Student Senate

Passes Resolution and Hears CGA President's Opening Address

At the first meeting of the Student Senate for Winter Quarter, Jan. 6, two Senate Resolutions were passed, both unanimously. Resolution No. 6, to establish the Society for Campus Concern, was presented by Senator Donna Fulford as the chairman of the Student Activities Committee, to which the resolution had been referred for study at the last meeting of Fall Quarter.

Senate Resolution No. 8, was also passed unanimously. President Mary Jane Hunt, because all discussion was calm and unformidable, said, "this is going so smoothly it scares me!"

At its second meeting of the Winter Quarter, on Jan. 13, Senate Bill No. 4, to establish the cabinet of the president of CGA, was presented by Senator Fran Tuck in the absence of Senator Debbie Cook. After no discussion was brought forth, the bill was passed unanimously.

Senate Bill No. 5 to establish the Department of the Attorney General, was read by Senator Susan Jackson. As a lively discussion led by Harvel Boyer, Ralph Piro, Chipper Messer, and Lew Walton (who was given permission to address the Senate by President Mary Jane Hunt,) while David Pettigrew added comments evidently thought humorous by some members of the Senate, the newly-elected Senator from Ennis Dorm, Ken Gasgal, remarked that "all this arguing over trivia is ridiculous" and admonished the Senate to get busy. President Mary Jane Hunt finally ended the discussion and called for the vote, whereupon Senator Boyer, the spokesman for those opposed to the bill, Senator David Vinson and Senator Ken Johnson arose and left the meeting. The vote was taken and the bill was passed by a vote of 15-3. Senator Pettigrew then brought up the question of whether there was a quorum present, and President Hunt referred the question as to the validity of the vote to Parliamentarian Lamar Fields, who said that there was a quorum present and the vote was valid. This remark evinced applause from one non-Senator student who attended the meeting.

Senator Phil Spivey of the Rules Committee, read a proposed bill providing for the receiving by the Senators of copies of all bills and resolutions at least one day before the Senate meeting, in order to allow the Senators to acquaint themselves with the bill or resolution before coming to the meeting, and therefore to speed up action in the Senate. Action on this bill was tabled.

As this point in the meeting, CGA president Gail Presley addressed the Senate for her quarterly report on the state of

Miss Aurora Ball to Honor Beauty Queen

January 24, the Miss Aurora Ball will be held in the Georgia College Gymnasium. The "Midnight Cowboys," a fifteen piece dance band will provide the entertainment and the dance will be highlighted by the crowning of Miss Aurora.

The candidates for the Miss Aurora Court are chosen by popular vote of the classes. Each class has two representatives to the court, with the exception of the senior class, which has three. The queen is chosen from the three senior candidates by popular vote of the senior class.

The candidates for the 1970 Miss Aurora Court are: from the senior class Ellen Bryant, Cheryl Clark, and Mary Jane Hunt; from the junior class Cynthia Floyd, and Susan Gehrken; from the sophomore class Tricia Estes, and Linda Thurmond; and from the freshman class Nancy Morgan, and Anne Smith.

The Ball is semi-formal or formal and price of admission is $1.25 per person. Tickets for the dance will go on sale Monday, January 19, in the SU and may also be bought at the door. The dance will be held from 8:30 p.m. through the reception held after the dance in honor of the new Miss Aurora and her court.

The Miss Aurora Ball is sponsored by the senior and junior classes. General Chairmen are Kathy Crowe and Brenda Armstrong and Publicity Chairmen are Linda Lawson and Judy Johnson. Nancy Castles and Betsy Etheridge are in charge of tickets. Decorations Chairmen are Diane Woodard and Pat Ellington and Refreshment Chairmen are Susan Stewart and Patty Queen.

Anyone wishing to work on any of these committees should contact the respective chairmen as soon as possible.

Butterscotch Monday to Entertain at das Kaffee Haus

There will be a dance Friday night at das Kaffee Haus, with entertainment provided by the Butterscotch Monday. Time is from 8:00 to 12:00 p.m. All guests must be accompanied by a GC student, and admission will be $1.00 each for students and their guests.

This premiere dance is being held to celebrate the remodeling and new addition to das Kaffe Haus, which more than doubled its size and improved serving facilities. If this dance proves a success, you can expect more to come from the big K.H.

