We are just a Sophomore class at our dear G. S. C.,
We'll try to do our best to serve her faithfully;
To our school, the school of schools, we pledge our loyalty,
And we'll ever to that pledge be true!

CHORUS

G. S. C. stands for the things the world seeks for,
The things our hearts adore:
Purity, honor, and joy.
To her standards high, we will ever strive, to reach with pride,
And by all her rules abide.
G. S. C. the school of schools forever more to be!
All Georgia looks to thee

With hearts of pride and loyalty—loyalty,
Through our lives, our Alma Mater, you will be
A guide to lead us on.
'Till our ships we've steered from harm.

DEFINITE PLANS FOR CLASS TRIP MADE

Thanks are due to Dr. Beeman, Mr. Fowler, Mr. McLeary and Mr. Snow for the class trip which has been planned for the Sophomores and Senior classes. The following program has been outlined by them and by the officers of the classes for the trip:

Monday, April 1

7:00 A. M.—Leave Milledgeville on special train via Georgia R.

10:00 A. M.—Arrive at Augusta, Georgia where a fifteen minute stop will be made. Girls may get off train but not leave the station.

2:15 P. M.—Leave Augusta via C. W. C. & A. C. L. R. R.

3:15 P. M.—Dutch Junction served on the train.

2:30 P. M.—Arrive at Charleston, South Carolina where automobiles will be waiting to carry the girls to the Francis Marion Hotel.

2:45 P. M. to 7:45 P. M.—During this time girls are at their leisure and may go sightseeing or to the picture show.

7:40 P. M. to 8:00 P. M.—Assemble on mezzanine floor preparatory for banquet.

8:00 P. M. to 10:00 P. M.—Banquet in ballroom on 12th floor.

Tuesday, April 2

7:00 A. M. to 8:00 A. M.—Breakfast served in banquet hall on 12th floor Francis Marion Hotel.

7:30 A. M. to 8:30 A. M.—Automobiles leave Francis Marion Hotel for Magnolia Gardens. Automobiles will leave Magnolia Gardens for Charleston as fast as the girls are ready to return. Returning from Magnolia Gardens, automobiles will make stop at St. Andrews church, also a little sightseeing trip through the narrow and historic streets of Charleston, including a trip around to Battery.

11:30 A. M. to 12:00 Noon—Lunch served in banquet hall Francis Marion Hotel.

12:30 P. M.—Assemble in lobby of Francis Marion Hotel for trip to Fort Moultrie and Fort Sumter.

2:30 P. M.—Walk from Francis Marion Hotel to Custom House Dock where government boat will be boarded for trip to Fort Moultrie and Fort Sumter. This walk will carry girls through interesting parts of Charleston including Waterfront Public Market, which is similar to Old French Market in New Orleans.

1:00 P. M.—Leave Custom House Dock on Government boat for Fort Moultrie and Fort Sumter.

2:00 P. M.—Arrive at Fort Moultrie. (The time has not been determined.) View Fort and witness a review by soldiers stationed at the Fort. Army dinner served in real army style, Circle Fort Sumter.

5:35 P. M.—Land Columbus Street Dock.

5:35 P. M.—Leave Charleston, S. C.

1:00 P. M.—Arrive at Milledgeville, Ga.

The officers of the classes are working with the officials mentioned above on ways to make the trip the most interesting and most educational ever taken. They are: Senior Chairmen: Carole Crane, president; Katherine Harris, vice-president; Dorothy Parks, secretary and Doris Watkins, treasurer. Sophomore officers are Catherine Jones, president; Caroine Selman, vice-president; Lou Jordan, secretary and Ann Hicks, treasurer.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT HEAD PUBLISHES GRAMMAR BOOK

Dr. W. T. Wynn, head of the English department of the college, has recently published "An English Grammar." According to grammarians, this book is well on its way to take its place as one of the best college grammars of the nation. Dr. Wynn's work has been used, in manuscript, for the past year in several of the leading colleges of the south and has been favorably recognized by the foremost critics. The text book recently came from the press in a beautiful binding of dark blue, with gold lettering. The volume is unusually attractive. The entire college is proud of the splendid work that Dr. Wynn has done as the head of the English department, and wishes to congratulate him on the splendid success of his newest book.

