NEW RECUPERATION

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." Nothing like an outdoor escape to keep us busy and energized. This week, we've been working hard to ensure our well-being and mental health. Work is important, but so is leisure time. We've found ways to balance our professional and personal lives, and our projects and responsibilities are looking better. In addition, we've been enjoying outdoor activities such as hiking and cycling. These activities have been great for our physical health and mental well-being. We've also been spending quality time with family and friends, which has been wonderful.

SCHOOL GOVERNMENT

SELF-GOVERNMENT ACCEPTED BY JUNIORS

Class Organization to be Completed at Later Date

Recently, members of the Junior class of the Georgia State College for Women have elected their class officers. The candidates, who were chosen by the Junior class, were then announced to the Student Council, which will then vote to accept the officers. The new class officers will be responsible for organizing and running the Junior class activities, ensuring that its members are engaged and involved in the college community.

Ralph Parlette Lecures to Large Audience

"Getting the Most for Me!" Subject of Address

On Tuesday, October 5, Ralph Parlette, a prominent figure in the field of business, delivered a lecture titled "Getting the Most for Me!" to a large audience at the college. The lecture was well-received, and Parlette's insights and advice were valuable to the students. His message was clear: to get the most out of life, one must learn to manage time effectively, prioritize tasks, and make the most of opportunities. The students were inspired by Parlette's words and were encouraged to apply them in their daily lives.

ON THE ROAD TO YESTERDAY AT WAY WATERFALLS

Larsen was the road toward the waterfall, but before they reached "The Rock," they looked in on "Old Woman." By then it was high noon, and the sun was shining. "Old Woman" was the most popular attraction in the area, and it was well worth the stop. The waterfall was just a short distance away, and it was a beautiful sight to see. The water cascaded down the rocks, creating a soothing sound that was calming and relaxing.

The trail was well-marked, and it was easy to follow. The scenery was breathtaking, and it was clear that this was a place where nature was in full swing. The grass was lush and green, and the trees were tall and majestic. It was a peaceful place to be, and it was easy to see why "Old Woman" was such a popular attraction.

As they continued on their journey, they encountered some hikers who were enjoying the beautiful weather. The trail was busy with people, and there was a sense of camaraderie in the air. It was clear that this was a place where people came to be with nature and to take in the beauty of the surroundings.

In the end, Larsen and his companions left the waterfall with a renewed appreciation for the beauty of nature. The experience had been refreshing and invigorating, and they were grateful for the opportunity to be a part of it. They knew that they would return to this place again, and they looked forward to the next time they could experience the beauty of "The Rock" and "Old Woman."