Miss Georgia College Pageant Coming Up Soon

The annual Miss Georgia College Pageant will be held February 9 at 8:00 p.m. in Russell Auditorium. A group of singers under the direction of Richard Wall will provide musical entertainment on the night last year's queen, Colleen Taylor, will crown this year's loviest beauty.

Plans for the pageant are under the direction of a committee composed of Cynthia Floyd, Barbara Luiz, Louise Sparrow, Linda Thurmond, Richard Wall, and Diane Woodard.

The winner will attend the Miss Georgia Pageant in Columbus and vie for the state crown on June 8-14.

There will be judging in the areas of bathing suit, evening gown, and talent competition. The girls will attend a tea on the afternoon of the pageant, at which they will enjoy a brief personal interview with each of the five judges.

The girls entered in the contest are:

College Union One Step Closer

Dr. Alan Jones, Director of Institutional Research and Planning, has reported to the Colonnade that all bids have been submitted for the construction of the new College Union. The building can be built without any alterations, and evidently, onlookers will be able to see more progress in the near future than has been the case up to now.

Dr. Jones also said that bids will soon be submitted for the new dormitory, the planning of which is going directly on schedule.

SRO Given Official Senate Approval

The Student's Rights Organization, given official Student Senate approval on November 18, 1969 by a vote of 25-1, has elected a new slate of officers.

Four standing committees have been set up, including secretarial, finance, publicity, and research. The purpose of the research committee, headed by Jim Sneary, will to compose a file, to be made public to the student body, containing such information as copy of the school statutes, the Regents' Blue Book of the University system, the Georgia College constitution, the SRO constitution, all bills and resolutions that are passed by the Student Senate, minutes of all SRO meetings, and notes on all Student Senate meetings. It will also include a copy of the Declaration of Students' Rights, which is in the process of being drafted by a committee of seven students.

The purpose of the Students' Rights Organization is to advise and counsel students concerning the rights afforded them by virtue of their being citizens of the United States, the state of Georgia (or some other state), and Georgia College.

Suzie Baxter, publicity chairman, urges all students who are interested to attend the weekly meetings on Wednesdays at 6:00 in Lanier Hall.

The Colonnade

Editor In Chief

Georgia College

Associate Editor
Pat Ellington

By the Students and for the Students

by David M. Marcum, Editor-in-Chief

"The Colonnade is published weekly except during examinations and vacations BY THE STUDENTS OF GEORGIA COLLEGE AT MILLEDGEVILLE."

In these few words quoted from the Colonnade masthead lies the basic structure behind a college newspaper. The Colonnade is published BY and FOR you and the student and it cannot exist without your concern and support. This comes to the fact that a handful of college students cannot run a college newspaper alone. They must have your support, help and concern; support in the form of interested writers; help in the form of personnel and moral recognition; and concern in the future of your right to have some means to express yourself and be heard.

The Colonnade is an official tool of the students which can be used as a sounding board for students as well as a means of communication. Yet to serve as an effective sounding board for student expression and to inform the student about activities taking place on and about the campus, an enlargement of staff personnel is necessary.

With the campus growth steadily increasing many new factions and ideas are growing. Thsly to focus attention on these new factions and ideas it is logical that an increase of personnel is necessary. Not only would more students be able to express themselves but better communications would also result.

In hence, this brings us to our present situation. This handful of students presently enlisted on the Colonnade Staff cannot possibly operate a college newspaper as well as to hope to achieve the purpose of a college newspaper. Thusly only two solutions are at hand, to either increase the staff personnel or to discontinue the Colonnade temporary.

The choice is yours, it is up to you the student, to whom the Colonnade serves, to decide.

As editor-in-chief, I pray there are some of you who wish to render your services. For freedom of expression is your God given right and by choosing the latter you have forfeited a means to be heard.

I would like to extend my personal invitation to those of you who are interested in working on the Colonnade Staff to come to our next staff meeting Monday, January 19th at 6:00 p.m. in Mayfair Hall.

No prior experience is necessary, and the only requirement is a desire to work and to improve our college. Remember that the Colonnade can only be as good as its staff.

