Junior Exams Why?

As most juniors are agonizingly aware, each of them is required to take the Junior Exams. These exams have been required by the University System of Georgia since 1954. All students completing their sophomore year must take them in order to evaluate their knowledge in the areas of general education including the humanities, natural sciences, and social sciences.

However, because these exams may be, they do serve several definite purposes. Some of these purposes were pointed out by Dean Christianberry in a recent interview.

First, these tests help administrators evaluate the effectiveness of the instruction in each area of study and determine how Georgia College stands in comparison with the national scale.

Secondly, the Junior Exams make evident the fields of study which need strengthening. Thus, the school officials can determine, perhaps, which departments need more effective teachers or teaching methods.

Thirdly, these tests enable individual students to learn their own strengths and weaknesses, making them better prepared to decide upon a definite major.

Finally, looking toward the future, the Junior Exams will probably be used for advanced placement of students so that those particularly apt in a certain field can receive credit ahead.

Plans For New Dorm To Be Completed

If you have been around Georgia College for any length of time, you must be aware of the shortage of space to store students. The present dormitories will not accommodate for our growing student body and they must be put somewhere if G.C. is expected to expand.

It is for this reason that the new dormitory plans are now in progress and expected to be completed by January or February of next year. The construction is expected to start in April or May.

The building will be built just south of the Student parking lot on Clarke Street. The dorm will be set back from the street in order to accommodate for parking and give the dormitory a residential atmosphere. The actual building is modern in structure but is kept in tune with the other buildings on campus in columns, spaciousness, walls.

The building will contain 400 students and will be constructed so that it may serve as a boy's dorm or as a co-ed dorm. It has three main buildings—one being the center or control building which will house the director's apartment, kitchen, study rooms, and recreation rooms. The two outer buildings would be provided for the resident students, have space for storage, and sunrooms.

The building will cost $1,850,000 and will be completed approximately a year and a half to two years after construction. The planning of the dorm is being coordinated through the Office of Institutional Research and Planning. Any questions about the dorm will be gladly answered by Dr. James who is Director of the Planning.

Miss Georgia Coming To Georgia College

The Miss Georgia Pageant promises to be really spectacular for 1969. It will be held on February 24th, in Russell Auditorium. Each dormitory and campus organization has the opportunity to sponsor one candidate in the Pageant. The entry fee which is $5.00 will help establish a scholarship which will be awarded to Miss Georgia College 1969.

On hand for the competition will be Burns Ann Davis, who is the current Miss Georgia. Another added feature will be the official souvenir program book of the Miss America Pageant which will also contain information on each of the Miss Georgia College Candidates.

The Pageant Committee encourages all people who are interested in helping in any way with the Miss Georgia College Pageant to get in touch with either Vicki Keller, Barbara Lair, Elaine Shack, Linda Thomsen or Donna Woodard. The committee has big plans but needs the support of the entire campus to present a really great Pageant.

Why $15 For Winter Quarter

Everybody has been wondering why the dining hall fees for winter quarter have gone up from $123 to $140. The answer is really very simple, and here it is — right from the Comptroller's Office. There was a lot of complaints among students because seconds weren't served. To satisfy student demands, fees simply had to go up — there was no alternative.

Vietnam Crisis

By J. Harold Boyer

The Vietnam War, once a small conflict requiring a handful of paratroopers, is now a full-scale war of moral proportions. But, where it once stood alone, it has been transformed into an international conflict. The specter of communism, once all the way in the background, now overshadows the entire world. In fact, the stakes are higher today than at any time in the history of mankind.

There is no way we can win this war. There is no cause this war is worth fighting for. To whom is this war being fought? I asked myself this question. The people of Vietnam are fighting for their independence. They are fighting to keep their land and their way of life. They are fighting for their future.

The people of Vietnam need our help. We cannot ignore their suffering. We cannot ignore their need for aid. We must do all we can to assist them. We must support them in their fight for freedom.

GOLDEN SLIPPER
- 1968 -

Golden Slipper has once again come to the campus of Georgia College this year. There is a distinct difference about it, however. In the past, an air of change has swept across. Students started to think that the spirit of Golden Slipper had changed since last year. Although the majority of students think the change was for the better, most students still think the change is the larger enrollment. Some students think it is the fact that the people in the group were not as different as they were in the past. This is not true, however. Although some change is evident, the spirit is just as alive. Among some students, working on the Slipper, those that are not so sure to think that it is just a lack of enthusiasm. With some feeling the expectations influence others not to participate exactly as they would like to do and others who want to seem "cool.

