9-24-1960

Colonnade September 24, 1960

Colonnade

Follow this and additional works at: http://kb.gcsu.edu/colonnade

Part of the Higher Education Commons, and the Mass Communication Commons

Recommended Citation
http://kb.gcsu.edu/colonnade/535

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by Knowledge Box. It has been accepted for inclusion in Colonnade by an authorized administrator of Knowledge Box.
Meetings, Tests, Fun, And Frolic

Characterize GSCW Orientation Week

-GSCW freshmen and transfer-ners met last Monday to become acquainted with the college. This annual event is meant to acquaint one with the existing situation or environment. Ask your new arrival at GSCW how he likes it and you will likely find that this week's experience has left him with a great deal of enscription.

Elections, meetings, assemblies, psychological examinations,

Eight New Faculty Members Added

GSCW is proud to announce that eight new faculty members have been added to our faculty.
We are happy to take this opportunity to introduce them:

Miss Sarah Anne Staples, a gradu-
at of GSU, has been appointed instructor of biology and chemistry,
as of to GSCW. Miss Staples received her Bachelor's degree from Andrew College in Columbus. This summer Miss Staples attended the University of Oklahoma. Miss Staples received her Master's degree from the University of Georgia.

The name of the author of the discussion of education and director of the school, Mr.
John L. Leunobury, began his term of service for the school's year. The new director was appointed last summer
as a result of a move
from Georiga Pedobose
College to GSCW. Mr.
Leunobury received his Bachelor's degree in education and a Master's degree in Education at the University of Georgia.

The new director of student teachers announced that education will be William J. Thompson. Mr. Thompson has received his Bachelor's degree in education and a Master's degree from Georgia State University. He
will continue his studies for
his Doctor of Education degree
this fall. Mr. Thompson was a graduate of education and a Master's degree from Georgia State University. He
will continue his studies for
his Doctor of Education degree
this fall.

Mr. Thompson, who attended the University of New York in 1912, is planning to return to his state. His degree in social studies was earned from the University of New York in 1912. In 1916
the same university granted him his Master of Arts degree, and in 1918 he became Doctor of Education.

Two new physical education
instructors will be Miss Beverly Dursley
and Miss Virginia Sullivan. Miss Dursley was graduated from Kent Tennessee State College in 1936 and Miss Sullivan from University of Tennessee in 1916.
Miss Sullivan graduated from Appalachian State Teachers' College and Miss Dursley graduated from the Women's College of the University of North Carolina in 1928.

Students are Dr. A. R. Beal, Miss Doris B. Hinds, the new holder of the tennis championship, and Betty Allen. Mrs. Beal reserved her degree in education and attended Nazareth School in Washington, D. C.

handbooks, faculty advisory, tours, etc., which will be available in the fall.

G.S.C.W. Observes Convocation Day

Dr. Susan B. Riley Is Principal Speaker

Today the senior class of 1961, clad in black gowns and caps for the first time, will walk down that long aisle in Russell Auditorium to participate in GSCW's convocation program.

Convocation Day is the formal opening of our school year. For the senior class, today is the beginning of the end—the beginning of that last year of college. It is a day of celebration for the class of '61, for each senior realizes that today's performance will be a dress rehearsal for that dry, few short months hence, when she will walk down that aisle for the last time and re-over years' accomplishments, making this a record income for GSCW. The registrar's office adanced this three hundred (300)

receive her cherished diploma.

Today's convocation program will be presented to one of the largest audiences we have had in recent years. This year's convocation show features a wide variety of musical numbers followed by a football game at GSC.

Segaat's classics will be throughout the afternoon

be dressed in their best attire and be on time for the commencement.

CGA Retracts A Great Success

Filled With Planning And Expectation

Hurricane Drive swept out of Augusta last week, and on Thursday, thirty student leaders swept into Macon; they created three large storm or, excitement and activity at Lanier Library. The occasion was GSCW's annual Fall Drive, which has its purpose in the organization and Kick-off of the Orientation Week Program.

