THE COLONNADE

Vol. XXLI

Georgia State College for Women, Milledgeville, Georgia, February 17, 1956

Special Edition

Emily Kimbrough Charmed Group

Miss Emily Kimbrough spoke to a full house on the subject of "Ships and Shores" on February 11 in Russell Auditorium, and her talk was punctuated by bursts of laughter and appreciation from the audience. Only she could become involved in and relate so hilariously the events of travel. She not only offered comedy, but she seriously urged the senior guests to study modern languages and to study them well. "Not only must you learn to read and write the language, but also learn to speak it with some degree of fluency," she advised the girls.

As Dr. Rosalie Walston so aptly described it in her introduction, Miss Kimbrough never seems to have less than two things to do at one time. So when she was going to have a baby, she had twin girls.

Miss Kimbrough is not only noted for her lecturing, but for her writing, radio commentaries, and fashion editing. Her name has long been known and her lectures are at the height of popularity. She has attended Bryn Mawr and the Sorbonne. She and Cornelia Otis Skinner collaborated on "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay", which was not only successful as a book, but later became a popular play and then a movie. She has since written many successful books on her own, the latest of which is the humorous story of a trip to New Orleans and the bayou country of Louisiana entitled "So Near and Yet So Far". The book before this was the best-seller, "Forty Plus and Fancy Free".

Seemingly, Miss Kimbrough has a genius for the extraordinary in her travels and even in her daily life. She mentioned that it was easy to answer the inquiries as to the validity of her experiences, but it was more difficult to explain the whys and wherefores.

Miss Kimbrough does most of her traveling with some of her college friends, who are still constantly amazed by her magnet-like attraction for novel events. By this time, however, they are able to accept the situations. Miss Kimbrough illustrated her affinity for the bizarre by telling how a Christmas gift for her nephew turned out to be as much of a surprise to her as it was to him.

MISS KIMBROUGH

In all likelihood, her flair for the dramatic, the unique, and the humorous situation arises from her enthusiastic reception of life. Her vivacity, wit and charm have captured the hearts of people everywhere, just as they did on the GSCW campus.

Saturday Morning Concert Featured A Cappella Choir

The A Cappella Choir concert Saturday morning was judged one of the best programs on the agenda.

The first number was the processional, "The Lord is our Fortress", by Brahms. This is always impressive as the long lines of robed girls process down the aisles. "Ave Maria", by Holst, is the first eight-part number the choir has sung. The group is divided into two choirs, with four parts in each choir. At the conclusion of "Ave Maria", there was complete silence for a few seconds, which was more meaningful than any applause could have been. The closing number of the first group has been the choir theme song for twenty years, "Adoramus Te", by Palestrina.

Jane Elrod, choir president and director of the ensemble, gave a piano solo and led the Choir Ensemble in two numbers.

The last group began with a medley of ten Victor Herbert songs. This number is a favorite with the choir and seemed to be with the audience also. Mary Alice Summerlin really stole the show with her "preaching" of "There's a Meetin' Here Tonight". After her exhortations, accompanied by the chorus of fifty girls, her "congregation" was ready to come to the meetin'. The encore was a very modern number, "Moon Marketing".

This half-hour of music was necessarily, only a small sample of the full choir concert. The concert that will be presented when the choir begins its long week-end tour of Georgia on Friday, February 17, will contain a group of heavy numbers like "Ave Maria", a group of lighter numbers including the Victor Herbert selections, and a completely different group of Christmas Carols written in old English. This concert on Saturday morning was actually the third public appearance for the choir this year. The director and choir were pleased with this performance, but after several more concerts, there will be an even greater degree of co-operation and achievement of blending and intonation for which the choir is noted.

Art Department Shows Works of Students

By Cecilia Stevens

For the purpose of introducing the visiting students at the High School Guest Assembly to the types of work done in the art department, the members of this department presented an exhibition of student work.

Shown in the exhibition was work from all the main courses, which are taught by Miss Mamie Padgett, head of the department, Dr. George Beiswanger, and Mrs. Aubrey Jones. This work included paintings - including several water colors, drawings, sketches, crafts of various sorts, mobiles, and pottery. The ceramics were of original designs.

In the foyer of the gallery, the visitors viewed the newest addition to GSCW's art collection. This painting, "Coastal Creepers," was presented to GSCW during the Christmas holidays by its artist, Mr. Alfred Holbrook, of Athens. This oil painting portrays animals on the coast.

Club Presents Tumbling Act

By Mickey Young

One of the fine points of the Play Day presented in honor of the High School Seniors February 11, 1956, was the well planned and well executed Tumbling Demonstration. The entire program was done to the beat of a drum and the members were divided into two teams. One team did a stunt and the other team answered with a more difficult one. As the program progressed, the performance became more and more difficult.

