Max Noah Heads Civic Music Organization

The first meeting of the Mil- ledgeville Community Choral Club was held Tuesday night, with over two hundred and twenty-five persons present. Included in the large group of singers were G. S. C. W. students, faculty members, and citizens of Milledgeville and nearby towns.

Mr. Noah, who is the director of the Club, announced the main project for the fall term as "Homecoming." He stated that he hopes to have the Milledgeville an event at 9:00 p.m. every Thursday, presented each year just prior to the football holidays.

Miss Maggie Jenkins and Mrs. Winer Honor Allin will be the accompanists for the group which will meet each Tuesday night in the auditorium from eight until 10:30 o'clock.

Mr. Noah stated following the first meeting of the society that he was delighted with the group and that the club would have the privilege of singing for the school and other events.

The society is a community project, and membership is not to include students only.

Milledgeville residents have signed their signatures joining the group, and other music lovers from Eutawville, South Carolina, and Tomtil have been invited to meet with the society each Thursday evening.

Prior to the last year or so little emphasis has been placed on the art of music by the Choral Society. The organization of this group was made with a spirit which promises to most successful.

Mr. Noah is a most capable director and the accompanists have had much training and experience in this type of work.

Cure For Nation's I'lls
Suggested By Senator

In a stirring speech typical of the LaFollette family for its clarity, logic and programming, Senator Robert LaFollette struck at the heart of the nation'sills diagnosing them as the result of the disappearance of the American people's faith in the integrity of the people. The American people have weakened other major depressions. As a cure for the senator proposed to reestablish the frontier, to restore the equality of opportunity which gave both a country its former economic support. In introducing a program of public improvements on a scale large enough to curb the poverty of today, LaFollette concluded that not only no equal distribution of money to keep the buying power to stop what is working. Selling the economic difference between wealth and poverty, the young leader of the Progressive party stated that he found the wealth to the limit of our capabilities. It has been the case of the G. S. C. W. at all times. All information is from the school's administration.

The Calgonade

Tennis Courts

We were talking about tennis courts. The story we've been completing about new courts in the Colonnade has been delayed, and we're really glad that things might be improved. It is as far as the courts are concerned, nothing has yet been decided. Tennis courts are a great deal of work, and with the costs of labor and materials, the tennis courts will get you in the other Colonnade. All in all, all the courts are ready.

The Village authorities have worked on the tennis courts to the point that they're just not going to be ready. It's not to be sure, but the preparation process will not be complete until the spring. They need more money. Grants are available, so we're sure the tennis courts will be ready.

On Chewing Gum

It seems like a step in the right direction to begin the year with a new law against chewing gum.
All the experts agree that chewing gum is not good for one's teeth, and it's not good for one's health.

But, as we chew gum, we're also saying that we're not willing to let other people chew our gum. This is not a healthy habit, and it's not a good one.

Letters to Editor

It's really nice to see letters to the Editor, whether they are for or against any issue. It's important to have a forum for discussion.

The editor of the Colonnade always enjoys reading letters from students. If you have something you would like to see in the paper, please write to the editor at The Colonnade, The University of Chicago,

Soph Commission Elects G. Collar As New Secretary

George Colyer, Atlanta, was elected as new secretary at the regular monthly meeting of the Colonnade committee at the dinner meeting held here Tuesday night. Other members of the commission include Margaret Garbutt, Albert H. Penney, Preston, Liddy Kirby, Atlanta, Thomas Coleman, Atlanta, Maraline Miller, Nellene Menten, Mary Winship, Mesa, Ethelyn Grecow, Mesa, Joan Beeler, Saratoga, Elizabeth Holley, Gladstone, Charlotte Edwards, Johannesburg, Margaret Fowler, Athens, Anna Lee Gargis, Atlanta, W. W. Caskey, Warner, Montgomery, Nora Burtieff, Atlantic, Alina Barron, Thompson, Mary Pechart, Greta McDonald, Covington, Tyrone, Atlanta, and Winnie Lamb, Warrenton.

Sophomores already came home early Saturday night. University hall was the scene of a large gathering of sophomores who were expected to do some sightseeing, and a large number of them did indeed go out for a stroll. The weather was much more comfortable than usual, and the crowd of people was quite large.

Advisory is a fortune: If you get stuck with your roommate, just cross over the gym to the other side of the floor and bring on the boys and girls. Last week some of the girls came home early to have their feet made up in gym shoes when playing on the basketball court. After one look at those shoes, we decided skis and football shoes would be more appropriate. The spirits will help dig up some of those male-skate shoes. By the second week, we're only hoping that all of our rooms have some sort of variation.

EXTRA: Those who can't keep up with the moonlight madness can surely come out to the Bell hall every night after supper and make a point for your class. By doing this, you can keep up with the girls and not become a fat, long-haired student.

La Follette

of it, it must be purchased with dollars and cents.

At the conclusion of his formal talk, Senator La Follette conducted an open forum on housing issues of the day, answering the questions of his audience. Stressing the need for legislation, he ridiculed the "social mythology" which is yet to be turned, saying that belief in this center prevents the operation of an economic price larger than our country's potential.

For the benefit of newcomers we've compiled the following brief college dictionary without which no room is complete. College—a place where girls who have to prefer a sooner to marriages are sent. Freshmen—a two-legged vertebrate noted for its speed. Sophomores—the lowest form of human sexuality and the highest form of human judgment. Juniors—a girl who is looking for a prom date who will actually care for her. Seniors—everyone wants to be. Freshmen—ones who wear all their new clothes first and keep the light on when you want to sleep. Professors—according to prominent sociology professor at college, the third, the other two being made and men.
