Fall Dance - A Success

The "TAMS" show and dance Saturday night, October 30 at the National Guard Armory was the result of long discussion in the Recreation Association of "four blocks" chalked this one up as a success with 400 guest tickets having been sold. The Recreation Association would like to take this opportunity to extend their appreciation to all those who made the dance a success. Special thanks go to the chairman of the dance, Diane Stiek, to the committee chairman, Judy McMahon, Jane Nix, Paty Allen, Mary Erson and Susan Stewart, to Miss Education Donahoe and our chapter more than one petition for the same office. For the first time, candidates for office will be allowed to conduct election campaigns. It is hoped that these campaigns will create interest and enthusiasm for the election. Also, through campaigning, each candidate will be allowed to display a maximum of 25 posters should be regulation size (1 1/2 x 1 1/2) since there will be so many of them. No monetary limitations have been placed on the campaigns—try not to go overboard, but make your campaign competitive and fun.

On Tuesday, November 5, there will be a assembly at 11:00 a.m. at this time, the candidates will have an opportunity to make short campaign speeches. This will be a very important assembly, so you for sure your best to be there. The election will be on Wednesday, November 6. Voting booths will be located on the front porch of Atkinson. All voting will be "preferential." This means that the voter may write the name of one candidate 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, etc. choices for each office in order of his choice. The ballot to be considered come see into the play, you will gain from it too.

Georgia College students will be allowed with their I.D. cards. Guests will be charged $1.00. If you wish to reserve a ticket, you may call Mr. Edleman at his office.

Dr. Bunting was given the inaugural charge by Chancellor Simpson as Chairman John W. Langleys of the Board of Regents and other officials of the college, the community, and the University System. Governor Lester Maddox, who had been scheduled to play a prominent part in the program, was forced by inclement flying weather to cancel at the last minute his trip to the Georgia College campus. Dr. Bunting focused his inaugural address on the challenges which face American higher education today.

Dr. Bunting assumed the presidency of Georgia College and the office of the President on January 1 of this year after serving for five years as Dean of the Business Administration and Dean of the University of Georgia.

Go Colonade

The inauguration of Dr. J. Whitney Bunting as the seventh president of Georgia College at Milligdenville took place on Friday, October 18, 1968. The preliminaries began on Thursday afternoon with the arrival of the delegates representing other colleges, universities, and societies. After registering in Chapell Hall, some of the delegates were taken on tours of Milligdenville by members of the Day Student Organization. While other delegates were taken on tours of the campus and the new G.C. Library.

The inaugural reception took place Thursday night at the Mansion with officials, members of the faculty, Georgia College Foundation members, and representatives of the Board of Regents, Chancellor G. L. Simpson, Jr., of the University System at Georgia and members of his staff, Alumni representatives, and COA Representatives attending. Proceedings began on Friday morning with a carillon ceremony, followed by a program of organ music presented by Dr. Robert F. Wolfenson. The invocation was given by Rev. John D. Campbell, Jr., minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Milligdenville.

After the convocation by Chancellor Simpson, the delegates were introduced to Dr. Bunting by Dr. George A. Chambers. Handel's "Let Them Celeberate Concord and Unity" was sung by the Georgia College Chorale as the inaugural concert. Official greetings were presented by representatives of the Board of Regents, the state of Georgia, the city, the Alumni, the Faculty and Student body and the faculty.

The stage is set and the curtain is ready to be drawn for the Fall Production of College Theatre. The group will present Jean-Paul Sartre's No Exit on November 6, 7, and 8. The performance will be in Russell Auditorium and will begin at 8:15 each night.

Mr. J. Dalton Edleman, assistant professor of speech and drama and Director of the Theatre, said that no Exit would be presented in the round. The audience will sit directly on the stage and will be in close contact with the actors.

The cast includes Robert Phillips as the batter, Diane Stiek as Eurydice, Hope Gofide as Imer, and Mr. Edleman as G需. Pamela McCloud is serving as assistant director.

Putting on a play takes away much of a student's time and energy, but the rewards are so much greater. Why don't you take a little time out and come see into the play, you will gain from it too.

Georgia College students will be admitted with their I.D. cards. Guests will be charged $1.00. If you wish to reserve a ticket, you may call Mr. Edleman at his office.
An Election-The Expression of Choice By The Voters

As the national election draws near, it seems to be a good time to reflect and consider just what is a voter or better still why we are voting.

