Christenberry To Leave GC; Chosen To Head Augusta College

Dr. George A. Christenberry has announced his resignation as dean of Augusta College according to an announcement by University System Chancellor George L. Simpson. Dr. Christenberry has been Academic Dean here at Georgia College since 1963, and for the last two years has served as acting president of this institution. Chancellor Simpson, in a note to a prominent mixed-colt, Dr. Christenbery as a "highly regarded educator with wide experience and a splendid academic background." He has served as a visiting art teacher at the University of Michigan, and also as a student at the University of Georgia, where he majored in history. In an interview with President Butting he said, "I hate to lose him. His leaving is a great blow to the growth of our institution." Before coming to Georgia College, Christenberry was an assistant professor and associate vice president of the University of Michigan. He was the last Dean in the Caden Training Program of Engineering at the University of Michigan from 1946-48. From 1948-49 he was an officer in the Naval Reserve and was captain of engineering at the University of Michigan. He was also vice-president of the Caden Training Program of Engineering from 1949 to 1950 and as president of Shorter College from 1950-54. Christenberry came to Georgia College at the end of the 1950-51 school year as associate professor and chairman of the Department of History.

Irish Statesman, Wife To Visit Next Week

On Thursday, April 7, Georgia College will be host to two outstanding speakers, Michael and Granville Yeats, for two days of lectures and concerts. Michael Yeats is the only son of poet William Butler Yeats. Thursday, Yeats will address a meeting of GC's English department faculty and students on the subject of "William Butler Yeats and His Family." At eleven, he will lead an informal discussion in a sociology class on social change.

On Friday, on Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. Yeats will present a lecture in Russell Auditorium, on a topic still to be announced. Friday, Yeats is scheduled to meet with two sociology classes, one on course and the other on course on social institutions.

Granville Yeats will meet with music department faculty members and students to talk on "Irish Harp and Folk Music." The Yeats' appearance at Georgia College is made possible by the Georgia College Lecture Series. Dr. Taylor has been a member of the Irish十月 for twenty years and is a prominent Chairman of a foreign, a post which has been the Chair of the Board of Representatives in the United States. The Yeats' lectures will be of benefit to Irish branch of the European movement, to the study of Dublin and an authority on Irish folk music.

Nish To Be Psych. Dept. Chairman

Dr. William W. Nish, currently professor of psychology at the College of William and Mary, has been named professor and chairman of the Department of Psychology at Georgia College in Milledgeville.

President J. Whitney Hunsley said Nish's appointment was "one of the most important decisions of the Board of the system. Georgia College is pleased to have someone so qualified head its department." A native of Madison, Ohio, Nish came from Maryville College, the B.A. from the University of California at Los Angeles, and the Ph.D. from Washington State University. He has also taken part in two National Science Foundation Summer Institutes for psychology professors, and in 1967 undertook sabbatical study at the University of Miami (Florida).

Nish joined the faculty of the College of St. Louis in 1968 as an assistant professor, promoted to associate professor in 1969, and became a full professor in 1970. The new Georgia College agreement is a number of a number of professional psychology organizations, and in 1967, named an American Foundation Institute for the recognition of the outstanding teaching and research.

Senate Fails To Meet This Week

The Student Senate did not meet Tuesday night because of the absence of the Senate President, Susan Jackson, and because only twelve senators showed up for the meeting. No business was discussed, but Senator Ralph Price (East) addressed the body. He had talked with President Whitney Butting concerning the Senate's Budget Committee and that President Butting had suggested a compromise that would require no legislation. He and several other senators expressed the hope that the Senate would meet Thursday night (right) at 6:30.

These attending the meeting were: Steve Simpson, Dennis Myrick, David Lamar, Marlin Fields, Del Gerio, Stephanie Edelen, Ralph Perry, Ken Gaselli, Bobby Stevens, Frank Whitaker, and Fred Pettigrew and Frank Spyck.

Princeton Orchestra To Perform Here

The Princeton Orchestra, conducted by Maestro George Baltschuk, will appear in concert in Milledgeville on April 15, under the sponsorship of the Milledgeville Community Concert Association.

The concert, open to all music lovers, is sponsored by Georgia College students, will begin at 8:00 pm in Russell Auditorium.

The two concerts a hand-picked ensemble made up of some of America's leading professional musicians, many of whom have been associated with leading symphony orchestras from ensembles throughout the country.

The group's influence is rapidly spreading with its reputation growing internationally, drawing praise from the press. Opinions are: Eugene Ormandy, Marvin K. Perlman and Henry Farber.