FAREWELL

To those Sophomores who have joined the ranks of the Junior class, we say farewell but not goodbye. We are sorry to see you leave us. You're pledged allegiance to other colors; we hope that somewhere in your heart you'll keep a place for the purple and lavender and that the you're mighty Junior you were forgot that you were once a sophomated Sophomore. We went down the road to see you once a Sophomore we're wishing you all kinds of luck.

SOPHOMORES HOLD ELECTION FOR NEW COMMISSIONERS

A number of the Sophomore Commissioners, who become Juniors in February, tendered their resignations recently. This left a large gap in the organization and was forced to elect eleven new members. The class is sorry to lose its valiant members, but it feels sure that those elected will carry on the work that is to be done.

The election was held March 14 with the following result: Evelyn Williams, Eula Alligood, Majory Neal, Cordia Cheever, Carolyn Brinson, Frances High, Ruth Lewis, Billie Menders, Dorothy Bryant, Christine Deke, Carolyn Hamner.

These are all splendid girls, and this class feels sure that they will add to the high esteem in which you are held by the seniors and juniors. You have been chosen for your personal worth, and we are sure that you will carry on the work that you have been doing at such a high level.

DR. HILTON IRA JONES GIVES INSPIRING ADDRESS BEFORE STUDENT BODY, MARCH 13

Dr. Hilton Ira Jones, noted scientist and lecturer, gave a wonderful and inspiring address on "The Science of Self-Management" before a large group of the student body and Milledgeville people, Wednesday night, March 13.

The speaker held his audience spell-bound throughout his entire lecture. He approached his subject in such a simple, matter-of-fact and interesting manner, that everyone of his hearers caught the significance of the amazing facts which he presented. His fascinating talk was made more intensely interesting by illustrations which he gave from his own personal experiences and experiments.

Dr. Jones is noted everywhere for his scientific researches, and he has given many lectures all over as well as other countries. He is honored all over the world as a wonderful scientist, chemistry being his specialty. He is a member of the most learned scientific organizations in this and European countries. He is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Chemical Society of London, England, and a member of the American Chemical Society being prominent part in other branches of scientific work as well.

As platform speaker, the scientist is welcomed everywhere. Some of his most popular lectures are "The Science of Self-Management," "Vibrations and the Inner Life," and "Science and the Future."

MILLEDGEVILLE KIWANIS CLUB SPONSORS PROGRAM IN MACON

Alber—Favorite slave—Beatrice Howard.
Queen Granio, captive queen—Dorothy Colquitt.

SPECIAL PROGRAM

A custom has been established at G. G. C. W. of having special music for choral exercises on Wednesday’s mornings. For the past semester we have had some very beautiful talent from both violin, voice and piano departments.

Some of the programs have been as follows:

Voice Department
Miss Claire Canady, Miss Elizabeth Tucker, Miss Nancy Beek, Miss Virginia McAllister.

Piano Department
Miss Elic Hudson, Miss Lelia Capel, Miss Mary Farmer, Miss Beul White, Miss Helen Dasler.

Violin Department
Miss Dorothy Parks, Miss Mary Eberhard, Miss Christine Cotter.

Miss Harborough
As we all know Miss Harborough has just returned from abroad after studying in Paris, Rome and London. She gave a very interesting program for the students and faculty on Monday night.

Miss Cotter and the orchestra have been of much interest.

MUSICA ABROAD

This year a connection story with action, costumes and stage accessories will be presented.

The cast department will plan the costumes with Miss Padgett in charge. We expect it to be very beautiful. Mrs. Hines will stage it and is general director. Mrs. Longino will direct the chorus while Mrs. Long will coach the entire cast. Miss Magrie Jenkins will be the accompanist.

THE Feature Section

ON ENJOYING A MOVIE

Be sure going into a movie, be sure to get a child’s ticket before you pay your two bits. If the lady refuses to give you a small ticket, argue with her for two or three minutes until the person in line begins to complain of the delay. Having procured your ticket, lower your head and plunge through the crowd. If some brawny, armed man makes a grab for you, bite his hand and plume on. In case there be no crowd, rush through doors and other asperities. It is preferable to sit in the balcony, as from here you can throw paper shells and other small missiles.

