THESE PEOPLE MAKE NEWS

This week we decided to make a cross-section of opinion on the campus, much in the same manner as Mr. Gallup. At the suggestion of one of the more zealous members of the faculty, our topic was: "Adviso—take your choice."

When we accosted Louella Menden, it was right after she had left so, honestly, she replied to our question:

"Animal Why Louella Menden have, please. But I'd much prefer being a student. You know, they are so pretty. Of all birds I like them best." We sighed with her and hastily left when the light dawned on her.

M. Jergian, a female student, when we asked if she would like to choose an animal I think she did right nicely.

M. Jergian: "If I just had to choose, I'd pick a horse or a dog. Why a horse? Well, they are so big and strong and pretty and useful and well, a thousand more things."

We caught Del Peacock just before the Folk Festival and as she was in such a dither, our little problem didn't phase her.

"Of course I never want to be an animal but if I should have to I'd choose a horse. I think a horse would suit me great."

For the second year this orchestra has been invited to take part in the Atlanta's Music Week and will give the program for Friday evening, May 18, for the 1909 celebration.

Student Council Proposes Changes In Regulations

Faculty-Study Committee to Vote on Suggestions at Meeting Next Tuesday

Every spring Student Council appoints a committee to study the rules and regulations which have been in effect during the past year and to make suggestions for their revision. This year's committee consisted of: Betty Adams, Esther Boomer, Virginia Collar. The list of suggestions will be presented to the faculty-committee next week. They have not yet arrived at the final form of the final product of their labors, but they suggest, changes for the rest of the articles, see your handbook. Article II, Section 3—4:00 p.m. Freshman room lights must be extinguished a. m. b. c. d. e. sections unless the article is not in the handbook; but section 5 of 10 p.m. On nights of Housing weekend, lights will be extended until twelve o'clock.

Article IV, Section 4, Meals Downtown. Meals might be bad in down town day morning during town-going hours, and for the mid-day meal downtown.

Article VI, Section 1, Quizzing is often served during the Housing ceremonies, and a special day will be set aside for Housing quizzes.

According to Signs-Girls Love Peace and Quiet

A large white sign appeared near the Hospital. Witness the doors along the walls of any dormitory—particularly Freshmen dorms.

One particularly attractive design was a large white sign with the words, "Closed for Inventory—lasting at the unwelcome visitors. On the same door was a hand written message that read, "Stop! I Am The Law!" with a blue-coated figure of a police man glaring from the placard to substantiate the claim.

Another friendly growing design to ward off intruders is a pleased bearing the inscription, "We Don't Live Here Anymore!" Not such a bad idea at that, it seems. As many a young female wishing, "It Ain't Much, But It's Home and We Love It."
We Want Better CGA? Then Take Responsibility

Some of the proposed rules and regulations appear in this issue. The entire list will be published before the next meeting, so that you can consider them. Many of the rules that have already been passed should be changed or eliminated to meet the needs of the members and their interests. The society's aim is to provide a forum for discussion and debate, and it is up to each member to ensure that the society's goals are met.

According to the Associated collegiate Student body, a meeting was held in the University of Florida press room on Monday evening. This is a regular meeting of the student body at GSCW and is for the purpose of making the college environment as comfortable as possible for the students who are attending.

A week ago or so, Betty Dotzant, an official at the US government, went to make a survey of the area. She was interested in the large number of students who were attending. The survey was conducted by the US government, and it is believed that the results will be used to improve the college environment for the students.

The Associated Student Body at GSCW would like to see the college environment as comfortable as possible for the students who are attending, and we are working towards this goal.

With all the people here going about their daily lives, it is important to stay alert and keep track of any suspicious activity. Though the story is fictional, it serves as a reminder of the importance of staying aware of our surroundings and taking necessary precautions. The main character, a young girl, learns the hard way that one must always be on guard and prepared for any unforeseen circumstances. The plot is well-written, having no loose ends, and it is sure to capture the attention of the reader from start to finish.

"Wuthering Heights" Reviewed by Lewis

How can the screen version of "Wuthering Heights" hold up to the original book? Though the novel is considered one of the greatest works of English literature, it is not without its challenges when adapted for the screen. The story of "Wuthering Heights" centers around the love affair between Catherine Earnshaw and Heathcliff, two love-struck characters whose passion transcends the boundaries of class and society. The novel is a masterpiece of gothic fiction, with elements of mystery and suspense that keep readers on the edge of their seats. The screen version of "Wuthering Heights" is a testament to the enduring power of literature and its ability to capture the hearts and minds of audiences across generations.