Campus In The Round

Everywhere I Wander

by Eugene Stevenson

A student newspaper is an integral part of the collegiate scene. Periodically Colonnade faces serious problems in terms of a lack of man power. This is one of those times and the answer to the many complaints against this publication does not lie in permitting it to go out of existence. Granted there are no journalism students per se at this institution, this has not prevented claims that Colonnade was a tool of the administration; that it was an expanded version of "THIRTY"; and that letters to the editor were published on a selective basis.

The answer is... instead of griping, join the staff and help put out the best Colonnade in the history of the College.

The neophyte Student Senate, having survived a stormy Fall quarter, is currently in the process of filling its depleted ranks. The decision to hold individual elections for the respective Dorm districts and another for the Off Campus district is indeed a puzzling one in view of the well known poor election turnout. The student body is entitled to have its Senators elected in a manner that precludes the type of back room politicking that created a definite amount of eyebrow raising in last Fall's Senate election. It is sincerely hoped that the Off Campus students will take an interest in this election. They represent 45 percent of the student population, and a check of the dues paid membership of the D.S.O. will likely reveal a minimal proportion of the total Day Student constituency.

Student Senators will get a look at Georgia College Statutes with revisions proposed by a committee of faculty and administration personnel, as well as revisions recommended by the College chapter of the American Association of University Professors. It is hoped that serious consideration will be given by the Senate to the local A.A.U.P. chapter's efforts not only as to revisions but, also in support of the establishment of the Committees outlined in sections G and H in Article IV of the Statutes.

President Bunting's statement relative to the volunteer tutorial service for students at Boddie High School appears elsewhere in this issue. Those students who last quarter pledged their help in this important community project can expect to be contacted very shortly. Watch for posted announcements of a general meeting for the purpose of setting up a schedule.

Memo to my secretary: please remove Dr. Jack Batson's name from the file captioned eligible bachelors. We hope the lovely young lady likes ice cream.

Community Service

By Dr. J. Whitney Bunting

There is a growing emphasis, today, upon the area of service on most college campuses. Much of this is due to student efforts to involve themselves with the society of which they are an important part. Often the idea of service is quite new to college people although there are many examples of institutions that have had a long history of community-related work.

Needless to say this should be an extremely important part of the thrust of Georgia College.

During the past twelve months several plans for service had been raised by both students and faculty at the College. Certainly I am wholeheartedly in favor of any program that can ferret out a real community need, analyze it in relation to the strengths and capabilities of Georgia College, and then take forceful steps within the limitations of our resources to try to solve the problem or problems. I am happy that this is going on in our community.

to the editor

Rights And Responsibilities

Dear Editor:

Recently there has been some discussion, on this campus, of student rights. This discussion seems to indicate that, at least some of those doing the most talking, are more concerned with license than with rights. For example nothing has been said about the right of students, who are seriously trying to obtain an education, to being able to sleep undisturbed after going to bed at a reasonable hour. They should not be rudely awakened by those few, who have a lack of regard for propriety and are interested primarily in unrestrained liberty for themselves, coming into the dormitory after 1:30 AM drunk or under the influence of alcohol. Neither has anything been said about the right of students to study in their room without the interference of boisterous individuals in nearby rooms or authority is also an issue here. Those clamoring the loudest for license are generally the ones who have evidenced the least self-discipline. Before students can expect to obtain judicial authority over their own conduct, and legislative authority over dormitory regulations they should be willing to demonstrate mature self-discipline.

The students advocating student control over general curriculum, degree requirements, course content, admission standards, etc. are generally those with the lowest academic standing. Upon what basis do they consider themselves to be an authority in these areas? When it comes to demanding a voice in the hiring and firing of faculty what degree of egotism do they have that makes them feel superior to the Board of Regents and the Ad-

SU Moves

Shadwell Tells Why

Upon returning to GC after Christmas holidays students were surprised to find that the Student Union had been moved. Much has been said, both for and against, this action. In an interview with Hal Shadwell, Director of Food Services, Mr. Shadwell stated two major reasons for this sudden shift.

First of all, the bookstore, in its present location, did not have ample storage space for books and supplies and the movement of the SU would allow the bookstore to sue the previous SU area as a bookstore and the original bookstore as a stockroom. (Plans for such an action are now being made.)