In the opening minutes of the demonstration, the club did forward rolls, double rolls, handstand rolls, back springs and knee shoulder springs. The stunts were divided among the performers and each person had a part on the program.

One pyramid that was very impressive consisted of 15 girls. Four were on their hands and knees; four had their feet on the shoulders of four more girls and their hands in the small of the backs of the girls on the floor. In the center of the pyramid two performers were holding up another. The entire formation went around in a circle which added to the geometric form of the pyramid.

Some of the outstanding features of the demonstration were exhibited in the Fish Flops, Chest Rolls, Dives over Pyramids and Dives for distance. The dives for distance started out with one and built up to 7. There were only four members who attempted to dive over 7 girls and they were all successful. The onlookers gave a big round of applause which the club had really earned.

As a climax to the demonstration, a pyramid was formed and was held for the count of ten and then all fell in a "squash." This is very hard to do so as no one will get hurt. These performers were excellent and they earned the applause they had received.

Sam Donahue of the Billy May Orchestra will play at the GSCW campus wide dance on April 14 at 8:00 p.m.

Original Dances

Clubs Present Recital

The Modern Dance Clubs presented a program in Russel Auditorium at 8:00 p.m. on Friday, February 10, as one of the featured events of the Georgia Guest Assembly.

The program was a group of original dances, composed by the Junior and Senior Dance Clubs under the direction of Barbara Page Bieswanger.

The program opened with "Invitation to the Dance" choreographed by seven members of the Senior Dance Club. A cordial salute was made to the audience to participate in the pleasures of moving gaily to the music of Emily Waldteufel.

The second dance was entitled "I Remember", and was a comment of the formality and the pomp and

Seniors Viewed GSCW Campus

Participation in Events Inaugrated In Program

By Mary Lott Walker

Four-hundred and thirty-three high school seniors from different sections of Georgia visited the GSCW campus the week-end of February 10-12, for the Georgia Girls Guest Assembly.

As the girls began arriving on Friday morning, February 10, some of the college students were on hand to greet them. The college students registered and escorted them to the rooms where they spent the week-end. A most delightful program was planned for the entertainment of these girls.

In order to acquaint the girls with the academic life of the college they attended various classes on Friday morning. Also, that afternoon they visited the faculty members in their offices.

Dr. Henry Stanford, President of GSCW, and Jo Strickland, President of CGA, greeted the girls in Russell Auditorium on Friday afternoon. Immediately following the opening, the students journeyed to Davenport field to see the GMC Battalion Review.

Friday evening, students attended the Modern Dance Recital, which was given by the Senior and Junior Dance Clubs.

Each dormitory had a pajama party on Friday night at which refreshments were served, and both college and high school talent was exhibited. Following the party, dormitory taps were led by the members of YWCA.

On Saturday morning, the girls went to a reception at the old Governor's Mansion where they met various faculty members. Then they heard the A Cappella Choir Concert in Russell Auditorium. After the choir's rendition, Dr. Sanford gave a talk on "So You're Going to College."

Squad Teams Drilled Friday

High school seniors visiting the GSCW campus had the opportunity to view Friday afternoon the crack drill team of GMC despite the rain.

For years now GMC has had a crack drill team. This team is made up of a group of boys from GMC who engage in fancy drill. The term "fancy drill" can mean almost any kind of step executed in almost any kind of manner but which ends up being pleasing to the eyes. Fancy drill is often called "monkey drill," and is often done in quick double time as well as in regular movements.

In the past years, the crack drill team has performed at many veterans organizations, football games and other outdoor gatherings.

On Saturday afternoon, the girls went to Play Day in the College Gymnasium. The entertainment was sponsored by the "Rec" Association.

The week-end was brought to a climax by Miss Emily Kimbrough, a famous lecturer, who spoke in Russell Auditorium on Saturday night, and the girls left for home all during Sunday.

The girls were acquainted with the different phases of life that GSCW affords. They received a glimpse of the academic, intellectual, cultural, spiritual, and the recreational opportunities afforded by GSCW.

Mansion Holds "Open House"

"Open House" was held at the mansion Saturday morning from 9:00 o'clock to 11:00 o'clock. This was a special feature on the "High School Guest Assembly" program.

The visitors were greeted at the door by Dr. and Mrs. Stanford and other members of the GSCW faculty. Then after each guest had been introduced to the President, they were taken on a tour of the mansion. Members of the student body and faculty served as hostesses.

The concluding dance in this section entitled "Three Cheers," a sparkling bit of competition at any basketball game, was presented by six members of the Junior Club.

The entire second part of the program was the premier dance of a libretto entitled "Gone With the Wind." Mrs. John Kidd wrote the libretto especially for this program. She played the role of interlocutor, presenting excerpts from her libretto to set the tone for various episodes of the dance drama.

