Assistant Secretary Ussery Speaks At G.C.

W.J. Ussery, Jr., a Milledgeville-area man who has risen to the position of Assistant Secretary of Labor for Labor-Management Services, returned to his hometown April 15 and 16 to talk at Georgia College and was honored at community-planned homecoming festivities.

Ussery, the Nixon Administration's chief troubleshooter in national interest labor-management disputes, was born in the Hardwick community and attended Georgia Military College in Milledgeville and Mercer University in Macon. He is married to the former Gussie Mae Smith of Milledgeville.

Arriving in Milledgeville on Thursday, April 15, Ussery was the guest of honor at a Chamber of Commerce-sponsored homecoming dinner at the Milledgeville Country Club. Milledgeville Mayor Walter B. Williams, Jr., proclaimed Friday, April 16, as "W.J. Ussery Day" in Milledgeville and presented the Labor Department official with a key to the city.

On Friday Ussery toured Milledgeville-area industries and state institutions, then gave a 1 p.m. talk to business administration students at Georgia College. A press conference was held after the talk.

Ussery assumed his current office on February 7, 1969, after Senate confirmation. In his capacity as Assistant Secretary for Labor-Management Services he is responsible for administering the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act, the Welfare-Pension Plan Disclosure Act, and laws concerning veterans' reemployment rights.

He is also responsible for implementation of major parts of the Executive Order dealing with labor-management relations in the Federal Service.

Peabody Day Camp Is Coming

Registration is already underway for this summer's Peabody Day Camp. The camp will begin Monday, June 14 and end Friday, July 23 with the daily schedule running from 8:00 a.m.-12:00 noon.

Mr. Robert I. Candler, Director, Peabody Laboratory School, and Mrs. Barbara Lightfield, Co-director of the 1970 Day Camp, will once again head up this summer's program. Mrs. Lightfield previously served as playground supervisor for three summer day camps for the Highland Recreation Board, Beaver Falls, Pa.

The Peabody Day Camp is designed for children from six years old (sixth birthday must come before December 31, 1971) through those who have completed the sixth grade during the past school year, 1970-71. Total cost of the six week camp session is $60.00, which includes the insurance fee. Day camp will not be held during the lunch hour but milk will be available at snack time for a minimal charge.

Along with the many exciting recreation and creative arts and crafts opportunities which the camp offers, this year's program also shall provide daily swimming instruction and pool playtime, too. The camp staff will be prepared to give special instruction in music. The children will be encouraged to express themselves individually and also participate in daily group activities.

Peabody Day Camp will be limited to 40 youngsters with children of Georgia College faculty, staff, and students receiving priority. A non-refundable $10.00 registration fee is required with the balance due the first day of camp.

Applications are available at the Director's Office, Peabody School, and should be completed and returned there immediately. Deadline date for applications is May 28, 1971. For further information, contact Mr. Candler at Peabody School.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

What's all this talk I've been hearing about open dorms? It must be a rumor. It would be simply scandalous to have boys in a girl's room. Morals in this world are bad enough without this terrible idea. Open dorms would turn this fine school with its fine standards into one of those hippie communes. I knew something dreadful would happen the minute that Georgia College opened its doors to boys.

Why, I was on campus just the other day and saw a boy with hair down over his ears, and if that wasn't bad enough, he was living in Ennis dorm. I just couldn't imagine boys living in Ennis dorm. I just couldn't imagine boys living in that fine old dorm. Why, I remember all the fun I had in that dorm; like the time my roommate and I put our ratscups on backwards and marched up and down the hall with our penny loafer on the wrong feet. Oh! Those were the good old days. But if those awful boys

People's Peace Treaty

Power is not just force. Power is the willingness and the ability to move on an affirmation.

Oppression is not just jail cells and the machinery of death. Oppression is the maintenance of a lie and the propagation of that lie in society. The grosser the lie the more force is needed to maintain it. Internally it represses in the name of law and order. Extended overseas it destroys in the name of patriotism. In neither case does it speak of truth, justice, or humanity. Its ultimate extension can only be genocide.

