we have been led to expect from his previous works.

THE KEYS OF THE KINGDOM is the story of Father Chisholm, a valiant, humble yet fiery Scotch priest. His life which seemed to many a failure is "a magnificent story of the great adventure of individual goodness." From his tragic boyhood in Scotland to his days in China where he overcame obstacles which have defeated men before him is a living example of that life which all of us seek but few attain.

The characters are excellently portrayed and in some instances in his boyhood the touching character studies of Dickens are vividly brought to mind.

THE KEYS OF THE KINGDOM is a must for all readers and still after several months stands first on the list of best-sellers. It is a novel that will stamp itself forever upon your memory.

1. Students will do well to remember that examinations offer a challenge to the students. They serve very definite purposes in our college work. They are planned to help students by giving an outline required information for the courses.

2. Remember that faculty members want students to do well on the examinations. A good mark on a course is a feather in the cap of the instructor as well as the student.

3. You can't afford to do less than your very best on the examinations. Take them seriously.

4. There is nothing about an examination to frighten you.

5. Even if you should happen to make a low grade, it isn't a life and death matter. It will just show you where you need to work most next time.

6. Those who have done the best they can in preparation, need have no fear of the exams.

Preparing for Examinations:
1. The best preparation for examinations is the doing of consistent good work day by day during the course. (It is too late for that now, if you missed out.)

2. When you review, take time to do it thoroughly. Don't wait until the night before the exam, have some system to your review. Don't rely on haphazard cramming.

a. Pick out the important parts of the course and reread them.

b. Rearrange your notes in some good order.

c. Try to think what questions the teacher might ask and look up answer to them.

d. Check the table of contents of your text to see if you have a good general idea about all chapters.

e. Make a general outline for the course.

f. Check over important dates or facts.

g. With one of your classmates, make out a list of possible questions and then answer them orally or written. Be sure that you definitely answer the questions.

What Type Gum Chewer Are You? One of These?

ground, and grabbing yourself by the hair and holding yourself out at arm's length.

At eight o'clock, we put on a light pack and start walking to the mountains. The light pack is not to be confused with the heavy pack. The light pack includes a gun, bayonet, canteen, mess kit, coat, cartridge belt, first aid kit, pup tent, stakes, tent poles, rope and a few other negligible items. The heavy pack has a blanket or two in it. Carrying my pack, I weigh 237 lbs. I weighed 140 lbs. without the pack, so you see how easy and agreeable it is to romp and play in the mountains.

An observation car follows us as we climb the mountains and picks up the fellows who faint. The boys who fall out in the mountain climbing are treated very well. They give them 6 months in the guard house, but they do not have to face court martial. At 12:00 o'clock, those who can, limp to the infirmary. At the infirmary patients are divided into two classes: (1) Those who have got athlete's foot, and (2) those who have colds. If you have athlete's foot, you get your feet swabbed with iodine. If you have a cold, you get your throat swabbed with iodine. Anyone who claims he has neither a cold or athlete's foot is sent to the guard house for impersonating an officer.

I am very popular at the infirmary. I told them I have both a cold and athlete's foot. What I really have is gastric ulcers, but I know when to keep my mouth shut.

Well, that's all I have time to write tonight. I got to rush to the mess hall—we're having hominy tonight. OH BOY!!

I'll be looking for you,
JOHN.

The second involves verticle motion. This type is most frequently found on street cars and at ball games, and is slightly more noticeable than the horizontal method. It often results in benches, etc. breaking out in something closely resembling chicken pox. To master this method simply involves the movement of the jaws up and down with a march-like frequency with a wiggle of the nose and a click of the teeth on the off-beat. It is extremely good exercise for the mouth because each movement of the jaws completely displays the tonsils.

The third involves rotary motion. It is generally indulged in only in the most solitary places, but occasionally an excellent example may be found in the darkened recesses of theaters. This method is slightly difficult to perfect because it is necessary for the tongue and jaws to rotate completely within a surprisingly short time.

The fourth, and last, method is a combination of the three preceding methods in Conga rhythm. It is very popular because of the range it offers or individual expression. The jaws go up, around and together. Meanwhile the tongue juncures the gum, causing an explosion. The whole process results in something like—up, around, together POP! up, around, together, POP! This method is spreading on dance floors, in jam sessions, at lectures, in fact, at all public gatherings, all over the country.

Chewing gum has not only become a national pastime comparable to the World Series and bowl games, but it has evolved into an American institution. In no other nation on earth is it possible to make a fortune by peddling five cent packages of minute pieces of sweetened bark. Dignity alone is needed to make it a national characteristic. Perfection of these four methods of chewing and elimination of their pathological aspects, such as the strange chicken-pox-disease, should add true dignity and refinement to Americas snack-time.

A La Mode

By BLANCHET LAYTON

Do you like anything, just anything that is plaid? Plaids bright dark, or dull are fine for the fall.

Did you notice Elizabeth Whiddon's good looking plaid suit as she lead the devotional exercises in assembly some few days ago? Well, she, Audrey Forehand and Marguerite Bassett look like triplets when they're dressed in their suits, beside all of the suits are of a handsome dark blue plaid.

Jean Tatum was sporting a light blue and yellow plaid skirt at Cotillion meeting on Wednesday. The yellow was accented by a bright yellow long sleeved sweater.

Beth Nelson enjoyed a coke with a light copper short-sleeved silk shirt.

Toni Marsengill looked very good in a pastel plaid box coat with light blue and yellow dominating.

Catherine Leroy was wearing a light yellow shirt with her red, navy and yellow plaid.