The second reason for the move was that the snack bar should be under the control of food services; and since the lounging area goes with the snack bar facility it seemed only feasible to make such a transition.

Advantages in having the snack bar affiliated with the dining area are, according to Mr. Shadwell: 1-a better utilization of personnel employed in food services, 2-the convenience and lower cost of homemade sandwiches and pizzas (which are now being served beginning after supper for 30-35 cents), 3-a more businesslike arrangement, 4-the availability of snack bar food for meal ticket meals, and 5-the liberty and feasibility of staying open from breakfast until 11 p.m. EVERY day.

Mr. Shadwell pointed out that the soft serve drink machines and candy and cigarette vending machines were installed to alleviate long lines at the cash register.

It was noted by Mr. Shadwell that the idea to move the SU was discussed with and approved by student representatives last quarter before a definite decision was made; and though the area is smaller, at peak times there seems to be ample space for the students.

The question of why the north dining hall was not used for the Student Union area was answered by Mr. Shadwell also. The reasons were: poor acoustics, lack of electrical outlets, and the serving area was too far removed from the dining area to utilize personnel efficiently.

In the future Mr. Shadwell stated that he hopes to get more tables available for card playing and make certain areas of the window panels available for organizational news and announcements.

Mr. Shadwell expressed the hope that all students, faculty and guests of the college would take full advantage of the facilities available.

The Spurrhows, mobile music youth group, will appear in concert Monday, February 2, at 8:00 p.m. in Russell Auditorium, during their whirlwind 40-state national tour.

Repertoire will range from Baroque Bach to the rolling rock of "O Happy Day!" in traditional revival style.

The 27 singers and instrumentalists from nearly as many states are renown nationally for their versatility.

The group offers soloists, quartets, trios, folk groups, instrumentalists, rock ensembles, "big band," orchestra, and a capella choir.

While their average age is only 19, the young troopers are all bonafide musicians in their own right, and have individually collected enough awards and scholarships to fill a steamer trunk.

Tickets will be on sale to Georgia College students and the general public beginning January 26 in the Student Union. They will cost $2.00 with an I.D., or $3.00 for all others. Only 1164 tickets will be sold, so it would be advisable for students to buy their tickets as soon as possible, since they are going on sale to the general public at the same time.

Mr. Harley's Crew Works Hard

Mr. Harley of the Maintenance Department heads a hard-working crew of men. They were the only ones on campus to have only two days (Christmas Eve and Christmas Day) vacation during Christmas. Some of the things they accomplished were: Painting of the old SU in preparation for expansion of the bookstore, refinishing the gym floor, replacing and painting the backboards of the tennis courts, painting the exterior doors to Atkinson and Parks, patching and spot painting in the main dining room, installing an activated heating system on the second floor of the Language building, rearranging all the equipment in the dining hall, allocating two more rooms to the

Coffee House and providing electrical outlets there, reoping the ladder truck (with the aid of the ladder truck from CSH), providing new cabinets and counters in the SU, pouring a new sidewalk in the courtyard to relieve the congestion of traffic there, remodeling the Day Student Lounge, allocating an additional room to Duplicating Services, opening a new exit from the post office, pouring 20 yards of concrete in the entry way to Parks Hall parking lot. This is only a partial listing, and the department also had a cleaning crew that stripped, mopped, and waxed floors in almost every building on campus, in addition to carrying on all their normal full-time activities. They are currently working on a new gas main to service the buildings on West Green Street from Clark and Green to the Parkhurst Apartments.

GC Seminar to Focus on Disadvantaged unrestricted curfew come back in after it has closed, is currently under discussion. Until the issue is decided, students coming in after the dorm closes go to the Campus Security Police who will bring the girl back to the dorm and unlock the door for her.

Peter C. White, executive secretary of the Southern Council on International and Public Affairs, Atlanta, will be the main speaker at a seminar on "Understanding and Working with Disadvantaged People" at Georgia College at Milledgeville.

The seminar, scheduled for Jan. 21 and 22, is being arranged by the GC home economics department and funded by a grant from the Sears-Roebuck Foundation.

Home economics department chairman Dr. Ruth Sneed said the seminar will serve as part of the instruction of all classes in the department.

Since 1968, White and the Southern Council have administered a large private fund representing the only flexible financing available in Atlanta for investment in venture projects for the inner city.