Hershey came to this country on a teaching Fellowship at Westminster Choir College. He served during World War II as conductor of the Second Service Command Symphony, and after the war played with the Lester Quartet and the Charles Group.

The Princeton Orchestra made its debut in 1923, and has since become a major interest in Hershey's career. He is also currently music director of the Philadelphia Chamber Orchestra and the Bel Canto Symphony of Madison, New Jersey.

Special Elections To Be Held April 8

A special election for the offices of secretary and treasurer of CASA and Editor of the Spectrum will be held on Wednesday, April 8, at the front of Alumni Auditorium.

Announcement of candidates for all offices will be accepted beginning Monday, March 26th through Wednesday April 7th. Campaigning will begin immediately and in accordance with regulations from Mrs. Hodges and should be limited to the Cotton market be will not be allowed on campus.

Qualifications for those offices are listed in the CASA Constitution and By-Laws, and to the Editor of the CASA. Any student who wishes to run for a position should contact the CASA Office, who is not qualified may present a private bill before the Student Senate. This must be done on Tuesday March 27.
Barbara Debbi Sanderson announced her resignation from the Georgia College faculty effective immediately. In a letter to the administration, she cited personal reasons for her departure. Sanderson had joined the faculty in 1983 and was known for her contributions to the social sciences department. Her departure leaves a significant gap in the department and the university is now looking for a replacement. Sanderson's influence on the campus will be deeply missed.

Unusually Atlanta is the only place to go for Georgia football in 1975. The Collegetown athletic department has made a strong push to attract young athletes and fans. The university is competing against larger, more established programs. The team is fast improving and is expected to have a successful season this year. These efforts are paying off as the student body is more engaged in sports and more interested in supporting the team. It's an exciting time to be a Georgia College student.
Regents Earn Money For Athletic Complex

The athletic program at Georgia College will now be receiving a boost with the recent announcement that the University System of Georgia (USG) Board of Regents had given approval for construction of the initial phase of an Athletic Center.

The project could cost as much as $20 million and would include a multi-purpose fieldhouse, fieldhouse, both with permanent seating and temporary seating, an indoor driving range, parking spaces for approximately 1,300 automobiles, and a building housing dressing rooms, restrooms and storage facilities.

The Georgia Research and Planning Board has been asked by the Regents to prepare a five-year total development plan for the West Campus developed by region associates of Atlanta. Approval of other portions of the plan would bring about construction of multi-purpose fields, all-weather track, tennis courts, a golf driving range and a shooting range.

One additional facility, Athletic Director Anderson said, would give Georgia College one of the finest athletic complexes in the state.

The athletic complex project is one of four major construction undertakings approved or underway at Georgia College. Work has already begun on a $1.5 million dollar student center, a contract is expected to be awarded shortly on a $400,000 dormitory, and bids are to be invited in the near future on an $11 million dollar addition to the Berry Science Building.

Two Departments Receive New Faculty Members

President J. Whitney Bosting of Georgia College at Milledgeville announced today the appointments of David R. Hays as assistant professor and Sigrid Spahr to the college's faculty.

Mrs. Hays holds the position of assistant professor of biology. A native of Selma, Alabama, he holds the B.A. degree from Tuskegee Institute and the M.S. from Alabama A&M. He was a 1961 candidate for the Ph.D. degree at Tulane University.

Mrs. Spahr, appointed assistant professor of education, is a native of Nashville, Illinois. She holds the Bachelor of Science degree in education at Oberlin College, the M.Ed. at Emory University, and is a 1961 candidate for the Ed.D. degree at the University of Georgia.

Mrs. Spahr has served as a kindergarten teacher, an elementary teacher in the

It has come to light that Milledgeville High School's chapter of the Red Cross. This is the only student group that a chapter in a chapter, needs to operate. The organization has not met its financial obligations for several reasons, the Milledgeville Red Cross office cannot afford to continue to carry this unit as a continued project.

The Red Cross supports such programs as blood donation aid in communications with families of servicemen, the First Aid and Water Safety services and giving aid to the needy during emergencies. Milledgeville would lose an important and vital segment of its community if this chapter were to be closed.

In an effort to generate renewed interest and support of the Red Cross, Bosting and ARC are jointly presenting a variety of talent show on March 13. The show will be at 8 p.m. and admission will be 50 cents. The performance entitled A.C.U. '70 and all proceeds will go to the local Red Cross chapter.