Betty Giles was walking downtown in a plaid skirt of yellow, orange and brown. A yellow cardigan with it looked very stunning.

Marion Ward went to get her mail in a black and red plaid skirt topped with a red long-sleeved jersey blouse.

Oh, there are thousands of them. They are favorites of college girls.

NYA News

By SARAH SARRETTE

At dinner at the Moore house Wednesday night, Mrs. C. B. McCullar and Miss Clara Morris of the home economics department were guests of the girls and Mrs. Oral Taylor.

Edna Raley and Beryl Brown, former home assistants at Moore house have been transferred to other houses so they may get experience to be assistants there after Christmas. Edna Raley has gone to Lasseter hall, and Beryl Brown has gone to Town house.

Marilyn Muse, of Moore House is in the hospital in Atlanta, where she has undergone an operation.

All the house mothers and members of the NYA faculty spent two days in Atlanta last week where they attended an NYA conference.

Miss Elizabeth Copeland, business manager, Mrs. Louise Brunside, ceramics teacher, and Miss Mary Davis, area youth personnel officer visited relatives in Norfolk, Virginia during the Thanksgiving holidays.

Dr. Joe Jacob, project director, gave a party Saturday night for the girls who remained on the project during the holidays.

BY MARGARET WILSON TOURNAMENT POSTPONED Horseback Riding Offered Next Quarter

The department of physical education wishes to announce that horseback riding will be offered winter quarter as one of the activities of both the required and voluntary program.

Mrs. Ruth Taylor, who has been the instructor here in the past, will take personal charge of all classes.

Freshmen and sophomores may select horseback riding to meet their winter physical education requirement.

Fee for class instruction will be $15.00 for 18 lessons. Classes will meet twice a week for a full hour, and will be offered at convenient morning and afternoon periods.

Single riding lessons and other arrangements may be made under the direction of Mrs. Taylor.

Registration for horseback riding will take place in the gymnasium along with the other classes on Tuesday, January 6, 8:30 to 12:30, and 2:10 to 4:30.

Three members of the original freshman class of Queens college that was graduated in June have returned to the campus as members of the faculty.

The average first-year college girl spends $108 for room decorations and $120 for clothes, a check-up indicated.

That is the appeal being made by two enterprising Brown university students who are setting up a book-returning service for a price, of course.

The entrepreneurs, Vincent J. Luca and William P. Saunders, figure that many students would rather pay a nickel to be sure their books are returned on time than pay the library's fine of 10 cents for every 15 minutes that a reserve book is overdue.

With an average of 450 reserve books on overnight loan during the week, at the Providence, R. I., school, Luca and Saunders can make a maximum of $2.50 a week.

mas wrapping. The Army needs our paper (not that the Army has taken to shooting spitballs), but paper is used to make shell containers, and also tons of paste-board boxes are used for containers for supplies sent to the camps.

The giant paper corporations in our country are operating to near full capacity, meeting the need of the Army, but they are faced with a shortage of raw materials. The two prime raw materials for paper are 90 per cent wastepaper and 10 per cent wood pulp. Some of our foreign sources for wood pulp have been cut off, and a great deal of our own wood pulp is used for wartime explosives and rayon production. So we must conserve the other raw material—wastepaper. This waste paper is graded and sorted, then baled for use in making new paper or pasteboard.

Our National Office of Production Management has urged retailers and the general public to economize in gift wrapping this Christmas, because the supply of paper will be short. We on this campus can cooperate by using our paper conservatively. Only in this way can civilian need for paper be adequately met. Some organized method of collecting our waste paper will probably be started, as this can

Elementary Education Club Meets

Miss Mildred English spoke on her recent trip to Chicago, and the National Council of English Teachers held in Atlanta, at the third meeting of the Elementary Education club.

Christmas materials to be used in the elementary grades were exhibited by Grace Sasser, committee chairman. Lennie Parker, social chairman, served from a table decorated to carry out the Yuletide idea.

The purpose of this club is to aid all those interested in learning about children in the classroom. Club meetings are held the first Monday in every month in Peabody Elementary school at 7:15.

Summer school reviews and a study of flower arrangements have been the past programs. In the future the club plans to hear a report on the National ACE meeting held in Oakland, Calif., this past summer; talks from teachers who visited Mexico during the summer; a meeting about the use of musical instruments for children; a style show; an interview with a superintendent; and a laboratory meeting demonstrating the use of puppets, pictures and pottery.

The officers of the club are: Elizabeth Zeigler, president; Clara Mae West, vice-president; Dot Joiner, secretary; and Rose Ann Chaplin, treasurer.

Miss Mildred English is sponsor for the club.

Nineteen newspapers from 12 Latin-American countries are received regularly by the University of Texas library.

George Haslam Speaks At Joint IRC Meet

Mr. George Haslam of the GSCW faculty spoke at the joint meeting of the GMC and GSCW International Relations club held November 20 at Miss Helen Green's apartment.

Mr. Haslam discussed conditions of censorship in European countries, especially the ridiculous regulations existing in France, Russia and England. The club then held an open forum with members taking part.

"Catalogus," by Bishop John Bale, a rare volume published in 1557, has been acquired by Ohio State university's department of English library.

Mrs. Fern Dorris entertained the Geography club Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at her home on Columbia street. Refreshments were served, after which the group dressed pencils with paper napkins into dolls. These, with fruit collected by the members, will be given to the Negro Nursery school of Milledgeville.

The tradition of homecoming was started at the University of Illinois in May, 1910.