All the daily lies put forth by the propagators of this war are merely extensions of and justifications for a much more basic lie-the lie that the government of the United States represents the people of the United States and the people, therefore, are bound by that government.

We refuse to be bound any longer by that lie, or by any of the lies put forth to maintain it. We, the citizens of the United States, affirm that we are not at war with the people of Viet Nam. We will no longer be bound by the illegal and immoral actions of the United States government in Indochina. We affirm that we the people of the United States are at peace with the people of Viet Nam. We will move on that affirmation not just to request or petition or protest, but to force the United States government to withdraw from Indochina and so allow peace to return to that war torn country and our own. We affirm that we will work together to build that peace on the basis of truth, justice and humanity.

This affirmation is the basis of the People's Peace Treaty.

A Joint Treaty of Peace Between the People of the United States, South Vietnam and North Vietnam

Introduction
Be it known that the American and Vietnamese people are not enemies. The war is carried out in the name of the people of the United States, but without our consent. It destroys the land and the people of Viet Nam. It drains America of her resources, her youth and her honor.

We hereby agree to end the war on the following terms, so that both peoples can live under the joy of independence and can devote themselves to building a society based on human equality and respect for the earth. In rejecting the war we also reject all forms of racism and discrimination against people based on color, class, sex, national origin, and ethnic grouping which form a basis of the war policies, present and past, of the United States.

Principles of the Joint Treaty of Peace AMERICANS agree to immediate and total withdrawal from Viet Nam, and publicly set the date by which all U.S. military forces will be removed.

Vietnames agree to participate in an immediate ceasefire with U.S. forces and will enter discussions on the procedures to guarantee the safety of all withdrawing troops and to secure release of all military prisoners. AMERICANS pledge to stop imposing Thieu, Ky, and Kham on the people of Viet Nam in order to ensure their right to self-determination, and to ensure that all political prisoners are released.

Vietnames poedge to form a provisional coalition government to organize democratic elections, in which all South Vietnamese can participate freely without the presence of any foreign troops, and to enter discussions of procedures to guarantee the safety and political freedom of persons who cooperate with either side in the war.

AMERICANS and VIETNAMESE agree to respect the independence, peace and neutrality of Laos and Cambodia.

Upon these points of agreement, we pledge to end the war in Viet Nam. We will resolve all other questions in mutual respect for the rights of self-determination of the people of Viet Nam and the United States.

As Americans ratifying this agreement, we pledge to take whatever actions are appropriate to implement the terms of this joint treaty of peace, and to ensure its acceptance by the government of the United States.

I endorse the Joint Treaty of Peace

Colonials Split Wildman's One-Hitter, Drop Two To Shorter

Jimmy Wildman's one-hit pitching performance gave the Georgia College Colonials their first win of the '71 season as the GC nine split with Augusta College on Wednesday, then lost two to Shorter College on Saturday.

Wildman, pitching in the second game of a double-header in Augusta, effectively shackled the same bats that panted the Colonials 16-2 in the first game, while his teammates put the contest on ice with a five-run third inning.

Pitching one of the best games ever turned in by a Colonial hurler, Wildman gave up one hit in seven innings while walking five and striking out five.

Three Colonials shared batting honors in the game.

Right-fielder Wendell Harrelson was three-for-four, driving in one run and scoring three; first-baseman Charlie Winslette drove in three runs and scored one with three hits in four trips; and catcher Tommy Tanner also accounted for four runs while going three-for-four.

Tanner drove in one tally and pinch-runner Lindsey Smith, who replaced Tanner on the bawepaths after each of his hits,

GC Gymnasts Victorious Over MSCW

Georgia College's talented women's gymnastics team closed out its second consecutive winning season Saturday with a decisive win over Mississippi State College for Women.

