Chorus Becomes Goodwill Ambassadors

Choral activities at Georgia College are out all sung and dance. They're a lot of work too.

And now that three GC choral groups plan to tour Europe in March, the singers will be working as hard as they sing in practice sessions in preparation for the tour and to help pay their expenses.

Expected stops in the eight-day tour, conceived and organized by a small group of faculty members, are Amsterdam, London, and Paris where the singers will perform in Notre Dame, Dr. M. S. Bittick Auditorium, Milledgeville, and the Choral Concert in Paris. St. George and Mixed Chorus will present sacred and serious concerts while the Anselm Singers will do their thing — perform lighter music and madrigals.

More than GC students are expected to be in the touring party, contributing $650 of their own money. The remaining funds necessary to take the trip abroad will come from a variety of work projects or sales enterprises.

These projects will include work days where students will make roses, sell window, cut grass, and clean basements. The singers have sold cards, sponsored a ramble sale and plan to operate concession stands at various sporting events.

Recently, Gov. Jimmy Carter promoted the GC choral groups as ambassadors of good will for the State of Georgia in the cities on the tour and presented a signed proclamations to Martin Bittick, director of choral activities at the college.

Last spring, the choral groups spent their spring break on a tour of New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland, and Washington. The GC singers have also performed widely in Georgia and neighboring states — in churches, clubs, and schools.

Several events in the tour have been scheduled to publicize the coming tour, and the singers will appear at the opening session of the Georgia Legislature in January.

Wolfersteins On Brazilian Exchange

Dr. and Mrs. Robert Wolferstein of Chicago are planning a trip to Brazil with a group of three other families from this area. They plan to spend three weeks in Brazil, visiting schools and colleges, and meeting with Brazilian students.

The Wolfersteins are also planning to visit other parts of South America, including Argentina and Chile. They hope to return to the United States in early March.

The trip will be arranged through the Brazilian Student Exchange Program, which provides opportunities for American students to study and live in Brazil for a semester. The Wolfersteins plan to spend the first two weeks in Rio de Janeiro, visiting local schools and universities.

The trip will be fully paid for by the Wolfersteins, who have contributed to the program through their company, Wolferstein & Co. They plan to return to the United States in early March.

Slipper Is Dead And Buried?

For the past two years I have been the sponsor for the Royals at Georgia College. During this time, I have seen people working together for the best Slipper ever. Contrary to the limitations in the article "Slipper on Slipper" is the November 5, 1973 Colonnade. I would like to see the students working to have another great Slipper. Many of the participants of Slipper are not the students of Slipper. We do not have the special ideas and community that was experienced at Slipper, but we have the opportunity to have a part in another important extracurricular activity at Georgia College.

The class officers and sponsors voted on whether or not to have the traditional production of Golden Slipper. These people are students in the exact age and year of the members of the present class. However, if this were the case only the senior officers and sponsors would have voted, because no one of the Juniors and Sr. per cent of the Sophomores voted to have Slipper. Therefore, I would suggest that if the Juniors and Sophomores don't participate in Slipper, the votes of the Juniors can only be voted on the basis of the majority rule. Slipper would still be alive.

Keep On Plugging!

It has come to the attention of this student that many new students -- that is, these students having entered since last fall semester -- are unaware of just exactly what Golden Slipper is. These pages, then, are given over to them and the people I get to know. I still do.

Golden Slipper -- two weeks of non-stop activity. Raising cash for a student union fund, making chairs, tables, serving food, selling and painting art, salsa, crafts, clowns, dances, on-site theaters, restaurants, art classes, music programs, etc., -- two weeks in preparation for an extravaganza unlike any other extravaganza. A fete of fete's. A fete of a lifetime. There is no limit to the imagination and ingenuity.

Originally, Golden Slipper was a class right for orientation week. However, as the class grew, so did Slipper grow. Thus, Slipper became a way of getting them to have much either a little later. As the school grew, so did Slipper grow. And change until it became the production we know today -- two weeks of several competitions between rival factions, Thespian clinics and shows, etc. -- and the production we know today -- two weeks of several competitions between rival factions, Thespian clinics and shows, etc. -- and the production we know today.

