Eleven Seniors Are Phoenix Members

Mark Phoenix is hopping its wings and rising from the dregs left behind by the recent faculty gathering. During the turmoil, eleven seniors presented the Phoenix, the highest academic honor society on campus, to the Phi Baka Kapo members and faculty members, and the main campus community.

Mary Elizabeth Jones, the director of the Phoenix, said that she expects the group to continue to grow in the future.

GSCW Votes Local Option At Sibley School Study Commission

At the Sibley School Study Commission in Sandvall, G.S.C.W. was in favor of the free public school system, and voted to pursue the options plan.

The plan, which was presented by the G.S.C.W. at the Sibley School Study Commission, was supported by the students and faculty of Sibley School.

The commission also voted to support the school's decision to move to a new location.

Junior Advisors Selected For '60

"Recognizing that with all honors there are definite responsibilities, the newly elected Junior Advisors accept their role with gratitude and humility. We realize that we have a great responsibility not only to the traditions of '60, but also to ourselves and our G.S.C.W. We recognize that in Junior Advisors, we are freed with major problems, but with great reformation, faith, and the support of the student body, we are free to work with future, hope, and confidence. And we sincerely appreciate this honor which has been bestowed upon us."

One of the newly elected Junior Advisors made the following statement, which expresses the general feeling of the group:

"The Junior Advisors (1960-61) are: Sandy Root, a physical education major from Mass. Rose Cerrato, a commercial social science major from New Haven, and Dr. R. J. Scholar."

What About the Infirmacy? by Uncle Baked

The infirmacy, my friend, is no place to be. At present, it is becoming better known, but most people think of it as a place where the physically handicapped are stored. However, there is a thought-provoking aspect to this topic.

Have you ever seen a hospital? Somehow, always seems to be part of the equation. The hospitals are always crowded, the patients often suffering. Yet, there remains a certain beauty to be found in the very act of healing.

The infirmacy is a place where the physically handicapped are kept. They are not just any group of people, but those who are unable to walk, see, hear, or think for themselves. It is a place where the physically handicapped are kept, not because they want to be, but because they must.

Spring Hair Styles

For those of you with a streak of color in your hair, this spring is the perfect time to experiment with new styles. The latest trend is to highlight the ends of your hair, creating a bold, fashionable look. This style is great for adding dimension and texture to your hair. For a more subtle effect, try lowlights or balayage, which involve gradually blending a darker shade into lighter tones, creating a natural, sun-kissed look.

Miss Rice Stevens To Honor GSCW Campus

One of the most anticipated social events of the year is the annual Miss Rice Stevens Scholarship Ball. This year, the event will be held at the GSCW Campus on April 10th. Tickets are available at the door and online at www.missricestevens.org. The ball is open to all members of the GSCW community, and attendees will have the opportunity to meet the Miss Rice Stevens Scholarship winner, who will be announced at the event.

Rec To Sponsor Track-Field Day On April 9th

The track and field team is excited to announce that they will be hosting a track and field day on April 9th. The event will be open to all members of the GSCW community, and participants will have the opportunity to compete in various events such as sprints, long jump, and hurdles. The event will be held on the GSCW campus, and registration is required. More information can be found on the GSCW Athletics website.

A Fable

There once was a group of friends who went on a camping trip. They were all excited to spend the weekend in nature, but things didn’t go as planned. One of the friends, a rabbit, fell into a deep hole and couldn’t get out. The others tried to help, but to no avail. Finally, they realized that they needed to call for help. They went to the nearest town and found a phone, but the phone was out of order. They then went to the Police Station, but the police were busy with other matters. They tried to get help from the Fire Department, but they were called to another emergency. In the end, they had to wait for the helicopter to arrive and rescue the rabbit from the hole.

To Be Read... And Thought About

By Cecily Pen

"We want books. Give us books to read." - Mark Twain

The idea of "What If" is fascinating. As a society, we live in a world where everything is possible. What if we could break free from the confines of our own imagination? What if we could let our minds wander and explore the unknown?

The "What If" concept is not enough, for a title can be a title and a cover can be a cover, but it is the story that captures the reader's imagination. If you want the story to be memorable, if you want it to be more than just a title and a cover, you need to think about the concept. In this article, I will discuss the concept of "What If" and how it can be used to create a memorable story.

A Love Story

By Margery Price

The story of "A Love Story" is about two people who fall in love and then have to decide whether to stay together or go their separate ways. The story is set in a small town where everyone knows each other and the characters are well-developed. The story is full of emotions and drama, and it is a story that will stay with you long after you have finished reading it.

Dr. James Ross McCain To Receive GSCW Distinguished Service Award

Dr. James Ross McCain, president emeritus of Agnes Scott College, will receive the 1981 Distinguished Service Award from the Georgia State College Women. It will be presented by Mrs. Robert B. Lynd, president of the Annual Honor’s Day program on Wednesday, April 14.

Recipients of the award are selected by a faculty committee which recognizes individuals who have made outstanding contributions to the state.

After graduating from college, Dr. McCain opened a law office in Statesboro, Ga., in 1932. Two years later, however, he entered the field of education by accepting the principalship of the Con- gression, Pennsylvania High School. In 1933 he was made the founding Dean in Statesboro. Ten years later he joined the faculty of Agnes Scott College and became its president in 1933.

Dr. McCain has received the B.A., M.A. and LL.D. degrees from Emory College, the LL.D. degree from Mercer University, the M.A. degree from the University of Georgia, and degrees from Columbia University and A.M. degrees from the University of Edinburgh, Emory College, Kennesaw University, Tulane University and the University of Edinburgh.

Dr. James R. McCain, a native of Statesboro.

The Agnes Scott president emeritus is author of these books:

- ‘Emerson and His Influence’
- ‘The Story of the Hawks Casino Foundation, Rockefefler General Education Board, the Atlanta Student Union, the Emory Student Aid Foundation, and the R. Strent Stock Trust Fund.’