After running up and down the aisles several times, you will probably catch sight of a seat in the middle of the row. Punch the first person on the row and wend your way through the crowd, stepping on as many toes as possible. As you wound your way, become interested in the picture and forget to sit down. If persons in back of you complain, receive the complaint with a scowl and sit down. When titles appear on the screen, read them loudly for the benefit of the persons around you. When the main picture is on and the hero is about to die, laugh loudly; and if you have a rubber, abduct at once while your opportunity lasts. Extremely excited and begin to whistle, clap, yell, stomp your feet, in order to arouse (the ire of) persons around you. While advertisements are being flashed upon the screen, or at any other time that you might become antsy, proceed to take your seat off, and in doing so wave your neighbors with your arms. Let your hand slip through a sleeve or that you may hit the person in front of you.

Next take out a bag of peanuts or other suitable which you may have, and after rattling the paper for a few moments, munch loudly upon the morsels. Hard candy is preferable, as it makes so much noise as it cracks beneath the teeth. At intervals of two or three minutes plunge your hand into the bag. If you have peanuts, lightly place the shell on the hat of the lady in front of you. By this time you have probably seen the show through once, but in order to secure your money’s worth, stay to see it again. If a person comes in and sits by you, tell him all about the picture in order to stimulate interest. After you have seen the picture again, begin your journey homeward to tell your room-mates what a wonderful time you had at the movie.

What can all those terrible noises be and what is this matter? Why here it is just five o’clock and from the noise I hear the dormitory evidently must be on fire! Oh! now I remember! How could I forget such an important occasion as this! Why I’ve been looking forward to this; very morning since the day I left home for Christmas holidays—but of course I didn’t forget! I was just awakened so suddenly—and without the chimes whirling about till I was kind of knocked off my balance for a few seconds.

Here they tear up the halls and doors, the stairs, the girls, little girls, fat girls, thin girls, pretty girls, all kinds of girls, all dressed up in their Sunday uniforms. Starting along they tear down into the dining room supposedly to eat a well planned, and balanced breakfast, but do they—why they’re so filled with happiness and joy, eating would be utterly impossible so for twenty minutes 700 girls wiggle and twist and use their mouths—talking as fast as they possibly can and when the signal is finally given after which seemed an eternity to them, they assemble out of the dining room, laughing, talking, blowing umbrellas, roommates while joyous goodbyes in every octave precede the mad rush for the depot!

“On Mary I just can’t wait to see Jack,” and “want Fred be surprised when he sees me come casually walking in,” and “I just cannot wait to see mother and daddy,” and “what are you going to wear to the party tonight?” are matches of conversation that can be heard.

Then there’s the joyous ride home, anxious, impatient hours of riding and waiting—then finally my seat in the distance a faint outline of the “Old Home Town!” well, look out Mr. Conductor, we will most likely be out of the train before you are and then—well don’t I think it’s necessary to say more.

The members of Miss Teaver’s Bible-Study Club recently elected the following officers for the new semester. The following were elected: Dorothy Henderson, president; Ruby Nead, vice-president; Elizabeth Jones, secretary-treasurer.

THE COLONNADE
A WONDERFUL TRIP

Friday morning found my room-mates hurriedly packing this, folding that, or pressing some little odd or end. Why all the excitement?—"Why Leo is going to a Student Volunteer Conference at Gainesville this weekend and we are trying to get her ready for the trip of a lifetime.

Just as the clock struck nine I walked up to Miss Nixon’s desk and presented my “leave of absence,” and all of the eyes turned to me and all of the whispering. But no wonder—I was out of uniform (even if all my clothes were borrowed) (they were still in the family). Miss Nixon let me leave agriculture at 9:15 and 9:30 found me walking down Atkinmen steps carrying a heavy hat-box. Terrell porch was lined with girls to see the eleven of us off.

Handy had we settled on the train when a big fat letter was produced—or revealed from some hidden nook. It was a train letter from Raye, and we had smiles of joy reading it "see you said some of the most amusing things. And to cap the climax, Edith had a big box of fudge from which we partook freely. The time passed quickly and we were soon at Macon.

