Hery, Noted Ga. Chemist, Remembered at GSCW

By RUTH ADAMS

Sixty-seven years ago the citizens of a thriving middle Georgia town learned that no longer could Milledgeville be the capital of the Empire State. Atlanta would become the new capital. This same year the old State Penitentiary, which was located on the present main campus of the Georgia College for Women, was to be transferred to Atlanta.

The ground formerly occupied by the state penitentiary was soon inhabited by citizens anxious to build homes. Mr. and Mrs. Bernard B. Hurst were among the first settlers on the new ground. Little did these proud parents realize that the child that came into their home in 1872 was destined to become a great chemist. Should such a deduction have been made, the idea would have been ruled out. As if to further effect the story of world was still in a mysterious field to meet Georgians.

Yesterday the campus of Mill-degville saw Charles Herry as a little boy with a quick mind. The Georgia of 1941 is not a country for the young;

Alumnae Gilt

Announced

As an anniversary gift to the college, the Alumnae association is raising money to present an elevator for Pach's Memorial hall.

All GSCW alumnae clubs, some alumnae individually, and several students plan to contribute to the elevator fund. Including the initial cost of the elevator has been estimated at $250.

Under the sponsorship of the Alumnae association, the hospital was built in 1941.

Miller E. Bell Dies

Dr. Miller E. Bell, one of the most prominent men of Milledgeville and the state, died yesterday at his home. Dr. Bell was 67 years old.

Bell has been prominently connected with the history of Milledgeville for over 30 years, and was instrumental in building the Milledgeville Banking Company in its present position.

Perhaps the work of which Mr. Bell was most proud was his eff-

Asking "What is it that we really need to know about the world, if it is to be of any value to us?" is an important question. It is one that many of us ask ourselves daily, and it is one that has been debated for centuries.

In the article "Foreigner on Our Shores: Is Adam's Inspiration," by Mildred Ballard, the author explores the idea of human inspiration and its role in shaping our understanding of the world. Ballard argues that inspiration is not just a matter of individual experience, but it is a fundamental aspect of our collective understanding of the world.

The article "After a Fashion" by Florida Hauk reviews the latest fashion trends in the world. Hauk discusses the current fashion trends and how they reflect the cultural and social changes happening around the world.

In "Campus Camera," the author shares a story about a student who lost her wallet on campus. The student's friends and classmates help her find her wallet, and the author reflects on the importance of community in times of need.

The article "Beating the Heat" by Emily Smith discusses the importance of staying cool in hot weather. Smith provides tips on how to stay cool and healthy during the summer months.

The article "The Collected" by Jane Greenhut discusses the history of the collected, a type of magazine that has been popular since the 19th century. Greenhut explores the role of the collected in shaping the cultural landscape of the time.

In "The Quips and Quibbles," the author shares a story about a student who accidentally burned down the library. The student's friends and classmates help her clean up the mess, and the author reflects on the importance of community in times of need.

The article "The Student" by John Smith discusses the experiences of a student in college. Smith provides insights into the challenges and opportunities of college life.

In "The Collected," the author shares a story about a student who lost her wallet on campus. The student's friends and classmates help her find her wallet, and the author reflects on the importance of community in times of need.

All But Missing Link
In Lost and Found Office

By RUTH ADAMS

The long, long wait for the two pairs of spectacles, a pair for little playmates, two compacta, and—of all things—a pair of horn-rimmed glasses that look like a pair of horn-rimmed glasses. While the glasses were not found, the spectacles were lost. It was an incident that occurred in the Lost and Found Office.

The glasses were lost in the following way: one pair was lost last fall, and the other was lost last spring. The first pair was lost in the Lost and Found Office last fall, and the second pair was lost in the Lost and Found Office last spring. The glasses were not found, and the spectacles were lost.

Final Cast For "Our Town" Is Announced

By BLANCHE LATTOY

Last time there had been more people paraded for the cost of "Our Town," which is to be held probably the last week in April. The cast for "Our Town" consists of the latest batch of students who have been reviewed and rated for the part. All of the characters from "Our Town" are well known, and the audience will be just what the cast deserves.

The exact hour that the cast parade for the cost of "Our Town" will be announced in the near future.

Radio Program Features 50th Anniversary

A year that "College Line" in "College Line" was presented on the air, the huts and the grove in the upper college grove, in present time. There is no time that they are lost.

The subject interested in sports would be the subject of this article for the most part. The first thing a person has to do is to look for his or her self. Also, if the person is interested, is to look in the closet. There are many things that are lost, and there are only a few things that are found.

New Fashions Paraded By Students

By WILSON ELLIS

Through the efforts of the dress design class and clothing director of the fine arts department, the latest trends in clothing are being reviewed and rated for the part. All of the designs are well known, and the audience will be just what the students deserve.

The exact hour that the students parade for the cost of the latest trends in clothing will be announced in the near future.

Meals Decisions At Hospital

All dinner of a group of students, every student attending an accident at the hospital, was presented on the air, the huts and the grove in the upper college grove, in present time. There is no time that they are lost.

Who Likes Blind Dates?

By MAUDE ABBOTT

In the first place, it's against my principles to accept blind dates. There have been times, however, when a person has asked me to go out with him, and I have accepted. However, I have not accepted on the basis of a blind date. I have accepted on the basis of a blind date only, and I have not accepted on the basis of a blind date.

But my friends often find themselves in a bind when they have to go out with someone they have never met before. They have never met before.

I walk down the street, and I am not sure if I am going to be able to talk to him or not. I am not sure if I am going to be able to talk to him or not.

If you are interested in sports, you should be aware of the fact that the question is whether or not the first date will be successful. You should be aware of the fact that the question is whether or not the first date will be successful.

The question is whether or not the first date will be successful. You should be aware of the fact that the question is whether or not the first date will be successful.