CGA, Inc., and V. T. were represented by their officers and sales
participation in planning plan-
ing. These people included handbook teachers, Junior Advisers,
various committees, chairman, faculty, advisory, etc. In record time,
the new faculty members were
invited to attend and partic-
icipate in all parts of the program, "Since the final convocation program included the governor's address, the address
of the governor was reserved
to the evening in the Rotunda.

C GA, Inc., and V. T. were represented by their officers and sales
participation in planning plan-
ing. These people included hand-
book teachers, Junior Advisers,
various committees, chairman, faculty, advisory, etc. In record time,
the new faculty members were
invited to attend and partic-
icipate in all parts of the program, "Since the final convocation program included the
governor's address, the address
of the governor was reserved
to the evening in the Rotunda.

G. S. C. W. President Dr. Susan B. Riley

speaking of some of his statements by citing illustrations from experiments.

Executive meetings and cabinet meetings followed later, and in June,
the final convocation was held.

C GA, Inc., and V. T. were represented by their officers and sales
participation in planning plan-
ing. These people included hand-
book teachers, Junior Advisers,
various committees, chairman, faculty, advisory, etc. In record time,
the new faculty members were
invited to attend and partic-
icipate in all parts of the program, "Since the final convocation program included the
governor's address, the address
of the governor was reserved
to the evening in the Rotunda.

Dr. Susan B. Riley was selected as Principal Speaker
for the convocation.

"Izzy" Returns As

Director OfYWCA

As one student expressed it, “At least this is the year when we won’t be seeing bullet holes in “izzy’s” head.” But to those of us who remember the events of the past two years, the thought of Izzy is more than just a memory.

Izzy, or Isabella Rogers, was the director of the YWCA on our campus for the past two years.

Izzy was known for her enthusiastic approach to work,
driving the staff and students
to accomplish their goals.

Izzy’s return to the YWCA
has been met with excitement and anticipation by many on campus.

The YWCA continues to provide a supportive and involving environment for all students and faculty.

Izzy’s presence on campus
reminds us of the importance of community and support in our daily lives. Her return is a welcome addition to the YWCA family, and we look forward to continuing to work with her in the future.

---End---
PAT KITCHENS

Freshmen's First Impressions

A collapse of our college community as seen from behind a bright gold cap complete with four familiar letters helps to bring out some good points found in unexpected places.

Martha Webster of Atlanta leads off with an opinion for the last time. "My freshman year was formed even before I applied for admission. I was very impressed by the friendliness and the growth of the entire faculty with whom I came in contact. The campus atmosphere seemed to be one of big, happy, family even down to good food."

The fact that we as students were governed by our own honor particularly pleased Kermit, editor of the yearbook. Freshman papers were now as well on appealing as her.

Bee Ann Boren, a south Georgia peach, found the scenery quite beautiful and different from that near her home.

In contrast Shirley Moore, whose home is forty-nine minute drive from Milledgeville, found that her favorite Adviser..."...last year I was in a part of GSU."

"Codifies of girls," along with a friend on Columbus, a beautiful campus, compared Clinton Collins impression:

"The people are wonderful and the food, of course, the bulletin board is posted everywhere together is tops," says Nanny Coplesy of McDonough.

Another student who has never been selected for her desk by any personalized group that expected to be her "...but they don't give me time. Thank goodness."

Another student who has never been selected for her desk by any personalized group that expected to be her "...but they don't give me time. Thank goodness."

Another student who has never been selected for her desk by any personalized group that expected to be her "...but they don't give me time. Thank goodness."

A close circle of friends is the way in which Frances Denley of Thomasville, chose to be elected a freshman. "The thought of having a Big Sister and Junior Adviser and knowing that when I make a problem I can go to her for help it makes me feel good," she added.

Similarly necessary to Jessica Carlier was the class relationship between the student body and faculty members as well as the attitude of students toward each other.

At an uninformed plate buildings sometimes is the speaker and editor of the Chronicle. Ms. Moore was impressed by the fact that every one was eager to help her get acquainted with new friends.

