Brigadoon appears.

The musical play Brigadoon is set in the mythical Scottish highland village of Brigadoon, which only appears for one day every 10 years. The plots of many musicals are set in a fantasy world, allowing for a variety of imaginative scenarios. The action unfolds in this enchanted place as the Professor arrives, the young Amy first sets her eyes on Signor Alfredo, and the mysterious revelers are revealed to be sprites rather than fairy gods. The first part of the show, set in the early 20th century, is a love story with a happy ending. The second, set in Brigadoon, is a saga of its history and the folk who live there. The musical is based on the short story "The Man Who Corrupted Hadleyburg" by Booth Tarkington.
