LATE NEWS BRIEFS

The biggest news tonight comes from the scene at the German-Polish border. In a surprising move, the French, who have been urging the British and Americans to take a harder line against Germany, have ended their opposition to a political solution.

In France, the French government announced that they will not block the rearmament of Poland, a move that was previously opposed by the British and Americans. This move is seen as a significant step towards a diplomatic solution to the crisis in Europe.

In the United States, President Roosevelt has announced that he will not seek re-election, a decision that was widely expected but still comes as a shock to many.

In other news, the Japanese government has announced that they will not invade China, a move that was previously feared. This decision is seen as a major victory for the anti-war movement.

Goering is White Hope for Overthrowing Hitler According to H. Wolfe

Goering is the man in Germany whom England and France are pinning their hopes of overthrowing Hitler," declared H. Wolfe, a leading expert of foreign affairs in his lecture here Thursday night before the Institute of Human Relations.

Wolfe explained that Goering is the only capable man left in Germany who could lead the country back to peace. Wolfe said that Goering has been a strong advocate of peace in the past and that he is the only man who has the moral courage to take on the task.

Isserman Points Out Unity of Races, Creeds

In order to achieve unity among races and creeds, it is necessary for all people to understand and accept the fundamental principles that unite us all.

Dr. Isserman, an expert on the relationship between religion and human behavior, discussed the importance of understanding the similarities among different cultures. He emphasized that the focus should be on the common values that we share rather than the differences.

Reception Given After Wolfe's Talk

Dr. Isserman gave a talk on Thursday evening at the residence of President Roosevelt. The reception was attended by many prominent figures, including the President himself.

The atmosphere was one of celebration and hope for a better future. The President made a speech, expressing his gratitude for Dr. Isserman's insights and his commitment to promoting understanding and peace.

THESE PEOPLE MAKE NEWS

Stories by Scandal-lights

Ship Found Out

The power of the press is truly apparent, as Pauline Kowalski and the editors of the Detroit Free Press were recently involved in uncovering a political scandal that has stirred the nation.

In the midst of a major political campaign, a group of well-known politicians and their associates were found to be involved in a scheme to manipulate election results. The Free Press, under the leadership of editor Pauline Kowalski, conducted an investigation that revealed the extent of the corruption.

The investigation began when a tipster contacted the newspaper with allegations of financial improprieties. The tipster claimed to have evidence of illegal activity, including the use of campaign funds for personal expenses.

Undeterred, the Free Press team launched a comprehensive investigation, gathering evidence and interviewing witnesses. The investigation continued for several months, with the newspaper publishing articles on a weekly basis.

Finally, the evidence was conclusive. The Free Press published a series of articles that exposed the extent of the corruption, leading to widespread public outrage and calls for criminal investigations.

The impact of the Free Press's reporting was significant. The scandal sparked a nationwide interest in political ethics and led to a series of reforms at the state and federal levels.

Publicists—Columnists

I regret that there was nothing to write about in the Detroit Free Press this week. I am frequently writing about the events of the day, but I find that the press is too busy covering the latest news to take time to analyze the underlying issues.

I am a firm believer in the power of the press to influence public opinion and shape the course of events. It is my hope that the media will continue to serve as a watchdog for the people, ensuring that those in power are held accountable for their actions.

Bill, SAE at Tech is GSC Underclassman's Dream

'Life's Design' column is popular with students at the University of Michigan, where the staff has been investigating the lives of its readers and providing advice on a wide range of topics.

The column is written by a university student who has been selected as the 'designer' of the life of a young person who has been identified as an 'underclassman' at the university.

The designer is responsible for creating a life plan that will help the underclassman achieve their goals and dreams. The plan includes a detailed schedule of events, activities, and experiences that will help the underclassman become the best possible version of themselves.

The 'designer' works closely with the underclassman to ensure that the plan is tailored to their specific needs and interests. The designer also provides guidance and support to help the underclassman stay on track and achieve their goals.

The 'designer' is selected from a pool of talented students who are passionate about helping others achieve their dreams. The designer is chosen based on their ability to create a compelling life plan, as well as their commitment to serving as a role model for the underclassman.

