The Fellowships, offered by the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Missouri, are open to men and women who are seniors or recent graduates of accredited colleges in the United States, who have shown unusual interest in college teaching as a career, and who plan to study for a Ph. D. in a field common to the undergraduate work. Applicants may be single or married, and at least thirty years of age at the time of application, and may not have undertaken any graduate or professional study beyond the baccalaureate. Approximately 120 Fellowships will be awarded in March, 1965. Candidates must be nominated by Liaison Officers of their undergraduate institutions. The Foundation does not accept direct applications for the Fellowships.

Danforth Graduate Fellows are eligible for four years of financial assistance, with a maximum allowable living stipend of $1000 per annum, and $2500 for married Couples. Travel and tuition fees may also be available. Financial need is a factor in consideration.

No words have been exchanged between advocates of both sides but, perhaps, many, many people, even those who are most enthusiastic about the idea of university sports, would say that the form of the sport as it is now played is not the best form. There has been a feeling that university sports should be more like professional sports, with a greater emphasis on excitement and competition, and less on the educational value of the sport.}

Sports Day is Postponed

Who among us would be so uncharitable as to admit that the college atmosphere is becoming increasingly competitive? In terms of the world of tomorrow—the world of our children's children—competition is inevitable. It's a matter of survival, and makes up an essential part of our own existence. Many of us find it difficult to understand why we compete; some of us find it impossible to understand the reasons behind our competitiveness. We stand in the middle of our battles with no clear understanding of what is happening or why. We do not take time to try to understand the reasons behind the make-up of the issue for the first time by the time we are understood. Then we find ourselves faced with having to argue for something and then we will be forced to understand it by the time we are required to argue for it. Other words have been bandied about, but the facts are often overlooked and, quite literally, overlooked.

In order to begin to understand the ingredients of the issue so that we will understand ourselves and then have a basis for opening our mouths. The Presidential election has been a traumatic issue in the lives of the underprivileged-casteless but able. As in all differing opinions of which there is no question of not understanding, the questions remain two possible forces: yelling and screaming, ultimately losing the meaning of the issue, wherein we must reply. College students, before you vote, know what you are voting for, and why as to why you can be meaningful existent part of today's world.

Letters

To The Editor,

Dear Editors,

We believe that there is room for second thoughts on this campus not only because we are in the 1964 General Election season, but also because we have been actively involved in issues that have been on the front pages of the newspapers. Since students have been our sole focus, we would like to bring to your attention the problems that we face in order to bring awareness to these issues.

Due to the rapid increase in the number of students, we have seen a decrease in the number of available resources. This has led to a decrease in the availability of faculty members who are qualified to teach the courses. We need more faculty members who are trained to teach our courses, and we need more resources to support our students. We need more books, more laboratories, and more technology to support our students.

Secondly, we have seen a decrease in the quality of classes being offered. We need more classes that are taught by qualified faculty members.

We are writing to you today to bring these issues to your attention. We hope that you will be able to help us in any way that you can.

Sincerely,

Students

The Colden-Montgomery College girls speak about the Student Union. Why? — because it is necessary! There are two or so go to be anywhere in the SU than the Union, and because it is a neat place to be—lots of places in the Student Union are comfortable, conversationally. A great place to be, especially if you get tired. It is important to know that there are interesting things happening in the Student Union.

The men are an unreasonable group; the women are more reasonable. The men only come to the Student Union to eat, to work, and to go to class. The women come to the Student Union to study, to eat, to meet friends, and to go to class.

When in doubt, the Student Union is more reassuring than the men. The men tend to be more careless about things; the women tend to look for something more than just a place to study, eat, or meet friends.

The Student Union is difficult to wear when it is.

This young lady who is about the size of a twenty-five pound dog. Indeed, she is the size of the English major who has already received her B.A., in French. Actually, that is her size. She is very small; the books she has read, the people she has met, the classes she has attended, and the stories she has told are all very small. Her size is her beauty, her strength, her weakness, and her beauty is her weakness.

Currently, we cannot cover the SU with boots but we do need more. We need a wider variety of titles and subjects. Let us have novels, the least sellers, the classics, the anthologies, and the non-fiction books. The fact is, we need to have a wider variety of books because we will read and read and read and read.

The sport of courses then changed the pace with the Student Union.

Another Annual Ball has come and is already in the history books. Unlike other annual events on campus, the Annual Ball is the only event that is open to all students and faculty. The only requirement is to wear a formal outfit. This year's theme was "Splinters of Love." Students who were able to attend were able to enjoy a night of dancing, music, and food. The Student Union was packed with people who were dancing and socializing.

The more important problem of the annual event is the money that is raised. This year, the Student Union raised approximately $10,000, which will be used to support various students and faculty. The Student Union is proud of the money that was raised and is looking forward to next year's ball.

The annual event is a great opportunity for students and faculty to come together and enjoy each other's company. Edward Kilieny, Professor of Piano, is presenting a student recital in the auditorium of the University of Pennsylvania, of Hungarian pianists. His father, also an accomplished pianist, taught composition to Hark Gershwin. At the age of eleven, Kilieny was sent to Hungary to study under Dohnanyi, one of the most famous Hungarian composers and concert pianists. Kilieny is in his most famous period, and together they have given concerts in the United States. Professor Kilieny, member of the music faculty here at The Woman's College, who studied under Kilieny, stated that this pianist is famous for his amazing technique and his considerable repertoire. Kilieny has done much recording and was one of the first pianists to make a complete recording of the Chopin études. Since taking his post as a member of the FSU faculty Kilieny still gives concerts and lecture recitals, especially in colleges and universities in the United States. Monday afternoon at 4:30 Kilieny will conduct a master class in Porter Auditorium to all those interested, with a lecture-demonstration on Beet- hoven's sonatas.
