CHANGING HORIZONS

This week there comes to our campus a group of people outstanding among the social-minded leaders of the South. They are the students of the New Christian Association to present the Institute of Human Relations, the first institute of its kind, as an event which is to become annual provided that the student body sustains sufficient interest in the one now in session.

The present theme of the Institute is to be "Student Responsibilities in Social Change." Here you are assured that you will be given a vivid and broad view of the great social changes which have made this country what it is today.

The social changes, of course, are many. Many of these changes are for the better. Many others are for the worse. Many are not for either, or for neither. And many are for both. And many are for none at all.

Russell Becomes Library Friend

To the already distinguished list of members of Priests of the Library is now added the name of Senator Robert R. Russell. He has given a check to the fund for the construction of the library building. This library is named for Senator Russell and is to be called the Russell Memorial Library.

The Library Club decided to try this year to give a three-act comedy play called "The Three of Us."