The very act of voting has been the subject of one candidate or another because of its potential for social change. But what is投票 by its very nature expresses the will of the people, and as such it is a powerful tool for social transformation.

There are those who argue that voting is a waste of time because it does not always lead to meaningful change. However, the mere act of casting a vote is an expression of one's will and desire for a better society. To neglect this opportunity is to cede power to those who would rather hold it than share it.

The right to vote is a fundamental right, one that has been fought for and won through the hard work of countless individuals. It is a privilege that should not be taken for granted. By exercising this right, we are participating in the democratic process, ensuring that our voices are heard and that our desires are represented. This is the essence of democracy, a system that values the will of the people.

As we approach the election, let us not only vote, but also engage in the process, learning about the issues, understanding the candidates, and being active in our communities. For it is through education and action that we can truly make a difference. The fate of our country and our future is in our hands, and we must take responsibility for shaping it.

The power of the vote is in our hands, and we must exercise it wisely. For it is through our collective will that we can create a society that is just, equitable, and free. Let us vote, and let our votes be heard.

Twenty Years Ago

Once upon a time there was a little red headed girl, with a heart full of dreams and a head full of mischief. She was sixteen, and her name was Mary. Mary was a senior at Our Lady of Mercy College, and she was one of the most beautiful girls on campus. Mary was also one of the most outcast, but she didn't care. She was happy, and she was free.

Mary was a rebel, a free spirit. She was always pushing boundaries, challenging the status quo, and living life to the fullest. But she was also a good daughter, a good student, and a good friend. She was loved by all who knew her, and she was missed when she was gone.

Mary's friends were the most unusual bunch, but they were the most loyal. They were always there for her, no matter what. They were her family, her everything.

Mary was a dreamer, a poet, a writer. She loved to write, to express herself through words. She was a published author, and her work was acclaimed by all who read it. Mary was a force to be reckoned with, a force of nature.

Mary was a fighter, a warrior. She fought for what she believed in, she stood up for what was right. She was a true heroine, a true role model.

Mary was a woman ahead of her time, a woman who was ahead of her time. She was a trailblazer, a pioneer. She was a visionary, a dreamer.

Mary was a legend, a legend in her own time. She was a legend who will always be remembered.

The end.

The COLOUNADEN

October, 1968

Dieitians Speak Out

In accordance with the College's policy of presenting every aspect of campus controversies, we approached Mrs. Maye Alexander, Director of the Student Health Center, for her views on the current food situation. This seemed to us a fair way of finding out what troubles the students are experiencing with the current food service. We were chagrined that our discussion centered around the philosophy and procedure of the current food service, rather than on the food itself. Our discussion was about health and nutrition, which seems to us to be the most important part of the food service. We were told that our food is not being served properly, which we had already been led to believe by the Creature's staff. The Creature's staff told us that our food is being served improperly, which we had already been led to believe by the College administration. This seemed to us to be a self-fulfilling prophecy, and we were led to believe that our food is not being served properly.

Advantages of The Cafeteria System

Since more and more schools are switching to a cafeteria-style system, the advantages of such a system are more numerous than we had previously thought. The advantages of the cafeteria system include:

- Flexibility: Students can choose the food they want to eat and when they want to eat it.
- Efficiency: The cafeteria system is more efficient than a traditional food service, as there is no need to order food in advance.
- Variety: Students can choose from a wide variety of food options.
- Simplicity: The cafeteria system is simpler to manage than a traditional food service.
- Cost: The cafeteria system is less expensive than a traditional food service.

New Professors At GC

Several new professors have been added to the faculty of Georgia College. These professors include:

- Dr. David Barnett: Associate professor of political science.
- Dr. Robert Smith: Assistant professor of psychology.
- Dr. John Taylor: Assistant professor of English.
- Dr. Susan Evans: Assistant professor of mathematics.
- Dr. James Johnson: Assistant professor of history.
- Dr. Nancy Moore: Assistant professor of biology.

Dormitory Poll

A recent poll taken in the dorms of the Georgian College showed that 70% of the students desire more variety in the food offered in the dormitories. The poll was conducted by the Dormitory Council, and it was decided that the food offered in the dormitories should be improved.

Colonials Drop 2nd Game 6-2

The newly-ranked Ga. Col. Colonials were defeated on their home turf by the Emory's junior varsity. The game - a game of outstanding performance by the Colonials and a most action-packed game by the Emory's junior varsity.