The president of the Senior Dance Club, Angelyn Ammis, danced Scarlett as the highlight to her four years of membership in the dance club. The role of Rhett was danced by Karma Knell, Sherry Home portrayed Melanie, and Ashley was danced by Luanne Harden. Myra Brown, Virginia Watts, and Betty Jane Williams portrayed the roles of the three children. The three sisters were portrayed by Nan Davis, Betty Martin, and Peggy Morgan. The twins were Frances Hill and Susan Jones; a friend, Mary Louise Burke. The role of the mother was danced by Rebecca Garbutt.

Shirley Morris and Ann Blakely of Macon watch Miss Kimbrough autograph "So Near and Yet So Far" while Carol Fuller GSCW awaits her turn.

Seniors Give Opinions Of College Campus Life

By Gus Williams, Martha Thomas and Jo McCommons

Now that the long-awaited weekend has come to a close, some interesting comments from the guests have come to light. All visitors to a college campus have opinions about the school, and the recent guests seem to have formed quite a few. Most seniors were favorably impressed with GSCW; some had not formed opinions, and some changed their minds quite a few times.

Tempie Hill, from Reynolds, Ga. asked, "When do the girls have time to study? If all weekends were like this last one, none would have time to study." But, due to the fact that high school weekend comes but once a year, there is ample time for study.

Susan Young from Reynolds, Ga. didn't like it at first, but now that she's seen what college life is like, she likes it a lot. Frances Wilson from Athens, Ga., thinks she would like to come back next year. Ebbie White from Lyerly, Ga. said, "I was just plain lost at first, but now that I've seen GSCW, I like it a lot." Bloudean Bullington from Augusta, Ga. thinks this is the kind of school any girl would like to attend. Kay Chitty from St. Simons Island, Ga., felt at home after the first five minutes here. Jane Thornton wasn't too impressed at first, but after being here awhile she likes it fine. Janice Oliver and Joan Breitlow from Jonesboro, Ga., both thought GSCW was a very friendly place and they decided that they really liked it.

Barbara Jean White from Hartwell, Georgia, who is interested in a medical record and library science major commented: "My impression was that you do get personal attention here. I like the routine, as in the dining hall. The girls are very friendly."

Kay Lunceford, Metter: "I like the new science building. I really looked it over, too. The food impressed me. I like to eat, and it was delicious! I like that code system the seniors have. People will try so much harder to do right when they are on their own."

It seemed as though quite a few sisters of former Jessies came down for the weekend. Among them was Earlene Payne, who attends Wrightsville High. Earlene named among her chief interests such things as basketball (she plays on her high school team), dancing, skating, music, and, of course, boys. But in the matter of school work, her interests run along the lines of business, in which she plans to major when she enters college. In answer to questions about the week-end agenda, Earlene said that her favorite part was the A Cappella program, although she thought it was all "just grand." Earlene was favorably impressed with Jessie in general and with the friendliness of the students in particular.

Liz Farlow of College Park High School was interviewed next. Acting, tumbling and swimming claim most of her spare time, but her real ambition is to be a nurse, and toward this goal she will point her college work. Liz stated that the whole weekend was so nice that it was hard to say which she liked best, but finally decided on the Modern Dance Recital.

Betsy Oltman of St. Simon's Island and Glynn Academy was the next visitor who stopped to talk. Betsy is a future Home Economics Major with a decided interest in swimming. She said that she had enjoyed the whole weekend, especially Modern Dance, with the exception of that confusing business of registration. The only things she disliked about the school were the facts that freshmen can't have cars, and the S.U. isn't open Saturday afternoon and night.

Grace Lanier, a guest from Milen who attends Jenkins County High, stopped to talk. Her interests run along the lines of sports, dancing, and art. Grace was a little undecided as to her prospective major; but as of now, it is between interior decorating and business. The Modern Dance and A Cappella recitals made the biggest "hit" with Grace. The campus, convenience of buildings, and friendliness of faculty and students were the things that pleased her most about the school.

Stopping for a minute between play day demonstrations, Clarie Myers of Warrenton High, expressed an interest in art, basketball, and photography; and an ambition to major in art. Of everything on the weekend program, the Modern Dance Recital caught her eye the most, and the friendliness of the students made her feel right at home.

A set of twins appeared, with the names of Gail and Gwen Clark, both from Alamo, and both attending Willie County High. But I was wrong, they were actually no relation. Both showed a liking for basketball, the A Cappella program, and the friendliness of the Jessies; but Gail is planning on a major in Home Economics and Gwen in Elementary Education.

Next victim was Carolyn Baugus from Tennile High. Her interests run along the lines of art, so naturally she is planning on an art major, and she was very favorably impressed by our art department. In her opinion, the Modern Dance and A Cappella programs, along with the tumbling and penguin demonstrations, were the most appealing on the agenda. Coincidentally, Carolyn was covering high school weekend for her school paper.
