NOTED EDUCATOR SPEAKS ON THE ENGLISH OF COMMONS

Dr. John Murray, member of English House of Commons, and Principal of the University College of London, one of the Prince of Wales is President, spoke to one thousand C. E. W. students and residents of the College on Tuesday evening, December 3, 1929.

He chose "The House of Commons" as his topic, for which he had read and made the first charge, by comparing it to the German, French and English Parliaments. He said: "It is very difficult to compare the House of Commons;—in France you must be respected and able to speak well. In England—very nearly any one can get a seat. We believe that whoever a person is young or old, rich or poor, distinctive or not distinctive does not matter. Many of the people elected have never read a speech. I have a friend who sat for two eight continuous years and never made a speech. You may ask what he did. He is, he is, he is. Some can talk but hold a good point to the House.

Dr. Murray next held in a interesting manner, how, by just an English professor, get into the House of Commons.

"It was in this season," he said, "I was asked to make a speech in one town and because they did not like me, a neighboring town, which happened to be West London, held so

The House begins work towards the business in the afternoon with the opening of the House of Commons in which the private members try to get the rules of the House. Next comes a period for debates, which at times forty men fight each other and the Speaker for permission to have the floor and deliver a speech, which they have probably debated over the last few years. At this season everyone expects corn for the proverbial English house—except the poor forty who must remain until dinner is over.

Concerning women voters in England he said, "Women are having a great effect on English politics. They make the men feel so uncertain. A man is at great disadvantages when he addresses a group of women or a mixed group. He can always be sure of the latter but when he is addressing a body of women he is behind his woman. Nobody solves the problem of the woman in the country. The man must stay on the point. They bring their heads to earth because their faces are not men. The man must be great or the greatest factor in keeping the country together. It is the duty of educated women to lead their nation."

FRESHMAN PRESENT CHRISTMAS PAGEANT

The numbers of the Freshmen English Club presented a Christmas Pageant at the Chapel service Saturday morning, December 14. The pageant, directed by Dr. Alice Brown, was presented in a delightful manner and was one of the most successful programs during the Christmas season which have been given at the college.

Doll Caroll was stage manager, the critics were Muriel James, Frances Leslie Cooke, Louise MacPhail, Reynolds, Frances Curr, and Vera Cohn.

The program was as follows:

Welcome—Lois Wise.

"The Christmas story—How the joy of the season.

So, if we can give all the world, we give it to one another.

Silent Night—Group of girls.

Take a look at the world.

Christmas Story Play—Mother Goose.

The Home of Christmas—Mother Goose.

Christie Chapman.

Song of Christmas Rose—Carla S. Chapman.

Sherry of Snow Owl and Snow Queen—Pamela J. Millard.

Legend of St. Louis—Mary Thrall.

Legend of Christmas Horse Play—Evelyn Renz.

Legend of the Happy Ax-Handle—Pamela C. Sisson.

Legend of Group of girls—Louise—Elizabeth Bailey, Dorothy—Elizabeth Bailey told the story of the pageant.

BEAUTIFUL INSTALLATION FOR FRESHMAN COUNCIL

The recently elected members of the Freshman Council were installed as one of the most inspirational and helpful service Sunday evening at St. Andrew's. The theme for the installation was in the "love and Christ child grown in wisdom and stature." Miss Anneliese Moynihan, first vice-president, recited the Christmas story from Luke. All the white Miss Blake played "Stille Come Upon a Midnight Clear" every year.

After a prayer by Miss Ellen Dyer, Miss Isabel Haddock, member of Freshman Council and Miss Nell English, president of Freshman Council, welcomed and had her candle lighted from that of Miss Moynihan. The candles of Miss Dorothy Louise vice-president, and Miss Ethel Seky, secretary were then lit. And from these three candles held by Freshman Council were lighted. Miss Helen Haller said "This Is My Task." The cast closed with the singing of "Follow the Carolers."

A Letter to Santa Claus

My Dear Santa Claus,

Your little helper for Christmas is an essential part of the holiday season, bringing joy and magic to hearts around the world. This year, I wish upon a star to make a special request. Please make sure to deliver toys and gifts to all children, especially those who may not have everything they need. Your generosity and kindness touch countless lives, reminding us of the true meaning of Christmas. Happy Holidays!

Sincerely,

Christmas Eve

Many times during the Christmas season, the air is filled with anticipation and wonder. Families gather to share stories, songs, and laughter. As the clock strikes midnight, the eyes of children around the world are fixed on the North Pole, eagerly awaiting the arrival of Santa Claus. In his sleigh, loaded with toys and gifts, he traverses the skies, spreading joy and merriment to all who believe.

SOME THOUGHTS FROM THE PRESIDENT OF THE WORLD FEDERATION OF EDUCATION ASSOCIATIONS

By Dr. Geo. Harris Walker

I decided to accept the invitation to visit Jordan on the condition that I would have the opportunity to see the beautiful city of Jerusalem and visit the holy places. We were unable to get there by train, as there were no trains running on that route. However, we were able to get there by bus and it was a wonderful experience. We visited the Temple Mount, the Wailing Wall, and the Dome of the Rock. It was a profound experience to see the sacred sites of Judaism, Christianity, and Islam.

Places of Meeting for Hon. By Groups

The Freshman History Group meets regularly on Friday afternoons in the following places:

Reading—Miss Paloma McIllvan—Y. Rose

Exhibits—Miss Mabel Beeson—Bryan Hall No. 6, Miss Ruth Bezos—Handerse—Miss Paloma McIlvan—Y. Rose

The school reformed in Athens, a great city of desire to visit.

The city of Athens reveals culture and beauty and aside from its attraction to historians it may well be considered the 'International Capital of the World.' Being the host of the League of Nations, the Conference to be held at the Cross and other great world movements would be sufficient for greatness. When you add to this its ancient and historic history one has a low respect for it as a short course in Sales constitutional law.

Switzerland, as you know, contains a Confederation of a Federal constitution, which has operated during long centuries of development, in order that the Federal constitution is a strong and legislative. This is the Empire—constituted of the Swiss Confederation for one year. It was very much deplored that it was not possible for Mr. Robert Bal, who is the President of the Confederation to be admitted to the Honorary President of the Union of the creation meeting.

The Federal Parliament is resident on the lines of the United States, the Senate being represented by the Council of State and the Senate by the Conseiller National. (M. Gabriel Lasso) who submits for the Comune de Genve (a member of this Congress.)

The Senate is the upper house of the Imperial Parliament, while the Senate is a Federal Council, which has 85 members, each of them a Federal Counsellor. One of them is the President of the Swiss Confederation for one year.