We had only a few minutes in Macon so we were doing quite a bit of running when out of a clear sky Loraine announced she had lost her hat-box. Up the track and through the train she ran. We all held our breath until she was seen coming down the track with the precious box. We boarded the train to Atlanta and were soon on our way.

Mary, Mary Frances and I sat on the observation car most of the way to Atlanta—doing quite a bit of observing. As we neared Hapeville we went back in to see what the plans of the group were for our walk in Atlanta. Of course some had to go shopping and some to see shows. Others were lucky to have someone to mess with, but I was luckier of all because I went home.

We were one thrilled group of girls when we arrived at the Terminal in Atlanta—and someone there to meet nearly every one of us. We had one another goodbye at one-thirty and went our way until five-thirty when we met at Brookwood Station where we took our train for Gainesville.

Everyone was anxious to relate their experience or to show their new shoes or hat; but Miss Douglass was nice t for she had a box of candy to give us instead of to show us. And also a lawyer—a very nice man—sent us by us and bought everything that come by from clawing gum to a Mist and Jiffy book. W syllah girls, who were to at and the Conference were also on the train and we became acquainted with them. We had only an hour ride and then arrived at Gainesville.

Boiled girls were at the train to meet us and to carry us to the Y. W. C. A. Building to register. The first thing I did was to fall down—but it didn’t hurt. The Y. W. C. A. Building was beautiful and I wasn’t satisfied until we have one just as pretty. We registered and then taken to our places where we were to stay. Again I was the luckiest one—Mary Frances and I both, because we stayed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stillman, the nice people in Gainesville I just know. Just to show you how nice they were they had us hot food and drink waiting. We had only a few minutes until time to go to the first meeting. We stayed just around the corner so it didn’t take us but a few minutes to get there, so we all could and we then at the meeting.

Mr. Lowall, president of the Conference was in charge, and as this was the first meeting all the college were introduced. Representatives from each college stood when their names were called. Two or three always stood, and when G. S. C. W. was called and eleven stood up it sounded like a regular thunder rear. We were so proud of our delegation.

The meetings were wonderful. The messages were delivered so beautifully and there was an atmosphere of serenity and love in all of the meetings. The speakers included Dr. D. H. Anderson, Mr. Frank Baker, Mr. Chang, Mr. Jesse Wilson, Mr. Harry Bryant, Mr. Guerro, Miss Douglass, Mr. John and Miss Virginia Lewis, who was president of the Business Y. W. C. A. The subjects were the "Unfinished Task in China," "Sharing in Brazil," "Korea and Youth’s Challenge to Volunteers," "The Student Volunteer’s Place," "What in Mission, Challenge My..." "The Challenge of the Task" and many more interesting topics.

And I want you to know it has been raining somewhere besides Millidgeville because it just poured down the Saturday we were in Gainesville. Nevertheless, we attended all the meetings in the morning, afternoon and night; and Saturday afternoon we had a reception in the library of Brenau. Was a very interesting program and good seat. We had one meeting Sunday morning and then chased the church we wanted to attend. Mary Frances, Sally and I went to the First Baptist and heard every inspiring sermon in Molineo.

Mary Frances and I had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Stillman. The way they fed us was simply grand. And girls— they had gold and brown ice cream—our colors. And our mind. They really begged us to do it. (You even imagine how they had to beg us.)

We went to the last meeting Sunday night. After the meeting all of us went to the Little Inn in the restaurant where we were so peacefully eating, a stove-pipe fell, the dishes broke, the waiters was hurt, the room was smoky, the manager was hurryng and we were in the way. We
FIELD DAY

Girls Awake! Spring is here! With it comes the greatest event of the year—"FIELD DAY." Day is a gala event which is eagerly looked forward to by students and faculty. Why? It is a holiday and holidays are rather rare. Field Day is the grand finale of the athletic year, and everybody takes part, old, young, fat, thin. Of all the many festivities, surely there is one that you can attempt. Perhaps it is a hundred yard dash, running broad jump, standing broad jump, three relay, ball throwing, archery, rhythmic games, tennis, Basketball, Baseball, or any other of the many sports you may choose. Everyone works for herself as we all our class. It is the desire of each one to see her class colors, streaming from higher places than those of any other class. Therefore to everyone must enter wholeheartedly into the various activities.