Coach Delene Darst's girls took first place in all four events and swept first, second and third in three of them, recording their fifth win in eight dual meets.

Once again Sheila Wood of Macon led the way by placing in all four events. She took first in floor exercise, second on the balance beam, third in vaulting, and tied for third on the uneven parallel bars with teammate Pat Floyd.

Pat Floyd, a Covington native, also made her usual strong showing, adding a first place finish in vaulting to her third-place tie on the bars.

FLOOR EXERCISE--1st place, Sheila Wood, Macon VAULTING--1st place, Pat Floyd, Covington, 2nd place, Debbie Ginn, Sandersville, 3rd place, Sheila Wood.

BALANCE BEAM--1st place, Doris Floyd, Nashville, 2nd place, Sheila Wood, 3rd place, Crystal Fountain, Macon.

UNEVEN BARS--1st place, Nancy Moynihan, Troy, Michigan, 2nd place, Connie Butler, Griffin, 3rd place (tie), Sheila Wood and Pat Floyd.

Intramural Action Under Way

In the men's intramural action Tuesday, there was one stunning upset and a one sided slaughter. In the first game, a group of independents, coached by Mike Pizzorno, scored a surprising 17-18 upset over a strong Ennis team. Hitting strong for Pizzorno's wild Mzn Mike Smith and Keith Jones. Jerry "Intramural" Seymour was the strong stick for the Ennis men.

In the second game, the Bums from Beeson destroyed the faculty to the tune of 25-11. The faculty obviously needs practice as poor throwing, weak hitting, and terrible ball handling led to their downfall. It's hard to say who was the leading hitter for the Bum's as many balls cleared the centerfield fence. There was no leading hitter for the faculty, but Hack Veal hit a home run.

Colonials Pound Armstrong

The Georgia Colonials got their first chance of the season to play before the home folks in Bonner Park and responded with an 11-4 drubbing of Armstrong State College.

A nine-run fourth inning was the key to the Georgia College victory as the Colonials pounced on Armstrong reliever Steve Bell with a vengeance. One of the keys to the big inning was a two-run bases-loaded single by pitcher Larry Finney, who gained his first win in two starts.

Harte was pulled when he showed signs of weakening early in the fourth and Bell came on to get a greeting he won't forget for a while. Aided by walks and alert bawerunning, the Colonials batted 13 men, collecting their nine runs on only four hits.

GC added runs in the fifth and eighth innings, and Armstrong picked up two in the ninth for a final 11-4 count.

Right-fielder Charlie Winslette was the bit man at the plate, going four-for-four, scoring two runs and driving in two. Catcher Tommy Tanner had an excellent day behind the plate, foiling three steal attempts with near-perfect throws.

Uncle Pleasant cordially invites you to come to the Pub Friday and Saturday night to listen to a program of indescribable delight. This performance is guaranteed to fill you with excitement. Performance at 8 PM - 12 midnight.

DRINKING HABITS

I don't ordinarily drink very much or very often. Once in awhile, though, I'll have an occasional Scotch, an occasional beer, an occasional Brandy Alexander, an occasional Manhattan, an occasional Whiskey Sour, an occasional glass of wine, an occasional Margarita, an occasional Screwdriver, an occasional mug of malt liquor, an occasional Daiquiri, an occasional Zombi, and an occasional hangover.

I know very little about the drinking habits of other people—only about my own. I find myself drinking when I'm very tired or very awake, very sad or very happy, very panic-stricken or very relaxed—which isn't very often because with all my occasional, I'm usually very catatonic.

But I'm interested in other people's drinking habits because, although drinking in itself isn't very important, I think it's indicative of many things; people drink for reasons that are reflections on our society (e.g. the social drinker, the alcoholic), and often it's just another way of avoiding reality in tumultuous times.

So I decided to find out the drinking tastes of students around the country—what they're drinking and why they're drinking it. What could have been just an arduous task became an interesting one because—as I called around the nation asking students at different colleges what they drink—every time they mentioned the favorite drink of their region, I would try some. For research purposes, of course.