Alice Sue De Prater of Nahunta liked the appearance high spirits of the student body. "I really love it here," says Diana Milliken, both the people and the campus were impressed in that instance.

Helpfulness and the ability to feel right at home were qualities that Gayle Butler, a West Point freshman, brought forward.

When a freshman first enters the college grasps the perplexing questions of where to go, first checks. Lynda Bumpus of Brunswick was impressed by the friendliness of upperclassmen in their willingness of upperclassmen to answer the question for her. "I was so amazed and glad to have GSCW."

And for once a lady couldn't think of anything to say. However, Betty Morris.

THE COLONNADE

September 24, 1960

PAT KITCHENS

Freshmen's First Impressions

A collapse of our college community as seen from behind a bright gold cap complete with four familiar letters helps to bring out some good points found in unexpected places.

Martha Webster of Atlanta leads off with an opinion for the last time. "My freshman year was formed even before I applied for admission. I was very impressed by the friendliness and the growth of the entire faculty with whom I came in contact. The campus atmosphere seemed to be one of big, happy, family even down to good food."

The fact that we as students were governed by our own honor particularly pleased Kermit, editor of the yearbook. Freshman papers were now as well on appealing as her.

Bee Ann Boren, a south Georgia peach, found the scenery quite beautiful and different from that near her home.

In contrast Shirley Moore, whose home is forty-nine minute drive from Milledgeville, found that her favorite Adviser..."...last year I was in a part of GSU."

"Codifies of girls," along with a friend on Columbus, a beautiful campus, compared Clinton Collins impression:

"The people are wonderful and the food, of course, the bulletin board is posted everywhere together is tops," says Nanny Coplesy of McDonough.

Another student who has never been selected for her desk by any personalized group that expected to be her "...but they don't give me time. Thank goodness."

Another student who has never been selected for her desk by any personalized group that expected to be her "...but they don't give me time. Thank goodness."

Another student who has never been selected for her desk by any personalized group that expected to be her "...but they don't give me time. Thank goodness."

A close circle of friends is the way in which Frances Denley of Thomasville, chose to be elected a freshman. "The thought of having a Big Sister and Junior Adviser and knowing that when I make a problem I can go to her for help it makes me feel good," she added.

Similarly necessary to Jessica Carlier was the class relationship between the student body and faculty members as well as the attitude of students toward each other.

At an uninformed plate buildings sometimes is the speaker and editor of the Chronicle. Ms. Moore was impressed by the fact that every one was eager to help her get acquainted with new friends.

Alice Sue De Prater of Nahunta liked the appearance high spirits of the student body. "I really love it here," says Diana Milliken, both the people and the campus were impressed in that instance.

Helpfulness and the ability to feel right at home were qualities that Gayle Butler, a West Point freshman, brought forward.

When a freshman first enters the college grasps the perplexing questions of where to go, first checks. Lynda Bumpus of Brunswick was impressed by the friendliness of upperclassmen in their willingness of upperclassmen to answer the question for her. "I was so amazed and glad to have GSCW."

And for once a lady couldn't think of anything to say. However, Betty Morris.

THE COLONNADE

September 24, 1960

PAT KITCHENS

Freshmen's First Impressions

A collapse of our college community as seen from behind a bright gold cap complete with four familiar letters helps to bring out some good points found in unexpected places.

Martha Webster of Atlanta leads off with an opinion for the last time. "My freshman year was formed even before I applied for admission. I was very impressed by the friendliness and the growth of the entire faculty with whom I came in contact. The campus atmosphere seemed to be one of big, happy, family even down to good food."

The fact that we as students were governed by our own honor particularly pleased Kermit, editor of the yearbook. Freshman papers were now as well on appealing as her.

Bee Ann Boren, a south Georgia peach, found the scenery quite beautiful and different from that near her home.

In contrast Shirley Moore, whose home is forty-nine minute drive from Milledgeville, found that her favorite Adviser..."...last year I was in a part of GSU."

"Codifies of girls," along with a friend on Columbus, a beautiful campus, compared Clinton Collins impression:

"The people are wonderful and the food, of course, the bulletin board is posted everywhere together is tops," says Nanny Coplesy of McDonough.