We can make this Day surpass all other previous records if each will do her part individually and collectively—So come on girls, let's show our spirit!

When Field Day comes with all its glee
We'll have the Peas at old G. S. C.
For our colors waving in the air,
We'll play the game both fair and square.

BOOSTER'S DAY

What a fine thing it would be for us to set aside a day each year for boosting our college—for after all aren't we a little prone to forget the many things it has done for us—the barriers it has already helped us break down, that might otherwise have been stumbling blocks for our un guid- ing feet, the new pastimes it has opened to us through our growing knowledge, the deep and lasting friendships it has made possible, and greatest of all that self assurance it has given us in knowing that we are equipped to meet life's forces?

To the Seniors and Sophomores who will pass from G. S. C. corridors to pursue an even broader education in the school of "hard knocks," their efforts, their character, their success, above and beyond our college—but how much greater the boasting, if their spirit is fine, their ideals high?

To those of us who will be left within the gates to carry on even greater is our responsibility of loyalty and how essential it is that our spirit be enthusiastic and clear.

There is no better way to keep alive that attitude than through a definite expression of it to faculty and student body. So let us keep in mind the idea of an Annual Booster's Day.
In case anyone should not know of Monsieur Beaucaire, it is the pleasure and the privilege of the Colonnade to present him to its readers. The eminent Frenchman who will in the near future visit our campus kindly gave us an interview which we will endeavor to present as nearly as possible in his own words.

"True, I received a rather cool reception in England, but I do not altogether blame those so cold English. Blood, birth, station was all to that group, manhood was nothing. It is different in America, not? I went there to Bath, as no doubt you know, as a barbier, cut, I cousin to the king, and they, well they took me at my face value, is not that how say if?

"Yes, you are right, there had been a prank. My cousin, the king, he wish me to marry the princess, Madeleine; my cousin, a lady of great oh so great beauty and charm. But me, you see, I not like be forced to marry anyone. I say to the king that is not what you say business. So I tell the king so. Yes, it was foolish. I admit. The king be better than I and he Vairy-oh vazy angry. He threaten to banish, to imprison me, so 1, I slip away as the ambassador.

"There in England I grow weary and I run away to Bath. They find there that I have been barber to the ambassador and that Monsieur Nash he show me say of the pump room. That would not matter. I could laugh up my, how you say, sleeve, but there that day I see that beauty of Bath, Lady Mary Carlyle. Ah but she is beautiful, so like that noble French princess whom I will not marry. My heart it say to me that she will be king; that she would not throw out a poor Frenchman because he is a—barber.

"What came of it, you ask? Ah! That you shall know later. Is not my adventure to be portrayed on your campus? Look then, I beg you, and tell me. Would you have disliked the poor foreigner? Ah no, the hearts in America are kind, and those in the South, they are warmed by the same sunlight that warms the hearts of France.

"We know you Americans. My distinguished countrymen risked his life and fortune to lend his sword in your hour of need. Yes, you honor the Marquis de Lafayette even to day. And you came to us, only ten short years ago. Oh, we do not forget and you do not forget. It is good. Perhaps we shall aid each other again. Who can tell? Your friendship envelopes the poor foreigner. He is proud to have your sabbath, and he says with you—Vive la France! Vive l' Americique!"

Have you ever asked anyone to help you out? Has that person smilingly said, "Why gladly." And then have you been in a fever of suspense until the time for that person to arrive had come, and she had really appeared? The suspense was occasioned in your mind because there had been other times when she did appear, for one reason, or another, or no reason at all. If you haven't had an experience of this kind, just wait. You will. They come as surely as death and taxes.

Have you ever heard people selecting committees for one kind of work or another? What do they say? Will she work or will she procure a handy scheme of ill health, or a poor memory, or a pressing other engagement? The writer and reader have people to work with who will come when they are expected and do the best they can, than any number of erratic undependable geniuses.

What is leadership anyway? It's made up of the same ingredients that were once assigned to genius—"one part inspiration and nine parts perspiration." A leader is successful just so far as she is on the job herself. Reliability and efficient leadership might perhaps be spelled the same way for one is equal to the other.

