The thing of greatest interest this week and the occurrence of this month is likely to affect the history of this country is the president's message to Congress. It is the President's responsibility to formulate the government's program toward the realization of these objectives that has been the Supreme Court.

The opposition commentators have expressed the belief that the message is more a surprise, inasmuch as Harry W. Blackmun has pointed out, they speak of the time during the campaign in which the change in the court would be elected. However, it seems to be a natural move by the President.

Briefly stated, the President's program that will be presented for the consideration of the court. It is the President's desire to see the court expeditiously.

School and faculty advisor of the group. This will consist of two sections, one in the afternoon and one in the evening, devoted to news and editorial problems of the news- paper. Both sections will be held with business and advertising topics. Each of the colleges in the association will be represented by speakers at these round tables.

In the evening there will be a dinner, at which prominent edit- ors, soon to be announced, will be the speakers.

Other officers of the association are Frank Eklund, Emory University, vice-president, and Miss Frances Young, Brenau Col- lege, secretary.

Sponsored by the Gentry School of Journalism and the University of Georgia, the Columbia Press Association was organized in Athens May 4, 1932, and is de- signed "to provide a closer associa- tion among the college journalism of Georgia in order to exchange means of recognizing meritorious efforts through the award of suit- able prizes, and to raise the standards of the college press of Georgia, and to foster an interest in journalism not only as a profession but as an important art."

The association holds two meet- ings each year—one at the per- manent headquarters, the Gentry School, and the other at some other college or university in Georgia as an invitation. Second meeting this session will be held in May at Armstrong Junior College in Savannah, of which R. A. Lewis is the president.