NASH'S & Nash's Squire Shop

I first talked with a girl who lives in Washington, D.C., where, she said, she knows students from George Washington University, Georgetown and Howard, three colleges in the area.

"People here," she said, "are fairly conservative drinkers. They drink Scotch or bourbon," she said as I mixed myself a little Scotch and water in one glass and a bit of bourbon and water in another.

"There's hardly any beer drinking here," she said, "because liquor's relatively cheap compared to other parts of the country—and beer's not so cheap." She added that not many students seem to be drinking wine "because people here just don't savor the wine flavor."

"There's an emphasis on drinking hard liquor because of the heavy pressures on sophistication—and there's something less sophisticated about beer," she said.

Thanking her, I downed my Scotch and bourbon and made my next call to Oshkosh, Wisconsin, where I talked with an art major at Wisconsin State University there. "Beer is the biggest thing here because it's the cheapest—and because 18-year olds can drink beer in Wisconsin," he said as I poured myself a tall glass of beer.

He said that many marijuana smokers drink during and after smoking. "It's sort of a new fad, I guess. People like to taste something sweet after smoking—you know, they're hungry for something that tastes good," he said.

"There's a new phenomenon here—apple wine—85 cents a quart. Everyone drinks it. It's cheap and—well, it's pretty good."

Signing off from Oshkosh, I finished my beer and started in on my apple wine.

When I returned from the bathroom, I placed a call to Colorado where I talked with a girl who attends Denver University.

"Definitely beer and wine she said. There's no doubt about it. Beer and wine. Definitely."

I asked her to hold on as I poured myself two glasses of definitely beer and wine. "Well," she said, "I guess sometimes students drink those exotic types of drinks—tequilas and Margaritas—but for the most part, they definitely drink—"

Beer and wine. Definitely.

The tequila and the Margarita went down smoothly as the operator placed my call to Albuquerque where I talked with a guy from the University of New Mexico and asked him what people drink there, getting ready to pour myself a glass of whatever it was.

"People here drink what's cheapest," he said. "So they drink beer and wine."

"Please," I said. "No."

"No?"

"I just can't handle another glass of beer or wine. Don't they drink anything else?"

"Well," he said pausing.

"Some students do drink apple wine."

"Beer and wine will do just fine. Thank you," I said as I hung up and had another glass of beer and wine—this time mixing them to get it over quicker.

My next call was to Theodore Hamm Company in St. Paul because I had heard that they're coming out with a new drink, an alcoholic beverage somewhere between malt liquor and wine that comes in a slightly tart or slightly sweet flavor.

"It's a new kind of drink", the man told me, "unlike anything you might be drinking now."

"How did you know I was drinking now?" I gurgled into the phone. "What's it called?"

"It's called Right Time."

I poured myself some and drank it quickly.

"How nice of Hamm's to name a product after my column," I said as I collapsed to the floor, mumbling something about student drinking habits.

XXXX

I don't remember much about my other calls except when I finally awoke a few days later, I found a lot of half-finished glasses of wine beer, Screwdrivers, Scotch, Coolers, Black Russians and —oh, yes, apple wine.

As informal as my drinking survey was, I did discover a number of things. Although pot, as I had expected, is prevalent on college campuses, students are still drinking.

Students seem to be drinking for different reasons today than they did years ago. It's no longer the National Campus Pastime, and each student seems to be drinking what he drinks for different reasons.

Drinking has always been an Older Generation vice, and young revolutionaries are quite careful to avoid anything that the Establishment has established. There are no real premediated student drinking trends. Student drinking habits seem to be a matter of practicalities—cost is important and Do-Your-Own-Thing seem to prevail. The most important factor, though, is taste.

I made one more phone call—not to the liquor store—but to the drug store to ask them to deliver a bottle of Alka Seltzer.

If student drinking habits are anything like my own, Alka Seltzer could very well be the most popular student drink.