Programs underway relate to education, health, nutrition, recreation, employment and economic development.

A native of New York City, White is a graduate of Fordham University. He has attended the National War College and is an associate of the Center for Strategic and International Studies of Georgetown University.

Choral Workshop

There is going to be an Organ and Choral Workshop at Georgia College on Feb. 6 & 7, 1970. Dr. Wolfersteig and the Music Department are the sponsors. The American Guild of Organists is sponsoring John Lippencott.

Miss Lippencott is presently Associate Professor of Organ and Chairman of the Organ Department at Westminster Choir College. She will be presenting a recital on Friday, Feb. 6 at 8:00 in Russell Auditorium. Tickets will be $2.50 per person. On Saturday the choir will perform "The Sacred Service" by Ernest Bloch. There will be no admission charge.

The Workshop is for self improvement of the students participating. This workshop is statewide in its range although several colleges and Universities from the Southeast Region of the US are invited also.

the same opportunity for advancement. It is my hope that all of us can share as much as possible in this effort.

There are many other opportunities of service as well as I believe that as the years go by, Georgia College faculty and students will continue to be in the forefront of those persons dedicated to the improvement of the community of which they are a part.

Unrestricted Curfew Clarified by Dean Gettys

Dean Gettys recently made a visit to Adams and Wells dormitories in order to clarify the unrestricted curfew which has now gone into effect at Georgia College.

During her visit, Dean Gettys explained the general plan of the unrestricted curfew. Parents of sophomore and junior girls received permission sheets over the Christmas holidays which enabled them to either grant the privilege of unrestricted curfew or to deny it. Seniors and students over 21 have unrestricted curfew even though parental consent was not granted. Those with a curfew have new hours of 12:00 on weekdays, 2:00 on Friday and Saturdays, 1:00 on Sunday.

The residents of the dorm then had their chance to ask questions and suggest changes to the curfew before it becomes final. Through these questions, Dean Gettys explained that a student with guest who does not attend Georgia College, has the same curfew as her hostess.

She also informed students on unrestricted curfew to turn up their white cards to indicate they are not in the dorm. They are asked to indicate on the white card where they are going so in case of an emergency, they can be reached. Students on unrestricted curfew do not have to fill out green cards.

The method of getting back in the dorm, should a student with the College Government Association. Liking the College Government to a automobile ride in "a new super-cool machine, the Constitution, which sports such options as a genuinely representative legislative body, a fair-to-everyone judicial system, and an expanding executive department," Gail praised the action of the Senate. She said, "Speeding along, we tore down the decrepit bridge of curfew restrictions and replaced it with a modern one which better suits our needs.

We have made provisions for our rules of the road to be publicly known by setting up a committee to write a statement of student rights. And, budget increase of nearly $1000 has greatly helped to finance our trip."

President Presley did not pretend that there had been nothing but successes, however, saying "And, of course, there was the time that we bashed head on into the Vietnam Moratorium. That collision might have caused permanent damage to the governmental machine had not the Honor Council taken control of the wheel."

President Presley then outlined the actions she felt needed immediate attention by the Senate this quarter. These included permanent Cabinet appointments, the writing and passing of a judicial code, the adoption of an election code prior to the election of new CGA officers, and the incorporation of REC and AGAPE into CGA. "The purpose of this move would be to make one stronger organization out of three weaker ones," she stressed.

President Presley closed her speech with a special thanks to Mary Jane Hunt, President of the Senate, to Lew Walton "for his excellent writing of legislation," to all the executive officers of CGA, and to the whole of the first Student Senate of Georgia College.

The last item on the agenda was the presentation by Mr. Timothy Lightfield of the Department of Sociology, who has taken a lively interest in student activities and welfare, of an informal discussion in which he determined the opinion of the Student Senate concerning student participation in several committees.

The last item on the agenda was the presentation by Mr. Timothy Lightfield of the Department of Sociology, who has taken a lively interest in student activities and welfare, of an informal discussion in which he determined the opinion of the Student Senate concerning student participation in several committees heretofore unrepresented or scarcely represented by the student body. He will present this information at faculty meetings Thursday, Jan. 15, and Jan. 22, for consideration as possible revisions of the Ga. College Statutes providing for standing committees by the local unit of the American Association of University Professors.

