EMORY GLEE CLUB TO SING SAT'DAY

South's Sweetest Singers to Give Program in College Auditorium as Autumn Number

Assisted by a trio of outstanding singers, William McDowell, pianist, George Rogers, baritone, and Joseph Giusti, violinist, the Emory University Glee club, of Atlanta, Ga., will appear in concert here Saturday evening at 8:00 o'clock, in the college auditorium. The program will be presented under the direction of Mr. W. O. Thaxton is head. The program is said to be one of the best that has ever been given in Emory University history, which has been called "Georgia's best hope for a symphonic organization" by noted musician.

Directed by Dr. Malcolm O. Dewey, president of Emory University, the Glee club, known in two capacities as "South's Sweetest Singers," has arranged a program which includes solos and choruses that will please both the discriminating musician and those who are not quite so particular.

The Emory Glee club, now in its fourteenth successful season, is renowned across Georgia, the Eastern States and several European countries for the variety and excellence of its programs. It is the first Southern College musical organization to undertake a national tour. Since 1912, when the club started its historic trip to Washington, D.C., at the hands of President Coolidge at the New Willard Hotel, Washington, it has traveled under the direction of Mr. Thaxton, "South's Sweetest Singers," applied to it at that time.

WOMEN'S COLRS TELLS STUDENT CHAIRMAN OF HOUSE CONFERENCE

Mrs. Kathleen W. Wootton, head of the department of health, who has just returned from Washington where she attended the White House Conference on Child Welfare and Protection, described the conference and its proceedings to students of the health department and social work department this week. Mrs. Wootton stated that every group of American citizens, the children, rural children, negroes, Indians, and children of prisoners. Their recommendations and reports were made upon the work and achievements of the past few years. The minimum requirements and essentials of all schools were recommended, also agreed upon by members of the several groups. The question of homes for study for children was discussed and was generally opposed by the first six grades of schools.

Mrs. Wootton also told in her talks the chairwomen of the House reception and the graciousness of her host and hostess, President and Mrs. Houston.

OLD GROWTH FLYS FROM FLAG POLE ON CAMPUS

Depression Ceremonies in Which Artillery Will Participate Part on Wednesday

Improvisation and patriotic sentiment were the keynote of the fly on the new American flag flying pole at the Georgia State College for Women Wednesday morning at 9:30. The fly was recently presented to the college by the Georgia Power Company in honor of the Civil War veterans, the stars and stripes not having been seen by it. The bands of the sixty-ninth regiment of the United States Army and of the Georgia Military College under Maj. General cotton, Chief of the regiment, gave several musical selections. The flag was solemnly raised to the sound of the Star Spangled Banner. The event was attended by the sixty-ninth regiment of the United States Army; the student bodies of the Georgia State College for Women and the Georgia Military College. Brought to the large group of towns people of Macon was the presence of the fellows of both colleges with whom to share in the festivities.

AIRPLANE DETECTING APPARATUS SET UP ON CAMPUS

Sargent Phillips and Corporal Bough explained to the centennial crowd of students, faculty, and townspeople the stunt which was set up on the G. S. W. campus. This is the most modern equipment of the national airplane. It consists of a sound detector, a repeater and a loud speaker. The sound detector can detect an airplane several miles away and give a very accurate report. The radio repeater transmits the data from the sound detector by radio to the War Department to inform him of the activity of the defenders. The sound detector can receive the message and then, by the use of the phone, send the message to the War Department.

FRESHMAN FRENCH CLUB ORGANIZED FRIDAY

Le Cercle Francais, a French club organized by Mrs. William Henry S. Farren, President, will meet French 11, and Friday November 14, to elect officers and complete their organization.

The following officers were elected: Louise Hatcher, President; Gladys B. Ways, Vice-President; Mildred Conklin, Secretary; Elizabeth Bell, Treasurer. The club has 54 members in the class.

It seems that the meetings would be conducted entirely in French and that the program should contain a good deal of songs, stories, current events and so forth—all of which must be in French. Miss Turner is the faculty advisor.

TWO MEMBERS OF CHEMISTRY DEPARTMENT ATTEND MEETING

Cooper and Farren, of the Chemistry faculty, attended the meeting of the Georgia section of the American Chemical Society, Atlanta, Georgia, Friday, November 14th.

An enjoyable event of the trip was a visit to the Georgia Tech swimming bath for the national president of the Society, Dr. McPherson, who addressed the company and the guests, and the opening of the new building. It was a great success to the hospitality and the many wonderful things that the guests have to see at the meeting.

JOURNALISM CLASS OF G. S. W. TO VISIT MACON TELEGRAPH

The Journalism class of the Georgia State College for Women will visit the Macon Telegraph on Friday, November 14th, for the purpose of visiting the Macon Telegraph.

A special train, chartered to convey the class to Macon, will leave Macon at 10:30 on Sunday morning. The train will stop at the historic site of the town, and the students will be conducted to the scenes of the historic events. The train will leave Macon at 10:45 on the morning of the return trip.

The trip will be made under the supervision of the journalism faculty, and will include a tour of the Macon Telegraph offices and press room.

A PRAYER FOR MY LITTLE SISTER

God, give my little sister confidence in the face of any Success, a lifted brow; with neither boastful laugh or tearful blackness; a serene image of hope and grace to give and take yet not over

Our God, give her resources and a self-respect

That she may soar—our epitome

A Freshman Writes Home

Millington, Ga., Nov. 28, 1930
Dear Little Sister:

Thanksgiving has come and gone. And with Thanksgiving, you, my little sister, have come and gone. But for me, there will never be such a sister day. I think that I shall never again be as extremely happy as I was last year, because you gave me my sister.

You know, they say that youth is the happiest time of one's life. I can say in all honesty that it is the worst.

But, sister mine, had it to be a stab to the heart of my happiness. I have often heard that there is no such thing as a perfect day. I did not tell you of my secret desires while you were here, for I wanted no little bit on your lot. But now that the day is over and you are back at home I am writing to tell you.

Little sister, do you remember the sister I received yesterday, the one I read and put away with one read? (A most extraordinary thing, I do!) to dash on my bosom and read between the lines, thinking deeply about them as I read.) That letter was—sister, forgive me, you understand how I felt? I was not feeling well. A rejection letter for the sort of poetry that I went after. At first I am sorry. To think of it! After the struggle I had to confine myself that I believed not in me alone, that to all the world, the world rejects! But, you see, I have been prepared for this.

The world would have glanced at my poem with but casual eyes. I think that, since I can hear that I can no longer be so young spirited than I was before, I can hear that I can no longer be anything but what I am now—a failure. I am a failure, and I have been prepped for this.

I think that the world has glanced at my poem with but casual eyes. I think that, since I can hear that I can no longer be so young spirited than I was before, I can hear that I can no longer be anything but what I am now—a failure. I am a failure, and I have been prepped for this.

And the people of the world have glanced at my poem with but casual eyes. I think that, since I can hear that I can no longer be so young spirited than I was before, I can hear that I can no longer be anything but what I am now—a failure. I am a failure, and I have been prepped for this.
