Practise School Has Big Classes

1, 10, W. Teching Lab. Has 400 Students.

The practise school, connected with the Georgia State College for Women, opened Sept. 21 with 409 students.

With the organisation of chap-tions of the Junior Red Cross and First Aid, together with home economics, modern and Latin clubs, the organisation is in the stage of forming after eight months' preparation in every detail.

To make these, the members met every week and worked in all the hold the red cross degree, and become members of the Junior Red Cross Club, and one or two of the members have been on the Nutrien Staff on a regular paper.

The school of the year 1935-36 is being run by Miss Emily Mc-

Army, the leadingstored correspondent of the Emory Student.

The second quarter begins Wednesday, September 27th.

The second quarter opens Wednesday, October 12th.

The third quarter opens Monday, March 25th.

The next quarter begins Tuesday, April 12th, and the thirty-three annual commencement will be Wednesday, June 5th.

Miss MILLER'S CAR STORE

Miss Anna Miller, teacher of physical education at G. S. C. W., was present at the Practise School Commencement and reported that her class was top of the first division in the class, and Miss Miller's Class received a new automobile.

At the commencement the new Chevallion was a great success, and will be a prominent feature of the Practise School in the future.
The College has long been a center of intellectual and cultural life. It is a place where students are encouraged to think critically, to challenge assumptions, and to pursue knowledge and understanding in a variety of disciplines. The college community is committed to fostering an environment of open dialogue and respectful disagreement, where all voices are welcome and valued.

The college is located in a beautiful and historic setting, surrounded by trees and gardens that provide a peaceful and serene atmosphere. The campus is home to a variety of academic buildings, residence halls, and athletic facilities, as well as a lively and vibrant student life.

The college offers a wide range of majors and programs, including liberal arts, sciences, business, education, and more. Students have the opportunity to work closely with faculty members who are experts in their fields, and to engage in internships, research, and other experiential learning opportunities.

The college is committed to diversity and inclusion, and is dedicated to creating a welcoming and supportive community for all students. The college offers a variety of resources and programs to support students from all backgrounds, including financial aid, academic support, and multicultural community events.

The college community is proud of its tradition of excellence in academics, athletics, and student life. We invite you to visit our campus, meet our students, and learn more about the exciting opportunities available at the college.

If you have any questions about the college or would like more information, please contact our admissions office. We look forward to hearing from you and welcoming you to the college community.
GSCW Freshmen Formulate Code

First Year Students are Getting Busy Saturday Night.

Concluding last weekend's series of entertainments, the G. S. C. W. "sweat" took advantage of the four-foot-high walk-up window in the student union by raiding the Recreation Hall for the expense budget of the freshmen.

At eight o'clock, "Congress," which was composed of a representative group of appreciation students led by Patricia Doo, met in the student union to make various problems which had arisen in connection with the freshman activities. and of drawing up a code for the first year group.

During the course of the discussion the problems were usually referred to the initial classes by a series of entertainments which culminated in a dance by Margaret Collins, Johnnie Oates, Mary Alice West, and Ramona Flowers; and a show in the Recreation Hall by Dorothy Smith, Minnie Zevak, Ev. O.; and Margaret Johnston, and Nellie Brown.

As a result of the vanguard the entire student body was invited to attend.
