GEORGIA COLLEGE AT MILLEDGEVILLE

VOL. 47 NO. 5

Ga. Intern Program To Be Initiated Here

Beginning with the Summer quarter of 1972, Georgia College will be a participant in the Georgia Intern Program.

The program will create an opportunity for undergraduate and graduate students at G.C. to be actively involved in specific projects of government agencies in Georgia, while earning up to fifteen hours credit toward their degree at the same time. All students at G.C. are eligible to work in the intern program. Financial stipends will be small and will vary inversely with the amount of credit to be awarded.

Interns will work within state and local agencies at tasks of a professional nature essential to departmental operation. Intern positions are available in the following areas of interest: Health, Law Enforcement, Planning, Education, Social Work, Ecology, Law, Economic Development, and similar areas.

All interested students, who desire to become a summer intern, should obtain an application blank form the Academic Dean's Office. Upon completion of the application, the student should then return the form by Wednesday, April 12, 1972. The selected applicants will be notified before May 1 of the time and place of their interview. Student interns will be selected from the applicants who are called to be interviewed.

New Ga. College Buildings Named

Two new buildings and a dining room at Georgia College have been named in honor of three former faculty members whose years of service at this institution tell something of the history of GC.

The three are Alice Napier, Mary Thomas Maxwell and Dr. G. Robert Hoke.

The new dormitory has been named for the late Alice Napier who began teaching in the mathematics department in 1893, four years after the college was chartered and called Georgia Normal and Industrial College (GN&IC).

In 1917 Miss Napier saw the college empowered to award degrees and in 1921 she saw the name changed to Georgia State College for Women (GSCW) when the first degree was granted. Miss Napier taught here for 43 years and was chairman of the Department of Mathematics for 29 years. She died in 1962 at the age of 96.

Napier Hall, which is actually a complex of three buildings, will open in the very near future. One of the buildings will contain 100 double occupancy rooms for male students and the other will house the same number of accommodations for women. Both buildings connect through a third building containing the house director's apartment and various lounge, study and recreation areas.

The new college union has been designated the Maxwell College Union Building. Miss Maxwell, who came to GC in 1936, retired in 1968 and was named professor emerita of English. During her tenure she saw Georgia College go coed and the name changed to Georgia College at Milledgeville.

While at Georgia College Miss Maxwell served as supervisor of student teaching, was a professor in the English Department and, for a time, served as Dean of Women.

The Maxwell College Union will house the bookstore, post office, student and faculty lounges, offices for the College Government Association, a conference room, offices for the two student publications, game rooms, study rooms, and three hobby workshops including a darkroom, and dining facilities.

One of the dining rooms in the Maxwell College Union has been named the Hoke Faculty Dining Room in honor of the late Dr. G. Robert Hoke who died Jan. 7, 1972 following a long battle with leukemia.

Dr. Hoke became Dean of the College in July, 1970, following a distinguished career in physics. He had held many positions in government, industry, and education. While serving as Dean at Georgia College, he helped inaugurate the honors program and the evening session of credit courses.

Anderson To Attend Conference

Floyd Anderson, chairman of the Health, Physical Education and Recreation Department at Georgia College, has been invited to serve as a consultant at the first International Conference on Outdoor Education.

The Conference will be held at Algonquin Park, Dorset, Ontario, Canada, in August.

Ec Grant Awarded

A $5,000 grant has been awarded to Georgia College to finance a 4½ week summer institute on "The American Economic System." The new program under the direction of Dr. B.J. Dooley, associate professor of business administration and economics at the College. It is anticipated that approximately fifty teachers will take this course beginning on June 12.

The grant has been made by the Invest-in-America, National Council, Inc., with headquarters in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. This organization has numerous grants and fellowships that it provides to improve the knowledge of Americans about their economic way of life.

The Georgia College Institute will be open to elementary and secondary school teachers in Georgia so that they may include factual economics information in their classroom assignments. The bulk of the grant will be used to cover tuition and other expenses of the participating teachers, according to Dr. Dooley.

Among the business leaders who will address the teachers will be Dr. Allen Felix, director of education, New York Exchange; J.B. Fuqua, chairman of the Board, Fuqua Industries, Inc., Atlanta; D.C. Garrett, president, Delta Airlines, Atlanta; Dr. Leon Lessinger, Georgia State University, Atlanta; and Georgia College President J. Whitney Bunting who is a member of the board of governors and vice president of the Invest-in-America National Council.

Teachers who would like to attend this institute or who would like further information should contact Dr. B.J. Dooley, Georgia College, Milledgeville Ga.

Summer Quarter Split

Summer quarter at Georgia College will be split into two sessions, each 4½ weeks long, according to an announcement by Assistant Dean Ralph Hemphill.

Primary purpose of going to the 4½-4½ quarter is to allow those attending GC's summer quarter greater flexibility between course selection and their personal activities, Dr. Hemphill said.

He commented that this flexibility would be especially important to teachers who return for graduate work or to renew their certificates. Under this plan, the students will be able to obtain some college credit during the summer and still have some time for other activities.