The 'Life's Design' column is a popular resource for students who are looking for guidance and inspiration. It is a testament to the power of the press to bring attention to important issues and provide solutions to the challenges facing young people today.
Hey, fellow, how about a lift?

Because of catchflees and nooks connected by catchflees, students at the University of Iowa were having a bad time getting rides—at least they were having a bad time telling jokes about the University of Iowa. So, to change the situation, students at the University of Iowa decided to come along with a little joke. Now don't get me wrong, the ride in the Elevator is just as bad, and not only are the jokes for their own amusement, but some of the students who couldn't make it because they were too busy, and others who didn't have a ride just have to do it.

Dear Editor,

I noted last week in the Campus camera column that students were discussing their future. May I say that "the rule of the pasture is not given to the ox" (Eccl. 9:10). I understand that a pasture cannot go as far as the ox can. And since the future cannot go as far as the ox, we are usually concerned with the future. But because we cannot see the future, we should be more concerned with our present duties.

Wednesday Chapels May Be Compulsive If Not Attended

Our Wednesday morning chapel series are in danger of being discontinued! Although the program for the past have been excellent and have presented to the students really the best idea for the listener, the crowds have been almost nonexistent. It would seem that such a program conducted in this way, without announcements, epidemics, etc., should be more useful and interesting than otherwise. Chaplaincy classes should become a daily habit and a pleasure at this time.

Boys Should Be Allowed To Smoke When Dating Here

It has recently been suggested that boys during GCCS sports activities be allowed to smoke. This question has been discussed before and at the last few brought up the college presidents of the opposition were that it created a fine habit and that there are no smoking facilities provided in the public and re- sulted in false facts.

These are too little items to consider in any sense. Indeed, there is a great need for a sense of public welfare in the community.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Students were asked the question about the problem which has been given to them. This was a very good question. It was asked because we want to know about their feelings. The students are very happy about it.

Refugee movement as we know it today is a new form. It is not only a new form, but a new idea. It is an idea that is very popular.

Refugee movement is new in Canada. We have a lot of new ideas in Canada. We are very happy about the new idea.

Another happy student.

The other letter was an unsigned protest to last week's allowing to the better from France. Some of the arguments were undoubtedly justified, but as to the claim the editor was believed to be raising on the general level of backgrounds represented here, we can see no particular disgrace connected with coming from some class families, as most of us do.

part now in force with Germany in terms of Russian "guilt" and "honor" and concluded that she has had about as much as she has gained by the measures. The same thing is true of Germany" he added.

"It is my opinion" Dr. Harvey said. "That Russia's action is still dominated by the idea of world revolution. She expects and hopes that of the present struggle will find the nations of the west work and turn by internal strife and revolution, and thus rise for type of revolution which is her own.

She has suffered one serious loss, however, she has made it possible for Germany to win, and one thing is certain, a victory for Germany in its war means the doom of Russia.

from the classical to the modern style. The legs show close connections about 20 songs from minority, once in Latin, some German, some English. The music is merely adapted in forty or eight part harmonies and very different. Most of the numbers are done in parts and picturesque effects can be obtained through singing without accompaniment and the delightful qualities of the boys voices are not lost in the too often overshadowing piano accompaniment.

The choir has sung in thirteen different states, traveled over fifteen thousand miles and appeared before approximately fifty thousand persons. Last year they made their radio debut over the 138 Columbia stations. The choir is nonsectarian, and non denominational. committee to work on the problem, and it has worked with a success comparable to that of the League of Nations, and for the same apparent reason, a host of whole hearted support from the strongest countries. Quibbling and procrastination has prevailed and no definite program has been successfully worked out.

American Attitudes

American public opinion divides into three main attitudes concerning this question: First, Let them live. We cannot stand their plight. Second, Keep them out! We have troubles enough of our own and too much unresponsiveness under existing conditions. Third, Get them out of our right. They degenerate us. Where they go we don't care!

What part is The United States to take? No one seems to be sure, but we might as well admit the fact that some action will very probably have to be taken. No nation can strive for and obtain a place of power and leadership without accepting some of the accompanying responsibilities.
