Changed Proposed Farewell Address Given At Final Meeting Of Georgia College Senate

Several important changes in the judiciary system of the College Government Association of Georgia College were recently proposed. At the final meeting of winter quarter of the Student Senate on February 28, Senator Carlos Payse, the newly elected female chancellor of Honor Council, proposed several amendments to the Code of Laws and to the Code of Laws of the College Government Association of Georgia. These amendments, introduced with the intent of improving the current judicial system, which many GC students have found neither satisfactory nor effective in its purposes and procedures, are basically as follows:

(1) The name of the Honor Council will be changed to Student Judiciary. This change is in the CGA Constitution and Code of Laws the term "Honor Council" is used. Student Judiciary will be substituted.

(2) The student body will elect one chairman, who will sit only in case of tie, to lead the Student Judiciary rather than two co-chairmen, as has been the procedure in the past few years.

(3) An Investigator of Student Judiciary to be appointed by the chairman with the approval of the Student President will be in charge of investigation of all potential cases concerning violations of student conduct delineated in the Student Judiciary as provided for in the CGA Constitution.

(4) The Honor Code as such will be abandoned, and the rules and regulations over which the Student Judiciary will have jurisdiction will be those listed under "Student Conduct" on page 903 of the current Student Handbook.

(5) Otherwise, with the exception of a few minor changes for clarification, our judicial system will remain as it is.

(6) Three proposed amendments were put into the Judiciary Committee of the Senate. If this committee recommends, their passage, the amendments must be approved by a two-third majority of the Senate by roll call vote at two separate Senate meetings, and then, be presented to the student body for ratification or rejection.

Speaker: David Petigrew, President, Student Senate
My fellow Americans, friends, and Jann.

If someone reaches his phosphenes at any one institution, then he can rationalize anything, without worrying about repercussions. To a word, he can tell the truth and people do not like it, then he will lie with them.

After four years in student government, you don't leave without learning something. I learned a lot and today I want to relate some of what I learned to you. But more than that, I want to give you a mandate, that mandate being, don't make the same mistakes I have made. Don't work in a road only to find it dead ends.

First, student apathy. Student apathy is a total contagious disease. It can not be prevented or cured, only contained. There are students who are ready, willing, and able to work. There are others, the vast majority, who are not. Your duty as student leaders is to seek out those who are willing to work and give them something to do. Discouraged race, creed, color, and even national origin. It is far better to have consternation whom you do not agree with politically than no one.

Fraternities are new to Georgia College. We have one which is being watched by faculty, administration, and students alike. But you couldn't tell it by their actions. Band immorality and lack of results are hurting their cause. Their participation in school activities, such as homecoming, has been minimal. Their participation in the Student Senate has been nil. With no children to look after, they have no children to look after, they have no children to look after.

There has been a big-brother type program set up in this division. This relationship between the students and children allows for reinforcing positive behavior and for providing a close friend for the children.

The GC "What"

Georgia college has an Ombudsman. Though it sounds like some sort of Australian business or spotty foreign car, an Ombudsman in reality is just more or less a friendly ear.

The job of a college ombudsman is to listen to the problems and needs of the student and to act as an instrument in calling through the piles of red tape that are present on a snappy college campus.

Our ombudsman, located in 202 Park's Hall, is in a really neat

Good Changes Proposed For Judiciary Editorial
By Bill Ferrell

Well, it seems like good idea has come to light from the Student Government Association (SGA) in the form of the C.G. Constitution and the Code of Laws. President Gary Pape (the new Senate Co-Chairman of the Senate) is getting off to a good start by proposing these needed changes.

I consider a change from the name “Honor Council” to “Student Judiciary would be an important change in regards to the Council in its relationship with the students and the student body. The term “Honor Council” is a name that is associated with respect to students, and Student Judiciary would make any student feel that he is being held to a high standard of conduct.

The members of the chairmen and the members who have been selected for the Student Judiciary would be required to have passed the Bar Exam. This would make the Council more professional and would reflect the importance of the Council.

SEASON UNDER THE SUN

The "What" Cook, from Page 1, lady named Mrs. Robert Holmes. She says she's available from eight to five Monday through Saturday. No one needs an appointment just come in. With the advent of Mrs. Holmes on campus, the students finally have a voice in the administration. It's up to the students, however, if they want to use the new resources. We must give her a chance.

Anyway, nice ladies who are easy to talk to even have a way of getting things done.
