Is Dead Week Ready To Be Buried

The end of Dead Week means the end of exams, and the start of a break. With the exams over, students can finally relax and enjoy the rest of the semester. However, not everyone is ready to take a break. Some students are already planning for the next term, while others are looking forward to spending time with friends and family. With Dead Week coming to an end, it is the perfect opportunity to reflect on the semester and prepare for the next one. Overall, Dead Week is a time for students to take a step back and enjoy the hard work they have put in so far.

In Preparation For Easter

As Easter approaches, many students are gearing up for the holiday. Some are preparing to celebrate with family and friends, while others are looking forward to a break from the stresses of school. No matter how students choose to celebrate, it is important to take time for reflection and gratitude during this season. With the holidays upon us, it is a great opportunity to appreciate all that we have and to spread kindness and joy to those around us.

The Columbade

The Columbade is a student organization that hosts various events and activities throughout the year. The group is dedicated to the promotion of culture and diversity on campus and is known for its inclusive and welcoming atmosphere. Through their events, they aim to bring people together and foster a sense of community. The Columbade is a great example of how students can come together to make a positive impact on their campus.

Small Liberal Arts College

How Small Is The "Small Liberal Arts College"

Small colleges have a lot to offer. With smaller student bodies, they provide close-knit communities and opportunities for leadership and growth. The college's size also allows for a more personalized educational experience. Despite the challenges, small liberal arts colleges can provide a rich academic and social experience that is unique to their size.

How Expensive Is Your Vocabulary? Try These Words

The vocabulary is a vital tool for communication and can make a significant difference in how we express ourselves. However, many people struggle to expand their vocabulary, especially when it comes to technical or specific terms. By learning and using new words, we can improve our communication skills and broaden our understanding of the world around us.

CAMPUS LIFE - "Shoes for All the Jessies"

How many of you like shoes? Most students would say yes. However, not everyone has the opportunity to choose their own footwear. "Shoes for All the Jessies" is a campaign that aims to provide shoes to students in need. By donating shoes, we can make a meaningful impact on the lives of others and help create a more inclusive and equitable campus community.

Thank You For A Very Good Year

As our term comes to a close, we want to take a moment to thank you for all that you have done this year. Your dedication and hard work have made a significant impact on our community. We are grateful for your support and look forward to working with you in the future.

Dr. Keeler Will Speak to Athens Group On "Finding Lost Music of San Blas"

by Betty Stanif

Even if you own one of the snare drums, timpani, or even the cymbals, you may have always longed to hear the music of countries like France or Germany. If so, you'll be interested in the lecture Dr. Wilson Keeler will give on "Finding the Lost Music of San Blas." The lecture will be held at the Athens Auditorium on April 15. The lecture is sponsored by the Athens Chamber of Commerce and is free to the public.

Dr. Keeler is a professor of music at the University of Georgia and has spent many years researching the music of San Blas, a small island off the coast of Central America. He has traveled extensively in the region and has studied the traditional music of the island's inhabitants. His lecture will focus on the history and evolution of the music of San Blas, as well as the cultural impact of this music on the island's culture.

Dr. Keeler's lecture will provide an opportunity to learn about the unique and diverse musical traditions of this small island. It promises to be an enlightening and engaging event, and is not to be missed by music lovers or those interested in the history of music.