Women's Gymnastics

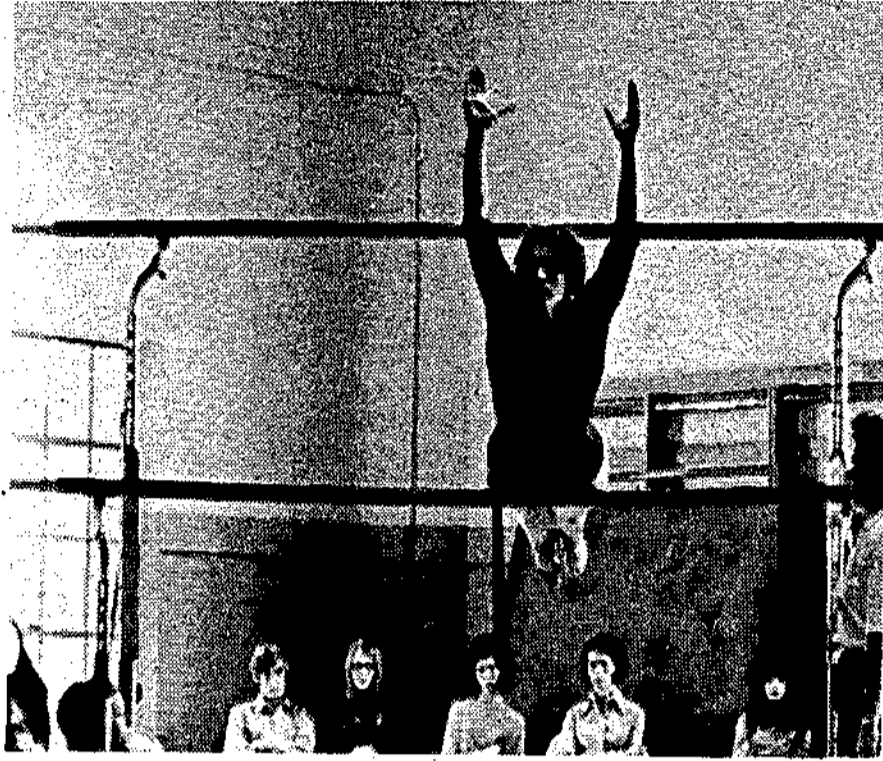

GC Sweeps By Furman University

Saturday, January 11, Georgia College's gymnastic team soared to its first win. Furman University had a very good team but not good enough to stop the Colonials from performing at their best. Coach Darst was satisfied with the performance of the G.C. team.

The "free floor exercise" was performed by Tina Potts, Ellen Hicks, and Sheila Wood. G.C. scored a total of 16.42 points in free floor, whereas Furman scored only 15.60. Tina Potts, a newcomer to the team, did well in her first intercollegiate meet.

The next event was "vaulting." Pat Floyd, Sheila Wood, Ellen Hicks, and Wylene Spradley represented G.C. The score in vaulting was G.C. 20.76, Furman 16.49. Pat Floyd and Wylene Spradley, new team members, showed great promise as gymnasts.

The next event was the "balance beam." Tina Potts, Doris Floyd, Sheila Wood, and Crystal Fountain represented Georgia College. G.C. scored 13.29, Furman 14.64. Crystal showed great skill and Doris Floyd remains high scorer on the beam.

The final event was the "unevens." Nancy Moynihan, Pat Floyd, Wylene Spradley, and Sheila Wood performed. G.C. scored 12.00, Furman 12.06.

The total scores of the meet were Georgia College 62.29, Furman 58.79. G.C.'s four point win was well deserved. The team is now training for competition with Florida State.

Biology Dept. Has Received Grant

The biology department of Georgia College at Milledgeville has been awarded a $6,500 grant under the National Science Foundation's Undergraduate Research Participation program. Department chairman David J. Cotter said the funds will be used to support and equip a special ten-week research project for five undergraduate biology majors. The project is scheduled to begin June 9 and end August 15.

Cotter will serve as Director of the program and Dr. Harriett Lipscomb of the GC biology faculty as Co-Director.

