Beautiful Christmas Pageant Given by Y. W. C. A.

INTERESTING INCIDENTS IN THE LIFE OF CHRIST TO BE PORTRAYED IN PANTOMIME

IN AUDITORIUM SUNDAY EVENING.

The climax of the Christmas entertainments at the college will be the impressive pageant presented by the T. W. C. A., tomorrow evening. The program is being sponsored by the Dramatic Committee of which Dorothy Joy is Chairman. Misses Katherine Scott and Martha Jenkins are co-directors. The story is narrated by Bertram Dunbar and Mildred Merrill.

The first scene, held in the court of Herod, will be a colorful presentation of the coming of the Wise Men to the Royal Palace.

The second scene depicts the appearance of the three Wise Men, followed by Balthasar, and the subject of the third part. The coming scene shows the coming of the people, shepherds and kings into the town of Bethlehem and forms a stately march. The pageant, in all its pageantry, marks the awakening of the child in the heart.

In Christmas Day, the shepherds reveal one or two of the characters and brings the article to a brilliant and joyful close.

MISS WYGLA, NA, GENERAL EXECUTIVE OF STUDENT COUNCIL SENDS MESSAGE

The following is the December 1928 message of the National Student Council of the Y. W. C. A.

To all Y. W. C. A.'s everywhere!

May the spirit of Christmas fill your homes and your hearts with joy and peace. May the love of Christ be your guide and your comfort in all things.

May your homes be filled with laughter and happiness, and may your hearts be filled with the love of Christ.

May the spirit of Christmas bring peace and happiness to all.

May your lives be filled with love and joy, and may your hearts be filled with the love of Christ.

May the spirit of Christmas bring peace and happiness to all.
LETTERS TO SANTA CLAUS

Dear Santa Claus,

I'm just a girl of 8  3/4. This is the first year I have written but I'm coming to get the presents and light the Christmas tree. I have a mother, a father, brother, sister, and a dog, and you can believe that all of us are very happy and will all be so this evening.

Now I'm tipping up to you, to come out to our place and carry the tree up and turn it around for us.

Well, I doubt it but the way you can dress up the tree and stuff it with the best things.

Please come down some time next year and see Santa.

You'll be glad you did.

For the Alumni!

THE LITTLE LAMB

Mary June Lutheman

For the Alumni!

For over the wonderful and fat Christmas feast, many many years ago there grew from a sheaf of corn the first little Christmas story, and gave to the world the gift of love.

A great many times have you been to Bethlehem, and in all your doings, you have given the greatest gift of all.

This year you're coming to Bethlehem, and the people will come to see you.

When you reach the Land of Israel, you will find the sheaf of corn, and with the help of this gift, you will bring the gift of love to the world.

The sheaf of corn has grown and spread, and with it has come the gift of love, which is the greatest gift of all.

May your Christmas be very merry.

Love,

Mary June Lutheman

But the author of the little lamb story has not yet arrived in Bethlehem.

She is on her way, but she will be delayed for a little while.

She will arrive in Bethlehem soon, and then you will see the gift of love come to the world.

Love,

Mary June Lutheman

But the author of the little lamb story has not yet arrived in Bethlehem.

She is on her way, but she will be delayed for a little while.

She will arrive in Bethlehem soon, and then you will see the gift of love come to the world.

The class in Clifford's gymnasium room on the morning of the 3d of November was a gay one. As early as eight o'clock the new students began to arrive, and by the time the bell rang the room was crowded with faces old and new. The officials of the class were making arrangements for the day's events. The president, Captain Smith, was busy trying to arrange the program, while the secretary, Miss Brown, was taking care of the financial matters. The treasurer, Mr. Johnson, was looking over the list of new members, and the clerk, Miss Williams, was copying the minutes of the last meeting.

The class was divided into two sections, the morning section and the afternoon section. The morning section began with a review of the material covered in the last meeting, followed by a discussion of the current events. The afternoon section met in the afternoon and continued with a more in-depth study of the material covered in the morning.

The class adjourned at five o'clock, and the students filed out, tired but satisfied after a day of hard work. The officers of the class met in the evening to discuss the progress of the day and make plans for the next meeting.

THE CORINTHIAN

The Corintian, the college literary magazine made its first appearance two years ago. From a suggestion made to the Literary Guild by Miss Winifred Crowell, the idea was developed, and the Guild decided to sponsor the literary magazine, known as The Corintian.

Although the Literary Guild has sponsored The Corintian, students in fields other than English have been urged to contribute material for the magazine, because it of course, belongs to them.

The purpose of The Corintian has always been to promote a high sense of appreciation of literary values, and to further the desires and talents for creative work, which have been discovered among the students.

Through the encouragement of the students and the helpful advice and suggestions of the faculty, The Corintian has been enabled to grow. It is the desire of the staff and student body, to continue this development, ever striving toward the highest possible goal.

Therefore, the material for The Corintian has been the work of only those students who were on the campus. Realizing, however, the value of keeping in touch with the members of our past student bodies, this year an Alumni section has been placed in The Corintian, and it is felt that some entertaining and valuable literary material may be contributed by our former students.

Students and alumni don’t wait to be called upon for material. Show your interest by contributing to The Corintian!

MISS DAUGHTY IS SPEAKER

Miss Anna Croce Daughtery was a delightful speaker at the meeting of the Young People’s Missionary Society, Monday night. The organization is comprised of town girls who attend the Methodist Church. The meeting was held at the home of Deorcy Parks, with Mary Bell and Priscilla Wilson as joint hostesses.

Miss Daughtery gave, in her charming manner, an interpretation of the Christmas story, and read several interesting poems. Other features of the program were the reading by Martha Bean, and a beautiful violin solo by Dororthy Parks. Ethel Penn, President of the Society, presided and led the devotional.

Guests at the meeting also included the members of the Young Woman’s Association of the Baptist church. Miss Mary Burne is leader of the T. W. A., and Mrs. W. E. Bevel is leader of the Sunday school.

The squire’s pretty daughter accompanied by the new cousin, was charming the children of the village school.

“New children,” she said, “can you tell me what a miracle is?” There was no answer for a moment, and she was about to repeat the question when a little maiden laid up her hand.

“Weli, Rellie,” the squire’s daughter said encouragingly, “tell the class what a miracle is.”

“Please, miss,” the little girl replied, “mother says it will be a miracle if you don’t marry the woods”—Yorkshire Pow.