No. Slipper is NOT delinquent or any more. Falsely-dominated, yes. It has to be. There are not enough men interested in the project. The majority of the girls who work on Golden Slipper have been

Dear Student Body,

I am a first-quarter Freshman and I was wondering if you could help me with the future of Golden Skillet. When I was in high school, I began hearing a lot about Skillet. Most of the time I was told that the student body should be working on the team to improve it. As I am not a part of the Student Council, I do not know what Golden Skillet is or how it started. However, I have heard that the Golden Skillet is a club that promotes healthy eating. I was wondering if you could tell me more about it.

Sincerely,
John Williams

In a realm of records, dance magazine, weaving college magazine and the like, there is a sense of page upon page, a professor named Betty Poindexter reigns supreme. Any GC student who has experienced a HPER dancing course can describe with appreciation her method of coaxing, treading, and occasionally yelling “Move it, move it!” as a means of encouraging awkward and grateful student bodies to realize there is more to dancing than the physical and mental enjoyment.

Though a member of the HPER department, Dr. Poindexter’s doctoral degree, which she received from Texas Women’s University, is in dancing and related arts. During the summer, she works in Los Massachussets, at the Jacob’s Pillow Dance Festival, a dance school with a professional theatre.

Betty Poindexter’s activities are not confined to dance instruction, however. She is chairman of the Committee on Women’s Athletics and of the Alumni Research and Mission Funding. Fund, Undergraduate Professional Preparation Coordinator of the HPER department, co-chairman of the Lyceum Committee, and member of the Campus Action Team, the HPER Subcommittees of the Academic Council, and the Recruitment Subcommitte of the Admissions Council. She is also advisor to Spectrum and Alpha Chi Alpha, a contributing editor to the GC Palet, and an active participant in the Women’s Club and the Millidgedle branch of the A.A.U.W.

Harriet L. Dombos is an associate professor of the Health, Physical Education and Recreation Department of GC, with a B.S. degree from San Lorenzo College and a S.A. degree from Columbia University. But she is better known as the lady seen occasionally in the college union—where she can escape the confines of her office and the boards of student clamoring for her attention. Miss Dombos’s official title is Assistant Dean of Students, and she has the challenging task of mediating between students and administration.

The assistant dean’s work covers a large area of student organization, since she is involved in all GC associations receiving attentions from the students activities fee, Miss Dombos co-ordinates schedules for the college union, Russell Auditorium, the GC box, and the college magazine. The operation behind the scenes in the GC beauty pageant and sponsors several student volunteer projects such as the Cancer Workshop and the Red Cross Bloodmobile.

Although her official title brands her as a member of the Establishment (i.e., Administrations), Miss Dombos is always willing to help students with problems of any type. She encourages the GC population to think ahead in the college life beyond academics and urges each member to utilize to the fullest the opportunities available.

For this week’s Know Your Student Body the Colonnade presents, as usual, a look at the activities of Gowndy’s, Lawrence Center, a section from Ezekiel, Ga. majoring in Elementary Education.

Gowndy’s goal is to teach children and in teaching them, show how and why something enjoyable. The hopes to have to the opportunity with work to the unprivileged children at some time in her career. She would really enjoy working in a tennis team, and help other people learn to appreciate the sport which she has come to enjoy.

Although Gowndy’s is affiliated with different organizations her main interests he is simply going to know other people and their interests. Gowndy’s is a unique person because she has a sincere concern of all of humanity which is almost rare in these times.

Gowndy’s interests include playing tennis, bike riding, watching plays with a critic’s eye, listening to all kinds of music, dancing, and what she calls “hard, hard rock.”

The Microbiology club under the Leadership of Mrs. Doris Moody met McClaren Laboratories Wednesday. The purpose of the trip was to observe the methods of preparation of intravenous fluids used in local and surrounding hospitals.

The students, accompanied by Mrs. Moody and two microbiologists employed at McClaren, were given a tour of the Microbiology lab, where they observed the sterilization of fluids. They also saw how the laboratory in which the white mice and rabbits are used for testing for fever producing microorganisms in the fluids. From that department, the group continued to the research center where a slide presentation was shown on the activities of McClaren. After a question and answer period, the group returned to the campus.
