We went to another party. [143x1490]What do you think of the Masqueraders’ idea of a barn party? [146x724]I’m sure all of you know what a barn party consists of. The Masqueraders gathered all sorts of fun—fortune-telling, cake walks, square dancing, round dancing, and fun for all.

Hilda Pursen said that the part that she liked most about it was that it was hilly. “We like changes in all other matters, so naturally we enjoy changes in social affairs. I think that it is a fine idea.”

Libby Upshaw, a freshman, remarked, “I like just such parties and I hope that we will have more of them. They’re the greatest fun, and we could have some one Saturday night, and let it last until twelve. The only objection I have to the Masqueraders’ barn party is that it came at such an inconvenient time. It’s too bad that it was impossible to have it on some weekday when all of us could be there.”

There must be a story—

So I'll let my little solemness find the truth,

I find the petals, the petals,

And I find the motifs, the petals.

I walk, I walk, I walk,

And I find the motifs, the petals.

I walk, I walk, I walk,

And I find the motifs, the petals.

I walk, I walk, I walk,

And I find the motifs, the petals.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:
The Georgia School Music Festival is making a definite contribution to the life of Georgia. Superintendents and principals as well as music directors are realizing the value of music to the child as a part of his or her daily living. In order to create an incentive for the students and teachers to study and learn to play certain instruments or to sing, the Music Festival was started in 1957. It has been given by the state and local school systems, and with the continued help and cooperation from the students and administration of GSCB and GMS, will continue to do so.

In behalf of the Georgia Music Education Association and the Georgia School Music Festival, I would like to express our appreciation to all the students and educators who cooperated in making the fourth annual Music Festival the success that it was.

We are looking forward to next year with renewed anticipation for a bigger and better festival.

(Signed) M.C. ROGAL
