Symphony Comes
Here March 4

The Baltimore Symphony Orchestra, appearing in Rustell Auditorium March 4 at 8:30 p.m., under the direction of Frank Swain, will give the first concert of the orchestra's community concert season.

Conductor Swain is also director of the Peabody Conservatory of Music. Nearly all the first-chair positions of the orchestra are now faculty members of the Peabody Conservatory and many of them are outstanding throughout the country, because of their solo appearances with symphony orchestras and in recitals.

The orchestra has a novel history, since it was the country's first municipally supported symphony orchestra. It is still supported in part by the city of Baltimore, but there are also early individual contributions.

Tomorrow Depends On Today—Depends On You

It's not complicated at all—just challenges that come to us. Feb. 16-25. Your classmates, your other countrymen—need you help. They're hungry. They're cold. They have inadequate shelter and food. They lack the most minimum necessities of an education: books, classrooms, libraries, and privacy for study, research, and personal.

They are your classmates. And they are going to school now. But there are others. Those that must have theirs — for our countrymen.

Those that are poor, and all the others at war.

The Colonale Speaks

In our democratic civilization, we are one of the firstæ the first place to be for freedom of speech, and the press. The Colonale follows those principles which were declared in force in 1790.

There are six publications which bring the literature to the public in these states. Centennial Press is not published by the editor or the publisher.

We see that the Colonale on the student's paper, should provide a type of the atmosphere of enthusiasm with which the world is aware of the students of the world, and we are assured of the fact that you are enjoying them with even more adequate resources.

As we are aware, the spirit that characterizes WEIB is in most important features. These features are what we do because they are not only deeply entrenched in the spirit that we believe in the mind and we must know it. They come because they know the university and the world, and the spirit of its ideals at the growth of all civilization and which must play much of civilization is more broader. Remember.

Dear Editor:

There has been a considerable amount of discussion over one letter of the week in question, which was printed in the last issue. "Eh" and "Baas" are not the initials to the word "Weib." Rather, it is the initials to the word "Weib"—which is the unoffcial name of the newspaper of the student body.

Spanish Newspaper 'El Periodico Mural' Creates Widespread Interest

Guess what we have! A Spanish newspaper right here in our country. The paper is called "El Periodico Mural." It is really great. It is our own newspaper that we publish in our school. It is called the "El Periodico Mural."

The editor, Gene Orozco, hands-based, has been working on it for quite some time. He has been working on it for quite some time. He has been working on it for quite some time. He has been working on it for quite some time. He has been working on it for quite some time.

WHY I smoke Chesterfield

(From a series of statements by prominent tobacco smokers)

"When I bring my tobacco to market I'm always looking for the Lippert & Myers buyers because I know when I've got real good stuff, ripe sweet tobacco they'll pay the top dollar for it."

"I've been smoking Chesterfields for about 25 years. I like their taste and I know the kind of tobacco that's in them."
