Hundreds Pay Tribute To Flannery O'Connor

Nearly 300 persons paid tribute to Flannery O'Connor, the late Midlandswriter, at a symposium over the weekend at Georgia College.

During the two-day symposium, the late writer was honored by friends and a number of people who had attended her seminars. They included: O'Connor listened to contemporary discussions of her works and authors and in her own right describe the literary worth of the GC alumni and recent memories of associations with the author two years ago when the farm she lived on at New Orleans was cried a memorial in a newly-reorganized library in the college library. A telefilm of a television show in New York in which the author appeared just before the publication of one of her books, and a tape of the author reading her own work are available.

The events for the occasion included: the keynote address, a session on the novel, and a session on the English language. The keynote address was given by the English teacher at the University of Toronto, Dr. Mary E. Blake, and the address on the English language was delivered by the author of the English nation, Dr. Frederick A. Olmsted, who is a member of the English faculty at the University of Toronto. Dr. Mary E. Blake, who is a native of England and taught at the University of Georgia, spoke on the English language and at the Flannery O'Connor Bulletin published by the college.

The symposium was, it was noted, the importance of the Midlandswriter and the fact that she was the first American author who looked at the South through the eyes of a Roman Catholic. She combined mystery and realism in her works and effectively a few of her pieces could be matched in her in this literary challenge.

The symposium was composed favorably during the two-day event. Every genre, classical, modern, modernist, and contemporary, presented "perfection in the form and structure" of her novels.

Dr. Edward G. Carvin, who prised the memorable contributions to the literature of the variety of puzzles by the author. "The idea of Flannery's place in American literature is not so exact, but it is no small scale."

Success Is Counted Sweetest

Ann Mauchan and Cheryl Friedholds have been "best friends" for seven years. They attended North Palmetto High School and are currently seniors at Georgia College. The only thing they are "look alike" or "do alike." Both have had individual personalities which reflect their shared experiences. A main interest of the two, however, is the theater. It was that way in high school and is now carried over to college.

They evolved with the current Georgia College production of "How to Be a Success in Business Without Really Trying" to be staged on April 19-20. Neither will have her name in lights on the theater marquee and that's the way they want it. Ann Mauchan has been a producer and director of the play. The role fit her temperament well; she is forever without a smile in spite of her hectic job. Being a student producer-director involves whatever the "boss" wants done, counters opinions, delivering paperwork, and making sure ends and means are combined.

Cheryl Friedholds has been a junior, a medieval Miss Marcus on "Time," ten-hour-old Paris High School drama team, with "tearing her way" in the theater. While in high school, she was a dance director and stage manager for "Life With Father" and "Harvey" as the director for "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown."

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Mauchan of 2206 Belmont Drive in Atlanta, Ann says she gets the job of student producer-director for "How to Be a Success in Business Without Really Trying"...when best friend Cheryl signs her name to the man's director, Marilyn Smith.

"I know I could do it," said Ann, and, according to Marilyn, she is doing just that.

While Ann is "daring her way" through her senior year, Cheryl is not to be looked over. She has lawn furniture, cousins, and aacha-cha-cha. Her job is refreshing as it is to that of property manager.

Cheryl hasn't run up with whatever props are needed for the play. "I think, up to business college at the college bus gives us clothes and superstition to wear. The lawn furniture may be harder to get than what I'm sure I couldn't do so," she said.

Unlike Ann who is majoring in English education and drama, Cheryl spends her time mostly in the lab. The digits biology, her major. "Actually I spend so much time studying that I don't get to see a lot of people, and working in a play like this gives me the opportunity to be with a great bunch. We pretty much leave each other alone, we know our characters, because most of us are in the Georgia College Choir."

Cheryl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Frederickson of 105 Prince Phillips Rd. in Stone Mountain and a junior cheerleader.

Government

AIDS Vets

A $200,000 grant by the federal government has provided Georgia College with seven veteran overseas-servicemen in a new program designed to aid veterans in the area to become more aware of their VA benefits.

Daniel Brit and Thomas Till of Macon and Sam Morgan, Hugh Richardson, Glenn Shishbeet, Wayne Wilson, and Larry Womels, all of Midlgille, have qualified as counselors in the program, according to Karl P. Wilson, director of the school's veterans affairs at the college.

The program is staffed almost exclusively by counselors who are dedicated to helping veterans become aware of all services and informing them of the services to which they are entitled.

Senate Notebook

By Frank Powell, Vice-President of CAU

The Senate has a weekly meeting during the regular session of the College. The next meeting is held every Sunday at 5:00 P.M. in the Senate Chambers. The senate meets in session every Wednesday at 5:00 P.M. in the Senate Chambers.

The Senate is the governing body for the College. It is responsible for making policy decisions and overseeing the administration of the College. The Senate is composed of elected senators who represent different student groups. The Senate meets weekly to discuss and vote on legislation proposed by student organizations, as well as to consider the administration's budget proposals.

RAPE!

By Peter B. Meck

Rape is an extremely serious and frightening crime that affects many people each year. It is important for everyone to understand the signs and symptoms of rape and to know how to respond appropriately. The National Sexual Assault Hotline (800-656-4673) is a valuable resource for those seeking help or support.

AMG Week Premiers At GC

By Jeff Wool

Foreign film is in the college's final week, and a signature is the main attraction of Foreign Language Week. The campus is filled with the sound of foreign languages as it celebrates its diversity and its students' many talents.

