Bicentennial Commission
Honored At Reception

Dr. and Mrs. Reynolds entertained at an elaborate reception in the Grand Ballroom on February 15th. The evening was attended by many friends of the university, including the Governor and Mrs. M. J. Horne, the Mayor of Athens, and the city council. The reception was held in honor of Dr. Reynolds, who had recently been appointed President of the University of Georgia.

The reception featured a variety of refreshments, including hors d'oeuvres, pastries, and cocktails. A band played music from the early 19th century, setting the mood for the event. The guests enjoyed dancing and socializing in the elegant setting of the Grand Ballroom.

During the event, Dr. Reynolds spoke about the importance of the bicentennial and his vision for the future of the University of Georgia. He thanked the guests for their support and dedication to the university.

The evening concluded with a fireworks display, illuminating the sky over the University of Georgia campus. The firework display was a fitting conclusion to the bicentennial celebration, symbolizing the ongoing vibrancy and vitality of the university.

Overall, the bicentennial reception was a memorable event that brought together the university community to celebrate the past and look forward to the future.
Our College