Do you know someone who is chronically late? If church begins at eleven thirty, does she come strolling in at a quarter to twelve? If she is invited to a party, does she come at least twenty minutes late? What martyrs the chronically late are anyway. They have the most inefficient clocks in existence. They surely understood you to say four instead of half past three. The motor in their car simply would not run. They were held up by the most tremendous traffic. Tenliness is only a part of a lack of dependance. It's as easy to be on time, barring occasional emergencies, as to be late.

How do you choose your friends? Do you just use a "hit or miss" system or do you look for qualities of sincerity, loyalty, and reliability? A friend who can't help out, a friend who is only a "fair weather friend" isn't much of a friend after all. She isn't a friend very long.

Reliability—that's the key note of success. Believe it or not, it will be demonstrated soon enough. Turn other folks down, and one or later turn to be disappointed will come.
Mystery Play is Presented by College Group, March 9

"Hallucinations," a three act comedy, was presented by a group of campus talent in the auditorium, Saturday night, March 9. The play, a mystery, was directed and written by Mrs. Nellie Womack Hunt, and was presented as a benefit for the Y. W. C. A.

The mystery of "Hallucinations" arises from a peculiar situation. A man and his wife are very much in love with each other, but for various reasons, health, and the fact that he is on the verge of a nervous breakdown, the doctor has advised the husband to go on a vacation of two or three months for his "rehabilitation."

Quartley, however, has plans of his own, and plans to run away on which he can write a book, which has long been a dream of his, without the knowledge of his wife. He plans to surprise her, and thinking that she is going abroad for a few months stay, he fixes up one of the homes and plans of "stay there for his "vacation."

In his meanness, his wife decides that she is tired of travel, and without the knowledge of her husband, she too prepares to stay at home instead of going abroad. Each of them prevent the other, and later each thinks that there is no other escape of the house.

After the supposed departure of the Quartleys, Jimmie Slow, a cousin of Mrs. Quartley, arrives with his young wife and child. He learns from a paper lying on a table that they are without bread. He calls himself very much at home, however, and takes possession of his old apartment. Gradually new complications arise, and after many false readings and misunderstandings, they are all straightened out in the satisfaction of everyone.

Miss Margaret Jackson told the part of Allen Quartley, a would-be novelist, who was very much in love with his wife and distressed that he had to deceive her. As a result of a guilty conscience and an overstrained nerve, he had to think of the "hallucinations." Miss Jackson was splendid in this masculine role.

Rose Quartley, wife of Allen, was characterized by Miss Carol Burt. From the circumstances, which arise, she is led to believe that her husband is having an affair with another woman. Miss Burt's acting was superb throughout. Miss Frances Weston was fine in the role of Terrance O'Moore, Quartley's valet. It was he who did much to avenge her, and the tangled threads of circumstances.

Lesley达Cottle, as Jimmie Slow, and Miss Josephine Proctor, as Fuzzy, his wife, were splendid in their portrayal of the young parents who first and last though and considered was of their precious baby.

Miss Mary Elliott, in the part of the repressive wife who came in contact with "spooks" and other fantasies, kept the audience in a continuous uproar of laughter.

Last, and by no means least, were the parts of Miss Henry Speaks Fisher, a widow "on the lookout," played by Miss Robertine McClelland, and Miss Gisselle Green, who still had "hopes," taken by Miss Pauline Signman.

"Hallucinations," which was written, directed, and presented by Mrs. Elliott, a popular member of the music faculty of the college, made a huge success on its opening presentation. The author and the entire cast are to be congratulated upon the delightful full performance.

ALUMNAE NEWS

We wish to acknowledge the receipt of cards of information from the following members of the Alumnae Association. These have been received during the last two weeks:

Miss Mamie Watson, who graduated in 1911, is now teaching in Ochopee, Ga.

Although Miss Blanche Lane Brown, '25, is now Mrs. C. L. Boyd, she is continuing her teaching career in Hattiesburg, Texas.

In 1927, Miss Sarah Attry received a Normal Diploma. She is now teaching near Rome, Ga., her home town.

Mrs. W. H. May of Knoxville, Tennesse, was Miss Jewell Youngman, who graduated in 1925.

Miss Pauline Harrison of the class of '23 is living in Columbus, Mississippi. She is now Mrs. James Evans Combs.

