A Gift
I wish I had a palm tree
Planted in my front yard.
I would water it every day,
And underneath it I would play.

For palm trees are so lazy
They hang around and pray.
They make me feel so crazy
Why am I working this way?

Really, I never thought about it
But my friend has many trees.
They grow without any water
It's easier to grow plants instead of trees.

If you could only realize
That palm trees are so much better
I would try to find one for you
And send it to him in a letter.

And then when it got very cold
You would be grateful to me
For giving him a gift so bold.
Instead of a stupid palm tree.

A worthy gift from a friend to a friend
To spread love always and true.

Until the palms tree grows.

Athletic Supporter

by Kevin Taggert

"Why doesn’t anyone cheat?" asked George on the bench. "I bet they say they don’t want to get caught. But if I were in their shoes, I’d say the same thing and then do exactly the same thing. They can’t catch us—We’ll just have to take it and run these games to make it. We’ll do whatever we have to do to make it." said George, dryly.

"Now, George, it is getting closed. But with this kind of support, it’s no wonder," said George. The final booster meeting ended with George listing the Georgia College students back into the camp.

"They’re pretty good," said George, looking at the new team. "They’re definitely Georgia. We can’t get too complacent. They’ll be at their best tomorrow. We’ll just have to play to our best to win," said George, slightly joking.

As the students watched and silently sat, George thought to himself, "Next game I’m going to bring my homemade meal to get some studying done. I want to be sure that they’re not cheating and that we are doing the best.

A Tie For First

Columbus Downs GC

97-76

The Columbus strategy was simple in James’ game plan: Obey the tie. In his previous game, the Blue Devils had only left his teammates to come out unprepared shots.

Regular intramural play continued with the tie-out game next week with the top GC place between the two teams. The Blue Devils lost their previous game against Ennis A, 76-97. The win atypical played was kicked off the tournament. Monday, the Day Devils closed the Highlights and the facultycrest past a strong Georgia Em team. The Wednesday’s game was a heart stopper. The team was full of students and the faculty started a flaggling team. The game was on with no further scores.

Former Drug Addicts
To Perform At GC

"Marathon," a play in which former drug addicts probe the crimes and treatment of addiction, will be presented at Georgia College on February 17 at 7:30 p.m. in Russell Auditorium.

The play will be open to the public, with tickets to go on sale at the college February 17.

"Marathon:" in a two-hour capsule view of the philosophy and techniques used in the rehabilitation of addicts at Rhode Island's Marathon House. Eight current residents of the house, all between the ages of 18 and 31, recreate scenes that take place during addiction and rehabilitation in a series of improvisational skits.

The program emphasizes social attitudes and psychological problems as they relate to drug addiction and demonstrates the Marathon method of stripping the addict of his pretenses and self-deception, forcing him to deal with his problems with complete honesty.

"Marathon's" stress is on communication. The message is "don't smoke" or "don't use dope," but "Stop coping out. Turn to us,Games, and others without drugs."

The play will be followed by a "rap session" in which the actors will answer questions from the audience.

Marathon House is described as a therapeutic community dedicated to the certain knowledge that drug addiction can be cured, but only through the elimination of the basic cause of which addiction is a symptom. Great emphasis is placed on developing a responsible involvement with others as well as a real sense of concern for them.

The name "Marathon" is derived from one of the community's basic therapeutic methods, an extended group therapy session lasting from 31 to 40 hours with only a brief break for sleep.
