Lecture Series Features Ademit, Noted Author and Lecturer

One of the leading spokesmen for the newly organized Mexican-Spanish Raza, Mexican-American Ademit, will speak at the GSUC, February 14th at Russell Auditorium. Mr. Ademit is the second of the lecturers sponsored by the students of GSUC, and has long been associated with the Mexican-American people. In developing what he calls the "Pysphonix Race and Enlightened American" project, he has made innovative, wide-ranging presentation of the subject. A three-year course granted and funded enabled him to send out hundreds of questionnaires, travel more than one-quarter million miles, and interview people in all parts of the United States. Mr. Ademit was born of peasant parents in the province of San Luis Potosi, now a part of Veracruz State. He came to the United States at the age of 14, and became an American citizen in 1918, while serving in the American Army.

"Hearts, Flowers" Theme For Junior Dance

Members of the junior class will be dancing to a 12-inch "hearts and flowers" theme on May 3, in the big gym. The GSUC Greeters will furnish the music, and the Junior Dance Committee has arranged for a special event."
Students In Politics . . .

It seems that any movement that deals with a problem of politics can always find collateral support or create violent opposition. Women can very often use the law to subvert the aims of others. It was no doubt expected that there should be an aroused spirit on the campuses of Georgia when the governor was not chosen by popular vote, rather than by the state legislature itself.

The lack of student participation in political affairs was noted when November 1910, a student from the University of Georgia was elected on a number of the Kansas House of Representatives. Only twenty-four, Robert W. Rock is still in politics, in college and undoubtedly for purposes of the state legislature.

Students on campuses are usually concerned with the state of affairs of Georgia. A Colonnade resident to this point, notes that he doesn't know how to explain political anxiety to the students from States, who can't understand why we should be so interested in the future of a country with democratic elections—or how, indeed, on such liable citizens, would not be allowed to be voted upon by the people.

A recent report, questioning college students about the Monroe Doctrine, recently found that they had little interest in politics. Such answers as, "I believe that the word should remain in our national policy," or "I can't see how to vote on a political issue," are not uncommon. It seems that people are interested in the future of America, but not in the nation itself.

The Monroe Doctrine is an important issue in American history, but many students feel that it is not relevant to their daily lives. This lack of interest may stem from a feeling of apathy towards politics or a lack of understanding of political issues.

Jesse JIBBERINGS . . .

But Bobby is about to prove his best work—and when he goes to another city. A little notice of John and John Doe, but not too late.

Caroline Phillips is very tired in her A paper, which she is so busy that she can't be bothered with politics. She is a very nice girl, and she should be more active and try to vote for something.

The problem of deciding what to do with the old man is still a difficult one. We tell the story of the old man and the young woman who was still not going to vote for Golly, even though she was very nice.

Platter Chatter by CLAIRE

What will the future hold? Only God knows. But in this school, the future is bright for all those who are willing to work hard and take advantage of the opportunities available.

Jesse Jibberings is a weekly column that provides a light-hearted perspective on campus life. It highlights the experiences and adventures of students, providing a platform for discussing various topics and issues. The column aims to capture the essence of college life, celebrating the unique experiences and challenges faced by students. It seeks to engage and inspire readers, encouraging them to embrace the moments and memories that make their college journeys memorable.

Both events will be planned for the first half-hour. Both hobo tea and the hobo party will feature

Buffy and Bobie Drew will serve refreshments at the Faculty, Virginia Gym, a social gathering for the entire class.

"Antigone" Play Well Underway

"Antigone", a winter production at Louden College, will be well underway when this weekly edition of the college paper is printed. "Antigone" is considered one of the great Greek tragedies and was written by Sophocles in the 5th B.C.

Washington, D.C., saw the premier of the play last winter when it was presented at the National Theatre. The Greek plays, however, are not always easy to understand, especially in an English-language setting.

The production, under the direction of the school's drama club, will be presented by the college's Dramatics Club. The play will be directed by Mrs. T. B. Davis, who has won several awards for her work in the field of drama.

Arrival of Books Announced By Library

The library announces the arrival of several new books, both fiction and non-fiction, that have recently been added to the collection. Among these new arrivals are:

Traditional emblems were awarded Barbara Amin, Helen Newcomer, Neill Pulley, and Abele Sherr in chapel January 25. Anne Laura Boggs, president of the Recitative Association, received the coveted key.

$3,000 To Be Awarded in Social Science Quiz

The Tiftamit Social and Economic Institute announces an annual essay contest awarding $3,000 in cash prizes to the three undergraduate college students submitting the best essays on the theme, "Roads to Industrial Peace." There will be a first prize of $1,500; a second prize of $750; and a third prize of $500 each.

In announcing the contest, Lewis Wilkinson, chairman of the essay committee, said, "The purpose of this award is to aid college students in constructive thought on matters of social and economic importance. Our college, especially at this time when so many of our students are veterans, are no longer isolated institutions, but attached to the reality. College students, like the bulk of our population, need to be aware of the implications of current trends and events. They realize the necessity of having a point of view and of making that point of view a vital form, as alert members of the public."

The Institute is convinced that in the colleges of the United States there are hundreds of students who will not only wish to contribute their ideas to a contest of this kind, but who have the resources of time, originality, and the knowledge to render their contributions valuable." The rules of the contest are as follows:

All undergraduate college students are eligible. A contest may submit one essay.

The length of the essay shall be between 2,000-4,000 words.

The contest closes April 25th, 1947.