Mrs. Lawrence S. Davis is also teaching. She was Miss Lawrence Spence when she graduated in 1909.

Mr. S. C. Jordan, president of the class of '25, is Mr. G. G. Nelson, of Decatur, Ga.

Music Week

The Sophomore class will present Ernaul this year, one of the great operas of Giuseppe Verdi. Miss Tucker has wished for several years to present this opera, but was never able, until this year, to secure enough copies for an entire class.

The entire class has been working very hard, and hopes to present one of the best operas to be given on the campus this year.

The Soloists will be:

Mr. Draper—Imerer—Tenor.

Mr. Raymond Nixon—Bass.

Mrs. Helen G. Long—Soprano.

Mrs. Helen M. Long—Soprano.

Martha

The Fresman class will present Martha, or The Fair At Richmond, by Friedrich Frechhans Van Floteo. The same soloists will appear in Martha that appear in Ernaul.

Miss Betty Jane Pierattt Honored at Pretty Tea, Saturday Afternoon

Miss Betty Jane Pieratts was honor guest at a lovely tea given by her mother, Mrs. Effie Pieratts, matron of Mansion dining room, Saturday afternoon, March 9.

After the guest had been received, a delicious salad course, with tea and dainty sandwiches, was served by the hostess, assisted by some of the Mansion girls.

The charming heron is a former student of the college and is now teaching in the high school at Sylville, Georgia. Those invited to meet Miss Pieratts were the Mush girls.

The Annual Debate

Of all the events that take place on the G. S. C. W. campus, there is none which arouses more interest of the faculty and student body alike than does the annual debate between the Senior-Sophomore and Junior-Freshman debating teams.

The debate this year, which is sponsored by the World Fellowship Committee of which Annie McPherson is chairman, will be on April 6. The subject is: Resolved: That the Cruiser Bill will invalidate the Kellogg Peace Pact. The affirmative side will be upheld by Miss Robertine McClellan of the Junior class and Miss Katherine Vincent, the Freshman debater. They will be opposed by Miss Eun Bell and a Senior and Miss Isabel Raitte, a Sophomore. Everybody come out and help us decide the fate of the nation!

"Boost Your College" Program

One of the most interesting chapel programs this year was presented Tuesday morning in chapel by representatives of each class. It was a "Boost Your College Day" program. The idea is such a good one that it is hoped that it will be used every year. Mrs. Terry and Caroline Chayney set up the program.

Caroline Chayney gave the introduction and told the purpose of the program, which was to show us more clearly why we should boast of our college, why we should be proud of it and what is it doing for us.

The history of the college was told by Elizabeth Stewart. She showed how our college has grown year by year from a small school to one of the leading colleges of the State.

Marie Long told the associations to which G. S. C. W. belongs and the benefits we receive because of it.

Mary Bohnann gave an interesting account of the moral and educational benefits of our college.

Catherine Jones gave a tribute to Dr. Beeson and the faculty which expressed the appreciation of the entire student body for what they have and are doing for us.

The advantages of G. S. C. W. were well summed up by Mary Elliott and Dr. Beeson.

NEW BOOK

Dr. WYN PUBLISHES NEW BOOK

A new book on Southern Literature is seen to be published by Dr. Wynn, which he hopes to have ready for the publisher by tuna this fall. Dr. Wynn has spent much (one gathering the material for this book), the title of which will probably be, "Southern Life in Southern Literature." The book will contain biographical sketches of 164 Southern writers, some of them now living. There will be a chapter on occasional poets which will include; Thompson's, "Missie in Camp" & Wilder's, "My Life is Like a Summer Rose"; Tinkham's, "Little Griffin of Tennessee"; Father Ryan's, "The Coppered Banner"; Meek's, "The Land of the Sun"; Timmer's, "Rhymers," and others. One chapter will be on Southern humorics and will include, William Tappan, Thompson, Richard Malcolm Johnson, and "Will An." One chapter will be on poets' lectures and another interesting chapter will be on Southern women who are writers of note.

The book will have between five and six hundred pages. The firm print they contained enough material for six volumes. This material was worked over and the material which did not measure up or was in any shape inferior was cut out.

Dr. Wynn has corresponded with practically all of the living writers to be mentioned and their encouragement and cooperation have been very helpful.
