Dr. T. H. McHatton Thrills Audience
With Address at Garden Club

Dr. T. H. McHatton, professor of Zoology, University of Wisconsin, addressing the Millville Garden Club on October 5, in the auditorium of the Georgia State College for Women, Tifton.

Ms. Jennifer Wanamaker, editor of the University of Georgia, addressed the Millville Garden Club on October 5, in the auditorium of the Georgia State College for Women, on "The Physiology of Gardening.

The speaker was introduced by the president of the club, Mrs. Jemice Wagner, editor of the University of Georgia, addresses the Millville Garden Club on October 5, in the auditorium of the Georgia State College for Women, on "The Physiology of Gardening.

In his talk, McHatton related the story of the garden plant, making it clear to the audience that the garden plant is more than just a plant. It is a living organism, and like any living organism, it needs care and attention.

The soil, the water, the light, the temperature, all play a role in the growth of the garden plant. McHatton emphasized the importance of proper soil management and the need for watering at the right time and in the right amount.

He also spoke about the role of light in the growth of the garden plant, explaining that different plants require different amounts of light for optimal growth.

McHatton also discussed the role of temperature in the growth of the garden plant, explaining that both high and low temperatures can be detrimental to plant growth.

Out of the one hundred forty-three counties in which the garden plant grows, Georgia has the highest percentage of garden plant growth, McHatton noted.

McHatton ended his talk with a few closing remarks, thanking the audience for their attention and for the opportunity to share his knowledge on the garden plant.

Officers Named For Health Club

At the first meeting of the health club, held Friday afternoon, September 12, there was a good attendance of both old and new members.

A question was given a word of welcome and encouragement for the coming year after which she introduced Miss Agnes Scott, a recent graduate of Business Education.

As a short business meeting the officers for the following year were elected. They are as follows: Agnes Scott, president; Elsie Green, vice president; Leatrice Jones, secretary; Betty Clay, treasurer; Betty Clay, chairman of the social committee; Leatrice Jones, chairman of the social committee.

The news of the coming year was reported by Miss Betty Clay, who addressed the audience on the topic "The Health of a Girl in College".

Dr. J. R. Stewart, professor of Sociology, addressed the audience on the topic of "The Health of a Girl in College".

The meeting was concluded by the singing of the health club song, which was quite pleasant.

Mr. H. W. Jenick Speaks At Versers

Mr. H. W. Jenick, assistant pastor of the Milton Calvin Chapel, spoke at the Garden Club for Women last Thursday evening.

The program was begun promptly at 7 o'clock with a brief prayer by Mr. Jenick. The meeting was attended by a large number of students.

Mr. Jenick introduced the evening's program with a short prayer, thanking God for the opportunity to speak to the students.

He then proceeded to share some thoughts on the importance of health and how it relates to our daily lives.

The program continued with a talk on the practical aspects of health, such as nutrition and exercise.

The meeting concluded with a brief prayer and a song, "Thank You Lord for This Day".

Student Volunteer Retreat Participants

The Georgia State College for Women and the Student Volunteer Association held a retreat for their members at the Mistletoe Retreat Center, Milledgeville, Ga., October 12-13.

The retreat was an opportunity for the students to engage in various activities, such as workshops, small group discussions, and outdoor activities.

The retreat was well-organized and provided a great opportunity for students to connect with one another and with their faith.

The retreat participants were also able to participate in some fun activities, such as playing games and enjoying a bonfire.