During the ten weeks, Cotter said, the students selected for the program will work on individual research of their own design and planning. They will be advised by members of the biology faculty and will receive a stipend of $60 per week for the duration of the project.

The Project Director said participants will be selected on the basis of the biology faculty's evaluation of research proposals submitted by interested students. The projects may deal with any area in the field of biology.

Cotter noted that the program is not limited to Georgia College students, but it is open to students at other colleges in the Central Georgia area as well.

Requirements for participation were listed by Cotter as high academic average, a background of at least 50 quarter hours of science courses, and a recommendation from the science advisors of students from institutions other than Georgia College.

A deadline of March 1 has been set for the submission of research proposals, with the names of students selected to be announced on March 31.

Cotter stressed that the students taking part in the program will be carrying out their own research rather than serving as technicians for faculty researchers. He said participants will be encouraged to submit their findings to academic journals for publication.

This is the second such grant to be awarded to the GC biology department. Two Georgia College students carried out research in 1967 at the Savannah River Ecology Laboratory under a similar program.

The purpose of the program, Cotter said, is to encourage talented students to attend graduate school and to eliminate any apprehension they may have concerning independent scientific research.

Baarda Awarded Grant for Lab Innovation

Dr. David G. Baarda, Associate Professor of Chemistry at Georgia College at Milledgeville, has been awarded a $250 grant by the Division of Chemical Education of the American Chemical Society.

The grant is part of an experimental Small Grants Program funded by E.I. DuPont de Nemours and Company. The program is designed to support

GC's Lady Gymnasts to Face Six Universities in Eight Meet Schedule

The women's gymnastics team - percentage-wise the most successful of Georgia College at Milledgeville's athletic squads last year - will compete in an ambitious eight-meet schedule in 1970.

Last year, the first for intercollegiate athletics at Georgia College, the lady Colonials posted a 2-3 record with wins over the University of South Carolina and Winthrop College.

Gymnastics Coach Delene Darst said the 1970 schedule will feature meets with six universities, beginning with the January 10 opener at home against Furman.

The balance of the schedule shows a road contest with the University of Florida on January 23, a meet at Florida State University on January 24, and a January 30 home meet with Winthrop College.

On February 6, the gymnastics team from Mississippi State College for Women will visit. On the road again, the GC girls will play at the University of South Carolina February 14 and at the University of Chattanooga March 7.

The season finale will be a three-way meet on the Georgia College campus, with the Colonialettes entertaining teams from the University of Florida and Auburn University.

Home meets will be held in the main gymnasium of the Health, Physical Education and Recreation Building.

Darst Participates in Gymnastics Clinic

Mrs. Delene J. Darst of GC's department of health, physical education, and recreation was at the University of Arizona, Tucson, December 26-30 to conduct the women's program at the Western National Gymnastics Clinic.

Mrs. Darst is assistant professor of health, physical education, and recreation and coach of the GC women's gymnastics team.

At the clinic, she worked with student gymnasts at all levels of proficiency, and also conducted a clinic for judges.

She is one of four people in the country qualified to conduct the judges' clinic and test the participants using the National Division of Girls and Women's Sports-United States Gymnastics Federation Certification.

educational projects which appear to have potential for improving teaching methods in the field of chemistry.

The funds made available to Baarda will support innovations emphasizing student initiative and experimental investigations in the teaching of the laboratory introduction to analytical and organic chemistry.

Baarda says the central theme of the undertaking is to use a continuing laboratory investigation rather than a collection of individual experiments as the content of these courses.

ministrative Officers of the University System?

Dr. L.C. McDonald, of Pomona College writing in "The Faculty Forum for January 1969 says there are five paradoxes applicable to the "new" student. He lists these as:

1. The more the new student strives to make contact with the real world, the more unreal his world becomes.

2. The more political the new student becomes the less political he becomes.

3. The more open the new student becomes the more closed he becomes.

4. The harder the new student strives to live in the present the less he lives in the present.

5. The more the new student is for liberal education the more he is against liberal education.

The new student is not all students, or most students. The new student is any student to whom the five paradoxes apply."

Those making the most demands today would do well to seriously think on these paradoxes.

Every right is inherently bound up with one or more responsibilities. Those who insist upon their rights should first be certain that they are aware of the responsibilities that go with each right, and that they are willing to live up to these challenges.
