Dream Will Be Reality

The contract for GSCW's new science building was awarded to Buxtun-Cook Construction Co., West Palm Beach, Florida. According to Dr. Stanford, the building will be erected at a cost of $31,000, and when completely equipped will represent an investment of over $100,000. Construction work will begin on October 15.

Dr. Stinson and an advisory committee have been working on the overall plans of the building for more than five years, visiting in the homes of their investigators, testing laboratories and educational institutions throughout the country. A ground-breaking ceremony will take place on or before October 15. Details of the ceremony will be given at a later date.

The building will be modern in its construction and in its equipment. It will be two and one-half stories high, and each floor will have one hundred different kinds of departments. The main floor will have several classrooms, eight teaching offices, and the laboratories for bacteriology, home economics, and the main features of the first floor will be the administration offices and the chemistry laboratories.

This library will be constructed so that one part of the west wing, Chemistry and Biology, will be kept. The third floor will be used for two classrooms and laboratories for general physics, organic and physical chemistry.

Professors of all the laboratories and the library have been working on the plans, and it is believed that the building will be a shining example of laboratory design--a building that will be used not only for teaching and research but for study also. The cabins on three of the floors are twelve by fifteen, with a doorway to the laboratory. The east wing of the building will be used for offices, and the west wing for living quarters. The science building will be one hundred and twenty-four feet long and forty-two feet wide, excluding the laboratory.

The roof of the building will be an assembly house and a greenhouse. The greenhouse will have an area of 4x3x10 feet. The greenhouse will be divided into sections and will be ordered from a company that prepares such houses to be put up in a short amount of time.

The entire building will be an excellent and practical science building, and its purpose will be to serve the science students, and to help in the education of the coming generation of scientists.

THE Y'S OWL
Having had my holiday migration, I, Old Winkie the Y's Owl, am ready for life and love again. I've returned my eyes on the living room window, and I'm finding you, Old Jennies as you come in one by one. I can tell you, too, but not right now. I'm coming out Monday which I share with little Roger. In is at the moment and I can't go out. There are a lot of beauties there, Roger and a lot of beauties there, too. Roger is as cute as can be and I can't wait to see you, too. I can't tell you now because I'm likely to find myself in bed, failing to receive.

I mentioned little Roger; do all the girls know him? He is the human replica of the Owlco, if you ever need a sympathetic listener, a shoulder for a little kid, or some help on your personal Fellowship programs, take this one you need.bows crooked, good manners, and a smile, so make it a point to drop by and introduce yourself to her one day soon.

Analyze thoroughly of those girls is Phyllis Crockett, my very special gal friend because she is president of the Y.W.C.A. She is always busy as can be, running around checking on committees, her book store, friends, and projects, but if you can put her down long enough to meet her, I know you will love her the same as I do.

I also want you to get acquainted with Annabelle Ball, from Patsy, Frank Tone, as she is better known by those of us with Anglo-Saxon tongues, is a very "choo-choo" bimbo with the Y.W.C.A. scholarship, she loves classical music and art, and I will guarantee that American Jennies will love Tony, too. What a lovely smile, and her pleasant ways of humor are quite charming in addition to all other pleasing qualities.

I realize that the old griddle is absent to re-energize and that for humorous classes you want to take at this local college will be open Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday this week and you must be at those times. Also if you have old books to sell, the book store will buy them from the store, but not in the compromises.

New students will be interested to know that at 6:45 Wednesday evening we will be in the sanctuary of the Methodist Church. You will find there 15 minutes of peace and inspiration in the middle of this hectic week.

The Y Cabinet members will meet right after Vespers in the Colonnade for the Cabinet meeting of the year. I will listen closely to any news you have of the two Jennies whom you think I would be interested in and will tell you all about it in the next Colonnade.

'Til then, "Hoot-bye,"
WINKIE
