$327 Netted In Birthday Ball

Mr. Dibewley reported that he was accurately received from the President's Ball in January as $327. Both Mr. Dibewley and Dean Adams wish to publicly thank all of the students who helped on committees which made this such a success. They deserve a deal of credit for their time and energy spent.

Carl Van Doren, Historian, Author, Will Lecture Here February 25th

Carl Van Doren, historian, commentator with the "American Chronicles" on the New York Philharmonic Symphony Society concerts, over the National Broadcasting Company's network and compiler on other programs, will be here in person at GSCW on February 25.

This modern historian was born in a small town in Illinois in 1883, and brought up on a farm. He went to public school.

Upon returning to America, he taught a few years at Columbia, and then turned to journalism.

He became literary editor of "The Nation" and "The Century Magazine," editor-in-chief of "The Library Guild of America" and "The Readers Club." In 1934 he retired from editing and teaching to devote all his time to creative writing.

His "Benjamin Franklin" won the Pulitzer Prize for biography in 1935, while his "Secret History of the American Republic" and "Millions in January" are among historical classics.

Although most of Mr. Van Doren's historical works consist of history and biography, his earlier works are important in literature. He has been managing editor of "The Cambridge History of American Literature," the standard work on his field. His "Anthology of World Prose," a great favorite among the fighting men, was made mayor of a community fighting in Russia.

Changes Planned For Student Union

Our Student Union was started two years ago as an accommodation for students. Many colleges have no such private soda fountains and beer and wine with school supplies. Think how it would be if we had to go all the way to a drug store down town every time we wanted something to eat, instead of running downstairs for a bite between classes.

Problems made from purchasing in the Student Union go back into improvements. Mr. Dibewley likes to know what points we particularly like about the Student Union and welcomes suggestions for improvements. Among the many ideas made is a model coffee pot, and the additional table and chairs have been responsible to a chance to spend leisure time there.

St. John Letter Printed Here

At the request of several of the students, we are printing the letter sent by St. John last week. Here's what it says:

"Dear Editor,

I have a question regarding class scheduling. In order to make the best use of our time, I believe the following changes should be made:

1. Move English to the morning schedule.
2. Add a third hour of science to the afternoon.
3. Reduce the length of the lunch period.

I believe these changes will improve the overall quality of our education."

Broodhollow Week

Written by the Methodist Federation of Social Service

This week, we are focusing on Broodhollow Week. Let's see how we can help others think of what we believe and care about. Are we providing something that we know will help other people? Are we doing something that will make a difference in their lives?

Our previous news article was about the Methodist Federation of Social Service. This week, we will be focusing on Broodhollow Week.

"...moderate version of "Pau Rever" by REVELY

Listen to my children and ye shall hear—
Of the midnight role of Paul Revere.
Paul was a handsome lad of eighteen,
Who loved a girl named Josephine.
He had brown eyes and hair to match.
For reasons unknown, his friends called him "Sticky."
I want you to know of the role of fame.
That Sticky took for his love-
Twas the first of February, in 1775,
He took his girl for a ride in the stinks.
His horse was worn and painted red.
The lights wouldn't turn, and the horse wouldn't know.
I can't imagine why he loved her so.

Josephine's mother had made it a rule
That her daughter retire at 12 during school days.
While driving over the country road,
Paul at the wheel and she by his side,
It began to rain in an awful gate,
Thundered and threatened,
And started to hail.
It was a cold and rainy night.
Not a single star would show it's light.
Paul pushed on the starter, and put it in gear,
But the sound of the motor he could not hear.
Five miles to the road, and they were stuck—
It was eleven then. MY, WHAT LUXE!
He pushed in the mud, mad up to his waist.
This definitely not Paul's taste.
The hunter worked on the mud-covered lot.
The barrier it raised, and the water he got.

Twelve o'clock was drawing near.
Paul started swearing, and Jo started to cry.
With a "hush" and a promise, the motor sang.
Out of the mud it came with a bang.
The doors rattled and the body did sway,
Believe it or not, they were on their way.
What was mother going to do?
If her darling daughter came in two?
They were almost home. Just one more block.
They arrived on the porch at 12 midnight.
They both were cold and had wet feet.
But they learned not to leave a concrete street.
Now even if you think my story is queer,
You have heard of the ride of Sticky Revere.