The theme of Foreign Language Week this year is "Celebrating Our Languages". It includes a variety of events, such as a foreign language film festival, a Foreign Language Fair, and a Foreign Language Festival. These events provide opportunities for students to showcase their language skills and to learn about the cultures of different countries.

GSC Takes Colonials

By Peter E. McKeown

The Fashn Marketing Club is an organization of people interested in the field of fashion marketing. The club is open to all students and meets regularly to discuss fashion-related topics and to organize events.

The club will host a fashion show on March 10, featuring the latest trends in fashion. The event will be held in the COL 101 auditorium and is open to all GC students and faculty. The Fashn Marketing Club encourages all interested students to attend and participate.

Symphony Strikes Back

The Symphony Orchestra, which has been on hiatus due to budget cuts, has announced plans to return to its regular schedule. The orchestra will perform its first concert of the season on March 15, with guest conductor Dr. Jameson. The concert will feature a variety of classical music, including works by Beethoven, Mozart, and Brahms.

The return of the Symphony Orchestra is a significant development for the music department at GC. The orchestra has been an important part of the college's cultural life for many years, and its return is sure to be welcomed by students, faculty, and the community at large.

Know Your Student Body

This week's Know Your Student Body talks a lot of hacks playing a very important role here at GC. Her name is Jan Finkey, Miss Georgia College 1974.

Jan started her schooling here in the summer of '73. Through CLBP, Jan earned 10 hours credit and now she's a junior, with grade point average of 1.4. Jan is now working for her BS degree in Special Ed. I asked her what she thought of Georgia College.

"I'm really glad I came to come here. It's just the right size, everybody's friendly, and even the teachers are nice, too."

Going on with the questions, I asked her of future plans. Jan will continue working toward her masters and eventually go on to a Doctorate in SpEd. Or Music Therapy. "Will you continue here?" I asked. "Oh yes, I wouldn't change the world." Several "Would you"'s have held previous title of some sort in the past. Curious as to whether Jan too, was once before a queen, the questions turned to the current ones.

As it turned out, she had held the title of Miss David Emanuel Academy in '72. In addition, in '70 was second runner up. In '71 she was runner up in First Volunteer Festival and in '72, 4th in the same pageant. When asked what her feelings toward beauty pageants are, Jan stated, "I love it. The whole fun of it is meeting people and cooperating. It's something you should enjoy and really do it."

"Jan, when you get down to just you and Janus, what thoughts went through your head?" I asked. The question was a little unfair, so much had to be going through her head! How could she remember it all? It was right.

"That's not fair. You don't think about anything at a time like that!"

"Oh come on Jan, you must have been thinking something."

"The only thing is that it was going to be an honor which ever happened, and keep on smiling."

"Well, how about after you were crowned?"

"The first thing I did was start crying. I don't know why. I just did. I was crying. I was so happy." The hedger, I wanted to thank anybody that would have said anything.

"What about your present plans?"

"I'm going to be the same one. I feel like that would take away from it if I didn't. I think what is inside will come out, just because I was the title I'm doing something that Jan Finkey would have done to me."

There was a little afraid of what people might say to me now that I'm Miss GC. But the other day I heard one of my friends tell a person who had teased them about: "You should be proud to be a friend." told him "Well, she might be in Miss College, but she's still Jan Finkey and my friend."}

Kappa Sigma

The Kappa Sigma Colony at Georgia College was officially installed as Lambda Kappa Chapter on March 30, 1974. This new added Kappa Sigma branch brought the total number of active chapters in O. I. S. to 8. Installation of the members took place at the First Methodist Church in Milledgeville on Friday evening. March 30 Installation teams were present from Georgia State University, Mercer University, and Georgia Tech for the ceremony. Voting Brothers also taking part were those from the University of Georgia and West Georgia College.

The explanatory lecture, formal installation of the officers and installation of the chapter took place Saturday afternoon, March 30. Officers installed were as follows: Randy Whelpley, Grand Master; Gary Brown, Grand Preceptor; Ber Brown, Grand Master of Ceremonies; Randy Taylor, Grand Treasurer; Daddy Lee, Grand Scribe, and Mark Troy, Grand Historian.

That evening, a banquet was held at the Milledgeville Country Club. Guests included Mrs. Carolyn Cypress; Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Dooley; Jerry Ludwig, Assistant Executive Director for Kappa Sigma; Alumni Advisor; Chamber, Campus Council; and Marcell Williams, District Grand Master. Kappa Sigma alumni in attendance were Gail Baker, Cul, and Mrs. and John Culle, Mr. and Mrs. Farnsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Cheek (Faculty Advisor for the local chapter), and Mrs. Smith's number, a second call was placed following the instructions simply provided.

"This is a recording. the number you have reached is not in working order, if you wish further assistance please stay on the line and an operator will soon be with you."

"This is the operator.

"One minute please.

"Thank you.

"Operator, hello."

"Continue recording, the number you have reached is not in working order, if you wish further assistance please stay on the line and an operator will soon be with you."

"This is the operator."

"Operator I was cut off from speaking with another operator just a minute ago."

"Sir, what was your name?"

"Nope, I don't know your name."

"First I reached the janitor, then a recording, now an operator who has a number and I all I want to do is strike Dr. Smith."

"Sir, would you please hang up and try again."

"Central State Hospital."

"Can I get a private room with bath and no telephone."

"Sure there are no small things."