Hill thrushes shoot out at two, Luker gets on target

Luker, one of the Colonials' key players, came close to getting on target with his shots, but unfortunately, his attempts were not successful. However, his teamwork with the team's other members helped the Colonials maintain their lead throughout the game.

Anderson Announces Contest

Athletic director Floyd V. Anderson announced the opening of a contest for suggesting a new name for Georgia Colleague's women's team. The winning design will be used for the next season and will become the official name of the team.

Nixon's time has come as a candidate for a new name and political program. The time is now and the man is Dick Nixon.

The new administration must deal with the problems of the old one, not foreseeing the accomplishments of both past and present administrations. It is expected that Nixon will take a more active role in government, but it is uncertain how successful he will be in this endeavor.

The idea that a voluntary army would be more effective than a compulsory one has been proven true in many cases, and it is expected that Nixon will focus on creating a volunteer army instead of a compulsory one.

In short, our country needs an administration that will focus on the development of new political programs and policies.

Wallace: Can former Alabama Governor George C. Wallace be elected president in the November election? The answer is yes and no. The balance of power is crucial for securing the election in the November election.

If Wallace is to be elected, he must win a majority of the votes in the election. Wallace's team has already achieved more than other third party candidates and has had significant success in national campaigns and elections.

Wallace's team has been successful in gaining the support of voters from different backgrounds, including Southern and Northern voters, and he has the potential to win the election in November.

In the end, it is uncertain whether Wallace will be elected president in the November election. However, his campaign and efforts have been significant and he has a chance to win the election.
Project Help Needs You

ATTENTION STUDENTS: Do you need HELP? If you are having troubles with your general education courses, C.A. has a project that might interest you. This tutorial project, H.E.L.P. (Help Eliminate Large Probabilities), was designed especially to assist students at Georgia College. Mid-Quarter grades will be out Thursday, October 31, so students should soon know whether or not they need H.E.L.P. If you would like to try this project, contact Augusta Coleman via the College Post Office. She will arrange for you to have a tutor. Also the project needs people who are willing to experience the satisfaction which comes from helping someone. These student tutors do not have to be A students. Anyone who feels that he can help or would like to try, please volunteer. Remember the motto of Aristotle, "Nothing ventured, nothing gained."

Kappa Gamma Elects Officers

The Kappa Gamma Chapter of Beta Beta Beta elected officers for the 1968-69 year; President, Mary Jane Dalton; Vice President, Recording Auditor, Secretary, Linda Willame; and Historian, Stephanie Wright. Dr. Raison is the sponsor of Beta Beta Beta. Dr. Raison will speak on "Behavior Genetics" at the October 31st meeting at 7:00 p.m. in Henry Hall. All interested are invited to attend.

GC Records Big Increase In Student Teachers

There has been a record increase in the number of student teachers this year at Georgia College. Also there has been a sudden upsurge in the number of students choosing secondary education as their major.

The factors which contribute to the increased interest in secondary teaching are the steady growth in the enrollment of the college and the increasing number of men majoring in secondary education.

The college's enrollment has risen to a record 1504 since men were first admitted as regular students in the spring of 1967.

Book Review

By David H. Perkins

The Futurist of the Republican Party by Robert J. Donovan explains the Republican defeat of 1964 and how a new party system in the coming years? What role will the Goldwater conservatives play in the 1968 elections? Does the GOP have a chance in the presidential race of 467

M.C. Sanders, coordinator of secondary school teaching, said that 149 secondary student teachers will be assigned to schools across the state during 1968-69 academic year. The first five male student teachers in the school's history were assigned this fall, with a total of 19 to be assigned during the academic year. In addition to the secondary student teachers, 90 elementary education majors will be assigned during the next three quarters. The coordinator of elementary student teachers is Mr. Mary W. Loyd. Student teaching gives student supervised practical experience to prepare them for teaching in elementary or secondary schools. These students are sent for one quarter to teach actual classes in a public school under the guidance of an experienced teacher.

Most of the students are assigned to schools in Fulton County, Clayton County, and the middle Georgia area, but others may go to almost any part of a triangular area bounded by Atlanta, Savannah, and Cordele. Dr. Sanders said that assignments are made on the department of education's evaluation of the student's personal preferences, with the advice of the student's advisor, and with the student's interest in mind.