Under the new plan there may be several methods of registration: students may register for 10 hours for one 4½ week session and at the same time register for a five hour course which would run the full 10 weeks; or students may register for 10 quarter hours each session. Twenty quarter hours (plus physical education) are the maximum that any student will be allowed to take during the summer quarter. Of course, a student may register for only one session should he choose.

Registration for the first session is set for Monday, June 12; for the second session on Wednesday, July 12. Summer graduation will be held on August 12.

Persons interested in further information should contact R. Linton Cox Jr., registrar and director of admissions at Georgia College, Milledgeville.

Packard To Speak

Internationally acclaimed social commentator Vance Packard will speak at Georgia College here, April 13.

Packard, who is currently working on a new book about "our nomadic society" will talk here on "The Changing American Character."

The Pennsylvania native first became prominent as a commentator on social change in 1957 with his first book "The Hidden Persuaders." This early work was a study of motivational research techniques alerting the public to the methods of "persuasion in depth" in advertising.

In 1959 he published the best seller "The Status Seekers" followed in 1960 by "The Waste Makers." Each of these books became number one best sellers making Packard the first non-fiction writer to publish three non-fiction best sellers in a row in recent years.

His latest book was the "The Sexual Wilderness" published in 1968. This work gave America the first significant study since the Kinsey report of the changing relationship between the sexes and the shifting standards of acceptable behavior.

Packard has contributed to many of the leading periodicals including Reader's Digest, Look, The Atlantic Monthly, and the now defunct Colliers.

He holds a degree from the Columbia Graduate School of Journalism, and has done graduate work in international economics at three other universities. He holds distinguished Alumni Awards from Columbia and Penn State Universities.

His lecture will begin at 8:00 p.m. here that night in the Peabody Auditorium on the Georgia College campus. There will be no admission charge and the public is invited.

Baseball At G.C. By Robert Riddle

Playing for the first time on the baseball field at the new athletic complex, the Georgia College Colonials scored their first victory of the season against Fort Valley State College by a score of 11 to 7.

This, the fifth game of the season, broke a losing streak of four previous games for the Colonials. Facing such teams as Mercer and Shorter College, both NIAFA finalists last year, the Colonials had not been able to come up with any victories thus far this season. Also plaguing the Colonials were the facts that there were only three returning lettermen this year, thus resulting in the roster being made up mostly of Sophomores and Freshmen, and being a young team, some of the Colonials were inexperienced at their positions and in college baseball.

Coach Allan MacNamee stated, that although the team is young and the defense in the past games has been low, the Colonials would be more consistent in winning future games through an already excellent pitching staff and a stabilization of positions which occurred partly through the win against Fort Valley last Tuesday.

Coach MacNamee stated also that moral support helped in the winning of games. He urged all college students who could to come out and support the team.

New H.P.E.R. Instructor

Roy B. Robinson Jr. has been appointed by the Board of Regents to serve as an instructor in Georgia College's Health, Physical Education and Recreation (HPER) Department beginning in September, according to Dr. J. Whitney Bunting, GC President.

In addition to his classroom assignments, Robinson will serve as head basketball coach for the Colonials.

The 34-year old coach taught and coached for nine years at P.G. Appling High School, Macon, and is presently at Central High School, Macon.

Robinson received his BS degree from Fort Valley State College and his M.Ed. from Georgia College. While coaching at Appling Robinson twice was chosen by his colleagues to serve as an All-Star Coach, once for the Georgia High School East-West game and once for the North-South game.

Floyd Anderson, chairman of GC's Department of Health,

Physical Education and Recreation (HPER) commented that Robinson was chosen for the position "because of his record and his background in HPER. Of the 52 individuals who applied for the position, it was my judgement that he was the best."

Moving quickly following his appointment, Robinson was on campus here Saturday to assist in signing four high school seniors who received Georgia College's first grants in aid for athletics.

Financed by donations from the Georgia College Alumni Association, the Drummers Club and by a donation from an anonymous Milledgeville Resident, the grants went to Blake Anderson, 6'4", Baldwin High School, Milledgeville; Gary Brown, 6'6", Macon Northeast High School; Tom Cornelious, 6'3", Jeffersonville; and Larry Lavenick, 6'4", Macon Central High School.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:
Don't say I didn't tell you, but I did point out what would happen if open dorms were permitted. That man, whom I admire so much now, pointed out all the sinful activities that went on in that God-forsaken dorm in Athens. I guarantee you that the same kind of carryings-on goes on in those fine old dorms on the Georgia College campus. Why, I could just imagine the horrible shock I would have suffered if I had looked out in the hall and seen one of those awful boys. I know my roommate, Prissy, would have died. Why, Prissy turned around the picture of her mother on her desk when she changed into her woolies. I must warn you again that if the school continues to allow boys in those dorms, pretty soon the boys and girls will be holding hands. From there it is all down-hill. I must close now. Since it is warming up, I must mend the hole in my bathing suit or else my elbow will be exposed for all the world to see. As always,
