Major Organizations Name
Minor Officers For '62 - '63

Everyone cannot hold a major office in the organization. Some persons have in the minor offices. Many seem to think that the major offices are the only ones that are of any importance. However, many times a minor office and offices bring as much recognition to the organization as the major offices.

Also a minor office often becomes a major office in that it is vital to the existence of an organization. What these offices are concerned mostly with the purely social side and with the interests of the organization and with their proper execution, the minor officers actually constitute the backbone of the organization and do the work. They keep records and files, handle correspondence, check reluctant and activity records, and handle the financial matters of the organization.

FROM A NIGHTMARE
by Johnnie Green

I had a nightmare last night. I thought I saw a girl standing in front of me, her face covered in blood and her hair flying in the wind. She was screaming at me, but I couldn't hear her. I tried to look around, but I couldn't see anything. Then I woke up, and I was relieved to be back in the safety of my own bed.

THE NIGHTMARE WENT ON, BUT I KEPT TRYING TO CHANGE THE STORY.

LLOW DOWN ON EXAMS

Exactly nine days from today, the "reckoning time" will once again be here, and we'll begin these final examinations. So far, I've been completely successful, but if I don't study hard, I may not make it through. But I'll keep studying, and I'm sure I'll pass.

Plainly put, the final examination is the last test of our academic year. And if we've not done well, we've no way to make up the lost time. However, if we've done well, we may be able to improve our grades. Therefore, we must do our best to prepare for the final exam.

Babylon and some have said that mine and woman want to come to an end, and must my heart as editor of THE COLONNADE. The house of pouting on my over faithfull appreciation are gradually drawing to a close and my feet will get the month evaporated.

The road from writing an occasional story to planning for and laying out a newspaper has been long and at times rather rough. It is with mixed emotions that I approach the end of this road.

Lessons unlearned, hair lost, and tears are only a few of the evidences of the responsibility of getting out a paper. These are well balanced, however, by pleasant experiences such as putting out the first nightmare paper at The Woman's College and the satisfaction of knowing that finally all 800 copies of the paper have been printed, folded, and delivered to the Associated Press in New York of which I was fortunate enough to attend in Miami and Chicago were excellent experiences.

The list would be too long to give all the names of the many people who deserve thanks for their assistance. Among these are the co-operative staff, to whom I owe a big Associated Press and Johnson Associates, who was always willing to take down a last minute story. These are our advisors, Miss Try and Mr. Hicken, who willingly listened to our problems and offered encouragement, when things seemed to be falling in all around. Also Mary Ann Johnson, Business Manager, who pounded many stories in search of news, and Pat and Barbara and Margaret Henderson, who have provided answers, are to be thanked. There are many others who have been pressed into the endless job of finding and delivering papers.

I have willed to say that though there is a feeling of relief from the pressure of deadlines, I have certainly enjoyed the opportunity of serving as editor. Many of the fantasy, unusual, and sometimes absurd ideas that have come up will make up memories that will not soon be forgotten.

Y'S OWL SPEAKS

This is a logical time to think about "the end of things," after a quarter, for some it is the end of a college career. For many of us this work marks the end of a year of service to the organizations or on campus. It is time for thoughtful, personal reflection... and a time of anxious planning for the future...

Do you think it somewhat strange that as many as we think of December 21st as the "end," the 9th of January as the "beginning," when there is no other beginning and endings in between? In a sense, every day seems to be a new beginning... a new two years or simply alike... for those who, in the short and thin, our behavior and our experiences are nothing. And consider the "ending," the end of a short, the end of a year, after the "ending," the end of...

SPEAKING TO ONE

Elected this year to the president-elect of the Associated Press and senior editor, I have had an opportunity to reflect on the importance of the newspaper. It is a medium that can reach a wide audience and can be used to communicate important information. The Associated Press is committed to providing accurate and timely news to the public, and I am proud to be a part of this organization.

W.G. girls were as concerned about Col. Glenn's son his wife. They were seen in the par- ty crying some excitement when "Friendship I" was launched. It is all right, girls, we are extremely cautious. The issue is not a pleasant one, and we must be careful not to allow ourselves to be influenced by our emotions. We must keep calm and use good judgment in making decisions.

Therefore, we were among the few girls around the Capitol this week, and there were several "long-haired" friends with the "long-haired" voices. We'll be better in the future.

The Capital Choral Society doesn't want too much communication. It seems as if several of our...

Jean and Dean Named As "Double Columnmaids"

THE COLOMNADE Salutes double Columnmaids this week The Chromatic value of Jean and Dean.

The twins transferred to The Woman's college from Reinhardt Junior College at the beginning their junior year. Both were very active in campus activities there, belonging to such organizations as Pi Kappa Phi, Alpha Delta Literary Society and other groups. Jean was elected to membership in Reinhardt's Who's Who in American Colleges.

Allegro Meets Needs For Music Students

Allegro is composed of music majors and minors. Meetings are held twice each month and are composed of recitals, discussions of state, national and music problems, and other activities that concern the needs of the music program.

Allegro offers performances for the student body but members enjoy listen to, and giving recitals within this group. Serving as President is Marcella Sanders; Vice-president, Francis Lyle; secretary and treasurer, Diana Starthwaite; Freshman representatives, both from Jefferson and Universities. Since coming here both have been asked to join Pi Kappa Phi, the National Business honor society.

Jean and Dean both are Senior business majors. They have always been roommates at college and even date roommates from the University of Georgia. These two always take in some concert also.

Next quarter will find Jean and Dean student teaching at Grifflin High School at Griffin, Georgia.

Jean says her future plans include teaching, preferably in the Atlanta area. She expresses a desire to begin work on her Bachelor's Degree soon. After graduation in June, Dean is also looking forward to teaching and beginning her graduate work also.

Dr. Chandler Speaks to DAR

Dr. Barbara Chandler, Dean of Women of The Woman's College, spoke interestingly of John Paul Jones at the Feb. 20 meeting of the Nancy Hart Chapter, DAR, at the home of Mrs. Walter B. Williams, Jr.

Speaking about the greatest American seaman of the Revolution, Dr. Chandler pointed out that John Paul Jones was a naval officer without a ship until the French king fitted out the Don Homere Richard in September, 1779. She spoke of how Jones, when the English commanded him to surrender, fought harder saying "I have just begun to fight."

Miss Katherine Scott, regent, presided over the DAR meeting, with Mrs. Hitchcock reading a prayer written by the President General, and Mrs. L. P. Longlois introduced the speaker.

Mrs. Louis Taylor reported on Junior American Citizenship activities in the schools of Baldwin County and G. M. C., of the plans given to members, and of medals presented at the close of schools. All these among the outstanding work of the Nancy Hart Chapter.

Four delegates, Miss Katherine Scott, Mrs. Yarbrough, Mrs. Orino Bowden and Mrs. Ethel Barron, and alternates Mrs. Wesley Moran and Mrs. Edward Robinson, were elected to the State Convention March 13-14.

Annie Marie Sparrow of Col- umbus was elected as treasurer of College Government. She is a Pufnham math major. All the major and minor offices will be formally installed before Winter Quarter is completed.
