24 Named for 1940-41 Who’s Who

6 Seniors, Eight Juniors Chosen from Student Body By Committee of Ten

Sixteen seniors and eight juniors were named Monday to represent Georgia State College for Women in the 1940-41 edition of the national publication, “Who’s Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges” by a special committee which chose the students from a list of 91 girls nominated by the student body and the faculty.

Freshman Initiation Recalls Early Days for Many at GSC

WSB Audition For Talent to Be Held Wed.

In search for talent, Mr. Marcus Bartlett, production manager of the WSB transmitting station in Atlanta, will hold auditions on the GSC campus in the Russell auditorium, Oct. 23.

WSB is soliciting all the continents of Georgia in alphabetical order by letting each of them present a half-hour radio program.

All students are eligible for the Baldwin county program and are urged to tryout on Wednesday, Oct. 23 from 1 to 6 o’clock in the auditorium. The judging will be Mr. Bartlett, Mrs. Max Noel and Mrs. Edgar Long.

Those girls that choose participation will perform the following afternoon for the recording that night at 8 o’clock.

All tape people, visitors from the country and students are cordially invited to come and see how a radio program is conducted.

However, every one is asked to come at 7:30 for the doors will be closed at 8 o’clock sharp.

All schools in Baldwin county will be represented in a show that will use the opening and closing songs. The audience also will be asked to join in the closing song.

As the fresh-nipped themselves in required attire and admitted to the Majesty Junior their degree of honor, Freshman Initiation Day was full swing Thursday.

The seniors ruled supreme. The lovely freshmen were required to arrive at 6 a.m., dress their robes and be in line in front of Terrill Hall by 7 o’clock. Smoking, drinking, chewing gum, and wearing jewelry were strictly prohibited and speaking to a sophomore or senior became a sin.

The lovely freshman was ordered to show her degree of participation by throwing in a shiny silver, white shirt, white shoes and red ribbon a George Washington, in hair, and to be as smart as the president.

Under the kind supervision of the Majesty Junior, the freshmen were lined up before each meal and marched into the dining halls. They were required to stand at attention after the meal until they were given the signal to march back to the front of Terrill Hall. There was to be no talking at meals and in the halls of interior and classrooms.

The freshmen were advised to remember that at all times during the day a Junior’s word was law. At any time when meeting one of the members of the Junior class the fresh woman was required to knock and repeat the following creed to the satisfaction of the Junior: “I, if the fresh-skin of an animal be directed at me, is not a subject, and other extraneous matter be measured, it is a dilute solution of toxic acid, a chemical.

Igrowing Class Bells

We have heard that “it is the little things that count” and perhaps that is true. But in this case, it is the little things that irritate.

Tucked away is some unimportant note in the catalog and handbook is a sentence saying that classes will start as soon as the weather is favorable. The notice may mean to be just for the benefit of the new students, but to us, it has assumed more importance than it would care to admit.

We don’t ask that any teacher break off in the middle of a sentence or a word to dismiss his class, but we do ask that he refrain from taking the same class meetings during discussion after the bell has rung. When the bell rings, we students feel that the hour allotted to our teacher is over and that he should finish his speech.

Unfortunately, some of the teachers don’t share our feeling that this is a truth. This sort of thing if necessary to run to the next class. To add to our woe, it is more than likely that the teacher of the second class is in the streets, picking up an idea for the next morning. It is a vicious circle of being late to one class because of being kept in class through discussion, and being kept in class through discussion after the bell has rung.

We would like to see our class times cut into our classes without having run from our previous class, and trusting that we will be dismissed as soon as the bell rings.

We Want to Stagger

Annoying in chapel, there is an explanation made about the stagger system. This explanation is made for the benefit of the new students and for those of us students who have failed to grasp its intricacies. Almost all the students listen and take heed, as do almost all the faculty members.

There are some courses taught on this campus that, in the eyes of the teacher, require extra class work. When examinations are being closed and when the class log is important, it is important that these class meetings be held.

We understand that some extra work must be done for these courses and that we do not object to being taught a class two or three times a week, preferably on the day when the class is supposed to stagger.

We believe that no teacher should plan in the beginning of quarter to crowd so much work in for the three months that his class will be required to meet six days a week roughly. If this same system were to maintain, we should have some announcement, some special mark in the catalog about it.

QUOTABLE QUOTES

By Associated College Press

“Only two men can carry a democracy, and no man who do not have something to say can carry anything.”

- Louis C. Firing, professor of chemistry at Bucknell University.

Freshman Soliloquy

To the young American girl, the most important crisis in life is not the preoccupation with living as it is but the difficulty in making it worthwhile. We talk too much of dying and too little of our daily school. She may be our own.

When you face college, you face your own life of tomorrow. The cyclone of tomorrow will blow where it will. It will not matter if you are prepared. The storms of life are usually ready your ability to go along, no matter what you decide. It is what you do that is a matter of importance. We will have to bear your burden and strive for our own new condition in life.

The feeling of friendship developed in the dormitories and on the campuses to be the most valuable social activity of a girl's life. For the most part, any girl who does not claim her share of this social activity will find that it is a mistake of the first degree. This cliques develop what a real girl may reason to be an adult member in our human beings. Such people belong to our human beings.

We are trying to pass our power and character-building lessons in a more natural fashion than before. In the admissions classes, our aim is to develop a girl's character, not just to give her a certificate that says, "S. S. College." We must keep this in mind and understand the development of a girl's character that college offers her.

STORIES by SCANDAL

Has the intelligence rating of the Jones family been lowered? We have not been able to find the Jones family in the campus directory. We are not sure who our one or more editors who have covered the Jones family. They may have been on the staff of the campus newspaper at the time. It is possible that they would be able to give us an accurate account of the family.

Some friends' taggers strike us again with their explanation of the Jones family.

Seabourgh Speaks to Home Ec Students

Min Seabourgh spoke to a group of home economics students, including Mr. W. M. S. Burroughs, Mr. W. M. S. Burroughs, and Mr. W. M. S. Burroughs. Mr. W. M. S. Burroughs, who is the president of the campus newspaper, was present.

The economic department shows an increase in enrollment this year. There are 132 business, 100 home economics, 81 regular faculty, 57 students, and 100 non-students. Plans are being made to add a unit for the new student entering the department.

MACMILLAN, Evatt Chosen Health Club Officers

Lucile MacMillan and Agnes Evatt were elected to the office of secretary and treasurer, respectively, at the first meeting of the Health Club which was held in the home of Miss Stuart Wooten on Monday night. The club received 12 new members at the meeting. Plans were made for an outing to be held in the near future, and for the programs for the whole year which will be combined into a yearbook. The main project which is to be sponsored by the club during the year will be connected with the Red Cross work of Baldwin county. A week room will be held open for college students in which supplies will be made to help the Red Cross.

KENT, Ohio (ACP)—Entering students today are in much better physical condition than their predecessors, examinations of 1,000 freshmen entering Kent State University show.

Dr. E. G. DeWane, director of university health services, said physical improvement has been inducted for 12 years. Outstanding improvement in physical condition has been shown, the doctor said, with both body and muscular development also faster.
