CGA Vice President—

Howell Chosen Student Of Month

Frank Howell, Vice President of C.G.A., was chosen student of the month for the month of October by the Colonnade staff due to his presence and stamina in the creation of the Georgia College radio station.

The idea began two years ago when Frank was discussing with a friend (Mark Jones) the need to air interests up in student activities. The topic of such radio station was mentioned and Frank took it from there. When he began work about arranging the construction, Frank spoke of many phase calls and visits to other schools. “You grow up a bit realizing how to get things done,” Frank commented. “I wouldn’t have been able to do any thing if I hadn’t been on the budget committee.”

The station, primarily a student project, will go on the air hopefully within quarter. Broadcast range will be five miles on a 10 watt FM station, located in Mayfair Hall. Howell, a senior sociology major, is currently conducting classes for approximately 150 students, many of them freshmen hoping to receive their third class license in time to begin work when the new station goes on the air.

As station manager, Howell also conducts the simulated radio station located in Maxwell, the “Maxwell Moon.” The classes have been spending additional time under Frank’s supervision. Every Monday night on radio station WGGUP as a hour program “Campus Pulse.” In addition to his interests in the radio station, Frank is involved in the development of the video tape project already in progress. Last summer, along with another CG student, Frank attended school in New York based on video tape production. During his schooling, he filed a workshop documentary on what New York children do during the summer which was chosen to be shown on an educational television at a later date.

This being Frank’s last quarter, the question was raised as to any plans for the future. He has applied for graduate school, and hopes to continue his education in journalism and video tape media, or teach on a secondary level.

GC Stage Band—

It’s The Best

The Georgia College stage and augmented stage bands have been invited to play at the annual Georgia Music Educators Association convention to be held at Jekyll Island on Jan. 16-18, according to an announcement made by Boyd H. McKee of Maretta, GAMEA officials.

The GC bands were invited to perform after a committee listened to tapes submitted for consideration of 20 bands in the state.

This is the first time that a GC stage band has ever been invited to play at the conference; which will be attended by music teachers from throughout the state representing all levels — elementary and secondary schools and colleges and universities.

One of the reasons that augmented stage band will present at the convention will be the student body of James Marshall of the music faculty at Troy State University who has written a band piece which has been submitted for consideration by the band. The piece will be performed by Georgia College and a high school band from the state.

The GC bands also appear annually at high schools and junior colleges and at the Georgia College band workshop sponsored each spring by the college and the National Association of Jazz Educators.

Know Your Senate

Whenever the mention of some high office or position in student government is brought to attention, someone is invariably left with the unfortunate impression that a seat in such an office can be filled only by some personage personality who expresses many high-flying “qualities of leadership” but lacks all the other traits which usually comprise a normal disposition. It is the intent of this article, however, to attempt to nullify such feelings by presenting a few facts, in the light of which the reader will hopefully be able to form a more accurate judgment of this matter. These facts, gathered from interviews of the student government officials themselves, incidentally, the Student Senate, as the headlines indicate, reveal that they have been endowed with interests, personalities, and sense of humor just like every one else as well as a degree of talent for leadership.

The first interview was Gary Yaye, a junior who is majoring in biology and chemistry and represents Jasper Men’s Dorm. Gary’s interests however, are not confined to his major fields of study, photography and electronics fall into the category as well. His memberships in the College Government Association and the Pre Med Society (to name only two such honors he has received) are also indicative of his well rounded background.

“Meeting people” is one of the main interests of Cindy Lachler, freshman senator from New York who is majoring in elementary education. In addition to that, the student also plays the guitar, enjoys bobsledding, and frequently the tennis courts. "Those varied activities undoubtedly aid her in the pursuit of the fine of her interests mentioned in this paragraph."

Joe Weil, a senior majoring in English and Linear Education, is representative of Jasper Women’s Dorm. She also attends NCSU as well as holding the office of secretary in Aggie. In addition to her religious activities which play an important role in her student life, she reports that she “loves music as well.”

Love... Ain't It Nice?

Love isn't it true? Everywhere you look, you see happy couples. People who enjoy spending time together, held close to one another's heart. But have you noticed, the people who are single, are the ones who are alone? Those who enjoy freedom to the fullest and have time to themselves, but a meaning to what they do, how they work, and how they play. They are the ones who are not really loved. You're missing something. All of you who don't need someone, have a friend, a partner, a lover. But don't be alone...

The Student Advisory Council (SAC) is an organization that oversees and directs campus activities. It is a student-run group that helps to plan and execute events and programs on campus. The SAC is composed of representatives from each of the college's four student organizations: Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc., Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc., Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc., and Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, Inc.

The SAC meets on a regular basis to discuss upcoming events and programs. It is open to all students and anyone interested in participating in campus activities. The SAC welcomes new members and encourages students to become involved in campus life. If you are interested in joining the SAC, please contact the Student Affairs Office or visit their website for more information.

Free School, Almost

Free School, Almost is a feature of the college's newsletter. It provides updates on campus events, student activities, and important information.

Fights Unlimited

In order to support the Student Advisory Council, a petition drive is being conducted as an effort to increase the funds available to the Student Activities Board. The SAC is seeking to increase the amount of money available for student organizations on campus. If you would like to support this effort, please consider signing the petition or making a donation to the Student Activities Board.

Jeans = Comfort

The college has a dress code policy that requires students to wear jeans as part of their daily attire. This policy is in place to maintain a certain level of professionalism and to encourage students to be respectful of one another.