Mr. Kemp Retires

Winner C. Kemp, after nearly 28 years of devoted service to Georgia College, retired this month. Together with his father, the late George M. Kemp, Mr. Kemp compiled a record of more than 75 years of service to the Institute. Mr. Kemp officially joins the staff in February. Last December, however, it was reported that the Georgia College and University College Union, given by the island employees, Mr. Kemp received a transistor radio and a wife's birthday gift for his long and faithful service. Mr. Kemp will not just disappear from the campus, however. He plans to remain on campus and participate in the activities of the Institute, which he has always done. Mr. Kemp is looking forward to spending time with his family in his leisure time. Mr. Kemp, naturally, is pleased about the retirement. The retirement was marked by a banquet given by the Georgia College and University College Union, given by the island employees, Mr. Kemp received a transistor radio and a wife's birthday gift for his long and faithful service. Mr. Kemp will not just disappear from the campus, however. He plans to remain on campus and participate in the activities of the Institute, which he has always done.

Did You Know?

- Biilii, Africa, is a country torn by war and famine. In the words of Dr. Robert F. Waterman, "The world is in the middle of a humanitarian crisis." The United Nations has declared it an "emergency." The situation is dire, with over 500,000 people facing starvation. Over 500,000 people have died in the past month. The United Nations is calling for immediate action to prevent the loss of life.

As you can see, the news is not all bad. There are many things that are going on around the world, and we need to be aware of them. Please take the time to learn more about these issues and support the organizations working to help those in need.

GC Season Ends In A 4-4 Tie

The Georgia College team played their final basketball game of the season against the Auburn University Tigers. The game was played in front of a large crowd and went down in history as the most exciting game of the season. The Tigers took an early lead and held on to it for most of the game, but the Yellow Jackets fought back and tied the game in the final minutes. The game ended in a 4-4 tie, much to the delight of the fans who had attended the game.

The Joes, The Harrys And The Birds

At 10:00 every night, many of the Ennis Hall students drive over to the local grease joint and purchase "stoolies". They do this to compliment the small quantity of food that their stomaches are fed three times a day. Many weeks back, the local chicks got word of this acquired habit and decided that their best bet on getting them a college Joe was to hang around at the same time. Very quickly a relationship ensued and a few of the College Joe's helped themselves a fine time keeping the chicks happy. Meanwhile, the local Harrys were getting worried because their chicks were making it with the Joes. At this time, Snake II, Snake III, and Snake IV arrived on the scene. Rapidly they took over and with their greater experience they had the chicks flying circles around them day and night. It got to the point where the birds would pick up the Joes at Ennis, take them to eat and bring them back.

Bennie Harry was the first of the Harrys that decided to take action against the Snakes and after consuming a great amount of courage from either a bottle of moon or a can of guila, he got a few of the other Harrys together and they drove to Ennis where they made a big to do and where they aggravated and irritated the Big Mama, she in exchange called in Deputy Dawg who made his appearance right on time, half an hour after everything was over, as usual. That night everything remained fairly calm. Approximately three or four nights later Bennie Harry and the other Harrys decided it was time to check out the Joes again.

Well, they Ennis and they asked for the Red books. Commotion ensued. The word spread like wildfire; "rumble, rumble," everybody that was able, including the Mama, stepped out on the porch. Bennie Harry stood on the lawn alone, filled with courage and when he spoke he brought forth such words that ears were filled with the vulgar language of the gutter. While this went on a couple of our most adventurous Joes walked down towards the sidewalk and alas, suddenly out of the bushes there sprung Harrys who ran in all directions. Well, the Mama had called the baa when Bennie Harry started the commotion and for we got. After the Harrys went Deputy Dawg and the other gendarmes. Surprisingly as it may seem, they returned with one of the culprits and after he had been identified as a participant, Deputy Dawg drove him home so he wouldn't be left with the Joes who at this time were hungry for blood. Now the Harrys drove by every evening and fill our ears with blasphemy.