Another student who has never been selected for her desk by any personalized group that expected to be her "...but they don't give me time. Thank goodness."

Another student who has never been selected for her desk by any personalized group that expected to be her "...but they don't give me time. Thank goodness."

Another student who has never been selected for her desk by any personalized group that expected to be her "...but they don't give me time. Thank goodness."

A close circle of friends is the way in which Frances Denley of Thomasville, chose to be elected a freshman. "The thought of having a Big Sister and Junior Adviser and knowing that when I make a problem I can go to her for help it makes me feel good," she added.

Similarly necessary to Jessica Carlier was the class relationship between the student body and faculty members as well as the attitude of students toward each other.

At an uninformed plate buildings sometimes is the speaker and editor of the Chronicle. Ms. Moore was impressed by the fact that every one was eager to help her get acquainted with new friends.

Alice Sue De Prater of Nahunta liked the appearance high spirits of the student body. "I really love it here," says Diana Milliken, both the people and the campus were impressed in that instance.

Helpfulness and the ability to feel right at home were qualities that Gayle Butler, a West Point freshman, brought forward.

When a freshman first enters the college grasps the perplexing questions of where to go, first checks. Lynda Bumpus of Brunswick was impressed by the friendliness of upperclassmen in their willingness of upperclassmen to answer the question for her. "I was so amazed and glad to have GSCW."

And for once a lady couldn't think of anything to say. However, Betty Morris.

THE COLONNADE

September 24, 1960

PAT KITCHENS

Freshmen's First Impressions

A collapse of our college community as seen from behind a bright gold cap complete with four familiar letters helps to bring out some good points found in unexpected places.

Martha Webster of Atlanta leads off with an opinion for the last time. "My freshman year was formed even before I applied for admission. I was very impressed by the friendliness and the growth of the entire faculty with whom I came in contact. The campus atmosphere seemed to be one of big, happy, family even down to good food."

The fact that we as students were governed by our own honor particularly pleased Kermit, editor of the yearbook. Freshman papers were now as well on appealing as her.

Bee Ann Boren, a south Georgia peach, found the scenery quite beautiful and different from that near her home.

In contrast Shirley Moore, whose home is forty-nine minute drive from Milledgeville, found that her favorite Adviser..."...last year I was in a part of GSU."

"Codifies of girls," along with a friend on Columbus, a beautiful campus, compared Clinton Collins impression:

"The people are wonderful and the food, of course, the bulletin board is posted everywhere together is tops," says Nanny Coplesy of McDonough.

Another student who has never been selected for her desk by any personalized group that expected to be her "...but they don't give me time. Thank goodness."

Another student who has never been selected for her desk by any personalized group that expected to be her "...but they don't give me time. Thank goodness."

Another student who has never been selected for her desk by any personalized group that expected to be her "...but they don't give me time. Thank goodness."

A close circle of friends is the way in which Frances Denley of Thomasville, chose to be elected a freshman. "The thought of having a Big Sister and Junior Adviser and knowing that when I make a problem I can go to her for help it makes me feel good," she added.

Similarly necessary to Jessica Carlier was the class relationship between the student body and faculty members as well as the attitude of students toward each other.

At an uninformed plate buildings sometimes is the speaker and editor of the Chronicle. Ms. Moore was impressed by the fact that every one was eager to help her get acquainted with new friends.

Alice Sue De Prater of Nahunta liked the appearance high spirits of the student body. "I really love it here," says Diana Milliken, both the people and the campus were impressed in that instance.

Helpfulness and the ability to feel right at home were qualities that Gayle Butler, a West Point freshman, brought forward.

When a freshman first enters the college grasps the perplexing questions of where to go, first checks. Lynda Bumpus of Brunswick was impressed by the friendliness of upperclassmen in their willingness of upperclassmen to answer the question for her. "I was so amazed and glad to have GSCW."

And for once a lady couldn't think of anything to say. However, Betty Morris.

THE COLONNADE

September 24, 1960