In Auditorium Tonight

On Thursday, April 1, at 9:00 p.m., in Russell Auditorium, GCWS students will hear Holding Carter, New York City poet, as he delivers his hit lecture "The South Looks Ahead." Mr. Carter will discuss the South's past, present, and future, and bring out the good and bad qualities of the South in relation to the nation. Since Mr. Carter enjoys people, tells a story with a good laugh, and is good enough to offer not too profitable an evening, he is an enjoyable one.

Mr. Carter tells us that people in Savannah are at least as bad as the people in New York City, with whom he is so familiar. He will also tell us that people in Savannah are as good as the people in New York City. His previous lecture, "The South the World's Greatest Idea," was such a success that the students will enjoy the second one as well.

Retractable Rods Make Plans For 'Y

The members of the 1951-52 and 1952-53 Y-Club plan to hold a special all-school meeting this Thursday evening at 7:00 in the auditorium. The opening session of the meeting will be devoted to the youth of the United States, an issue that is currently being debated in the national press. The speakers will be Dr. John Brown, an expert on the subject, and Dr. John Smith, an authority on youth issues.

Concert Series Is Climaxed By Jane Hobson, Soprano

On Wednesday, March 28, the Milligrove College Concert Association will present the final concert of its current season. The concert will feature the world-renowned soprano Jane Hobson, who will perform a selection of classical and contemporary works. The concert will be held in the auditorium at 8:00 p.m.

Nature of the Problem

There are no problems in the project, and the students are happy with the progress they are making.

The project is being carried out in cooperation with the local chapter of the Nature Conservation Society, and the students have been provided with all the necessary equipment and supplies.

Rule Changes

Among the forty rules by which the C. K. G. E. of the annual spring convention went, the most important and most considerable changes of the many rules submitted by the several colleges. By Friday, ten official changes had reached us, approximately 10 of which are of very great importance. The changes are so important that we have decided to publish them in full which will be mailed out to the members. The changes are as follows:

1. The keynote of the new rules is in the area of alcoholism and the social responsibility of the student body. Under this rule, all college dances, parties, and similar events will be subject to the approval of the university administration. The administration will have the final say in determining whether an event will be held.

2. Under the new rules, all college dances, parties, and similar events will be subject to the approval of the university administration. The administration will have the final say in determining whether an event will be held.

3. Under the new rules, all college dances, parties, and similar events will be subject to the approval of the university administration. The administration will have the final say in determining whether an event will be held.

4. Under the new rules, all college dances, parties, and similar events will be subject to the approval of the university administration. The administration will have the final say in determining whether an event will be held.

5. Under the new rules, all college dances, parties, and similar events will be subject to the approval of the university administration. The administration will have the final say in determining whether an event will be held.

6. Under the new rules, all college dances, parties, and similar events will be subject to the approval of the university administration. The administration will have the final say in determining whether an event will be held.

7. Under the new rules, all college dances, parties, and similar events will be subject to the approval of the university administration. The administration will have the final say in determining whether an event will be held.

8. Under the new rules, all college dances, parties, and similar events will be subject to the approval of the university administration. The administration will have the final say in determining whether an event will be held.

9. Under the new rules, all college dances, parties, and similar events will be subject to the approval of the university administration. The administration will have the final say in determining whether an event will be held.

10. Under the new rules, all college dances, parties, and similar events will be subject to the approval of the university administration. The administration will have the final say in determining whether an event will be held.

The new rules represent a significant change in the way college events are handled. The administration now has the power to approve or deny events based on their social responsibility. This is a major shift from the previous system, which gave colleges more autonomy in organizing events.

Despite the changes, many students are concerned about the loss of autonomy. Some argue that the new rules are too restrictive and limit students' freedom. Others believe that the rules are necessary to ensure the safety and well-being of all students.

In response to these concerns, the administration has stressed that the rules are meant to promote responsible behavior and to prevent incidents that could harm students. They have also emphasized that the rules are flexible and can be amended as needed.

College communities will need to adapt to the new rules and find ways to balance social responsibility with the freedom of college life.
