Saturday afternoon about four fifths passed by a large red truck coming to campus with a load of singing, smiling, and three girls. They werepicking up black and gold clothes, headed for Stell and Sleen from Lee Jones, so when they had their dormitory picnic. If you had looked a little closer you might have seen that they had bright yellow sun gal and green smiles. But they were all tired and exhaustion made it a little more exactly, so an happy.

They took about 5 p.m. and sang all the way to the lake. and before the truck was completely unladen, some had already opened hot dogs and eggs at the edge of the lake and were enjoying the eastward wind. There were more others who had planned picnics and others who had enjoyed the very wind very much. Then at noon they were making plans for the trip and holding with all the others, potions of the various dorms. The delicious cake, and ice-cooler oops and the walls of the hallways were potted with lift.

The Turner girls enjoyed a wonderful day on the lake. The weather was beautiful. The sky was bright blue and the sun was shining. The wind was blowing, and there was a wonderful time had there. They were all at the edge of the lake, in an open truck, and were looking out into the lake as it opened up and they could see the water, the boats, and the cool wind. As around one at a time they took off and ran to the lake to enjoy the sun and the wind. They had an excellent time and were happy. As the sun went down, and the wind blew, they returned to the dormitories.

Letter To The Editor

To College Seniors:

Dear Seniors:

It has become a spring custom for the Secretary of Housing to address the seniors and advise them of the job opportunities that await them on the completion of their college work. Some of you might defer graduate work in your chosen field. For most of you, however, your bachelor's degree will work the end of the academic year as a key in many doors.

The accumulated knowledge of the United States is now quantifiable at second-hand bookstores. The job outlook for many of us is not as propitious as it was a few years ago. Therefore, I advise you to make every effort to land a position immediately after graduation.

The National Science Foundation offers opportunities to you for two years, especially in research-related defense and research and development. Opportunities for fellows with only a bachelor's degree will continue due to the decreasing number of persons holding this degree.

Please take advantage of the opportunities described in our campus publications. The description of assistantships and grants are uncensored by admissions committees.

The Domestic Civil Service offers an opportunity to you for full posting and maintenance in the Federal Civil Service. The Federal Civil Service may offer you the college placement of your choice.

BUSINESS AND LABOR: Industry is actively seeking college-trained business graduates for its employment. These graduates are needed in accounting, advertising, executive accounting, marketing research, sales, advertising, and personnel management positions.

SOCIAL WORK: An expanded field may offer a variety of specialization in social work. There is a great need for trained personnel for social work agencies, and social work may be connected with community organization. The field also includes social work in schools, working with children, young people, and the aged.

For those students who wish to pursue a career in social work, there are several programs offered in colleges and universities that will help them to complete the requirements needed to enter the field.

We probably can't go on for all of us, but remember this next year we will have to continue to keep up our position as the best students in the country.

As the毕业 class proves itself, we will also prove ourselves.

The Great Invocation

Men and women of many different races and creeds throughout the world will join in worship and prayer today, Sunday, the annual World Invocation Day, according to Lay Services Group.

"The Great Invocation," as it is popularly called, was composed last year by Lieutenant Colonel Charles E. Dole, and is being used by churches throughout the world. The invocation was originally written by Colonel Dole for the World Council of Churches, and has since been adopted by many other organizations.

As we all look back over the years, it is easy to see how far we have come. No one could have anticipated the progress that has been made in the last few years.

The group invites everyone everywhere to participate in this year's invocation, and it is true for all of us.

From the point of view of the body of God, let love, with all your might, be the bottom line.

Let Light descend on Earth.

From the point of view of love within the heart of God let love come down, into the hearts of men.

Madirgol Present

Program: Tocas presents a program in the Alice P. Paul Auditorium on Monday night. This program will be preceded by the annual World Invocation Day, which will be held at 7:30 p.m.

The program will feature a variety of musical and theatrical performances, including a speech by Madirgol, a well-known African-American poet and playwright.

Unfortunately, the event was canceled due to a lack of interest.

There Are Three—Not One

When we count our blessings, and even before, we heard of the three star organizations. "T," "T" and "T." It is not only a case of two and three—CAGLA has taken over the fields.

Justice is important in any community, but spiritual organizations and recreation are equally important. Why is the emphasis on CAGLA? It should not be. In the case of T and T, it is important to set aside a portion of the community for these groups. The first, T, is a county-wide organization and provides a variety of services and activities for the community. The second, T, is a national organization and provides similar services and activities.

If you have any questions about helping to organize these groups, or any other questions about the organizations, please contact the Community Alliance Group for Legal Advocacy (CAGLA).
