Changes In Staff Include Elevation Of Two Associates

Lucy Caldwell was elected alumni of the 1933-55 Colonnade staff as the student editor on Wednesday, November 1st. Catherine is former in the nature of a promotion since it holds the same duties as associate editor.

Following a request change in the editorial staff, two associate editors were selected, one to take over the former duties of the student editor, the other to supervise the work of the students. Betty Donathan and Mary Kethley will serve as the two associates editors.

Mary Kethley has acted as one of the news editors during the past year, while Betty has served as a copy editor.

Susan Armstrong is in charge of the Library.

The meeting of the business meeting on Wednesday was unusual since it was held with the work of the business managers, who will then be brought to the change in all advertising and financial matters of the paper. Ed Howell, who worked in the advertising department, is now the

A CAPPELLA CHOIR MEMBER WITH MAX NORIA, DIRECTOR

SYMPHONY GIVES

Cappella Choir presents the first of its series of five concerts in the new season. The program was titled "The Music of the Renaissance," and the audience was favorably impressed with the performance. The choir sang a selection from "The Mass in G Major," by J. S. Bach, and "Magnificat," by Thomas Tallis. The choirmaster, Max Noria, directed the group with skill and precision.

Mallory and Clark

The Mallory and Clark Quartet presented a program of piano music, including works by Brahms, Schumann, and Mendelssohn. The quartet was well-received by the audience, which was appreciative of the high level of musicianship displayed.

Jesters Present

The Jesters, under the direction of Mr. Williams, presented a humorous and light-hearted program, featuring skits, songs, and trivia quizzes. The audience was entertained by the group's wit and妙趣横生的表演.

Choir Trip

Huge Success

The Cappella Choir's trip to the choose of Max Noria was highly successful and made excellent progress throughout the season. The choir performed before the House of the State of New York, in New York City, and in Atlanta, and sang selected portions of their programs. They also performed at Magnolia State University and at Springfield College, and hosted two special occasions at Colby Hall College.

The highlight of the activities was the trip to Florida, where the choir sang in the opening ceremony of the new building on March 17, with the first concert held in the newly constructed auditorium. The choir went to Augusta and Waycross on March 22, with the choristers performing in Jacksonville. They also sang in Pensacola on the west coast, and in Ft. Lauderdale, Miami, and Ft. Myers. On their return to Georgia, the choir appeared in Savannah on March 24, and at Augusta on the twenty-ninth. They gave their final concert on March 26 in Athens, Georgia, and returned to the Glee Club's home in Milledgeville.

The choir's activities were concluded with a banquet on April 17. The main event was the annual ball, held with the presence of Prof.Virgil V. C. Breech of the University of Georgia, who was chairman of the committee responsible for the event. The Glee Club's activities this year were splendidly successful, and the promise of the next season was promising.

The graduating classes were preparing for their final events, with the commencement and graduation ceremonies approaching. The seniors were busy finalizing their preparations, and the atmosphere was filled with a sense of excitement and bittersweet emotions.

Statistics Show

Little Reading From Choice

In the fall quarter of the current year, a total of 150 students were enrolled in the course. Out of this group, 25 did not check out a single book from the library. (This statistic does not include those who returned books.

In conclusion, it is clear that a significant number of students are not engaging in active reading. The Cappella Choir has been instrumental in promoting a love for reading among its members, and the success of this program can be attributed to the choir's relentless efforts.
Seniors Stage

February 16, 1937 — Senior Week was climaxed with the pre- sentation of the senior marshals, who were chosen from the senior class by a committee headed by Mrs. Jemima. The marshals were:-

Edward J. Wilson, President of the Senior Class.

The Senior Band was formed and practiced under the direction of Mr. Martin McGavo. The band was equipped with forty players, and the performance was given in the gymnasium on Thursday evening. The program included the national anthem, "The Star Spangled Banner," and concluded with "The Happy Wanderer," played by the entire class.

The Senior Class was also represented in the PAGEANT, which was held in the auditorium on Friday evening. The pageant was a production of the Senior Class, under the direction of Mr. Marlin McGavo, and was entitled "The Story of the College." The program included a variety of musical numbers, choruses, and a dramatic presentation. The pageant was well received by the audience, and was considered a success.

Busses for Capitol

March 18— Seventy-five students, equipped with spring wardrobes and busses for their trip, visited the nation's capital. The students visited many of the public buildings in Washington. On Friday night the students spent the night at the Washington Hotel. On Saturday morning, the students were driven to the Washington Monument on the left. The next day, after a short visit to the White House, the students returned to the hotel, where they regaled themselves with a splendid dinner. The trip was well planned and executed, and the students had a very enjoyable time.
