—What in the Golden Slipper? Is it just a rather loosely organized competition between the drivers? The Pimlico 100 also seems to be an event in which everyone is supposed to be there. Can we look forward to a kind of show business as it always is on television, with the horse’s hooves clattering against the ground?

—No, it’s not like that. The idea is to do something entirely different from the usual race meeting. There will be races, of course, but they will be interspersed with other activities. There will be a panel discussion, something like a television chat show. The idea is to create an atmosphere of excitement and anticipation.

Sportsmanship

Sportsmanship is built into the very fabric of the race meeting. It is not something that is considered an afterthought, but is an integral part of the event. The drivers are encouraged to be friendly and to share the track with each other. They are also encouraged to be respectful of the spectators and of each other. The atmosphere is one of excitement and anticipation.

Set Your Goals High

by Sandy Brown

Do you ever feel thoroughly disappointed when you find that you can’t do things that others can do? Of course, there are those who are attempting something that is not possible. You may feel that you can’t do the same things as others, and that is natural. However, you can still set goals for yourself and work towards achieving them.

When Dr. E. Stanley Jones composed 'A Message to Young People,' he emphasized the importance of personal development and the need to set goals. He wrote:

"The most important thing a young person can do is to set goals and work towards achieving them. If you set goals that are too high, you will feel disappointed. But if you set goals that are too low, you will feel unchallenged."

The key to achieving goals is to set them high but realistic. You should set goals that are achievable, but that stretch you and challenge you to grow.

In order to set goals, you need to think about what you want to achieve. You need to think about the future and what you want to do. You need to think about what you are good at and what you are interested in. You need to think about what you want to achieve and what you can do.

Once you have set your goals, you need to work towards achieving them. You need to take action and do something to achieve your goals. You need to be persistent and dedicated. You need to be willing to work hard.

When you achieve your goals, you will feel a sense of accomplishment and pride. You will feel good about yourself and your abilities. You will feel confident and satisfied.

A winter everything is the making or our cast. These cups, a brief sweep from shoulder to just above the knee or legs will make a nice warm topping for skipping skillets and baskets, and that way long tapered pensions. You'll also very fashionable this fall.

The weather forecast says we'll have 55,000 students in the stands. This is just the right combination of all-weather sports.
